Dr. Solomon, at Synagogue Convention, Asserts Presbyterians Have Anti-Semitic Plans.

TALKS OF "JEW BATERS"

Efforts are being made, through the proselytising campaign of the Presbyterian Church, to rob the Jews in this country of their religion by the proposed restoration of the "Blue Laws," Dr. Elias L. Solomon, President of the United Synagogue, said in his message to the ninth annual convention yesterday in the Jewish Theological Seminary, 531 West 123d Street. He favored the enforcement of the present immigration laws, stating that the "doors of America should not be shut in the face of all the victims of the appalling conditions in Eastern Europe."

A meeting of representatives of young people's organizations was held in the evening, when a Young People's League was formed, to be an integral part of the United Synagogue. Its purposes are to interest Jewish youth in the synagogue and all phases of its activities, and to assist its members to improve their Jewish education along Jewish lines. At the morning and afternoon sessions of the convention more than 500 representatives from all parts of the country were present, representing, it was said, 145 congregations and ninety-six sisterhoods.

Declaring that anti-Semitism had reared its ugly head here in this land of tolerance, Dr. Solomon said it must be fought and added that the United Synagogue has co-operated with the American Jewish Committee to this end.

"The attempt to bring about the so-called Blue Law Sunday," said the President, "if successful would tend to increase the hardships of the observing Jew. It is not alone anti-Jewish. To foist a rigid observance of the Christian rest day on the public, to revive the Puritan Sunday, is un-American. We must resist such attempts, both as Americans and as Jews.

"Similar in character to the outspoken Jew-baiter is the Christian missionary who would rob the Jew of his religion. Plans have been launched for the evangelization of the Jews on a large scale. A huge sum of money has been appropriated by the Presbyterian Church toward this work. Our remedy is education and the back-to-the-synagogue movement.'

Immigration and the pending legislation to restrict it deserved the attention of the convention, said Dr. Solomon.

"But," he continued, "we take this occasion to express our opposition to a general restriction of immigration. The interests of our beloved America can be safeguarded by means of a selective immigration. We do not advocate promiscuous admission of all, the mental, moral and political undesirables. The existing immigration laws if enforced are adequate to meet the situation."

The centre of Judaism, sarting in Palestine, is now coming to this country, Dr. Solomon asserted. "There is no thinking Jew outside America whose eyes are not turned toward this country," he said. "The freedom enjoyed by the Jews in America is not the outcome of emancipation purchased at the cost of national suicide, but the natural outcome of the appalling conditions in Eastern Europe."

Dr. David J. Burrell Says There Is a Revolt Against All Authority.

Blue laws were discussed by several metropolitan clergymen in their sermons yesterday. The Rev. Dr. David James Burrell, Vice President of the Lord's Day Alliance, said in his morning sermon in the Marble Collegiate Church, Fifth Avenue and Twenty-ninth Street, that he had received a letter from a college professor who asked what was meant by the term "blue laws."

"I could not give him the information asked for," Dr. Burrell said. "The fact is that there never were any blue laws. When Samuel Speaker, back in the Colonial days, commented on the laws on the statute books he banked too heavily on the common sense of the people. He thought they would be able to see a joke when it was written. He may have had some grudge against the colonies and expressed himself in these terms, but he really meant it as a satire, not a fact.

"To the lawless all laws are blue. The trouble with our times is there is a revolt against all authority whatever. It really begins with a revolt against the authority of God, for all that can be brought against the so-called blue laws can be brought against the Ten Commandments.

"The Ten Commandments are singular in that they are interwoven with human constitution of humanity. They are not merely written but are part of man himself. In prescribing a day of rest it is said prohibition does not prohibit. Prohibition means to forbid, and the law does that. What those who decry it mean is that it does not absolutely prevent the commission of crime."

Dr. Burrell said the biblical prohibition against stealing and killing was being violated here every night, but that was no reason why the law should be abolished. A man might not believe in the Volstead act or the Sabbath law, but it did not follow that he had the right to deride the law, he added.

The Rev. Dr. John Roach Straton, pastor of Calvary Baptist Church, said that the dollar mark was on the anti-sabbath agitation and enumerated the groups who, he asserted, were trying to commercialize Sunday. The international Sporting Club, the moving picture interests and the liquor "bund" were among the forces he mentioned as fighting the so-called blue laws.

"All of this agitation and this whole hue and cry about 'personal liberty' is entirely unnecessary, because the proposition for the strengthening of the Sabbath laws is a sane and reasonable one," Dr. Straton said. "No one has advocated or proposed anything that is not in line with the very best American traditions."

Other clergymen who discussed the Sunday question yesterday were the Rev. Carlyle B. Haynes in the Seventh Day Adventist Temple, Lenox Avenue and 120th Street; the Rev. Dr. Frederick W. Evans, pastor of the Harlem-New York Church, Mt. Morris Park West and 122d Street, and the Rev. Dr. Raymond Forman, at St. Paul's Church, West End Avenue and Eighty-sixth Street.

CONGRESS MAKES THE ARMY 175,000; NOW UP TO WILSON

Senate, 41 to 32, Reconsiders Its Cut to 150,000; House Adopts Joint Resolution.

WOULD STOP RECRUITING

Spirited Fight for Reduction to 150,000 Is Made by Borah, Reed and McKellar.

BAKER DEFENDED IN HOUSE

Dent Replies to Criticism and Points to Efforts Last Year for Force of 185,000 Men.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—Congress today passed a joint resolution, which now goes to the President, directing Secretary of War Baker to cease recruiting until the various arms of the regular army have been reduced to 63½ per cent. of the authorized strength, which means a regular army of not more than 175,000 men.

The Senate, which on Friday passed an amended resolution which would have reduced the army to an enlisted strength of 150,000 men, late this afternoon reconsidered that action and by a vote of 41 to 32 voted for an army of 175,000 enlisted men. The army reorganization provides for about 18,000 officers.

In the House, where the resolution was introduced by Representative Kahn, Chairman of the House Committee on Military Affairs, action was speedy, practically no opposition developing. The vote in the House was 283 to 4, the four voting against the resolution being Bee of Texas, Coady of Maryland, Blackmon of Alabama and Crampton of Michigan, of whom the first three are Democrats and the other a Republican.

In the Senate the debate on the motion to reverse last week's action of the Senate lasted four hours and was spirited at times, the Irish question, the Jap problem and various other matters of international interest being brought into the discussion. The fight to keep the army at 150,000 was led by Senators Borah, Republican, and Williams, Reed and McKellar, Democrats, while Senators Wadsworth and New, Republicans, and Senators Robinson, Fletcher and Phelan, Democrats, directed the fight for a reconsideration.

Borah Wants $30,000,000 Saved.

Senator Borah declared that the money that would have been saved had the army remained at 150,000, which he estimated at between $30,000,000 and $35,000,000, could be used for the relief of Ill and insane veterans of the World War, who in large numbers, he added, are dying as a result of the failure of the Government to provide the necessary hospitals for their care and treatment. Senator Fletcher, replying to Borah, said that the size of the army did not figure in caring for these unfortunates and assured Senator Borah that Congress at this session would without doubt pass all the money needed to effect the relief of these ex-soldiers.

Senator Reed, who opened the debate against the motion to reconsider, reviewed the world situation and assured that from no nation in the world is the United States at the present moment in danger of attack.

"Certainly," said Senator Reed, "we need fear no hostile move from Germany, for that country lies prostrate and disarmed. As for Austria, she has been dismembered and if reports are correct may soon be in the hands of a receiver. Are we fearful of France? No, we are in no danger from France and in my judgment we have in France not only a friend who would not attack us, but one who would probably come to our assistance if necessary. Are we fearful of Great Britain? Surely we are in no danger from that source. We have loaned Great Britain $5,500,000,000 and are now arranging to defer even the interest payments, in my judgment, unlawfully. There is no danger there. An attack by Italy is unthinkable.

"There remains but one country to consider, and that is Japan. I am inclined to view with great discredit any rumor that Japan was working herself into a war fervor against the United States. She could not wage a war against us except with the aid of Great Britain, and if there is any such danger as that we need not an army of 150,000 or 175,000, but military preparation on a scale we never before dreamed of.

"What I would like to know is why America needs an army of 175,000 men in a time of peace, when, as a matter of fact, it is our duty to cut to the very bone every measure that adds additional burdens to the already overburdened people of this country."

Quotes General Pershing.

Senator Myers, Democrat, of Montana, replying to Senator Reed, said that General Pershing, when before the Committee on Military Affairs Friday, said that the army should not be reduced to any figure less than 200,000. Pershing, he added, gave present world conditions as one of the principal reasons for the stand he maintained regarding the size of the army.

"A reduction to 150,000, in the opinion of General Pershing," added Senator Myers, "would destroy and disorganize the present framework or skeleton organization of the army to such an extent that, in the event we are called on to meet an emergency, we would be unable to do so quickly. It would be equivalent to undermining the foundation of a house."

"If General Pershing says we need an army to prepare for an attack from

LANGDON KILLING FOUND UNPROVOKED

ADMITS HE FIRED FIRST

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—Information reached Washington through authentic channels today that, since the shooting of Lieutenant Warren J. Langdon before Japanese headquarters in Vladivostok on Jan. 8 by a Japanese sentry, two American uniformed men have been held up in that city by Japanese sentries.

The report stated that two American seamen, presumably from the cruiser Albany, were ordered ashore to make a search for the revolver worn by Lieutenant Langdon at the time he was shot. These seamen were challenged and held up by Japanese soldiers until they were identified. The report did not indicate whether the revolver was recovered by the Americans.

The information that these seamen in uniform were held up occasions some surprise in view of the reported action of the Japanese authorities at Vladivostok in directing that there should be no further interference with Americans in uniform.

One of the points made in the note of protest and representations sent last Thursday night by Acting Secretary of State Davis is that Japanese military forces in Vladivostok should not interfere with Americans there. In this note the State Department informed Japan that this Government expects the Japanese Government to see that there is no such interference in the future.

The Japanese Foreign Office has not yet replied to the American note, but it is expected that a response will soon be made, although the Tokio Foreign Office may be obliged to obtain its report from the War Office before making a response. In view of the case of interference with American seamen since the fatal shooting of Lieutenant Langdon, it is possible that the State Department will forward a second note to Japan before a reply is received to the first communication of protest.

Declares Sentry Molested Langdon.

The department gave out the following official advices concerning the circumstances of the death of Lieutenant Warren H. Langdon, U. S. N., on Jan. 8, 1921. According to the department's advices the board of investigation and court of inquiry convened by the Japanese Government seems to establish that the sentry who fired upon and killed Lieutenant Langdon had left his post and molested an officer in uniform who was proceeding in an orderly manner along the street.

The shooting took place opposite the headquarters of the Japanese Eleventh Division, or, Peter the Great Street, about 4 A. M., on the morning of Jan. 8. According to Lieutenant Langdon's own account, he was descending the steep, icy sidewalk on the west side of Peter the Great Street, using an electric pocket flash lamp continuously in order to find his way. When Lieutenant Langdon arrived opposite the headquarters of the Japanese Eleventh Division, which are on the east side of Peter the Great Street, the Japanese sentry on post before the headquarters came running across the street and called out 'American?' Lieutenant Langdon answered in the affirmative and proceeded on his way.

"The sentry, according to Lieutenant Langdon, without further challenge discharged his rifle at a distance of about six feet from Lieutenant Langdon, with the rifle held at the position 'charge bayonet.' The surgeon's examination disclosed that the ball had ranged upward, emerging above the heart. This was confirmed also by a large rent in the front of Lieutenant Langdon's overcoat just above the heart.

"After the sentry had fired, according to Lieutenant Langdon's own story, Lieutenant Langdon whipped out his revolver, turned and discharged two shots at the sentry and then made the best of his way to his ship, the Albany. Lieutenant Langdon further stated that when he was first challenged by the sentry he halted, just long enough to reply in the affirmative to the question 'American?'

"Lieutenant Langdon was fully conscious at the time he made his official statement. Lieutenant Langdon was a total abstainer and was not under the influence of alcohol at any time.

Soldier Revises His Story.

"At the first session of the Japanese Board of Investigation and Court of Inquiry, the Japanese sentry told a story which subsequently he modified in most of its important particulars. In his earliest statement, made at the time of his arrest, the Japanese sentry had de-

3 SHOT IN HOLD-UPS; $5,000 REWARD FOR PARK AV. BANDITS

GROCER AND SON SHOT DOWN

$70,000 FUR THEFTS BARED

Twenty Pieces of Jewelry, Valued at $7,000, Stolen in Hotel—Some Criminals Sentenced.

Two major crimes, executed with a daring disregard for police, crowds or consequences, were committed in the centre of the city yesterday. A third took place in East New York.

An alleged shoplifter in a Fifth Avenue establishment, darting through the 5 o'clock throngs, turned into a side street and was stopped in twenty feet by a detective's bullet. The wound was a bare graze, but a variation of a fraction of an inch in the aim would have severed the man's jugular vein.

Two young men, equipped with revolvers and an expensive automobile, held up the manager of one of Park Avenue's exclusive apartment houses, shot him through the face and escaped with about $2,000 of a cash payroll of $3,500. As a result, "$5,000 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the men concerned in the robbery and attempted murder at 375 Park Avenue," was offered last night by the Montana Realty Company, 30 East Forty-second Street, owners of the apartment.

Seriously wounded by two bandits, Samuel Meshman, 65, and his son, Abraham Meahman, 45, were taken last night to St. Mary's Hospital Brooklyn. The father and son were shot down in the grocery they own at 485 Hegeman Avenue, in the New Lots section of East New York. One bullet penetrated the son's chest, close to the heart, and the other entered the father's back. Their condition was reported as critical. The robbers, described by the police as "dark-skinned foreigners," escaped empty-handed.

$70,000 Fur Thefts Reported.

Beside these crimes, fur thefts totaling nearly $70,000 and a $7,000 jewel robbery in a hotel, were disclosed. Against this roll of disorder, several criminals were sentenced to prison, one man getting forty years.

At 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon Fifth Avenue, between Forty-sixth and Forty-seventh Streets, was jammed with the usual crowds of shoppers, and from curb to curb the street held heavy motor traffic. The five floors of the establishment of J. M. Gidding & Co. were well filled when a man and a woman entered. The man was tall and stylishly dressed; his companion was swathed in furs.

They asked to be directed to the rest room, said Nathaniel Gidding, President of the company, and were escorted to the fourth floor. While his companion entered the rest parlor, the man paced back and forth in the fitting rooms, twirling his cane. Then he went to the first floor and posted himself against a jewel counter.

One of the salesgirls told a floor manager she saw the man put a gold meshbag, valued at $150, in his pocket. When the manager approached, the stranger disappeared out the door.

The manager gave chase, shouting "Stop thief!" His cries caught the attention of Detective Barron, one of the plainclothes guard assigned to protect Fifth Avenue stores. Barron pursued the man, drawing his revolver, but the fugitive paid no heed to commands to halt.

When the man ran into Forty-seventh Street toward Sixth Avenue the detective shot at him. The bullet passed under the man's left ear and grazed his cheek. At the East Fifty-first Street Station the man described himself as William Davis, salesman, of 122 West Seventy-second Street. He denied the charge of grand larceny.

It was shortly after 10 o'clock when

Wants Federal Control Of Firearms and Motorists

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Jan. 17.—Federal control of Interstate Commerce in firearms and of automobile traffic is recommended for the consideration of the International Association of Police Chiefs at its annual convention to be held soon in Washington or New York in a letter sent out to members today by Joseph M. BOMB IN TAXICAB KILLS TWO PERSONS

Four Others Hurt When Explosion Occurs in a Philadelphia Garage.

BLAME LAID ON STRIKERS

Police Round Up Idle Chauffeurs and Search Their Quarters, but Find No Clue.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 17.—Two employes of the Quaker City Taxicab Company were killed tonight by the explosion of a bomb, presumably placed in one of the cabs by striking drivers whose campaign of violence has resulted in eleven injuries and property damage approximating $75,000. Several other drivers were in the company's main garage at Twelfth and Vine Streets when the explosion occurred, and four of them were slightly injured.

Police were ordered returned as guards on the cabs tonight. A policeman was detailed to each taxicab after the first outrages of the strike. Two weeks ago, however, following a lull in the outbreaks, Mayor Moore ordered police officials to remove the guards. Director Cortelyou and Superintendent Mills held a conference tonight and ordered the return of the police guards.

Police formed a cordon around the area after the explosion. They raided two poolrooms where strikers were known to have loafed. Sixteen men were arrested as suspicious characters. Search of their persons, however, revealed nothing that would indicate connection with the campaign of violence that has raged since 400 of the men walked out Nov. 1.

Detectives of the murder squad are at work tonight following what the officials regard as a clue that may lead to the arrest of the men responsible for the plot to frighten employes who have remained at work. Search of the headquarters of the striking men, diagonally across the street from the garage, uncovered no explosives or other materials that would lead to the belief that bombs were manufactured there.

Richard Curran, one of the drivers, took a cab out of the garage this afternoon at 4:30 o'clock, carrying fares from the centre of the city to West Philadelphia. He stopped at the West Philadelphia station to eat lunch, leaving the cab alone on the street about half an hour while he was eating. An hour later he noticed the meter was out of order and returned to the garage for repairs. Since the outbreak of the strike all cabs have been examined before they are allowed to enter the garage. Curran, however, drove inside and reported.

Dean, who had been detailed to inspect the cabs as they entered, looked inside the car as Curran was walking toward his cab with a meter inspector named Hartley. As they approached Dean lifted a small black object and asked Curran if it belonged to him. Amid cries to "drop it" from several corners of the garage Curran answered negatively and Dean began to shake the package suspiciously.

A terrific explosion followed. McKee, who was standing near Dean, was knocked over, his shoulder blown away and his head badly torn by the force of the impact. Dean toppled to the floor. Both men were rushed to the Hahnemann Hospital. Doctors there said McKee had died as he fell. Dean died soon after being admitted to the hospital.

Employes who got a slight glimpse of the infernal machine describe it as a small cylindrical package, about six inches long.

Bandits Trapped After Murder And Theft of $12,000 at Toledo

TOLEDO, Jan. 17.—Automobile bandits killed two New York Central Railroad detectives at noon today, forced a ticket agent to give up $12,000 and shot their way through a crowd of citizens to a refuge to which the police traced them. Tonight, just as detectives, armed with a hotguns, were preparing to lay siege to the house where the bandits were supposed to be barricaded, the city was plunged into darkness by an accident at the municipal power house, and the storming party was forced to wait for light.

Later the place was entered and five men were arrested. The refuge was a Broadway lunchroom less than a mile from the scene of the hold-up.

The prisoners are Ed Surprise, 37, restaurant worker; Harold Stormer, 30, sailor; Joe Smith, 20, engineer; Eli Crab, 28, laborer; Ed Foley, 18, chauffeur.

Foley, according to the police, was found on the roof of the building. Three of the men arrested have been identified by witnesses to the robbery, according to the authorities. They declined to reveal their identity however.

At that moment two of the bandits poured a fusillade of bullets into the railroad automobile, killing Schroeder and Long almost instantly. Breed was then forced to give up the satchel.

A large crowd had collected at the sound of the shots and surrounded the two cars, but the bandits, firing right and left, sped through it in their car. Every available policeman and detective was at once put on the trail of the bandit machine. They found it abandoned in the underworld district and traced its negro driver, Royce Richardson, to his home. They found him in bed. Hidden under his mattress was $2,200 and an additional $125 was found in his pocket when he was searched at headquarters. Vivian Larrimore, a negress, with whom Richardson is said to have been intimate, also was placed under arrest. She had $100 in currency.

HYLAN AND ENRIGHT YIELD TO WHITMAN, PROMISE TO HELP

Mayor Agrees to Furnish Detectives and Any Aid Asked in Investigation.

TO REVOKE POLICE RULE 184

Commissioner and Chief Call on Swann—Not Required to Face Jury.

RESIGNATION REPORT DENIED

Enright Says He Does Not Intend to Quit—Knows Nothing About Removal.

Mayor Hylan in a face-to-face conference with ex-Governor Whitman yesterday promised to furnish all the detectives and other assistnce asked in connection with the Whitman investigation and promised also the immediate abrogation of Rule 184.

Mayor Hylan's action, it was stated, was taken after Mr. Whitman had decided to ask the Grand Jury to indict for attempted obstruction of justice, if the Mayor and Police Commissioner Enright continued in their refusal to furnish detectives and to cancel Rule 184, which required policemen to report to the Police Department all questions asked them by the prosecutor in any investigation.

The interview ended with a promise by Mayor Hylan to do all that he was asked to do by Mr. Whitman and to instruct Commissioner Enright, who was present at the interview, to abandon completely his earlier attitude toward the Whitman investigation.

Mayor Hylan had given no hint of his intention, previous to his discussion with Mr. Whitman, that he intended to reverse the position he had taken last week in refusing flatly to let the District Attorney or Mr. Whitman use any city detectives or to abrogate Rule 184, which would have kept the Police Department informed of every step taken by Mr. Whitman and his staff against it.

Penal Code Considered.

Mr. Whitman, who had considered an appeal to the Governor against the Mayor and Police Commissioner, had come to the conclusion that the attitude of those two officials toward the inquiry ran counter to Section 1851 of the Penal Code, which says:

"A person who, in any case or under any circumstances not otherwise specially provided for, willfully resists, delays or obstructs a public officer in discharging or attempting to discharge the duties of his office is guilty of a misdemeanor."

The letters of the Mayor and the Police Commissioner refusing the services of the detectives and the rule itself were regarded by Mr. Whitman as a case in themselves strong enough to submit to the Grand Jury.

The Grand Jurors were in session when Mayor Hylan and Commissioner Enright arrived at the Criminal Court Building. Mr. Whitman had the Penal Code open at the page defining the crime of obstructing justice when he went into conference with them. The Grand Jurors remained in readiness until Mr. Whitman went before them, after the Mayor had agreed to what was demanded, and told them that the business for which they had been summoned had been dispatched satisfactorily at the conference.

Hylan and Enright Call on Swann.

Mayor Hylan, who had refused to see District Attorney Swann at the City Hall last week, voluntarily called on him yesterday at his office in the Criminal Court Building, where the conference with Mr. Whitman was later held. Letting bygones be bygones, he greeted the District Attorney warmly. Commissioner Enright, who has cut the District Attorney publicly for two years, also paid a voluntary visit to his office and shook hands with him as a preliminary to the conference.

As soon as he had discharged his function as a host by welcoming the two officials to his office, Mr. Swann excused himself and left them with Mr. Whitman.

The three men got along amicably, according to Mr. Whitman. He pointed out his conception of his duty under the circumstances created by their refusal to assist his official investigation. The Mayor was quick to agree with him. Commissioner Enright, whose only connection with the matter has been to repeat the Mayor's refusal to lend the services of the detectives, was apparently only a passive witness to the interview.

The Mayor is said to have disclaimed emphatically any intention to obstruct justice. Before the interview, the Mayor's conception of the whole matter, it was said, was that he was merely refusing to grant something which was asked as a favor, not demanded as a legal obligation.

On Friday, Jan. 7, District Attorney Swann had a talk with the Mayor and immediately after it wrote to the Grand Jury that the Mayor offered the services of any six city detectives to the Grand Jury. The Mayor, in this letter, was credited with having acted voluntarily. Mr. Swann alluded in a complimentary way to Mr. Hylan's readiness to help, even though the purpose of the Whitman investigation was to uncover alleged corruption in city departments headed by the Mayor's own appointees.

On the following day, Saturday, Jan. 8, the Mayor wrote to District Attorney Swann denying the request for help from the Police Department. The Mayor held a conference with political friends between the date of his alleged

SAY HOLLAND HAS ASKED HOHENZOLLERNS TO LEAVE THE COUNTRY BECAUSE OF PLOT BY CROWN PRINCE TO INVADE GERMANY

Vienna Gets Confirmation of Report That Hohenzollerns Are Asked to Go

BERLIN, Jan. 17. — The Tageblatt's Vienna correspondent gives an unnamed authority in Vienna in confirmation of a report that the Dutch Government has expressed the wish that the former German Emperor and former Crown Prince leave Holland.

The ground given is participation of the Hohenzollerns in preparation for a new revolutionary coup, involving former German officers.

PARIS, Jan. 17.—The Matin will publish tomorrow the following dispatch from Berlin:

"The Government of Holland has notified the members of the family of the former Kaiser that it wishes them to leave the country. This amounts to disguised expulsion.

"Thanks to the aid of several foreign diplomats, the Dutch Government got possession of documents which prove in irrefutable manner that the Hohenzollerns are guilty of grave violation of the right of asylum.

"The Dutch Government knows today that at Doorn and Wieringen, the abode of the Crown Prince, preparations were made for a big coup d'état.

"The former Crown Prince was to pass into Germany and enter Berlin at the head of the German troops remaining faithful. It is established that his confidants, and notably the valet of the Crown Prince, went every month to an Amsterdam hotel, the Edon Graif. Here they received secret correspondence and met many persons coming from Germany.

"It was learned that an emissary of the Crown Prince then left Holland by a secret route and always returned to Holland several days later. Then new meetings were held at the hotel and the emissary returned to the residence of the Crown Prince.

"It was in this hotel that he was recently surprised by agents of public safety. Examination of the papers found on him revealed documents extremely compromising for the former Emperor and the Crown Prince."

Ever since October there have been stories, some at length, describing an alleged royalist plot among the Prussian Junkers, formed at the officers' quarters in the Palace at Potsdam.

On Nov. 30 the British Government was interpellated in regard to it in the House of Commons, when the Government leader, Andrew Bonar Law, replied that, although in some quarters the plot had been taken seriously, yet he believed that Holland was watching. At any rate, he did not see how his Government could take up the matter with Holland.

As late as Dec. 2 the matter came up in the Dutch Parliament, when Premier Beerenbrouck, replying to the charge that the ex-Prince was abusing Dutch hospitality by communicating with monarchical elements in Germany, said that he would have preferred that the Kaiser and his son had not entered Holland, but since they were there the Government could do no more than grant them hospitality, or at least shelter. The Premier discouraged belief in the plot.

The Dutch Socialist paper Het Volk has been constantly drawing attention to the behavior of the Crown Prince. On Jan. 6 it devoted a long article to the alleged reactionary plot that was being hatched between him and the younger Junker officers at Potsdam. Several Socialist Deputies interpellated the Government on this and received only vague answers.

The Het Volk declared that the ex-Crown Prince's valet Schultze, who came with him from Germany, crossed the German frontier four times in three months, taking a suitcase full of papers, which he left in Berlin. The Het Volk went on to say that the Dutch police were aware of the courier's movements, but apparently were unable to take any steps in the matter without permission of the Foreign Ministry, as his case was exclusively a matter for the Foreign Office, in which the police were not allowed to meddle. The paper commented: "This correspondence is probably as important as much of the Bolshevist literature which the police are always confiscating."

The ex-Crown Prince, for whom no guarantees were given by Holland to the Allies, as was the case with his father, is at liberty to leave Holland when he pleases, but if he should go to any country which is a member of the League of Nations he would be liable to arrest and trial under the articles in the Versailles treaty, which so provide for Germany's war delinquents.

Interviews with him and letters written by him to friends in Germany have been more numerous recently, and have been published in the German press. He has noted changes in foreign royalties with interest, particularly following the attempt to seat his cousin Rupprecht on the Bavarian throne and the Magyar craving to restore a Hapsburg monarch

HARDING TO ISSUE DISARMAMENT CALL

Invitation to International Conference Will Immediately Follow Inauguration.

TO OFFER COURT PLAN, TOO

Washington Sees in Geddes's Trip British Desire to Consider the Disarmament Project.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—Important facts with regard to the disarmament movement were uncovered tonight as a result of careful inquiry made for the purpose of ascertaining the reason why Sir Auckland Geddes, British Ambassador to the United States, was so suddenly called back to England for conferences with Premier Lloyd George and Earl Curzon, Secretary for Foreign Affairs. These are:

1. Ambassador Geddes was recalled by his Government for a discussion of the question of disarmament.

2. President-elect Harding immediately after his inauguration will invite the powers to send representatives to an international conference for a discussion of the question of restriction of armaments.

3. This conference, under President-elect Harding's call, will not be limited in its jurisdiction to a discussion of whether the restriction of armaments is possible, but will also be called to consider the question of the establishment of an international tribunal for the judicial settlement of disputes between nations, with a view to the promotion of peace so as to make the restriction of heavy armaments possible.

4. The President-elect is expected to bring his plans for such a conference forward in his inaugural address, and in his message to the special session of Congress he is expected to ask for the necessary appropriations for the expenses to be incurred by this Government if such a conference is acceptable to the powers.

While various reasons have been assigned as a basis for the decision of the British Government to recall Ambassador Geddes for consultation, and it has been assumed that the British debt to the Government of the United States was perhaps one of the main considerations involved in the action taken, it was learned in a thoroughly informed and trustworthy quarter tonight that the consideration of disarmament was the primary reason underlying Downing Street's request for a personal conference with its Ambassador at Washington.

British Want Our Views on Disarmament

The British Government wants Sir Auckland to participate in a confidential Government conference on disarmament and is calling him back because the British statesmen are anxious, more than anything else, to learn the status of the armaments limitation issue in the United States; whether and to what extent the United States Government is willing to join in such a movement by international agreement or otherwise; whether it is the purpose of this Government to call an international conference for discussion of the restriction of armaments and what the probable attitude of President-elect Harding is likely to be toward the matter when he comes into office.

The House Naval Affairs Committee has been actively considering the question. Senator Borah has been pushing a disarmament movement from his place in the Senate. Secretary Daniels has advised President-elect Harding, in testimony before the House committee, to call an international disarmament conference under the authority granted in the Naval act of 1916. On the other hand, influential advocates of national defense and preparedness have been urging the upbuilding of the navy, and the General Board of the navy, in addition to urging the completion of the ships already authorized, has recommended the building of new ships for which more than $100,000,000 would have to be appropriated if new units were authorized this year.

There have been conflicting reports regarding the situation in the information sent to England, and, among other things, the British Government, it is understood, wants to settle this conflict of reports by personal conference with Ambassador Geddes.

President-elect Harding's plans respecting the international conference he will call have been definitely ascertained from members of his own party who

CHURCHILL SHIFTS HIS CABINET POSTS

Quits British War Office to Assume Duties of Colonial Secretary.

APPOINTMENT IS CRITICISED

Daily News Objects to Giving an Enemy of the League Power Over Mandate Territory.

Copyright, 1921, by The Chicago Tribune Co.

LONDON, Jan. 17.—It was officially announced here tonight that Winston Churchill, the British Minister of War, had accepted the post of Colonial Secretary. No reason was given for the change.

It was also learned that Lord Derby had been asked to succeed Mr. Churchill as Minister of War, but had refused the post.

A recent visit of Mr. Churchill to Paris caused much conjecture in the French capital despite the fact that he declared that his mission was entirely a personal one.

Just before the downfall of the Leygues Cabinet in France much dissatisfaction was expressed over a rumor that Mr. Churchill would be a member of the British delegation at the coming session of the Supreme Council.

In semi-official quarters in London tonight it was thought likely that Mr. Churchill's views regarding German disarmament and reparations, said to be not strictly in accord with those of Mr. Lloyd George, had a strong bearing on his retirement as Minister of War.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Jan. 17.—The Daily News is strongly opposed to the idea of Winston Churchill's appointment to the Colonial Office.

"It is reported," it says, "that the Colonial Office is henceforth to have control of the mandate areas, particularly in the Middle East. Any satisfaction that might be derived from the reflection that in leaving the War Office Mr. Churchill would get well away from Mesopotamia is therefore entirely premature. Mesopotamia will, if current expectations are realized, be more his playground than ever, and a member of the British Cabinet who has perhaps given less evidence of belief in the League of Nations than any other will be brought directly in contact with the League on the delicate question of mandate administration."

GERMAN FUSIONISTS GAINING IN VIENNA

Many Public Meetings Urge Union as Labor Crisis Threatens Government.

VIENNA, Jan. 16.—The strike of workers in the postal, telegraph and telephone branches of the Post Office Department, which was settled Saturday night, tied up the mail service for three days and telegraph and telephone communication one day.

Considerable disorder attended the strike, a number of persons being wounded in police charges on strikers who assembled at the central and branch Post Offices. It is admitted that the strike brought the none too stable Government close to a downfall, and it was forced to yield to virtually all the strikers' demands in order to avert a general walk-out by the railwaymen and technical trade unions in sympathy with the postal employes.

The Government was also influenced by a desire to prevent the highly tense situation from extending until Jan. 20, the date set by the technical trades for fulfillment of their threats to bring about internal reforms by force.

What was considered a significant feature of the situation was the action of the Communist element in the army, which in public meetings declared that it would support the strikers if the military should be called upon.

Aside from the demand for the right of collective bargaining, there has been a further manifestation of the ever-increasing agitation for fusion with Germany, in the opinion of foreign observers in Vienna. This movement has been markedly recrudescent lately, numerous public meetings being held and there being much discussion of the situation in the newspapers.

Redlich Gives Up Mission.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

VIENNA, Jan. 17.—Professor Redlich said today:

"I am compelled to give up my American trip for the present. The mission contemplated by the Government has been postponed because of lack of unanimity among the parties supporting the present Government. I could only undertake the mission as a representative of all parties, which is at present impossible."

to Hungary. He has also "hoped" that Austria and Germany would join hands.

The Socialist-Democratic press of Germany has criticised these opinions as reactionary and has warned the Berlin Government to be on its guard, although in speaking of Prussian affairs his former Imperial Highness has said that he wished he could return to the Fatherland in order to help build up the country under the present régime.

Mourns on Empire Anniversary.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Jan. 17. Tomorrow will be the fiftieth anniversary of the formal foundation in the Hall of Mirrors at Versailles of the German Empire. In the new Socialistic republic built on the ruins of that Bismarckian edifice it will be celebrated by the non-publication of the Deutsche Zeitung. In big letters framed very appropriately in a black border that ocean of reaction makes this terrific announcement with the explanation that the publishers and staff are going to celebrate this great anniversary with a solemn holiday.

The anniversary of the fateful day had been preceded by a furious squabble between those who cherish secret dreams of a revival of all that it represented and those who want to forget all about the empire of blood and iron.

Originally the Prussian Minister of Education issued a decree for a national school holiday, but this was upset by the opposition of the Socialists in Parliament. The Communists thereupon went one better, for their organ, Die Rote Fahne, prompt announced "January 18 is a second holiday Communist children should not go to school on that day."

Ebert Proclaims German Unity.

BERLIN, Jan. 17. On the occasion of the fiftieth anniversary of the proclamation of the old German Empire of Versailles, President Ebert today issued a manifesto, saying in part:

"This was a long delayed fulfillment of our forefathers' wishes, and despite the war's losses we have been spared one great misfortune, namely a new separation of German lands. We hold fast together. In this spirit is rejoice.

"Even if [illegible] sorrowfully look toward [illegible] who unwillingly have been separated from their kindred, and toward lonely [illegible] Austria, which longingly stretches [illegible] arms to us and we to her, we must be determined to maintain [illegible] unity. SCHEER SAYS JAPAN NEED NOT SCARE US

Could Land No Army, He Holds, Even With Our Fleet Beaten, if We Had Some Submarines.

LATTER BIG PEACE FACTOR

(Copyright, 1921, by The Chicago Tribune Co.)

WEIMAR, Jan. 17.—"I see no reason for America fearing a war with either Japan or England," said Admiral Scheer today in the third of a series of interviews, the first given by the Commander in Chief of the German Navy since the signing of peace between the Allies and Germany. "In such wars the action would be wholly naval, as the American frontiers, Canadian and Mexican, are safe. Canada would not fight against the United States and Mexico is powerless.

"For Japan to land an army on either Canadian or Mexican soil is impracticable, almost impossible. I say almost impossible because such landing necessitates the complete destruction of the American Fleet.

"I showed at Skagerrak that a fleet of double strength cannot enforce its will upon a weaker one, and two months later showed the possibility of submarines offering a barrier to a fleet of capital ships. Germany showed throughout the war that submarines and mine fields made the coast safe against hostile armies landing.

"Now consider an American-Japanese war and the complete defeat of the American fleet by the Japanese. Japan wants the Philippines badly, and I do not think America ought to prize them too highly. America values them more than they are worth. This exaggerated value may lead America to compromise her honor in defense of those islands and go to war in their behalf.

"I think Great Britain realizes its mistake in permitting Japan to occupy the former German islands, which become a sort of bridge, inviting the Japanese to place naval stations as sort of outposts around Australia. In other words, England has driven Australia into America's arms because their interests in the Pacific are identical.

"From a purely strategic point of view, leaving aside sentimental ideals, as they were left aside at Versailles, I would say America should have taken the German Marianna Islands as her spoils. If she really fears a Japanese attack it was foolish not to take naval stations, if she had taken them, America would not be accused of militarism, while Japan's naval activities would be confined to a small radius. However, England's action united America and Australia, which is probably best for both.

"In a war between America and Japan or England aerial warfare must be considered. It is a long distance between Japan or California or Mexico. We will say the warships and transports of Japan come the thousands of miles, they will arrive off the Mexican coast with their bunkers empty. Mexico cannot supply the needed coal or oil because of the [illegible] enormous harbor facilities to coal ships. Finally the Japanese approach the American coast and a few submarines could sink their transports and prevent a landing.

"Long [illegible] conditions do not hold good for the Philippines," it was suggested.

"Yes and no," replied the Admiral. "In my opinion a fleet of submarines with some support from forts and warships to keep the submarine bases from destroyers will prevent the enemy from occupying the Philippines. Without submarines the Philippines will be an easy prey. Should America decide on a decisive battle on Japan soil or in Asiatic waters, it has a series of naval bases at Hawaii, Guam and the Philippines, while Japan attacking America would not have any support.

At the conclusion of this interview Admiral Scheer gave the following naval aphorisms:

"The strongest fleet has no opportunity for victory if it is forced by its adversary to stay in port through fear of submarines.

"Nowadays the greatest naval fleet cannot guarantee the safety of its merchant fleet unless the enemy's submarine bases are destroyed.

"A weak fleet is able to do much damage to its enemy, thanks to submarines.

"If the British did not attack the North Sea ports of Germany, it was due to the submarines. How much more useful would submarines be to America, where its foe would have to cross the ocean.

"Capital ships have lost their power and the strongest naval nation cannot claim certain superiority.

"The nation with a few capital ships can build submarines which can kill the war spirit of the enemy in proportion to the damage they inflict and the fear of continual danger they cause to arise.

"The submarine changes warfare inasmuch as it places the attacker at a disadvantage. This would cause a nation, contemplating war, to draw back. Thus the submarine becomes a weapon which urges peace."

JERSEY WETS DELAY DRY RATIFICATION

Repeal of Beer Law Also Blocked and Both Go Over Until Next Monday.

PASSAGE BELIEVED CERTAIN

TRENTON, N. J., Jan. 17.—Although admitting that there is no hope of preventing passage of a resolution ratifying the National Prohibition Amendment and a bill repealing the 3.5 beer bill enacted at the last session of the Legislature, wet Assemblymen from Northern New Jersey succeeded tonight in delaying action on the measures for a week. The resolution, introduced by Assemblyman Roberts of Burlington County, and the beer bill repealer, presented by Assemblywoman Van Ness of Essex County, will be taken up by the House next Monday evening as a special order of business.

Preceding tonight's session of the Legislature the Assembly Republicans held a conference to determine their program for the week. It was in this meeting that the dry forces sought to have a decision reached to rush the anti-liquor measures through during the evening. Assemblyman Evans of Passaic County, leading the opposition, argued that there was no reason for haste, and his motion to make the legislation special business for next Monday was adopted.

Mrs. Van Ness introduced a prohibition enforcement bill which is said to have the backing of the Anti-Saloon League. It dispenses with jury trials and provides for penalties up to a fine of $500 and imprisonment for one year, or both.

Assemblyman Eldridge put in a bill that would enable the Mayor of Elizabeth to vote at the organization meeting of the Common Council and thereby end a deadlock that has existed since the first of the year.

Governor Edwards sent to the Senate the appointment of former Congressman Tuttle to be State Commissioner of Banking and Insurance and reappointed Supreme Court Justice Trenchard, Errors Court Judge Williams, Circuit Court Judge Lloyd and Circuit Court Judge Campbell.

It will require a majority vote of the Senate to confirm appointments made by the Governor instead of a majority of the Senators present. Decision to make this change in the rules was reached tonight and its effect will be to prevent the six Democratic members from putting through confirmation of the Governor's Utility Board nominations at a time when some of the Republicans might be napping.

DESERTED WIFE ASKS $100,000 FOR HUSBAND

Mrs. McKay Sues Mrs. Beatrice Gallaway and Also Charges Bigamy.

Special to The New York Times.

SOUTH NORWALK, Conn., Jan. 17.—It became known here this afternoon that Mrs. Olga Harting McKay of Brooklyn had brought suit for $100,000 against Mrs. Beatrice Wright Gallaway, a wealthy divorcee of the aristocratic Green's Farms section of the town of Westport, on the ground that Mrs. Gallaway had stolen her husband, Donald Francis McKay, a New York broker, and had, furthermore, induced said McKay into a bigamous marriage.

The papers in the action were served on Jan. 3 by Deputy Sheriff Nelson H. Benedict, but were not recorded until this afternoon. In the papers Mrs. McKay alleges that she and Mr. McKay were married on May 5, 1915, in Newark, N. J., and lived together happily until Mrs. Gallaway appeared. The papers state that Mrs. Gallaway and McKay were married on Dec. 22, 1920, in Westport by the Rev. George B. Hatch, pastor of the Congregational Church in that place. She states that McKay used the name of Donald McKay 2d.

The records of the town of Westport also show that on Jan. 12, last, Mrs. Gallaway gave an $8,000 mortgage, Mrs. on her property to William I. Bell, a New York attorney.

HYLAN AND ENRIGHT YIELD TO WHITMAN

No explanation was made by the Mayor of his alleged change of attitude, but a later letter sent by his secretary to Mr. Swann indicated that the Mayor was exasperated because of Mr. Swann's letter to this Grand Jury. The Mayor expressed indignation because of interpretations placed on the letter to the effect that he was joint sponsor with Mr. Swann for the Whitman investigation.

This was especially displeasing to the Mayor and some of his advisers, it was reported, because any endorsement or countenance from the Mayor to Mr. Whitman's investigation would spike the Mayor's guns, if the occasion arose at any later time to attack Mr. Whitman for having been engaged at one time as special counsel for the Interborough.

Mr. Whitman refused to comment yesterday on the means by which the Mayor's change of front had been brought about, but Mr. Swann said:

"I believe that the Mayor was misled in this matter by bad advisers. I believe the Mayor to be a perfectly honest man, with every intention of doing his duty. He was ready to remedy his error in this matter as soon as it was made clear to him."

Immediately after the conference Mr. Whitman said that he would send at once for Detective Sergeant Albert Thomas, formerly a confidant of Mr. Whitman when he was District Attorney. Sergeant Thomas helped Mr. Whitman work up the famous case against the four Inspectors and was a witness against Inspector Murtha, who was convicted.

Commissioner Enright ignored three requests from District Attorney Swann for the services of Thomas before writing the letter of refusal which was countermanded at yesterday's interview.

Unless a further conference between the Mayor and his political advisers causes some new situation to develop, as was the case after the Swann-Hylan interview of Jan. 7, Sergeant Thomas will join Mr. Whitman this morning.

"I expect him tomorrow morning," Mr. Whitman said yesterday.

"Is he the only man you have asked for?"

"Yes. He is the only man I want at present."

Hasn't Thought of Costigan.

"Are you going to ask for Captain Costigan?"

"I haven't thought about that," replied Mr. Whitman.

Mr. Whitman issued the following statement after the conference with the Mayor and Commissioner:

"The District Attorney is a constitutional officer. He is answerable to the Governor and not to the Mayor. He is the chief criminal law officer of the county, and he proposes to act as such until further notice.

"Section 184 of the Police Regulations will be rescinded at once. The regulation, I am informed by the Commissioner, was adopted for disciplinary purposes solely.

"The Police Department and every member in the department from the patrolman to the Commissioner will conform to the requests of the District Attorney in connection with his efforts to enforce the law. We will have all the men that we need, and they will be assigned to us when we ask for them and such men as we ask for."

"I think that will be all for the present."

Mayor Hylan seemed to be relieved and happy when he left the conference. He refused to say anything, waving his hands and parrying questions goodnaturedly. On the elevator he remarked to a fellow passenger:

"You need a shave."

"No, I don't," replied the other man.

"Yes, you do. I would give you the price, except that I would be accused of bribery."

Hylan and Enright Cordial.

The Mayor and Commissioner Enright appeared to be on cordial terms, thus casting doubt on the rumors that Mr. Enright was about to resign. Further denials of those rumors were made by both officials yesterday.

Mr. Whitman said yesterday that he was preparing further cases against members of the Police Department and might be prepared to go ahead with them today. The cases involving the alleged acceptances by policemen of gratuities for furnishing citizens with ordinary police work, the charge on which Captain William A. Bailey was indicted last week.

Witnesses who were summoned yesterday in connection with the police investigation were E. Milch, President of E. & A. Milch, dealers in paintings at 108 West Fifty-seventh Street; D. Milch, President of D. Milch & Co., in the same business at 131 West Forty-first Street; Joseph Gantz, President of the Printers Publishing Company; Aaron Gantz, Secretary, and John J. Dowling, Treasurer.

The resignation of Commissioner Enright was rumored yesterday for the third day running. Yesterday's rumor was that Gen. John F. O'Ryan, head of the State Guard and commanding officer of the Twenty-seventh Division during the war, was to succeed him. When this was called to his attention, the General said:

"I would not accept the job if it was offered to me."

"Was it offered to you?" was asked.

Gen. O'Ryan declined to answer.

Mayor Hylan, for the first time since he has been Mayor, crossed the threshold of the newspaper reporters' room in City Hall yesterday and said "Hello!" Then hailing an individual, he said:

"I had to see you before I went home."

"By the way, Mr. Mayor, has Commissioner Enright resigned?" was asked.

"I like you," said the Mayor, "but you must not ask such questions."

ENRIGHT POSITIVE HE WON'T RESIGN

Does Not Know About Removal, but Would Enlighten Public if He Did, He Says.

"I am not going to resign; I have no intention of resigning, and whenever it happens that I intend to resign I shall tell the public about it at once," said Police Commissioner Enright yesterday afternoon to a reporter of THE TIMES. "If you can phrase a sentence stronger than that suggest it to me and I will use it. The rumor of my resignation, current at present, is no more accurate than the fourscore other rumors of the same sort that have been abroad since I became Commissioner. Of course I do not know whether I am going to be removed. If I did know about it I would tell you."

The Commissioner sat in the swivel chair in the big square room on the north end of Police Headquarters. Before him was a great square desk. It was covered with papers and messengers were constantly adding to them. In the course of the talk he transacted police business. Occasionally the Commissioner answered a facial expression before it was framed in words. Only once did he show deep feeling. It was when the reporter asked:

"The many attacks upon you would indicate that your adversaries desire to create an impression that you are not honest."

Then his eyes flashed as he said: "Let them put that into words, and I will answer them in a way they may not enjoy."

When he was asked about the rule requiring policemen to report to a superior when they were summoned before a jury, the Commissioner lay back in his chair and laughed heartily.

Rule Improved Morale.

"It frequently happened that a policeman who wanted a little time off would get a subpoena from some friendly hand in the District Attorney's office. The policeman, not having to appear in any proceeding, had some leisure. So the rule was made that whenever a policeman received such a subpoena he was to report it. The fact is that no policeman ever did report anything occurring in the prosecution of cases, or of any inquiry in which he was concerned, nor was he ever asked to make such a report.

"Since this rule was made, about two years ago, there has been an improvement in the morale of the force and fewer policemen have been summoned from their work to attend calls from the District Attorney's office."

Replying to a question as to the condition of police affairs when he assumed office, on Jan. 23, 1918, the Commissioner said:

"When Commissioner Waldo went out of office he left everything in apple-pie order. Buildings and equipment were in good shape, the business was completed, and there were no old matters for Commissioner Woods to clean up when he came in. That is the way I shall leave things for the man who succeeds me, and it is the way things should be left.

"But Commissioner Woods evidently had a different idea. The election swept the administration of which he was a part out of office, and he was apparently of the opinion that things should be taken easily. At any rate, I found a lot of unfinished business awaiting attention, buildings needed looking after, and, generally speaking, departmental affairs were in bad shape. To illustrate: The Police Department has about thirty automobiles, and the Commissioner is supposed to have the best of the lot. Well, the best one was so poor that it brought only an allowance of $185 when I turned it in in exchange for a new one."

The Commissioner was reluctant to discuss the Detective Bureau but he finally agreed that it was a subject of public interest. He said that when he came into office the bureau was top-heavy. Asked to explain he said:

Cut Detective Force.

"There were too many high salaried men connected with it. I set about reducing the number of officers and of replacing many of the subordinates with new men. Now the bureau has 890 men, including eight captains, forty-three lieutenants and thirty-one sergeants. This was a reduction in the number employed by my predecessor and represented an saving in maintenance of $68,717 in 1918, as compared with 1917. There was also a marked improvement in the service rendered.

"Men are assigned to the bureau because they displayed some special qualification for the work, such as making an important arrest under difficult conditions, or an ability to preserve order in ordinarily disorderly precincts, or for some other trait which indicates that they can render good service in the new line of work. Then it happens that the stool pigeons of a policeman who has been using them leave the city for prison or some other districts, old associates pass away, and the policeman sinks into a routine where he is of no use. Then the thing to do is to transfer him to other duty. I have done this in many instances with the result that the chorus of my critics has been greatly swelled.

"So many officers were detailed to the bureau that it was difficult to man the different precincts, and the number of the higher grade men was cut down and the men assigned to precinct work. Now what was the result? The bureau is operating in fine shape, crime is kept down and general order is maintained."

Commissioner Enright referred to a table that lay on his desk.

"Now, here," he said, "is a record of the murder, felonious assault, assault and robbery and burglary cases that have reached the department in 1916, 1917 and 1920. In 1916 the total number of these crimes was 14,431, 13,141 in 1917 and 11,597 in 1920. For December of the three years the record shows a total of 1,156 in 1916, 1,194 in 1917 and 1,035 in 1920.

"And yet the newspapers state that there was a crime wave last month and the city was held up to the world as a city engulfed in crime. These figures prove conclusively that there was no wave of crime in this city. On the contrary, they show that crime conditions compare favorably with the ante-bellum periods, 1916 and 1917, when conditions were normal. Nobody can juggle with the figures. They are accurate."

3 SHOT IN HOLD-UPS; REWARD FOR BANDITS

Washington Irving Davis of 220 West Ninty-eighth Street arrived at his office in the Montana Apartments, 375 Park Avenue, from Fifty-second to Fifty-third Streets. There are 108 tenants in the building, including John McCormack, the tenor, Lady Duff-Gordon, better known as "Lucile," the designer, Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Converse, Edwin Sprague Marston, Jr., and Mrs. Stephen H. Olin, Mrs. William Scott Pyle and Mrs. James W. Alexander.

Davis carried a payroll of some $4,500. He went directly to his office on the ground floor and began to count the currency preparatory to having it put in envelopes.

While three employes, two young men, entered his office. The first was a rather tall blond bespectacled man dressed in black. The second, seemingly younger, was garbed in brown and carried a pigskin brief case.

"Hands up!" said the bespectacled highwayman to Davis. The manager made a move as if to resist, and the stranger shot him. He fell but Davis, under the left jaw, coursed upward through the [illegible] mouth and, grazing the [illegible] cheekbone, emerged under the eye. He fell to the floor.

Money Scattered on Street.

Both men scooped up the money lying on the desk and crammed it into the briefcase. Then they made for the front door, waving their revolvers. On the sidewalk one of the men fired three shots, to frighten those who followed them, and although a patrolman on fixed post and a traffic policeman were close by, managed to regain their powerful automobile.

In the haste of their escape the robbers dropped a quantity of their loot, and the wind whipped it in all directions. While passersby sought to recover the flying greenbacks the robbers fled toward Lexington Avenue before pursuit could be organized. Mr. Davis was taken to Roosevelt Hospital.

Fur robberies of $61,000 were disclosed in the territory of Twentieth to Fortieth Street, Sixth Avenue to the North River. According to fur merchants, robberies representing a loss of about $306,000 have occurred in this territory in the last two weeks.

Some time during the week-end burglars climbed the firescape and entered the establishment of A. Rabinowitz, sixth floor of the loft building at 14 West Twenty-fifth Street. They got $3,000 worth of furs. The firm of Albert & Dubin, on the same floor, lost $8,000 worth of skins, while furs valued at $50,000 were stolen from Charles Biscow & Co.

Another fur theft was the loss of $10,000 worth of skins by William B. Abrams, whose shop is on the third floor of 340 Seventh Avenue. The robbers in this case climbed down a chimney and chiselled a way through the brick wall of the Abrams quarters.

Two arrests have been made in connection with the robberies. According to the police, both prisoners have jail records.

Twenty Pieces of Jewelry Stolen.

Twenty pieces of jewelry valued at $7,000 were taken on Jan. 10 from the room of William G. Bates, a guest at the Hotel Patterson, 58 West Forty-seventh Street. Mr. Bates discovered the theft the following morning and notified the hotel management, which called in the police. No trace of the criminals has been found. It was said that entry to the Bates rooms was obtained by use of a skeleton key.

Mrs. Lillian Lipinte, 29, who appeared in sealskin and much jewelry, was held in $10,000 bail in Bridge Plaza Court, Brooklyn, on a charge of assault and robbery. Frank Rossell of 327 East Twenty-third Street, Manhattan, alleged the young woman had induced him to accompany her to an apartment at 228 Keap Street, Brooklyn. There, said Rossell, she pointed a revolver at him and took $20.

Sentences the maximum aggregate of which amounted to ninety-six years were imposed by Justice James C. Cropsey in the Brooklyn Supreme Court upon seven men. Six were convicted hold-up man and the other was a pickpocket.

John Willis, convicted of robbery as a second offender, was given a flat sentence of 40 years at hard labor in Sing Sing. He was one of a gang which on June 28 last forced Henry Hamin, bookkeeper, into a taxicab at pistol's point and took $500 and a diamond ring. Charles Sickleffs, a confederate of Willis, got fifteen years. Joseph Minero, who entered the store of Morris Weinberg, 6302 New Utbretch Avenue, last November and rifled a cash register, was given not less than seven and a half nor more than fifteen years. Tom Lister, a negro highwayman, was sentenced to ten years, while Arthur Clark, another footpad, got from three to ten years. John Fase, hold-up man, went to Elmira Reformatory because the Justice did not regard him "as a criminal at heart." Moses Harts, once before convicted, will serve five years in Sing Sing for picking pockets.

County Judge Martin sentenced John Ballylock, 21, and his wife, Hilda, 18, to Sing Sing for two to four years. They were convicted of robbing homes in which they hired out as butler and maid. Isadore Glass and Clement Tuscogna, Brooklynites, charged with stealing a barrel of wine, were sent to Elmira Reformatory by the same Judge.

The police guards established last Thursday night throughout Manhattan and the Bronx to protect public buildings, churches and private dwellings from anarchistic designs, were still on duty last night. Up to midnight the all-night sentries had met with no experience or trouble which required a report.

ROBBERS GET ONLY CHECKS.

Six Arrested in Elizabeth Suspected of Automobile Hold-ups.

Three robbers who early yesterday held up John Riley of 223 Congress Avenue, Jersey City, got two bank checks, one for $225 and the other for $125, and no cash. Riley, an engineer for the Public Service Gas Company, was halted in Howell Street, near Newark Avenue, Jersey City, when on his way home.

An automobile said to have been traveling at a high rate of speed was halted by policemen at Westfield Avenue and North Broad Street, Elizabeth. Five men were arrested after one of them, according to the police, attempted to draw a revolver. The prisoners were Joseph Messinam, 408 Sixth Street, Southwest, Washington, D. C.; Reno Caruso, 25 Boyden Street, Newark; Louis D. Rose, 223 Academy Street, Newark; Yale Sagor, 110 North Third Street, Paterson, and George H. Wintner of the Hotel Logan, Washington. They were locked up on suspicion that they might know something about the many Jersey automobile holdups.

ADMITS SHE'S BANDIT, CHICAGO POLICE SAY

Woman Quoted as Admitting Aiding Invalid Husband as Lure.

CHICAGO, Jan. 17.—Mrs. Cleopatra Hurtzman, 23, who until two months ago had spent her life helping run a farm near Wichita Falls, Texas, tonight was quoted by the police as confessing that she was the woman bandit who had played the leading part in fifty hold-ups in sixty days, many of them in the daytime, and who had been sought for several weeks.

"A smile or a tear were my chief weapons," she was quoted as saying, "but I also carried a little pearl-handled revolver for emergency."

Mrs. Hurtzman married Kurt Hurtzman two months ago, and when his health failed they decided to become bandits.

"I acted as a lure, strolling along the street, and when I met a prosperous-looking person I told him I was lost and wanted to find a certain address—the number of the room we had taken. When he explained that it was only a few doors distant, I brought forth a smile, and generally he would volunteer to accompany me," Mrs. Hurtzman said.

"When the number was reached, I either persuaded him to enter with me or brought forth the pistol. It was very simple. Sometimes we held up five or six persons in a day. It made me wonder why I spent twenty-three years on a farm, it was so easy."

HELD AS "MASTER" BANDIT.

Son of Wealthy Dallas Citizen Accused of $2,250,000 Robbery.

DALLAS, Texas, Jan. 17.—Albert Rowan, son of C. T. Rowan, wealthy Dallas business man, was arrested today charged with robbing the Jackson Street sub-post office here on Friday. Police had been searching for Rowan, who was designated in a confession by W. S. Scrivner, one of the six robbers, as the "master mind" who planned and directed the robbery.

Rowan, accompanied by an attorney, surrendered at Police Headquarters. He told officers he was innocent of any connection with the robbery, in which two postal clerks and a negro porter were shot. Approximately $2,250,000 in mutilated Liberty bonds and some tenderable currency were stolen, but all except about $3,500 was recovered.

In an automobile smashup near Fort Worth, Texas, thirty miles west of here, soon after the robbery, one of the robbers was killed and Scrivner was pinned under the motor car and arrested by Fort Worth officers. Scrivner confessed and led officers to the cache where most of the stolen bonds and money was recovered.

ROB WOMAN OF $30,000.

Three Bandits, Posing as Policemen, Hold Up Her Car on Chicago Street.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Jan. 17.—Mrs. Sigmund G. Livingston, wife on an attorney, was robbed of more than $30,000 in valuables shortly after 6 o'clock tonight by three men who entered her electric coupe at Fifty-fifth Street and Cottage Grove Avenue. The men posed as policemen.

Mrs. Livingston was returning from a reception when the robbery occurred. The robbers obtained a diamond dinner ring worth $6,000, a string of pearls valued at $20,000, another ring worth $1,500, a $3,000 sable coat, $175 mesh bag and $75 in cash.

ROB SAFE DEPOSIT BOXES.

Ohio Band Gets $2,500 in Liberty Bonds and Thrift Stamps.

WARREN, Ohio, Jan. 17.—Liberty bonds and thrift stamps estimated in value at $25,000 were stolen by robbers who broke into the North Bloomfield Banking Company's office at North Bloomfield, 12 miles from here, last night and rifled forty-five out of fifty safety deposit boxes. They did not gain access to the safe. County Detective Gillen reported that there were four men in the band.

Before escaping the robbers cut all telephone wires entering the village. Bank officials informed the county authorities of the robbery over a railroad wire this morning.

Gag Cashier and Escape With $2,500

PAINESVILLE, Ohio, Jan. 17.—Two robbers this afternoon entered the West Mentor Building and Loan Company's bank at West Menter, eight miles west of here, bound and gagged the cashier, E. F. Sawyer, ransacked he place and escaped in an automobile with $2,500.

WILL HOLD UP ALL WILSON'S NOMINEES

Republicans Announce Decision Against a Senate Executive Session.

LIGGETT MAY BE EXCEPTED

But Nominations of Thousands of Others Are Doomed for This Session of Congress.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—The first formal acknowledgment that the Republican Senators had decided to prevent the confirmation of thousands of pending nominations for office sent in by President Wilson was made in the Senate today. The agreement among the Republicans provides that no executive session shall be held before the end of the present Congress on March 4, the day that Mr. Harding will become President. This means that no opportunity for moving the confirmation of any nomination will be presented.

Senator Townsend of Michigan, Chairman of the Committee on Post Offices and Post Roads, made the announcement. Although the Democrats knew that there was to be a wholesale holding of nominations made by President Wilson, they were surprised at the comprehensiveness of the Republican plan.

The Senate recently confirmed the nomination of Senator John F. Nugent of Idaho, Democrat, to be a member of the Federal Trade Commission, but this was in accordance with the customary courtesy of the Senate toward one of its own members.

The debate made it evident that, if Congress passed a bill creating the rank of Lieutenant General, the Senate would be inclined to confirm the nomination of Major Gen. Hunter Liggett for that office, but that no other nomination made by President Wilson for any place in the army or for any civil office would be acted upon.

Senator Fletcher of Florida started the debate that elicited Senator Townsend's announcement of the Republican policy. He offered a resolution calling for information as to the number of nominations of former service men and the widows of service men for postmasterships that had not been acted upon by the Senate. Senator Townsend objected to the consideration of the resolution.

"There will be no executive session at this session," he said, "and only through executive sessions can these nominations go to the Post Office Committee."

Senator Wadsworth of New York, Chairman of the Committee on Military Affairs, who had introduced a bill to create the rank of Lieutenant General with three numbers in the grade, with the intention of having Major Gen. March, the Chief of the General Staff, and Major Gens. Liggett and Bullard, who commanded armies in France, promoted to these places, appealed to the Senate to do something for General Liggett, who, he said, was the only general officer who had commanded troops in action in France who before retirement had not received higher rank. General Liggett, he said, went to France as a Major General and was still a Major General.

Senator Lodge, the Republican leader of the Senate, expressed thorough sympathy with the legislation in behalf of General Liggett, but said that he was obliged to object to including Generals March and Bullard. The nominations of officers pending in the Senate deserved the closest scrutiny, he remarked, and he would object to action in behalf of any officer except General Liggett.

"I do not desire at this time," said Mr. Lodge, "to enter into criticism as to the way rewards and punishments have been distributed under the present Administration, and by this I include the staff. I think it will require careful consideration before we accede. This is the Wadsworth bill) provides for three Lieutenant Generals, and I wish to say it must be amended so as to include only the officer under consideration (General Liggett). If this is not done I shall be compelled to object."

SMITH ACCUSER NOT GUILTY.

Jury Frees Goldman, on Trial for Perjury Against Swann's Assistant.

The jury before Supreme Court Justice Weeks which has been hearing the trial of Jacob Goldman for perjury returned a verdict of not guilty last night. The jurors returned to the box to hear extracts from the minutes of the trial of ex-Deputy Police Commissioner Porter. Goldman was indicted by the Extraordinary Grand Jury for giving false testimony in accusing Assistant District Attorney James E. Smith of trying to induce Goldman to perjure himself, and of accepting money to permit an east side stuss game to run.

CALLS HYLAN POLICE BOSS.

Ex-Deputy Lord Says Enright Goes to City Hall Too Often.

Mayor Hylan was declared to be the real boss of the Police Department and Commissioner Enright merely its nominal head, by Frank Lord, a former Deputy Police Commissioner in the administration of Arthur Woods, in a discussion of police conditions last night at a meeting of the Seventh District Republican Club, Broadway and Eightieth Street.

"Commissioner Enright runs down to the City Hall too often, and the head of the police who goes to the City Hall cannot be a good Commissioner," Mr. Lord asserted. "I read in the newspapers of conferences between him and the Mayor. The head of the Police Department should be supreme over the force and its activities. He should stay on duty in his office in the police building and not go south of Canal Street once in six months."

Mr. Lord, who was once in charge of the Detective Bureau, contended that the breaking up of the special squads organized by Commissioner Woods had shown an important defect in the present administration when suddenly called upon to meet an emergency.

"Hurriedly some of these special squads were reorganized, but with only about 10 per cent of the efficiency effected under Woods," he said. "It is not the uniformed force but the detective divisions and squads to which the public must look to for protection, for crime preventions and the detection of criminals.

"But the public cannot get good service until the best trained and capable detectives are deservedly recognized and promoted on their merits. I personally believe that most of the force, both uniformed men and detectives, want to perform their duty. The trouble is that they are retarded and handicapped by inefficient supervision."

RAIL ADMINISTRATION LOSES

Supreme Court Won't Review Adverse Decisions in Accident Cases.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—The Supreme Court refused today to review a judgment of the Supreme Court of California holding that the United States Railroad Administration was not immune from damage suits arising from the operation of a common carrier in that State.

Suit was brought against the then Director General, W. G. McAdoo, by the California Industrial Accident Commission on behalf of the heirs of Angelo Brizzolara, who was fatally injured while repairing a switch engine. The commission held he was not engaged in interstate commerce and therefore "both employer and employe were subject to the jurisdiction of the commission."

An award of $4,950 against the railroad administration was confirmed by the State courts. The Government appealed on the ground that the administration was in fact engaged in interstate commerce and was immune under the Federal Employes' Liability act from legal causes of this nature.

Lower court decrees awarding $11,000 damages to Harvey K. Keyser, an engineer employed in the South Bethlehem, Pa., yards by the United States Railroad Administration, will stand as a result of the refusal of the Supreme Court to review the case. Keyser lost a leg in an accident and brought suit against Walker D. Hines, former Director General of Railroads, as "agent" under the transportation act.

The Court also refused to review the appeal brought by the Director General from a decision of Pennsylvania courts awarding $12,000 to the heirs of Burd Templin, a brakeman, who was killed in a railroad accident at Reading, Pa., Nov. 27, 1918.

The Court declined to order the release of the British steamer Gleneden, seized in New York harbor in connection with a libel suit for $400,000 growing out of the collision between it and an Italian vessel in European waters on Nov. 19, 1919.

WILL CALL SESSION FOR TARIFF IN APRIL

Harding Is Against Re-enacting Payne Law, So a Temporary Measure Is Likely.

FRAMERS FACE PROBLEMS

Export Needs and Exchange Offer Difficulties—Emergency Bill Reaches Senate.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—President-elect Harding is opposed to the special session of Congress re-enacting the Payne-Aldrich tariff as a temporary measure. Chairman Fordney of the Ways and Means Committee told members of the committee who are considering a permanent tariff bill that Mr. Harding intended to call the special session on April 4, and wanted to know whether the Ways and Means Committee would be able to report a tariff bill then.

In conversations with members of Congress President-elect Harding has emphasized the point that the country would not stand for the Payne-Aldrich tariff and that the measure would not now meet present conditions. His opinion is shared by Senator Penrose and Representative Longworth, who hold that the party should seek to write a tariff that would give proper consideration to economic conditions here and abroad.

The Republican leaders find themselves facing a great problem in dealing with the demand for protection, with a knowledge that a high tariff will cause retaliatory action by foreign countries. The revenue framers concede that the tariff must contain reciprocity features for the Allies, or it will fail to maintain foreign trade.

The difference in exchange makes it very difficult to work out schedules that will be of permanent value. If the difference of exchange were added to the tariff rates, it is pointed out, the total impost would be so heavy as to build a trade wall around the United States.

Another problem is that the Republicans are called upon to replace a Democratic tariff by a Republican measure at a time when many industries, especially the automobile trade, are asking lower rates than those which are levied in the Underwood tariff. The steel industry is not too eager to have the tariff rates changed until industrial conditions become stable abroad, lest its trade with foreign countries be curtailed.

Mr. Penrose, as Chairman of the Finance Committee, formally reported today the emergency tariff to the Senate, loaded down with many amendments. While he does not favor the measure and will do nothing to delay its passage when he calls it up next week, he believes that it may be caught in the legislative jam and thus killed. The best opinion in the Senate is that the bill will never reach the President.

MARION, Ohio, Jan. 17.—Reports from Washington that Mr. Harding had decided to call a special session of Congress on April 4 were denied today by the President-elect. No date has been fixed, he said, adding that this was a matter to be determined after conferences with Congressional leaders. It is generally accepted here that Congress will be called about the first of April.

BARNES URGES CAUTION.

Wants Exchange Regulation to Wait Thorough Investigation.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—Several proponents of bills to regulate "futures" on exchanges, which are now under consideration by the House Agriculture Committee, said today that they did not expect the enactment of legislation at this session, principally because of lack of time. They added, however, that they expected the hearings, now being held, to result in a basis being laid for legislation at the next session.

Two witnesses are yet to be heard by the committee before the hearings come to a close. Herbert Hoover will appear on Thursday and Clifford Torne, representing the American Farm Bureau Federation, will be heard next week.

Julius H. Barnes, former head of the United States Grain Corporation, urged at today's hearing that the proposed measures be not enacted until a national commission of men, familiar with the subject could be appointed to investigate the situation. Exchanges were taking every means of eliminating the "manipulation" of markets, he added.

Wheat growers did not bear all the shrinkage in value of their crop last year, he asserted. It fell in large measure, he said, on millers, merchants and dealers who had bought it. 75 per cent. being marketed at $46,000,000 over the prices received for the same proportion of the preceding year's production.

GUILTY DOG SPARED.

WINCHESTER, Ky., Jan. 17.—"Old King," a foxhound owned by Frank Jones, was convicted of sheep slaughter by County Judge W. Lee Evans today after days of deliberation. Conviction for this offense usually means death, but Judge Evans promised to withhold sentence if Jones would send the dog away from the county. Two puppy sons of the hound were exonerated.

"Old King" has for years been an inseparable companion of Jones, and the old man has not said whether he can bear to kill the foxhound or send him to one of the numerous persons in various States who have asked that he be given to them.

The trial which decided the fate of the hound and his sons created interest which compared with celebrated cases in this section, in which men have been defendants.

AUTHER IS HELD IN JAIL.

He Pleads Not Guilty on Larceny Charge, but Is Unable to Give Bail.

MADISON, Wis., Jan. 17.—Pierre P. Auther, who two weeks ago eloped with the wife of Philip Franzen of Madison pleaded not guilty to a charge of grand larceny preferred by Franzen. He was arraigned in the Superior Court here and was returned to jail when he was unable to furnish $1,000 bail. Preliminary hearing was set for Thursday.

Franzen charged he was forced to give Auther $100 to defray "honeymoon" expenses. Neither Franzen nor his wife was present at the hearing. Auther was brought here Sunday following his arrest in Chicago.

Tax Ruling for Unmarried Veterans.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—Unmarried war veterans must return to the Government as income tax 4 per cent. of any disability payments they receive in excess of $1,000 a year. The Treasury Department ruled today that it could not under the law exempt such ex-service men although those still in the service are required to pay only on amounts in excess of $3,500 a year. War risk insurance payments, however, are not taxable.

CONGRESS MAKES THE ARMY 175,000

some foreign power," said Senator Borah, "I would abide by his decision. But the Senator from New York says the 175,000 men are needed for police duty and that is a subject on which I have my own opinion. I am unable to vote for any provision for an army of that size to keep the peace in the United States."

Senator Borah cited figures to show that appropriations for the military services have formed the greater part of national expenditures for many years past.

"This is a more deplorable record than Germany ever had; it is even worse than that of the Soviet Government of Russia," added Senator Borah.

On Friday Senators Curtis and Colt voted for an army of 150,000 men. The increased vote for the larger army was due to the presence or Senators who were absent on Friday.

Defends Secretary Baker.

In the House Representative Dent, former Chairman of the Military Affairs Committee, called attention to his efforts a year ago to hold the size of the army to 185,000, and pointed to the large vote in opposition on several amendments he offered to the bill. This action on the part of the House to limit the size of the army, he asserted, was sufficient evidence to the Secretary of War to justify his recruiting up to the authorized strength of 280,000.

Representative Kahn, who opened the debate, said that never before in the history of Congress had a Secretary of War attempted to recruit the army up to its authorized strength when Congress appropriated only for an army below the authorized strength.

have recently conferred with him at Marion regarding the questions of peace and disarmament. While it is not yet possible to indicate what constitutes the full program of Mr. Harding, as so far tentatively evolved, respecting the making of peace with Germany, his attitude toward the League of Nations and the Versailles Treaty, it can be stated that his plans for inviting the nations to an international conference to consider disarmament and the judicial tribunal project are intended as a very important part of his contemplated efforts in favor of peace and disarmament as a possible substitute for the League of Nations project as rejected by the Senate.

It has been intimated several times in the last fortnight that Mr. Harding would probably issue a call for an international conference, to consider plans for limitations of armaments, somewhat similar to the disarmament conference which President Wilson was authorized to call by the Naval act of 1916.

It could not be learned tonight whether Ambassador Geddes was aware, before his departure for England, of the extent of Mr. Harding's purposes as hereto outlined; but there is reason to believe that he had an opportunity before leaving Washington to gain a fairly definite notion of the underlying elements of the present situation in this country with respect to the disarmament movement. Mr. Harding's contemplated plans, however, constitute the mainspring of the active consideration of the general problem of disarmament by the House Committee on Naval Affairs, of which Representative Thomas S. Butler of Pennsylvania is chairman.

The House Naval Committee has no authority to deal with the question of limitation of armaments, except indirectly, at the present time in connection with its consideration of plans for American naval increase. The elder statesmen of the navy, as the members of the General Board of the Navy are called, have asked that Congress make provision for rounding out the navy into a big fleet, larger than that of England, by constructing $107,000,000 worth of ships in addition to those already authorized. Secretary Daniels has not recommended that these new ships be begun, but the General Board's wish is that they should be authorized. General John J. Pershing and Henry White, who has had many years' experience in the American Embassy in London and who was also a member of the American peace delegation in Paris in 1919, will be the next important witnesses heard by the House Naval Committee. They have been invited to appear before the committee at 10:30 o'clock next Friday morning.

Paving the Way for Harding's Call.

It is no secret in well-informed circles that the purpose of hearing these witnesses is not only to obtain the latest information, but to pave the way for Mr. Harding's call for an international convention. Mr. Harding's plans, as so far elaborated, do not go beyond inviting the nations to participate. If these plans fail, it is asserted tonight, it will be because the nations of the world are not willing to accept the invitations he will tender.

Influential members of the Naval Committees insist that if the nations of the world will not even consent to participate in such a conference, it would be useless to give further immediate consideration to the limitation of armaments. Viewed in this aspect, the Harding call for such a conference will be in the nature of an application of the "acid test" to the sincerity of foreign professions of willingness to reduce armaments. Mr. Harding, it is understood, and leaders in Congress who stand ready to support his movement with the necessary appropriations to pay for the conference, are proceeding on the assumption that the great powers of Europe will heed such a call.

Those who have talked with Mr. Harding are convinced that he sincerely wants the United States to take the initiative in the matter of testing the sentiment of the nations of Europe and Asia toward armaments. It is understood they consider it quite important, also, that the conference, should the nations accept Mr. Harding's invitation, be held in this country, and that the call will designate Washington as the place for the gathering.

It will cost $300,000,000 to complete the new vessels already authorized by Congress for the American Navy, and, if the conference call falls and the recommendation of the General Board for additional vessels is approved, these will cost $107,000,000 more.

The House Naval Committee is in possession of information indicating that England is not going ahead with the construction of big warships at this time. The committee, however, has data indicating that, without building more ships, England at the present time has 200,000 more tons of effective big ships than has the United States. At the same time this Government has information that England is building submarines which will each mount a thirteen-inch gun, and that enormous battle cruisers are being built in British yards. The best information, however, is that these vessels are not being built for England, but that they are intended for the Japanese navy. Japan is also building enormous battle cruisers on her own account, according to this Government's information.

LONDON SEES NO RIFT IN DISARMAMENT LUTE

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Jan. 17.—Considerable surprise is expressed in official circles here that the trip of Sir Auckland Geddes to London should have caused a sensation in Washington. It is stated definitely that his trip was proposed by himself and that, although he will naturally discuss Anglo-American relations with the Prime Minister and the Foreign Secretary, no special agenda have been drawn up.

Sir Auckland, it is explained, like all Ambassadors after they have been away for a few months, begins to feel that he is getting out of touch with his home Government and that, on the other hand, he has accumulated valuable information and impressions which he wishes to pass on personally; so he suggested coming over. Any one can draw up a list of the subjects he is likely to want to talk about—the League of Nations, oil, disarmament and so on—and it is safe to assume that he will take them all up; but it is emphatically declared absurd to imagine that anything like an unpleasant divergence of views has arisen between the two Governments over any of them.

The Daily News, referring to American suspicions of Great Britain's sincerity in the matter of disarmament, says:

"We are in no sense called on to deflect our normal policy to meet other people's unreasonable suspicions. On the other hand, we are not justified, particularly in a matter of so much importance as a naval understanding, in letting mischief grow through the prevalence of false impressions we can easily dissipate, and at the present moment there is one thing that very much needs saying, preferably by the Prime Minister himself—that is, that if the United States is bent on having the biggest navy in the world and considers she has the money to lavish on it, Britain will strain no nerve to rob her of her primacy.

"Our naval policy is based on provision against all reasonable contingencies. War with America is not a reasonable contingency. If it were, we should be reversing our policy of a hundred years and fortifying the American-Canadian frontier. If we can do without rival forts there, we can do without rival fleets in the Atlantic or Pacific."

LONDON, Jan. 17.—The visit of Sir Auckland Geddes, British Ambassador to the United States, to London is probably accounted for by the importance of a full exchange of views between Sir Auckland and the Government, in anticipation of the inauguration of the new Administration in Washington, says The Pall Mall Gazette today. The newspaper thinks the British Government desires the best information and advice of its representative on contingencies which are regarded as possible under the new President.

The Gazette points out that the action of the United States must be of the highest importance for Europe under several headings, instancing the tariff policy, treatment of the allied debt, the attitude of the United States in the future on armaments and its disposition toward the League of Nations.

"In all these matters we may be on the verge of diplomatic exchanges that will go to mold history," the newspaper says, "and the British Government and its Ambassador are wise in leaving no possibility unexplored against the time when Mr. Harding unfolds the contents of his mental portmanteau."

LOWDEN AND HAYS CALL ON HARDING

Ex-Governor Likely to Get Diplomatic Post — Chairman Denies Row With Daugherty

NOT AFTER OFFICE, HE SAYS

President-elect and Wife Slip Away Quietly to Cleveland on Some Personal Errands.

Special to The New York Times.

MARION, Ohio, Jan. 17. — Cabinet problems and Mexican affairs were gone over this morning by Mr. Harding before leaving for Cleveland to attend to some personal matters. He will return tomorrow morning.

Walter S. Dickey of Kansas City, former State Chairman for Missouri, who has been suggested by his friends for Secretary of Commerce or Interior, had a short talk with the President-elect, giving him an account of two interviews he had with President Obregon during his visit to Mexico City at the time of the new Mexican President's inauguration. Obregon expressed himself to Mr. Dickey as desirous of immediate recognition.

Will H. Hays, Chairman of the National Committee, had a long conference with Mr. Harding that was continued on the train to Cleveland. The President-elect and Mr. Hays were joined on the way by Charles D. Hilles of New York.

Mr. Hays was plainly disturbed over rumors that the President-elect was encountering opposition to the appointment of political managers to the Cabinet. The Chairman did not discuss the question of his being selected as Postmaster General, but denounced as "made out of whole cloth" reports that he had "hastened to Marion to patch up his political fences."

"I came to Marion at the request of Mr. Harding to go over several important matters with him," Mr. Hays went on. "I am not here seeking public office nor am I here to adjust any altercations over Cabinet appointments, for, as far as I know, there are none."

He denied that there was any friction between himself and Harry M. Daugherty, saying emphatically that he was in accord with Mr. Daugherty on virtually all political matters. This served to strengthen the general impression here that Hays and Daugherty favored the aspirations of each other for Cabinet appointment.

Ex-Governor Frank O. Lowden of Illinois had a short talk with the President-elect. The nature of the conference was not told, but it is known that the President-elect wishes to give his convention opponent an appointment, and the impression is that with another Illinois man, Charles G. Dawes, apparently slated for the Cabinet, Mr. Lowden will receive the offer of a diplomatic post.

MARION, Ohio, Jan. 17 (Associated Press).—Final plans for the ceremony on the east portico of the Capitol on March 4 were virtually approved today as the result of a conference between the President-elect and Elliott Woods, superintendent of the Capitol Building and grounds.

Mr. Woods sought the President-elect's consent to a plan for the erection of a small platform. It was agreed that the platform would be built, but it would be merely a small affair, designed to assist the President-elect in making himself heard.

Avoid Observation in Cleveland.

CLEVELAND, Jan. 17. President-elect Harding slipped into Cleveland today on personal business and succeeded in making his way about the downtown section for several hours unrecognized by street crowds.

Accompanied by Mrs. Harding, he made the trip from Marion in an ordinary parlor car, attached to a regular train. So carefully had they laid their plans to escape attention that they left the railroad station as quietly as ordinary travelers, and tonight some of their closest friends here had not learned of their presence.

Mr. and Mrs. Harding reached Cleveland late in the afternoon and were driven downtown in a closed Secret Service automobile. After a circuit of several shops and offices they went to a hotel where they dined privately and remained overnight.

Hardings Won't Attend Charity Ball

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17. — President-elect and Mrs. Harding have declined an invitation to attend a charity ball to be held March 4 as a substitute for the discarded inaugural ball. The committee in charge announced today that Mr. Harding had replied that he could not with propriety attend a ball of any sort during the early days of the administration. He had already accepted invitations to an inaugural ball. The charity ball plan will not be abandoned, however.

RECTOR SAYS BISHOP IS JUST A 'DECORATION'

'We Must Have Some One to Say Grace at Banquets,' Dr. Reiland Asserts.

"Why is a Bishop?" asked Dr. Karl Reiland, rector of St. George's Episcopal Church, in Stuyvesant Square, yesterday afternoon at a meeting of the New York Lutheran Ministers' Association in the Hotel Astor, to which ministers of other Protestant denominations had been invited to discuss church unity. Then he hastened to answer his own question. "In the Episcopal Church a Bishop is an interesting decoration," he said. "We must have some one to go around and say grace at banquets."

While his audience of ministers chuckled, Dr. Reiland continued to point out what he considered some of the faults of his own Church. After deploring the ecclesiastical differences of the Church, which he called economically costly and spiritually degenerate, and which he said were of human origin, he criticised the attitude of the Episcopal Church toward church unity.

"In your efforts to establish church unity," Dr. Reiland told his fellow ministers, "I hope that none of you will ask for ordination in the Episcopal Church. You should demand an equitable recognition of what you have that is just as good as what the Episcopal Church has to offer. The Lambeth Conference brought about no change in the unyielding attitude of the Episcopal Church toward church unity. Despite the protestations of humility and the recognition of truth in other denominations made by that conference, the Church still maintains the attitude of the lion toward uniting with other denominations, 'Come to me and I will eat you up.'"

Dr. Charles E. Jefferson, pastor of the Broadway Congregational Tabernacle, said that he thought Dr. Reiland had spoken too harshly of the Lambeth Conference. "You must remember," he said, "that this conference was made up of more than 200 Bishops." While the conference had not brought about great concessions on the part of the Episcopal Church, he thought that it had made a small but encouraging start in that direction.

Dr. A. S. Hardy, pastor of Our Saviour's Church presided. Among those who spoke were Luther B. Wilson, Bishop of the Methodist Church of New York; the Rev. Dr. F. H. Knubel and the Rev. David J. Burrell.

REFUSE TO ANSWER GRANT.

Candidates for Bishop Decline to Comment on Sermon.

None of the three local rectors who are to be nominated for Bishop of New York to succeed the late Bishop Burch would comment yesterday on the sermon preached Sunday morning by the Rev. Dr. Percy Stickney Grant, in which he expressed the belief that no one not born in America should be elected Bishop, and calling on the candidates to state their platforms.

"I do not wish to say anything whatsoever," said the Rev. Dr. William T. Manning, rector of Trinity Church, who was born in Northampton, England.

"I have nothing to say," said the Rev. Dr. Charles L. Slattery, rector of Grace Church.

"I have no comment to make on Dr. Grant's utterances," said the Rev. Dr. Ernest M. Stires, rector of St. Thomas's Church.

BOYDEN SPURNS PARIS POST

Does Not Believe Ambassador Should Rely on Social Prestige.

Copyright, 1921, by The Chicago Tribune Co.

PARIS, Jan. 17.—To Roland W. Boyden, American representative on the Reparations Commission, has been offered the post of Ambassador to France. He has declined the honor, because he is unwilling to be forced to rent a palace and to entertain expensively, not because he cannot afford it but because he believes that the American Ambassador should retain American ideas and be free to represent the United States fittingly and diplomatically and not merely socially.

Mr. Boyden is the senior member of a Boston law firm and is reputed to be worth $10,000,000. The American colony is hopeful that he will reconsider and accept the Ambassadorship. A certain section of the French Government criticised Mr. Boyden's speech at the Brussels Finance Conference when he told the Allies that the United States would never consent to cancel war debts and loans and intended to end banking between Governments and revert to the pre-war method of banking between firms.

Colonel E. J. Logan, who is continuing Herbert Hoover's work in Europe, and who accompanied Senator McCormick on his tour, is also reported to be under consideration for the Paris post.

FLIGHT TO CANADA HAD FULL SANCTION

Rockaway Air Station Commandant Authorized Trip "On a Suitable Day."

WAS TO BE TRAINING CRUISE

Naval Court Now Ready to Hear Stories of the Three Lost Aviators.

The naval court of inquiry appointed by Secretary Daniels to investigate the flight and loss of the "lost" balloon A-3398 convened yesterday at the Rockaway Air Station. It finished virtually all of the preliminary investigation yesterday, and is ready today to hear the testimony of the three men who were in the balloon, Lieutenant A. L. Kloor Jr., commander of the craft; and Lieutenants Walter Hinton and Stephen A. Farrell, seaplane pilots at the station.

Questions of the authorization of the flight, air conditions preceding the start of the journey on Dec. 13, equipment of the balloon and passengers and efforts of officers at the station to find the balloon when it disappeared on the night of Dec. 13 were taken up yesterday. Information on these subjects, as well as the conduct of the men while they were lost in the Canadian woods for four days and the flight of Hinton and Farrell at Matice, will be sought today from the three witnesses.

Lieutenant Farrell was ill when he arrived at the Air Station yesterday morning and remained in his quarters all day. Officers of the court of inquiry believe that he will be able to testify today.

Commander Damon E. Cummings, commander of the air station, told the court that he had signed the preliminary orders for the flight "on a suitable day." A first order authorized Lieutenant Kloor to prepare for a practice trip and the second authorized Lieutenants Farrell and Hinton to go along.

The commandant said that he was absent from the station on leave for a few days beginning on Dec. 12 and that, while he had directed that the flight might begin on a "suitable day," he left no verbal orders about the start of this journey. He said that Lieut. Commander Archibald H. Douglas, executive officer, was in command during Commander Cummings's absence.

Commander Cummings read into the record many of the reports on the balloon, the orders, as well as general orders of the Navy Department governing flying activities. He said that the purpose of the flight was to train the balloon officer as well as the seaplane pilots and that Winter was the best time for the flights because the hydrogen in the balloon's envelope had better expansion in cold weather.

Lieutenant Harold T. Stevens, aerological officer at the station, told the court how he had prepared data on wind and air currents for the use of the aeronauts on the morning of their start and how he had prepared maps later in forming a theory as to the probable course of the balloon after it disappeared.

The flag of Rear Admiral George W. Kline was flown at the Air Station yesterday after he arrived to preside at the court of inquiry. His associates are Captain Henry H. Hough and Lieutenant Commander Joseph P. Norfleet. The Judge Advocate is Lieutenant Commander Alexander McGlasson.

FORD MEN GET BONUSES.

Thousands Receive from $100 to $125 Each of $7,000,000 Total.

Special to The New York Times.

DETROIT, Mich., Jan. 17.—Thousands of Ford workers stood in line today at the Highland Park plant of the Ford Motor Car Company to receive 1920 bonuses amounting to $7,000,000. Long before 8 o'clock, when distribution began, the line had formed. The employes were patient, despite the bitter cold. Most of them were chiefly concerned with the amount they were to receive and what they would buy with it. A score of policemen and special agents kept the men in line. Beside the workmen stood their wives and mothers, chatting excitedly. Each man drew between $100 and $125 in cash.

A special detail of police carried approximately $250,000 in cash in leather trunks from Highland State Bank to the Ford plant, across the street. Two men carried the trunks while three others acted as guards.

Nearly 2,000 men received their bonus at the Highland Park plant today. About half this number were paid at the River Rouge plant. Workmen at both plants will be called by badge numbers from day to day until the bonus is paid.

clared that Lieutenant Langdon had fired the first shot. At the Court of Inquiry the sentry revised this statement, and declared that Lieutenant Langdon remained on the sidewalk but that he was forced to pursue Lieutenant Langdon and that Lieutenant Langdon fired first.

"The final story, and the full admission of the sentry, made after a thorough interrogation by the Japanese board of investigation and court of inquiry, was that the sentry left his post, ran across the street, three times called out 'Halt,' and that Lieutenant Langdon did not halt. The sentry said that he then took position three paces in front of Lieutenant Langdon with his rifle held at the position 'charge bayonet.' Lieutenant Langdon then stopped, according to the sentry's story, and shifted his electric pocket flash lamp to his left hand, groping with his right hand into the pocket of his overcoat.

"The sentry asserted that he himself took the position 'for action,' and queried Lieutenant Langdon with the words, 'Russian or American?' The sentry admitted that he was very excited. He protested that he did not intend to shoot Lieutenant Langdon, but that his purpose was to seize Lieutenant Langdon's electric flash lamp and compel him to accompany him to the guard in order that he might ascertain who the Lieutenant was.

"He declared that he then discharged his rifle accidentally. He added that after he had discharged his rifle by accident, and wounded Lieutenant Langdon in the breast, Lieutenant Langdon fired two or three revolver shots at him.

"All the high Japanese Army and Navy officers have officially visited the Albany to express their regret and sorrow at the occurrence, and have offered the commander of the Albany every assistance. The Japanese Minister of War has also telegraphed his condolences.

"Memorial services for Lieutenant Langdon are to be held tomorrow, Tuesday, Jan. 18, at the Young Men's Christian Association building in Vladivostok."

Testimony Now in Agreement.

Admiral Albert Gleaves, Commander-in-Chief of the Asiatic Fleet, sent this dispatch to the Navy Department today:

"Report of Japanese court of inquiry has been received by Albany. Court recommends trial by court-martial for Japanes sentry who shot Langdon. The sentry so changed his testimony during the court of inquiry that his testimony and Langdon's ante-mortem statement practically coincide."

Admiral Gleaves also forwarded the following dispatch received by him from Captain L. C. Richardson, commanding the Albany:

"Tomorrow afternoon General Oi will call officially to deliver radio which, in substance, will be as follows:

"'To Admiral Gleaves: I wish to express my deep regret and condolence at the death of Lieutenant Langdon, U. S. N., which was caused by a Japanese sentry. In a spirit of fairness and good-will, I will make every effort to arrive at a satisfactory settlement of the affair, after a fair and open investigation. GENERAL OI.'"

LANGDON'S WIFE A SUICIDE.

Shoots Herself When Told of His Death—Was Widow of Russian.

VLADIVOSTOK, Jan. 17.—Lieutenant Langdon's wife, whom he married under the Russian common law, committed suicide by shooting when informed of Langdon's death.

She was the widow of a Russian officer who had been killed by the Bolsheviki.

BOSTON, Jan. 17.—William C. Langdon, father of Lieutenant Warren H. Langdon, U. S. N., who was killed by a Japanese sentry at Vladivostok, scouted today the report that his Russian wife had committed suicide after his death. It was absurd, he said.

"My son was not married," he declared. "Of that I am confident. He was a man who respected all women, yet had declared positively he would never marry. I am sure he left no wife."

Mr. Langdon is a merchant in the Jamaica Plain district here, where his son made his home when ashore.

LINK SIBERIA PROTEST WITH LANGDON CASE

Japanese Believe That Washington Note Reopens Question of Coast Domination.

TOKIO, Jan. 17 (Associated Press).—Government officials have not yet made public the text of the American note protesting against the shooting of Naval Lieutenant W. H. Langdon by a Japanese sentry at Vladivostok. Publicists, however, express the belief that Washington has not only asked for reparation, with guarantees removing a probability of similar incidents in future, but also has again pointed out to Japan the wisdom of reducing, if not withdrawing altogether, her troops from a country where she possesses no sovereign rights, but the littoral of which is dominated by her military power.

This would open the old, thorny question which Japan herself has been finding difficulty in settling. A division of opinion exists in government circles as to the Siberian problem, it is reported here. Leaders of the military party insist that Japanese troops should remain in Siberia, while the peace party is seeking means to abandon an adventure which, it is declared, is ruinously expensive and without hope of compensation.

The impression exists here that Japan will insist upon solving the question in her own way and her own time, if for no other reason than to assert the doctrine that she is paramount in the Far East.

The Hara Cabinet appears to retain its strength, and it is believed that it will survive the impending session of the Diet, at which relations between this country and America will be discussed.

All the leading Japanese newspapers have thus far refrained from comment upon the shooting of Lieutenant Langdon, and even of the more sensational section of the press the only opinion voiced is by the Yorodzu Niroku, which declares in today's issue that the Japanese sentry acted in accordance with his duty, and that the blame rested upon the American officer. The Japanese officials are open to criticism for their "apologetic attitude" to America, the newspaper insists, and their "subservient demeanor" is likely to cause interpellations in the Diet.

The Vladivostok correspondent of the British-owned Japanese Chronicle sends a tribute to the high character of Lieutenant Langdon, describing him as modest and unaggressive, a strict teetotaler with a kind of physical dread of alcohol and a non-smoker. The Lieutenant spent most of his evenings quietly with Russian friends in official circles, and was making rapid progress in learning the Russian language, the correspondent adds.

The correspondent of The Associated Press, who has just returned to Tokio from a visit to many of the larger cities of the Far East, found some uneasiness everywhere regarding relations between Japan and the United States. In well informed circles these misgivings appeared to be based more upon what was described as "Japan's resentment of any American policy calculated to curb Japanese expansion in Asia" than upon the California question. The latter problem, while touching Japan's national prestige and the interests of Japanese in America, is apparently not regarded with the same seriousness as the question of Japan's vital interests near Nippon.

"In diplomatic circles here the opinion prevails that the situation does not justify the pessimism noticeable outside the borders of the Japanese Empire. On the contrary, the view is taken that the attitudes of both the Tokio and Washington Governments are based on confidence that a solution for troublesome matters now in the foreground will be discovered. Japan's popular protests against California legislation appear to have been followed by an attitude of patience and restraint, cognizance being taken of the fact that America has encountered genuine difficulties in finding a solution for the triple problem of satisfying popular opinion on the Pacific slope, serving America's national interests and meeting Japan's desires.

Efforts of the American State Department, through Ambassador Roland S. Morris, have profoundly impressed the Japanese with the fairness of the United States. For this reason the killing of Lieutenant Langdon is genuinely regretted here because it is believed that it will have the effect of reopening the entire question of Japanese military occupation of Siberia, concerning which America has in the past sent several protests to Tokio.

SAID W.D.VANDERLIP SOUGHT A WAR BASE

New Version of Lenin Speech to Communists Quotes Him as Declaring This.

HOPED TO WIN RECOGNITION

Red Chief Says He Was Told Kamchatka Sale Would Help Soviet Here.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—The reputed object of the proposed Washington D. Vanderlip concession in Kamchatka was to provide the United States with a base in Asia "in view of an eventual war with Japan," Nicolai Lenin, the Bolshevist Premier, declared in his address to the members of the Communist Party of Moscow, according to diplomatic advices received here today. Several versions of the address have been published, but the one received today contains some new material.

Lenin was called upon to defend the concession policy of the Soviet Government. The advices state that this policy has caused a split in the Communist Party, some members seeing in it a capitulation from communist principles and a victory for foreign bourgeois capitalists. Lenin in the extract from his speech received is quoted as follows:

"The American Socialist Spargo, who is a ferocious enemy of the Bolsheviki, asserts in one of his books that our granting of concessions to foreigners proves the fate of communism. The same allegation is repeated by our own Mensheviki (moderate Social Democrats).

"Let us approach the question in a business-like manner. Who have failed, we or the European bourgeoisie? For the past three years these same bourgeoisie have called us usurpers and bandits and have sought to combat us by every means in their power. Now they are forced to admit that they have not destroyed us, and this alone is a victory for us.

"As for us, we never thought that we could destroy the world bourgeoisie by our own forces alone; we always maintained that we were only one link in the chain of world revolution. While this world revolution has not yet come about, we are not conquered.

"Now as to the concessions. We have a project for a concession in Kamchatka (Vanderlip concession) for ten years. There was here an American multi-millionaire who spoke very frankly about the objective of his proposition; that is, that America wants to obtain a base in Asia in view of an eventual war with Japan.

"This multi-millionaire told us that if we would sell Kamchatka to America he would guarantee such an enthusiasm on the part of the people of the United States that the American Government would be compelled to recognize the Soviet Government immediately. In case we should only lease it, the enthusiasm would be less. Now he has gone back to America to tell his people that Soviet Russia is not so bad as they thought.

"If we have been able to fight the world bourgeoisie up to the present time it has been because their forces have been disunited. Both the Brest-Litovsk and the Versailles peace treaties contributed to their disunion. Now a very acute enmity is growing between America and Japan. We are going to use this enmity in giving to America a lease on Kamchatka. The agreement is not yet signed, but in Japan they talk already with fury about this concession.

"Thus the concessions do not mean peace with the bourgeoisie, but the continuation of the war, only in a new form, which is more advantageous to us. Formerly war was carried on by the aid of tanks and cannon; now we will prosecute it on the economic front.

"The bourgeois capitalists will be compelled to submit to our dictat. Our workingmen will acquire technical skill from them and, in the event of war, and we must always be prepared for war with the bourgeoisie, we will get all their property on the basis of the wartime law of expropriation. Of course, they will endeavor to defraud us and to evade our laws, but for dealing with such situations we have very effective institutions, such as our extraordinary commissions, and we are sure we will defeat them."

ASKS US TO PAY LOAN TO WRANGEL

Mysterious Paris Statement Says He Has Washington Credit for $1,400,000.

By EDWIN L. JAMES.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Jan. 17.—The French Foreign Office's publicity department handed to American correspondents today a statement, evidently prepared by General Wrangel's agents here, setting forth that America owed Wrangel's fleet $1,400,000. The French officials said they accepted no responsibility for the statement.

Efforts to find out when and how America had contracted this indebtedness or promised this loan were unavailing. No Russian official could be found who seemed to know about it. The statement said:

"The French Treasury, not being able to continue any longer the cost of the upkeep of 135,000 Crimean refugees, handed over this heavy task Jan. 1 to the General Russian Aid Association, constituted in Paris for the purpose of remedying the extreme distress in which most of these refugees are. The association has addressed itself to the Governments of America and Belgium, as well as to the principal charitable associations of the world. It seeks to realize on the properties of the former Wrangel Government, and notably the credits which were put at its disposition by various Russian societies to aid in its charitable work.

"Among the credits, one which is of particular interest, is that which the Volunteer Russian Fleet possesses on the American State, which amount to $1,400,000. This Russian fleet, which is a private organization formed by the subscriptions of private individuals, is self-administered and uses its own ships, over which the Russian State has simple control without profits. It has promised to hand over to the association the total sum of the credit which it possesses on the American Government.

"In view of the generous action taken by the Administrative Council of the Volunteer Russian Fleet, it would be a great benefit if the American Government would consent to turn over at once the amount of its debt. If this sum were put quickly at the disposal of the Russian Aid Association the Government of the United States would thus effectively contribute to the generous task which has been undertaken."

MISS LEBAUDY'S BILLS HIGH.

Surrogate Allows Widow $2,000 a Month for Daughter's Upkeep.

Special to The New York Times.

MINEOLA, L. I., Jan. 17.—Surrogate Howell of Nassau County signed an order today directing the administrators of the estate of Jacques Lebaudy to pay to his widow $2,000 a month from Jan. 11, 1919, the date of Lebaudy's death, to Dec. 31 of this year for the proper maintenance of the couple's sixteen-year-old daughter, Jacqueline. Extraordinary expense, totalling $12,000, including such items as the purchase of an automobile, also was allowed. Lebaudy's estate has not been settled. At the time his widow killed him in their home, Phoenix Lodge, Westbury, it was estimated to total $4,000,000.

TELLS BANKERS 1921 MERITS OPTIMISM

Guaranty Trust Head Thinks Normal Business and Easy Money Will Return.

Charles H. Sabin, President of the Guaranty Trust Company, and W. P. G. Harding, Governor of the Federal Reserve Board, predicted a new period of "conservative optimism, renewed courage and restored confidence" during the current year in addresses last night before "Group Eight" of the New York State Bankers' Association, which includes the city banking institutions, at its annual dinner at the Waldorf.

Mr. Sabin said that there was every assurance of "a return to normal business conditions, stabilized prices, easier money and larger business opportunities," thanks to the lessons learned in 1920. "The last twelve months," he said, "despite all their trials, were rich in experience which should be capitalized in the current year and for many years to come. While it has ironically been observed that all we learn from history is that we never learn from history, it is to be hoped that American business interests will profit by the lessons of 1920 and ultimately transcribe them on the right side of the ledger.

"Surely 1920 impressed upon all of us the folly of extravagance in personal, business and governmental affairs. We should have learned as never before the folly of unjustifiable repudiation of contracts, of unsound and uneconomic taxation, of Government participation in essentially private business, of permitting raids upon the Treasury for the benefit of any special interests—and, above all, for the purpose of sustaining the prices of any commodities above their market level through keeping taxes high.

"The experiences which 1920 afforded in public finances should have taught our legislators that a taxing system based on temporary conditions cannot justly be continued when those conditions have passed. An excess profits tax, for instance, will be adequately productive only so long as there are sufficient excess profits to tax. France is learning that a tax which is dependent largely on the continuance of high prices is unscientific, for rational attempts toward a resumption of normal conditions and lower prices automatically act as checks on revenues."

The return of the railroads to private management; the lesson learned by labor that the alternative to working for wages warranted by present conditions is unemployment, and the necessity of aiding Europe in restoring normal production were referred to by Mr. Sabin.

"There are problems before us to which the banking community must give its best thought. Every period of money strain brings forth a fresh crop of panaceas, for the most part unsound. We must guard against such proposals as a tax upon undivided profits and bank deposits and restrictive forms of regulation.

"Such perverted thinking and loose talking as have ruined Russia are now seeking to injure our private and public institutions. They are responsible for the false and absurd rumors circulated about solvent firms and sound financial institutions; they must be stamped out."

Mr. Harding said that he did not believe that America could become normal unless the process of working back to normal in Europe had proceeded to a point where assurance would be given that it would be completed.

"The War Finance Corporation cannot alone meet the requirements," he said. "Europe is in no position to pay cash for goods. She must have credit."

LIVING COSTS NOW 101% ABOVE 1914

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—An analysis of the rise and fall of living costs since 1914, made by the Department of Labor, places the increase to a "standard family" in New York City during the period from June 1, 1914, to Dec. 31, 1920, at 101.4 per cent. The high water mark, according to this compilation of data, was reached in June, 1920, when the living costs of a family in New York were 119.2 per cent. above the costs on June 1, 1914.

A continuing increase in living costs in almost every necessity of life was shown from June 1, 1914, until June, 1920. The break came during the Summer and early Fall of 1920.

The figures include cost of food, which is taken as representing 42 per cent. of essential expenditure of the family; clothing, 16.6 per cent. of expenditure; housing, 14.3 per cent.; fuel and light, 4.3 per cent.; furniture and furnishings, 3.3 per cent., and miscellaneous, 18.7 per cent.

Prices of clothing showed the heaviest increases since 1914, and furniture and furnishings were next in line.

Housing, fuel and light, and expenses listed as "miscellaneous" were the only ones which failed to show a decrease during the period from June to December, 1920. Housing showed an increase during this period of 5.7 per cent., and fuel and light, 20.4 per cent.

The analysis covers living costs in thirty-two cities. Detroit, Mich., heads the list in living cost increases. The increase from Dec. 31, 1914, to June 20, 1920, for that city is given as 136 per cent. On Dec. 31 living costs had dropped to 118.6 per cent above the 1914 level.

Portland, Ore., and San Francisco showed the smallest increases. Prices in San Francisco jumped 96 per cent. between December, 1914, and June, 1920, and then fell off by December, 1920, to 85.3 per cent. above the 1914 level. In Portland prices increased 100.4 per cent. up to June, 1920, and then dropped back to 80.3 per cent. from the 1914 level.

JEWS PRAISE ATTACK ON FOES

United Synagogue Convention Also Protests Immigration Suspension.

The United Synagogue of America, at the second day's session of its ninth annual convention, held in the Jewish Theological Seminary, unanimously commended yesterday the protest of leading Christians against anti-Semitism, printed in THE TIMES yesterday, and opposed the bill now in the Senate calling for the suspension of immigration.

A resolution attacking the Lord's Day Alliance for spreading "blue law" propaganda was opposed by Dr. Cyrus Adler, President of the seminary and a member of the Executive Council of the United Synagogue, on the ground that since Jews were especially effected they had no reason to resent the propaganda. The resolution was not adopted.

Prof. Louis Ginsberg, head of the Rabbinic Department of the seminary and an authority on Jewish law, read a paper in which he linked spiritualism with Christian Science and characterized them both as "signs of intellectual and spiritual decay."

HUNTS MISSING WIFE HERE.

Mount Vernon Husband Aided in Search by Police and Bloodhound.

Alexander Berentsen, manager of a carpet company in Yonkers, accompanied by a detective from Mount Vernon, last night searched the city for his wife, who disappeared from their home in Mount Vernon on Saturday. In the afternoon Mr. Berentsen received a telephone message from a man in this city and another from a man in Weehawken to the effect they had seen Mrs. Berentsen.

The first man said he saw her Saturday night on a subway train, and the second said he saw her later on a ferryboat bound for Weehawken. Mr. Berentsen had arranged to go to Boston, where a sister of the missing woman is caring for her two sons, but postponed the visit. Up to a late hour last night, however, he had found no further trace of his wife.

Earlier in the day the Mount Vernon police traversed the roads leading from the Berentsen home with a bloodhound in the hope the animal would reveal the direction taken by the woman when she left home, but the dog proved to be of no service.

VOTE DR. SILVERMAN RABBI FOR LIFE

Temple Emanu-El Trustees Appoint Him Rabbi Emeritus at $12,000 a Year.

LAUD HIM AND HIS WORK

With resolutions expressing their esteem and gratitude for the service given by Dr. Joseph Silverman as their rabbi, the Board of Trustees and congregation of Temple Emanu-El voted last night to accept his resignation, tendered last December. Dr. Silverman was also made a rabbi emeritus for life, with a yearly pension of $12,000.

"In yielding to the explicit wish of Dr. Silverman to resign his active duties as rabbi of this church," the resolution read, "the Board of Trustees, speaking for each member as an individual and for the congregation as a whole, takes this opportunity to give expression to the esteem, admiration and veneration entertained for him as a man, as a citizen, as a rabbi, preacher and teacher in Israel; to the gratitude felt for his many exhibitions of kindness, sympathy and affection on occasions of joy and in days of sorrow; to its recognition of his zealous and untiring devotion to duty; and to its appreciation of his enduring friendship, his ready responsiveness to opportunities of bringing help and comfort to those in need of them, and the effectiveness with which he has represented the congregation in its relation to the public.

"We extend to him our warmest wishes for the future. May it be given him to reap signal honor in the domain of literature and in those communal activities to which he now proposes to devote that learning, wisdom and experience which he has garnered through the years."

"As rabbi emeritus," explained Louis Marshall, President of the Board of Trustees, "Dr. Silverman will only be called upon to exercise those rabbinical functions which he wishes to perform, or upon occasions when the congregation or the board especially requests his assistance."

M'CORMICK HOME, HITS A QUARANTINE SNAG

U. S. Senator, Unable to Get Permit to Land, Forced to Stay on Ship Four Hours.

United States Senator Medill McCormick of Illinois, returning to the United States after nine weeks in Europe, met with considerable difficulty last night in obtaining a permit to leave the steamship Imperator at quarantine, where the vessel was held for the night. Senator McCormick finally obtained permission to leave the ship from Special Deputy Collector Stuart, who sent the revenue cutter Hudson to take the Senator ashore at Rosebank, Staten Island.

Senator McCormick went to the home of Frederick Winthrop Allen, 8 East Seventy-second Street, where he again refused to give an interview on European affairs.

Although he had intended originally to leave for Washington at midnight, Senator McCormick postponed his departure until this morning because he could not obtain sleeping accommodations on the train for Mrs. McCormick. He said he expected to arrive in Washington about 4 o'clock this afternoon and would go direct to the Senate chamber.

Senator McCormick said he did not intend to be interviewed until he had opportunity to discuss the European situation, as it affected the United States, with some of his colleagues. It was intimated that the material which he is understood to have gathered might be made public in a Senate speech.

Senator McCormick said the Imperator had a rough trip and passed through several storms. The liner arrived at quarantine about 4 o'clock, and Senator McCormick left the ship about 8. She carried 304 first-class passengers, 461 second-class passengers and 633 third-class. She will proceed to her dock this morning.

NEW YORK SHIVERS 'MID COLD AND WIND

Several Persons Blown Over and Trees Dislodged by 84-Mile-an-Hour Gale.

The icy northwest gale that shrieked around corners, rattled windows and saved the Street Cleaning Department considerable money by removing tons of dust yesterday, reached its maximum at 10:30 A. M. with a velocity of eighty-four miles an hour, which is within six miles of hurricane force. By 4 o'clock in the afternoon the wind had dropped to fifty miles an hour, and at 8 P. M. was blowing only thirty-six miles an hour, while the United States Weather Bureau predicted further diminution today.

The cold did not go below 15 degrees above zero, but it was felt more by walkers because of the wind, especially in the downtown canyons. The Weather Bureau predicted that the temperature would drop to 10 degrees above zero during the night, but with fair and warmer weather tomorrow.

Several persons were blown over by the gale between 10 and 11 o'clock yesterday morning and received contusions and bruises on the head and body. Two men were knocked down by a sign blown down on them and were treated by doctors at nearby drug stores, but no one was sufficiently hurt to need hospital care. Trees were blown down in the Brownsville section of Brooklyn.

The gale hindered navigation yesterday and prevented the Cunarder Imperator from getting into port and landing her 1,396 passengers. Finally she reached Quarantine at 4 P. M. and passed the doctor, so that the liner will be able to dock today at 11 A. M.

B. R. T. RECEIVERSHIP ASSAILED IN ALBANY

Senator Burlinghame Says It Is Continued to Give Road Benefit of Federal Court.

HE ATTACKS JUDGE MAYER

Declares He Threatens Contempt of Court on Persons Complaining of Conditions.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 17. Judge Julius M. Mayer of the United States court for the Southern District of New York was attacked in the Senate tonight in connection with the debate on a resolution calling upon the Public Service Commission to investigate and report to the Legislature whether the Brooklyn City Railroad Company has acted in good faith in discontinuing service on its Park Slope lines on the ground that they could not be made to pay.

The resolution was introduced by Senator William T. Simpson of Kings, a new member of the Senate, but the attack on Judge Mayer was made by Senator Alva T. Burlingame Jr. of the Eighth District, also in Kings. While speaking to the Simpson resolution, Senator Burlingame, besides denouncing Judge Mayer, declared that the Federal receivership of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit lines was being unduly prolonged in order to afford to the corporation the protection of a "friendly receivership" and the Federal courts.

"Lindley M. Garrison, Receiver of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company, is acting under appointment from a Federal Judge who acts more like a czar that as a Judge, and who scares off critics by declaring that he will hold in contempt of court any person who dares to open his mouth regarding conditions that obtain under the receivership," said Senator Burlingame. "He tried to do that to the Controller of the City of New York, when the Controller tried to do something for the people of the City of New York.

"Garrison is acting in true and tried old B. R. T. style, packing people in like sardines in the cars of the company and refusing to budge them until they are tacked to the doors. Now in my district and the district represented by Senator Simpson they cannot always pack their cars in that fashion, and failing that they simply discontinue service without the slightest regard for the comfort of the people.

"The people in Brooklyn, and the people in Manhattan, too, should have at least as much right as cattle have under the agricultural law. That law provides how many cattle can be put into a car and provides a penalty if the number is exceeded. We expect relief, and we expect it from this Legislature. It is the duty of every lawmaker from the city to get behind this or any other resolution that has for its object to secure decent treatment from the traction companies for the people of the City of New York.

"The receivership has been prolonged beyond all reason. The companies would either have been declared bankrupt or have discharged the obligations to their creditors. The receiverships are being prolonged to give the companies the continued protection of a friendly receivership and a Federal Judge."

The Simpson resolution in the preamble declares that the Brooklyn City Railroad Company "claims that the line has been run at a loss of revenue and that the Public Service Commission had refused to permit the continuance of the said line for the shortened distance between Borough Hall and the Park Circle," and questions the good faith of this statement.

Senator Simpson attacked Governor Smith's reorganization of the Public Service Commission, adding that the situation under the new commission was worse than when the Republicans controlled. This brought several Democratic Senators to their feet protesting, and finally Senator Martin G. McCue of Brooklyn interposed the one objection that was necessary to shut off debate and send the resolution to the Committee on Public Service.

B. R. T. WRECK CASES DISMISSED BY COURT

Action Taken on Request of Prosecutor, Who Believes Conviction Impossible.

Special to The New York Times.

MINEOLA, L. I., Jan. 17.—On motion of District Attorney Harry E. Lewis of Kings County, Supreme Court Justice Edward Lazansky today dismissed indictments against former officials of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company, growing out of the Malbone tunnel wreck on Nov. 1, 1918. In an affidavit signed by Mr. Lewis and Herbert N. Warbasse, his assistant, he told the court:

"Many important witnesses for the people are connected with the railroad company or with one of its allied companies, and have either withheld important information, or colored facts which they disclosed.

"I deem it a practical impossibility to secure conviction on the trial of the other indictments," said the District Attorney. "Therefore I can find no excuse for incurring the expense that would be involved in such trials."

Those under indictment were Timothy S. Williams, ex-President of the company; John H. Hallock, John J. Dempsey, former General Superintendent of Transportation; Thomas E. Hewitt, Division Superintendent, and William S. Menden, Chief Engineer. Edward Lewis, also known as Anthony Luciano, motorman on the train, was named in one of the indictments.

BONUS DISTRIBUTION MEASURE PRESENTED

Miss Smith's Bill Provides Commission to Handle $45,000,000 State Fund.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Jan. 17. Provision for distributing the $45,000,000 bonus for New York State soldiers and sailors who served in the World War was asked of the Legislature tonight by Marguerite L. Smith, member of the Assembly from New York City. She introduced a bill asking the creation of a commission of three to be appointed by Governor Miller, which would be empowered to handle the fund.

Early enactment of the measure will be sought by Miss Smith. Legislative leaders are not expected to place any obstacles in the way of early disposition and Governor Miller is believed to be ready to give instant approval.

The bill creates complete machinery necessary for distributing the bonus. It provides that one of the three members must be the Adjutant General. Preference is to be given to war veterans on the administrative and clerical forces. The staff is to consist of a secretary at $5,000, attorney at $4,500; assistant secretary, at $3,500; chief auditor, at $3,500; three chief clerks, at $1,800 a year each, and as many auditors at $2,100 and clerks at $1,500, as well as stenographers, typists and other employes at $1,200, as may be necessary. Provision is made for abolition of the commission as soon as its initial work is ended.

The bonus act, sponsored by Miss Smith last year, provided for $10 a month bonus for all veterans of the rank below Captain or Lieutenant (senior grade) who served more than two months either in this country or abroad. The maximum bonus under this act is $250.

The session of the Assembly tonight was shortened considerably by the application of a new rule which does away with the reading of resolutions.

WILL GIVE HEARING ON LOCKWOOD DEMAND

Senate and Assembly Committees Decide to Hear Untermyer Explain Request.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Jan. 17. Following a plea in both the Senate and Assembly today for a public hearing before the joint Senate Finance and Assembly Ways and Means Committees on the resolution giving the Lockwood Housing Committee power to investigate fire and insurance companies and banks, especially with regard to their failure to invest funds in building projects, the Senate Finance Committee announced tonight after a meeting that the committees would themselves give a hearing on the resolution. Samuel Untermyer, the Lockwood committee counsel, and its members, will be invited to appear and set forth their reasons for requiring an extension of power. No date was set for the hearing.

In the Assembly the demand for a public hearing was made by Assemblyman Thomas A. McWhinney of Nassau, Vice Chairman of the Lockwood Committee. In the Senate the demand was made by Senator Lockwood himself, who appeared before the Finance Committee at the meeting of that body tonight held for organization purposes.

Assemblyman McWhinney told the Assembly the advocates of the measure were anxious to have the public hearing held jointly under the auspices of the Senate Finance and the Assembly Ways and Means Committees some day this week. It is understood that Samuel Untermyer, chief counsel for the committee, will come to the Capitol, appear before the legislative committees and urge that the Lockwood committee receive all the powers it has asked for. These include authority to grant immunity to witnesses who otherwise might be restrained by fear of prosecution from appearing and telling what they know.

The resolution was referred to the Ways and Means Committee on its introduction, and Assemblyman Joseph A. McGinnies of Chautauqua, Chairman, announced that a meeting would be held tomorrow at which the demand of Mr. McWhinney would be considered.

Senator Charles J. Hewitt, Chairman of the Finance Committee in the upper house, said tonight that in his opinion members of the Finance Committee and the Ways and Means Committee ought to get together and determine what should be done with regard to the Lockwood resolution including the request for the public hearing. He thought such a meeting would be held.

DISARMAMENT PLEA URGED.

Other Legislative Bills Deal With Immigration and Telephone Inquiry.

ALBANY, Jan. 17.—Assemblyman Nathan Lieberman of New York City tonight introduced in the lower house a resolution calling on the Legislature to urge the President and Congress to make every possible effort to bring about an agreement between all nations for a reduction in army and navy expenditures and for gradual disarmament.

Assemblyman Dickstein of New York City introduced a resolution in which the Legislature is put on record as urging Senators and Representatives from this State to work and vote against the bill introduced by Senator Johnson of California restricting immigration. The same resolution will be introduced by Senator Bernard Browning of New York City tomorrow.

Assemblyman Dickstein also offered a resolution calling for an appropriation of $25,000 for a legislative investigation into the affairs of the New York Telephone Company in New York City for alleged poor service.

NAMED UNDER LEAGUE CALL.

Wilson Appoints Mahany on Immigration Commission.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—Rowland B. Mahany, solicitor of the Department of Labor, has been appointed by President Wilson as the American representative on the International Commission of Immigration and Emigration to meet at Geneva, Switzerland, on a date to be fixed by the International Labor office of the League of Nations.

This is the first appointment that the President has made to any of the bodies meeting under the League of Nations since the Senate definitely and finally refused to ratify the Treaty of Versailles.

Eighteen nations will take part in the conference, the first of its kind to be held. Six of them will send delegates representing labor, six representing capital and six representing their Governments. It was the original intention of the International Labor office to have the United States represented by labor delegates because it had failed to ratify the League of Nations, but the American Federation of Labor considered it inadvisable that the United States be represented by any other than Governmental delegates.

Mr. Mahany, who was formerly Minister to Ecuador, was for four years a member of the Immigration Committee in Congress and for some time has been in complete charge of the immigration work of the Department of Labor. He expects to sail for Europe soon.

CONFIRMS MILLER'S CHOICE.

Senate Acts on Reappointments for Three State Positions.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 17.—Without a murmur of dissent, and practically without debate, the Senate tonight confirmed nominations for major positions in the State Administration sent in by the Governor. In each case they were reappointments.

The three principal nominees on whom the Senate took action were John J. Merrill of Wyoming County, reappointed to the State Tax Commission; John C. Clark of New York City, to the Civil Service Commission, and Mrs. May Terry Christian as manager of the Reformatory for Women at Bedford.

The Senate also confirmed the nomination of Dr. T. Burke Lewis of Buffalo as a Trustee for the State School for the Blind at Batavia.

KU KLUX OFFERS REWARD.

Wants Conviction of Any Person Using Name of Klan Unlawfully.

ATLANTA, Ga., Jan. 17.—A reward of $100 was offered tonight by Colonel William J. Simmons, imperial wizard of the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, for the arrest and conviction of "any person, anywhere, who uses the name Ku Klux Klan in an unlawful manner or in connection with any purpose or movement not sanctioned by law."

FINES 10 FOR SUNDAY SALES

Jail Terms Promised to Second Offenders Against Sabbath Laws.

Magistrate Simms, in Jefferson Market Court, yesterday fined ten merchants $10 each for violating the Sunday laws and announced his determination to enforce them in cases which came before him.

Detective Peter Owens of the Mercer Street Station was sent out to see how the law was being obeyed last Sunday. One of those arraigned on his complaint was Joseph Rappaport, who conducts a dry goods store at 250 Bowery. The detective said Rappaport sold him two pairs of socks. When the court asked the defendant why he kept open on the Sabbath he replied:

"Everybody's doing it."

"Ten dollars this time. Those found guilty by me as second offenders will be sent to jail," replied Magistrate Simms.

EXERCISES MARK BIRTH OF FRANKLIN

MANY PRAISE STATESMAN

Guggenheim, Chancellor Brown, Schwab and Others Tell of Printer-Scientist's Aid to America.

Benjamin Franklin's birthday was celebrated yesterday with exercises at the Franklin Statue, Park Row and Nassau Street, and at the Hall of Fame, New York University, where a tablet has been placed in Franklin's honor. The New York City Thrift Committee, of which William Guggenheim is Chairman, took part in the celebrations as a part of the program for "Thrift Week."

A floral Liberty Bell was hung over Franklin's tablet in the Hall of Fame by the committee. Addresses were made by Mr. Guggenheim, Chancellor Brown and Marshall Brown, Dean of the Faculty. Mr. Guggenheim described Franklin as "America's patron saint of thrift." "No name sheds more lustre upon the Hall of Fame than that of Franklin," said Dean Brown. "He is in the statesmen's section, but he would also have been admitted as a scientist, author and inventor."

"It is appropriate that Franklin's memory should feature National Thrift Week," said Chancellor Brown. "None has taught better than he the necessity of thrift."

Charles M. Schwab, as President of the Pennsylvania Society, was one of those who placed a wreath on the Franklin statue. Mr. Schwab stood with his head bared for a moment and left on foot down Park Row, declining requests that he make an address. Another wreath, with a key as part of its design, was placed by William Batch Huntington, Franklin's great-great-great-grandson.

There were other wreaths from Harvard, Yale, William and Mary College, the Post office, the Street Cleaning Department, the French Embassy, Pennsylvania University, Sons of the American Revolution, the Merchants' Association, the Association of Wholesale Opticians, the Y. M. C. A., the Girl Scouts, the churches of the city, the Gold Star Mothers of the Fifteenth Infantry, Josephus Daniels, Secretary of the Navy, and others.

General Oliver Bridgeman acted as chairman of the statue exercises, and the speakers included Mr. Guggenheim, Captain John S. Carpenter, representing the Navy Department; Colonel Arthur Little of the Fifteenth New York Infantry and Chancellor Brown of New York University.

The speakers stressed Franklin's many-sidedness. Captain Carpenter recalled the work of Franklin in fitting out the vessels with which John Paul Jones fought England. Colonel Little referred to his early conversion to the principles of emancipation. A fire engine from the city department was sent to the exercises to commemorate Franklin's part in organizing America's first fire department in Philadelphia.

The Fifteenth Infantry Band played during the exercises.

1 KILLED, 7 INJURED IN AUTO ACCIDENTS

Chauffeur Crushed to Death in Crash—Policeman and Six Priests Hurt.

One man was killed and a patrolman injured in automobile accidents in the city yesterday, while in Northvale, N. J., six Roman Catholic priests who were returning to New York were hurt when an automobile in which they were riding struck a tree and overturned.

Joseph Foster, a negro chauffeur, of 344 West 143d Street, was crushed to death when an empty asphalt truck he was driving crashed into the rear of a commercial truck at Brook Avenue and 133d Street. Dr. Jacob Bernstein of 234 Sands Street, Brooklyn, driving a touring car, struck the commercial truck when it came to a sudden halt but escaped injury.

While pursuing a violator of the one way regulation on Central Park West, Patrolman James Gunshinan, on a motorcycle, was knocked down by an automobile. Gunshinan, whose leg was broken, was taken to the Post-Graduate Hospital. William Rosenbaum, owner of the auto, received a summons charging him with reckless driving. The motorist whom Gunshinan was pursuing escaped.

The accident which befell the priests happened when they were returning from the funeral of a fellow priest at Blauvelt, N. Y.

Father Alward, who received a dislocated hip, was taken to St. Vincent's. The others who were cut and bruised were Mgr. Edwards, 80 years old, of St. Josephs's Church; Father Breslin, his assistant, and Fathers Scully, Fitzgerald and Brogan.

I. R. T. SHOWS BIG GAIN.

Traffic Is About $6,250,000 More Profitable Than for 1919.

Figures made public yesterday by the Public Service Commission of the traffic on the subway lines of the Interborough Rapid Transit Company show that the increase in traffic for the fiscal year ended June 30 last has been maintained. The gain over the fiscal year of 1919 represented a cash return of about $6,250,000.

If the increase in traffic for the five months from July to November, inclusive, continues the total traffic for the year will be about 599,800,892, or a gain of more than 13,000,000 over the last fiscal year.

The lines of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company, which increased in traffic during the fiscal year to an average of more than 31,398,000 a month, show for the four months from July to October, inclusive, a traffic of only 31,-991,418 a month, but there was a large falling off in September because of the strike.

The elevated lines of the Interborough system suffered a total deficit of $2,381,-264 for the five months between July and November.

Mr. Halsey gave $20,000 to John Lambert of Yonkers, $.0,000 to Anna Millikan and his residuary estate of $1,754,243 to his cousin, Ada Cowen, of 270 Park Avenue.

VAN VLECK LEFT $4,503,614.

The estate of William D. Van Vleck, who died Dec. 1, 1919, was appraised yesterday at $4,503,614. Mr. Van Vleck, who was a retired banker and lived at Montclair, N. J., left $2,054,113 in stocks taxable in New York, of which $1,764,876 was in stock of Phelps, Dodge & Co. He gave his estate to his brothers, Charles E. and Joseph Van Vleck, and his friend, Kenneth D. Van Riper of 207 Park Avenue.

RENT PRECEDENT SET IN ARTIST'S APPEAL

Justice Decides That Burden of Unfavorable Lease Cannot Be Passed to Tenants.

A new principle in connection with the administration of the rent laws was announced yesterday by Justice Frank J. Coleman Jr. in the Ninth District Municipal Court in a written opinion holding that a renting company may not pass on to its tenants the burden of an unfavorable lease. The case was that of Joseph C. Leyendecker, one of the better known illustrators of America, against L. K. Schwartz & Co., lessees of the Bryant Park Studio Building at Fortieth Street and Sixth Avenue, popularly termed the Beaux Arts Building.

The building was erected by A. A. Anderson, an artist, who leased studios in it to his fellow artists at reasonable terms until in March, 1920, he decided he wished to be relieved of the burden of administration and leased the structure to the Schwartz company for a term of years at $90,000 a year.

When Mr. Leyendecker's lease expired, he received notice that his rent of $3,300 a year had been doubled. Similar notices were served on other artist tenants, who included Emil Fuchs, the sculptor; Harrison Fisher, Lewis Herzog, Montague Marks, William H. Cortin, Carl Melchers, L. M. Gordon and Stephen B. Eitinge Jr. Mr. Leyendecker engaged Charles C. Pearce of Lewis & Kelsey, 120 Broadway, to fight the increase. The Schwartz company, called upon under the new laws to show the reasonableness of the increase, was represented by J. Robert Rubin.

The case was heard by Justice Coleman in December. Two weeks later he called for an appraisal of the property. From estimates of its value made by Brown-Wheelock Company and H. S. Ely & Company, the Court reached the conclusion that the property was worth $675,000. On this basis he held in the opinion yesterday that the leasing concern was paying $40,000 a year excess rental. This excess, the opinon held, could not lawfully be passed on to the tenants.

Viewing the case from another angle, Justice Coleman held that the building had not been paying and that it was fair to allow a sufficient increase to enable the company to receive a fair return above operating expenses. On this ground he granted an increase of 40 per cent. in Mr. Leyendecker's case, the only one before him. Because of the importances of his decision with respect to the impropriety of taxing the tenants for excess rental, the Court recommended that the case be appealed and it was said last night it would be.

COAL PROFITEERS TO BE TRIED HERE

Federal Officials, Barred From Pennsylvania Courts, Will Bring Prosecutions in This State.

Special to The New York Times.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Jan. 17.—Blocked from prosecuting mine operators in the eastern and western districts of Pennsylvania, where Federal Judges have ruler the Lever act unconstitutional, the Department of Justice will seek to bring the operators and distributers whose alleged excessive profits are held responsible for the high coal prices to trial in New York State.

Foundation for such a move was laid at conferences held in New York within the last week by Frank J. Gregg of this city, special Assistant Attorney General, and Armin J. Riley of New York, also a special assistant to Attorney General A. Mitchell Palmer, it was announced tonight by Mr. Gregg as he left for New York.

The decision to proceed against the mine operators and distributers is the result of an investigation of months made by Department of Justice agents. The officials found that profiteering charges against the retailer in this State were unfounded and that the responsibility for the high prices rested solely upon the shoulders of the operators and distributers.

Evidence tending to show a conspiracy between these operators and New York distributers will be introduced before a Federal Grand Jury this week in New York.

Because of the holdings of Federal Court Judges in the districts where the mines are situated that the Lever act is not constitutional, the only course open to the Federal officers was to prosecute in New York State, and Mr. Gregg said they had found evidence of a conspiracy in New York which permitted the action.

It is stated that evidence shows that coal mine operators sell hard coal to New York retailers for $12 a ton at the mines, plus freight, bringing the average retail price up to between $15 and $16. Coal retails here at $12.80, a price labeled by officials as exorbitant, but a careful checking of details has resulted in a clean bill being given to local dealers.

In New York, it is claimed, evidence has been found to show that certain of the coal wholesalers, or commission agents who act as middlemen between the distributer and mine operators, have made agreements with the operators which tend to produce higher prices. These agreements, the Government asserts, were made in New York City, thus bringing the alleged offense within the jurisdiction of New York City Federal Judges.

RECEIVER'S REMOVAL ASKED

Rio Grande Stockholders' Committee Seeks to Oust A. R. Baldwin.

Removal of A. R. Baldwin as receiver of the Denver & Rio Grande Railroad has been requested of Directors of the road by the Stockholders' Protective Committee in a letter to the members of the board. The letter states that Mr. Baldwin is a Vice President of the Western Pacific Railway Company, which is seeking to "wreck and destroy the Denver & Rio Grande Railroad Company," and asserts that he refuses "to take any steps to protect the interests of the Denver & Rio Grande Company or its stockholders in this great emergency."

Decision is pending in the St. Louis courts on the Denver Protective Committee's appeal from the sale of the Denver properties. The road has been sold at public auction, but the sale has not yet been confirmed because of the appeal.

WORKER AND LAWYER, TOO.

Street Cleaner Fights His Own Suit Against Policeman and Wins.

William Stevens of Winfield, employe in the Street Cleaning Bureau of Queens, does not need the services of a lawyer. He proved it yesterday when he won a suit in the Queens County Supreme Court before Justice Faber in which he was his own lawyer. F. G. Ruckert, a policeman, brought suit against Stevens to recover $5,000 for alleged injuries. Ruckert was directing traffic at Fifty-ninth Street and Third Avenue last Summer when he claims that Stevens ran into him with his automobile.

Yesterday Stevens appeared as his own attorney. He said, "This policeman has no claim against me. I did not run into him. He stepped right into my automobile." Ruckert went on the stand and gave his testimony. Then the attorney for Ruckert summed up. The jury returned a verdict for Stevens.

Men's Ulsters of Such Good Quality, at $35

Duplicates were in our stock earlier at $75 to $90; but 2,500 of these fine, warm, useful coats are now to go at this almost unbelievable price.

We can't recall a time when men's ulsters like these were sold at a price so far below their actual cost. There may have been a time but not within our reckoning; and that on fact, just as it stands, is sufficient to tell all men that this is something quite beyond the ordinary run of sales.

The manufacturer had these coats in stock. He has been holding them. But you know, as well as we, the present state of affairs in the clothing industry. You've read all about it in the newspapers. So this manufacturer did the logical thing at last—he took his loss.

The Ulsters are REAL Ulsters

That little word is emphasized because there are so many "approximate, or almost" ulsters on the market today. The fabrics are hard and soft-finish coatings—so sturdy that you'll wonder how they could ever wear out. The colorings are the RIGHT browns, grays, greens and heathers. Many have plaid backs; yoke linings are plain or quilted satin.

Two models, slightly varied

Both are double-breasted, with half belt, large patch pockets. One has muff pockets also, and is slightly different in general outline from the other. Fine coats for winter—for riding, driving, walking. AND—just as good another season as they are today.

RAILROADS MAKE FURTHER SHOP CUTS

Pennsylvania's Williamsport Division and Monon's Lafayette Works Reduce Time.

STEEL PAY CUT AT READING

Several Rhode Island Textile Mills and McKeesport Tin Plate Co. Increase Working Hours.

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa., Jan. 17.—Further retrenchment on the Williamsport division of the Pennsylvania Railroad was put into effect today. All track forces were put on half time and other reductions will affect the car repair forces. This follows a cut made recently and is in addition to the Sunday "shut down" in which slow freight movement is halted from Saturday night to Monday.

LAFAYETTE, Ind., Jan. 17.—The working force of the Monon railroad shops here will be reduced 50 per cent. at the end of the present week, it was announced today. The shops employ 750 persons. Employes recently refused to agree to a proposed curtailment of working hours.

READING, Pa., Jan. 17. Wage cuts went into effect today at the Reading plant of the Bethlehem Steel Company. Labor rates were reduced from forty-four to thirty-two cents an hour. Other reductions varied as much as 20 per cent. in some instances. The rolling mill has been closed indefinitely.

The Reading cotton mill put into effect today a wage reduction raging from 20 to 22½ per cent. The plant employs hundreds of operatives, mostly women and girls.

HOLYOKE, Mass., Jan. 17.—Wage cuts ranging from 12½ to 15 per cent. were announced today by the William Skinner & Sons silk mills here. These are the largest silk mills in this part of the country and employ about 2,200 hands. Beginning today the plant will be operated three and a half days a week, instead of three days.

WORCESTER, Mass., Jan. 17.—The Royal Worcester Corset Company today announced a reduction of 15 per cent. in the pay of its 1,200 employes, 10 per cent. effective at once and 5 per cent. on July 5. The cut in the prices charged to the trade is given as the reason for the reduction.

The Whitehall Carpet Mills were closed today by a strike of 500 weavers in protest against a cut of 25 per cent. in wages.

PAWTUCKET, R. I., Jan. 17.—An extension of time schedules announced as reflecting improvement in business was reported in several textile mills today.

The Jenks Spinning Company, employing 2,500 operatives, after being closed last week, resumed operation with several departments on a four and five day schedule. The Lorraine Manufacturing Company, employing 2,000, changed from three days a week to a five-day schedule. The Weybosset Company, employing 1,000, began a five and a half day schedule after operating some departments three and others four days a week. The Smith Webbing Company, employing 150, went on practically full time.

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 17.—Twenty mills, one-half of the productive capacity of the McKeesport Tin Plate Company, resumed operations today, after being idle since Dec. 23. Sixteen hundred men were affected by the resumption which was at the old rate of wages. Mill officials said they were unable to say when the remainder of the plant would be placed in operation.

AVERT SILK STRIKE BY 44-HOUR WEEK

Paterson Mills Do Not Carry Out Threat of Four-Hour Extension —See Wage Agreement.

A general strike of silk workers in Paterson, N. J., was averted yesterday, when the silk mills did not put the new forty-eight hour week into effect, as they had announced. Three of the group of seven silk ribbon mills which attempted to put the forty-eight hour week into effect last Monday, opened yesterday under the old schedule of forty-four hours a week. No concerted attempt was made by the broad silk mills to insist upon the forty-eight hour week, as intended. The union leaders announced that they would not agree to work under the forty-eight hour schedule. Some of the mills opened at 7:20 A. M., but the workers did not report until 8.

Although only about 10 per cent. of the silk mill operatives in Paterson are working, Emil Webber, Secretary of the Paterson local of the Ribbon Weavers' Union, took the view that a strike might be avoided. "The situation is brighter than at any time since the controversy started," he said.

FIND 2 GUILTY OF ESCAPE.

Sing Sing Convicts, Who Felled Keepers, Get Quick Verdict.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Jan. 17.—For the first time in the history of Westchester County, two convicts, Harry Stivers Jr. and Marcus Bassett, were tried jointly before County Judge Frank La Young today, on a charge of escaping from Sing Sing Prison, and despite their plea of not guilty, it took a jury only seven minutes to find them guilty. They will be sentenced on Friday.

While making their escape the prisoners knocked two keepers unconscious with black jacks and were finally captured, after stealing three automobiles on Quarry Hill in the mountains of New Hampshire. Stivers was serving a life sentence for murder and Bassett only had a month to serve for grand larceny. The prisoners are each 21 years old.

The convicts were represented by former District Attorney Frederick E. Weeks. He contended that as Stivers had been sentenced for the term of his natural life, he could not be found guilty of escaping and given any longer sentence. Judge Young overruled Mr. Week's objections.

DISCUSS MURPHY RUMOR.

Ex-Gov. Smith Denies He Wants Post—Substitute Probable.

The report that Charles F. Murphy was retiring as leader of Tammany Hall, or at least putting a temporary leader in his place for the coming city campaign, was received with interest yesterday by local politicians, both Democrats and Republicans. Most of the Democratic leaders were inclined to believe that if Mr. Murphy wished to retire he would pick a substitute, which act would give him the power of selection and avoid a clash among Tammany leaders.

Ex-Governor Alfred E. Smith, mentioned as Mr. Murphy's possible successor, again disclaimed any such aspiration. Mr. Smith said he was more interested in the delivery of freight than in any other subject.

Brooklyn Boy Gets War Honor.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—Sergeant Carl Fenouillet, son of Mrs. Mona Fenouillet of 1,262 Seventy-sixth Street, Brooklyn, N. Y., has been awarded a Distinguished Service Cross, Secretary Baker announced today, "for extraordinary heroism" in action near St. Souplet, France, on Oct. 18, 1918. The citation reads: "Sergeant Fenouillet, then Corporal, after his commanding officer and four Sergeants had become casualties, took command of the company, rallied it by his personal heroism and exposure to fire and gallantly led it in the attack."

WAR ON PITTSTON RADICALS

Police and Citizens, Following Dynamiting, Start to Clean Up District

Special to The New York Times.

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., Jan. 17.—Pittston police, State police and Secret Service men, besides a large number of Pittston residents, have joined forces to clean out the Bolshevist element that has been making this region the scene of murder, burglary and dynamiting.

Four men have been arrested. They are Joseph Befalco, Luigi Loquasto, Tony Marano and Joe Pigli. The latter two are members of the Insurgents' General Grievance Committee. Saturday night's meeting was the first that Marano attended in two months. Both he and Pigli are suspected by the police of having been implicated in the many dynamitings that occurred in Pittston during the twelve weeks' strike of the miners of the Pennsylvania Coal Company, and they hope to secure the names of the higher-ups in the insurgent organization who are said to have prompted the attempt on James A. Joyce's life.

One of the men arrested was taken from his bed. He was fully attired, including his shoes. Another was seen on the street about the time of the explosion.

Joyce said today that the dynamiting was a deliberate attempt at murder, and declares that "if these radicals think they are going to scare me they are mistaken. I have kept them at work for the best five months, and they are receiving more money today than they did previous to the twelve months' strike, still they are not satisfied. The flag of anarchy has no place here and the good-thinking miners will see to it that the radicals get out."

CHALLENGE TO CRAMP'S.

Union Leader Wants Congressional Inquiry Into Trouble.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 17.—Charles F. Scott, a labor representative of the Atlantic Coast Shipbuilding Industrial Board and also representative of the Metal Trades Union in its controversy with the Cramp Shipbuilding Company, declared tonight that union labor would not submit to discontinuance of the agreement between the company and the Metal Trades Department of the American Federation of Labor.

J. H. Mull, President and General Manager of the company, announced last night that the agreement which provided that all intercourse between employer and employe should be carried on through a representative of the union, had been discontinued on January 1 because of the breaking of contracts by the metal workers, about 500 of whom went on strike December 22.

"The trouble at Cramps," said Mr. Scott, "is far from being confined to that body of employes. Its causes are far deeper and its specific cause is more far-reaching. We have evidence to prove that the present difficulty is the result of a deliberate attempt of Cramps management to take advantage of the existing hard times to wipe out all organization of labor within their plant, and return to the intolerable conditions which existed there fifteen years ago.

"If the public could know the truth, we would be glad to rest our case in its hands. Therefore, we again request a Congressional investigation in order that the truth may be brought to light."

WOULD FIND JOBS FOR ALL.

British Labor Party Plan to Solve Unemployment Problem.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Jan. 17.—A summary is published by the Labor Party of their prevention of unemployment bill.

Fundamentally the bill lays down that it is the duty of the State as far as possible to regularize the demand for labor. In order that the nature and magnitude of the problem may always be known, and then to provide work, training or maintenance for those unemployed.

Employers will be compelled to engage labor only through a labor exchange if the employment is for not less than one month.

Where unemployment is likely to be for any material period provision is not only made for maintenance, but the bill also provides for training centres for those unemployed persons for whom no ordinary employment can be found.

ASK FOR ARBITRATION.

Philadelphia Textile Workers Want Wage Reduction Argued.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 17.—The textile workers who yesterday refused to accept any reduction in wages, are willing to arbitrate, Frank McKoskey, Vice President of the United Textile Workers of America, said tonight in a formal statement.

"We will send out tomorrow," said the statement, "our resolution in which we state our refusal to accept any reduction in wages. Copies will be forwarded the mill owners and to the Chamber of Commerce. But we are more than willing to lay our claims before any fair tribunal. Rather than anything else, we would like to have some public body offer to arbitrate this dispute."

FOR FILIPINO GOVERNOR.

Harrison Says He Offered to Resign if Native Succeeded Him.

MANILA, P. I., Jan. 15.—Francis Burton Harrison, Governor General of the Philippines, offered to tender his resignation eighteen months ago upon condition that the Secretary of War recommend to President Wilson that a Filipino be appointed his successor, he declared today at a banquet given in his honor by the Philippine Columbian Association. He said that he made the offer while in Washington in 1919.

MALONE SENTENCE UPHELD.

British Liberal Got Six Months for Alleged Seditious Speech.

LONDON, Jan. 17.—The sentence of six months' imprisonment imposed last November upon Lieut. Col. L'Estrange Malone, Liberal Member of the House of Commons, following his conviction of alleged seditious utterances, was confirmed today by the Court of Appeals, the court dismissing his appeal from the lower court.

Malone was arrested in Dublin Nov. 10, where he had gone by invitation to debate on Bolshevism, the charge against him being violation of a section of the Defense of the Realm act prohibiting the use of language likely to cause sedition among the civilian population. The charge was based upon a speech delivered by Malone in Albert Hall, in London, a short time previously, in which he was quoted as declaring that bloodshed would be justified, if it were necessary, to bring about the British revolution," and as adding:

"What are a few Churchills or a few Curzons on lampposts compared with the misery of thousands of human beings?"

DRY AGENTS ARREST LIQUOR FIRM HEAD

Charge Said to Concern Forged Permits for Warehouse Whisky Withdrawals.

MANY SALOONS RAIDED

Troopers Find Twenty Gallons of Spirits in Auto They Stopped for Speeding at Night.

Charles Leopold, 55 years old, President and Treasurer of Charles Leopold & Co., wholesale liquor dealers, at 543 Tenth Avenue, was locked up in Police Headquarters last night on a charge of conspiring to defraud the Government.

Mr. Leopold, it was said, was arrested at his home, 1,831 Seventh Avenue, by Harold Dobbs, an internal revenue officer, who has been investigating frauds in withdrawals of whisky from warehouses by means of spurious permits, to which the name of Charles R. O'Connor, State Prohibition Enforcement Director, and other prohibition officials had been forged.

The revenue officer requested Lieutenant Fogerty, in the Detective Bureau at Police Headquarters, to detain Mr. Leopold for violating Section 37 of the Federal laws, and added that he was not to be released in bail of less than $10,000.

Police and prohibition enforcement agents on Sunday arrested more than fifty offenders against the Volstead act in the five boroughs of the city. The greatest number of arrests was made in Brooklyn, where thirty men were apprehended, most of them by detectives.

William Leczyckl of 12 Wilmar Terrace and James H. Williams of 364 Main Street, both of Poughkeepsie, were held in $500 bail each when arraigned yesterday before United States Commissioner Hitchcock on a charge of transporting twenty gallons of whisky Sunday night in an automobile at Garrison-on-the-Hudson. State troopers Boyce and Moore appeared against the men and said that when they arrested Leczyzckl for reckless driving they found the liquor inside the car. The men told them that they were carrying the whisky to Poughkeepsie and that they were to receive $100 for doing so, the troopers said.

Three waiters arrested early Sunday morning in Reisenweber's restaurant, Eighth Avenue and Fifty-eighth Street, on charges of violating the Volstead act were released in $1,000 bail each when arraigned yesterday before Commissioner Hitchcock. The Commissioner set Jan. 21 for a hearing on the charges made by detectives.

When the waiters were arrested it was reported that Patrick Kyne, manager of the restaurant, was also arrested. No complaint was made against Kyne yesterday, however.

HOPS BRING FARMERS $24 TO $1 FOR CORN

Wide Variation and Heavy Price Drops Shown in Acreage Value of 1920 Crops.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—Corn, king of crops, produced an average of only $20.93 an acre to farmers based on Dec. 1 farm prices, while hops produced $486.10 an acre, according to averages for the country as a whole, issued by the Department of Agriculture. The value per acre of hops in 1919 was $874.75, while corn's average value per acre was $38.49.

With the exception of rye, cranberries, soy beans and sorghum sirup, the average value per acre that year showed heavy reductions from 1919 because of the declines in prices.

Wide variation is shown in the value per acre of the various crops, while the averages for different States show a broad range for each crop.

The ruling stipulates that manufacture of home brew is a violation even where there is no sale ofr evidence of consumption, it was announced.

WILSON GETS HISTORIC CANE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—A walking stick made from wood cut out of the heart of a native Bois d'Arc tree planted in Texas in 1870 was presented to President Wilson today by Representative Parrish of Texas on behalf of the Democrats of Wise county, Texas.

The stick, of a light golden brown with a silver head, bore the inscription: "Presented by the Democrats of Wise County, Texas, as an endorsement of your stand on the League of Nations."

The President received Mr. Parrish seated in the White House study and, after remarking on the beauty of the gift, said he would treasure it not only on that account, but also because of the sentiment expressed by those who gave it.

Besides the cane, the President also received a photograph of Sam Woody, described by Representative Parrish as 94 years old, the oldest loyal Democrat of Wise County.

After leaving the White House Mr. Parrish described the President as in excellent spirits and as showing plainly great improvement in health.

FAVORS WAR LOANS REPEAL.

Senate Committee Approves Measure, but Excepts the Lever Act.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—The House resolution proposing repeal of most special wartime laws was approved today by the Senate Judiciary Committee. Under a committee amendment the operation of the Food and Fuel Contract act would be continued.

The committee vote to continue the Lever act was 4 to 3, Senator Borah leading the effort to repeal it. The majority, it was said, believed the law should be retained to deal with coal supply and prices.

A provision of the House bill excepting the Trading With the Enemy act from the repeal was approved, as were amendments to the Espionage act withdrawing Executive authority to declare export embargoes and authority of the Postmaster General to close the mails to alleged violators of the act.

Another amendment would repeal anti-sedition provisions of the Espionage act which, it has been asserted, interfere with freedom of speech.

The committee added an amendment continuing in effect war statutes providing punishment for evaders of the Selective Service act.

A BUSINESS MESSAGE THE BUYERS STRIKE

Thrift vs. Spending

This is addressed especially to the Retail Merchants, but we hope everybody will read it. This is National Thrift Week and hundreds of men and women are earnestly at work and want as many more as possible to help them. Thrift does not mean hoarding, but means wise spending either for the comforts of life or insurance or bank reserves or investing. On Monday I received the following letter:

January 17, 1921.

60 Wall Street,
New York City.
Dear Mr. Doherty:

It has been brought to our attention that some of the retail merchants are not in sympathy with a Thrift Movement at this time, believing it will be harmful to their business. We are asking a number of our speakers to assure the merchants that we do not want to hurt their business, but want to help. Will you please do what you can to help us promptly correct this matter.

Let me suggest that you take this up in your talk at the Brooklyn Central Branch of the Y. M. C. A. to-night, and perhaps you would be willing to answer this matter through the press by interview or in your own advertising space.

Very truly yours,
(sd) W. H. BAXLEY, Secretary,
New York City Thrift Committee.

This appeals to me as a vastly important matter, for we want the support of these merchants, and as we are already in the Campaign and as we can reach so few people with our voices, I am glad to pay for the necessary space in the daily papers to say a little bit of the much we might say about what we hope to accomplish.

All of us who are whole-heartedly supporting the Thrift movement believe it is not only helpful to business but absolutely necessary for business.

As a portion of Thrift Week is already gone we cannot get together and harmonize our differences of opinion; so the only thing left for us to do is to use space in the daily papers to present our views and invite those who dissent to present their views frankly and in a like manner.

We believe that Thrift and Investment is at all times helpful to business and that it is particularly needed just now. Our non-sympathizers, we understand, think Thrift and Investment is generally a good thing but that just now it will accentuate the so-called Buyers Strike.

Some merchants seem to think that an American Federation of Retail Buyers has sprung up over night which in strength and determination is equal to the American Federation of Labor, and that the first thing the new Federation did was to declare a Buyers Strike.

There is no more of a "Buyers Strike" among the retail buyers than there is a Buyers Strike on the part of the retail merchants themselves. Don't you think that figures would show that the public is buying more from the retail merchant than the retail merchant is buying from the jobber and the manufacturer? How many retail merchants do you think are willing to take the money their retail customer pays them and pass the proper share of it right along to the jobber and to the factory for more goods?

How many merchants do you think are already carrying less than normal stocks?—and how many do you think of those who are carrying normal or abnormal stocks would resist the temptation to reduce their stocks far below normal if they could create enough retail buying to enable them to do so?

Now, we have all seen some wonderfully clever advertisements telling why the people should buy merchandise liberally. I hope every merchant who is not in sympathy with the National Thrift Drive will get these advertisements and read them over and make up his mind how much of the advice given to the retail buyer he will accept for himself.

Let me remind you that our present troubles were brought on largely by wild and extravagant buying on the part of the public. Retail merchants were encouraged to place abnormally large orders to insure against depletion of stocks and rely on their banks to carry them. This, with the load the banks were already carrying, brought a strain on our banking system which carried it to its full elastic limit. Money thereafter had to be rationed. The public in some cases bought until they had become overstocked and the retail merchants in other cases bought until they had become over-stocked.

The retail customer does not buy in greater volume, first, because the man out of employment is not apt to have the money or credit with which to buy and the man who is still employed sees widespread unemployment and wonders how secure his employment is; second, because a large portion of the public think we are going to have still lower prices.

Now, some of the retail merchants do not buy, first, because they fear that the business depression has become so widespread that the future purchasing power of the American people has been seriously crippled; second, because they fear still lower prices; and, third, because they are having difficulty in raising the money necessary to pay their obligations when they come due.

There is nothing in the National Thrift movement which opposes judicious or conservative buying. There is no reason why the merchant should not strive to stimulate buying, and there is no reason why he should not tell his customer that it is his belief that prices have reached the bottom, if he really believes it himself.

But, Mr. Merchant, let's be fair again. We know prices have been abnormally high. We all hoped they would come back to normal in a gradual and orderly manner—that they would evolute, not revolute; but when we reached the limit of our banking credit, and the bankers had to call a halt, then, in many cases, factories, jobbers and retailers had to sell some of their goods for whatever they would bring—and here and there some commodities had to be sold at less than the pre-war cost of production.

Now, what do you think is the greatest threat of further demoralization of prices? I think the greatest threat is to have further forced sales. Don't forget that many, and in fact most, of these forced sales were not due to lack of capital but due to lack of cash. Don't forget, either, that there are still many factories, jobbers and retailers who are still under a great strain, and although they have an abundance of capital yet they are finding it difficult to find the cash to meet their obligations.

Those of us who are supporting this National Thrift movement believe that money applied to these strained situations will do more to help the mercantile situation than a like amount of money applied to indiscriminate buying. Illustrating perhaps by exaggeration, we feel that if the man who has an appetite to smoke a one dollar imported cigar would content himself with a ten-cent domestic cigar, and would say to the sound merchant who is under a strain: "Here is ninety cents that I will loan you to help prevent you from being compelled to make a forced sale of your goods," we think that this would aid the entire business and mercantile situation more than if he had bought and smoked the one dollar cigar. Now, we know that ninety cents would not help very much, and we know that this man, and the man like him, cannot deal direct with the merchant; but all of these people can deposit in some bank, which, in turn, will use it to help out these particularly strained business situations and prevent forced selling.

I know a great many of the men who are working wholeheartedly behind this National Thrift movement. Many of them are merchants themselves. None of them want to interfere with the business of our merchants but to be helpful to them. If we are wrong, you can tell the people why in the papers tomorrow.

The foregoing letter is but little of what can be said in favor of support of the National Thrift movement, but if what has already been said sounds reasonable then take a chance and get behind the National Thrift Drive with your whole heart in it. Give the public the assurance that the business men of the country are fully cognizant of the situation, that they are not fearful about it and will not themselves "hunt cover" and that they mean to correct the situation as rapidly as circumstances will permit, and you will change the mind of the retail buyer over night.

Conservative buying will again start up and the buyer will pay what price he must whether he thinks it is the bottom price or not, and more will be accomplished than by any attempt to break up the so-called buyers strike.

Thursday, if I am not called upon to make further reply along this line, I will tell you some of the reasons why I am a decided optimist on the business outlook provided the employers will get behind a Thrift and Investment Movement and try to show why wise investing is in truth wise spending and will help more than the expenditure which buys something which is consumed.

Faithfully yours,
HENRY L. DOHERTY,
60 Wall Street,
New York.

GETTING ON.

When Mr. ASQUITH was Prime Minister, a member of the House of Commons accused him to his face of falsehood and of clinging to his office simply for the sake of its salary. The Premier stood silent until the storm of protests had died down, and then simply said: "We are getting on." He might have thought that they had got on further if he had been in the House a few weeks ago when one honorable member assaulted a colleague, and other honorable members stood by shouting "Kill him!"

It is not merely that we are losing the old proprieties. We are gaining the new violences. It is apparently thought that no one will be heard unless he screams. If a man wants to get even a small measure of public attention, he seems to regard it as necessary to attack somebody, to insult some dignitary, to vilify some organization. All the superlatives and the expletives have to be fired in the first volley.

Copious illustration of these pretty ways of controversy was to be found in Monday morning's newspapers. Thus we had a Judge of the Supreme Court airing his personal grievances in a letter to the Governor which challenged the motives of his brethren on the bench and railed at the Bar Association, in the finest style of the yellow journals, to which he is said to have owed his judicial dignity. What he did was enough to make an old-fashioned lawyer gasp; the manner in which he did it must have seemed repulsive even to members of the bar habituated to the modern method of going after what you want with a club, even if you are a Judge. As if to keep the latter in good countenance, a clergyman occupied another column with remarks about the coming election of a Bishop of New York and about disbelief in the creeds even among the clergy that would once have subjected him—we will not say to ecclesiastical discipline—to astonished observation and inquiry. Now we merely pass such things by with a shrug. We have got on.

It would be a mistake, however, to think that we have advanced to a new vigor or effectiveness by these unconventional and violent ways. As some modern poets have the convulsions of the Sibyl without her inspiration, so certain controversialists of the day have the noise of a discharge of heavy artillery without any projectile. What they forget is the immense capacity of the public to discount everything. Wild exaggerations are taken for even less than the facts. By repetition sensations become stale commonplaces. And the vehement man who tears passion to tatters and exhausts the vocabulary of invective in attacking somebody is apt to get from a judicious hearer the bland inquiry: "Am I to infer that you don't like him?"

IMMERGED EMERGENCY.

It is unnecessary and unkind, however natural, for The Toronto World to warn this country that, if it tries to put an embargo on Canadian importations, two can play at that game, and Canada will put an embargo on American importations. The embarrassed protectionists at Washington, exhibiting to the farmers the solemn farce called the Fordney Emergency Tariff bill, don't like to be rudely interrupted. Can't the Canadians take a joke? Could there be a more delicious joke than a tariff of 15 cents a bushel on imported corn? The country produces some 3,000,000,000 bushels a year. In 1918 we exported 49,000,000 bushels and imported 5,000,000. If importation were prohibited, the American price would be changed by a shadowy fraction too small to see.

For the benefit of a little band of California lemon growers the rate on lemons is jacked up 150 per cent. Everybody uses lemons. A few people raise them. The greatest good of the smallest number is a sacred principle. Let us do something for the poor peanut grower, said the sages at Washington. So they give him a little tariff boost of only 325 per cent.; "and he gets it," says Representative HULL of Tennessee, "in the face of "the statistical fact that the combined "import and domestic production of "peanuts leaves a deficiency for do- "mestic consumption of 220,000,000 "pounds for the years 1919-20, "when compared with the preceding "year." Friends of farm products not included in the bill have watched it with jealous eyes. Why have they no portion in this Government pap? So amendments for their benefit, extending the saving blessings of protection to about everything raised on the farm, have been slapped on the bill in committee.

These amendments are but infants to the full-grown additions which its opponents are to impose upon it. The Immigration bill and the Soldiers' Bonus bill, affectingly germane, are the least of these. Senator HARRISON of Mississippi will give an endurance test. The Little bill for the recodification of the Federal Statutes will have to be recited in all its majestic length. In that ocean of 3,000,000 words the protection ark will be sunk. Some incorrigible cynics and "free traders" even threaten to dump the Treaty of Versailles on that laboring craft. The bill wasn't meant to be passed. It is merely an evidence of good faith to the farmers. It is intended to reconcile them to being bled for the benefit of the manufacturers by the tariff law to be framed by the next Congress according to the immortal principles of DINGLEY, PAYNE, WILLIAM D. KELLEY and ALDRICH.

CLIMBING DOWN.

Mayor HYLAN went to Canossa yesterday. The snow wasn't very deep and Mr. WHITMAN let him in after a brief sojourn on the doorstep, but it seems that the things that happened were the things that Mr. WHITMAN wanted. Whatever policemen Mr. WHITMAN and District Attorney SWANN may require for assistance in their investigation will be assigned to this duty, and the rule of the Police Department which requires them to report their adventures before the Grand Jury to the Police Commissioner will be rescinded at once. No doubt this will deprive Mr. ENRIGHT, if he continues to be Police Commissioner, of the privilege of hearing many interesting stories that might while away his leisure moments. In compensation, he was not called on to tell anything to the Grand Jury, if indeed he knew anything of sufficient importance to distract the attention of that busy organization.

Mr. WHITMAN, whatever his limitations, knows a great deal about the District Attorney's office and the Police Department and investigations. He knows how to get what he wants. He observed yesterday afternoon: "The District Attorney is a consti- "tutional officer. He is answerable "to the Governor and not to the "Mayor. He is the chief criminal law "officer of the county, and he pro- "poses to act as such until further "notice." And Mayor HYLAN, importuned for a statement after the conference, could only say to his interviewer, "You need a shave." This temporary intellectual barrenness may or may not have been due to the fact that he had told Mr. WHITMAN everything he knew; it may even have been due to the fact that Mr. WHITMAN had told him something. At any rate, a "purely disciplinary" regulation of the Police Department has gone overboard and an obstacle has been removed from the progress of the investigation.

IMPORTANCE OF NAVAL AVIATION.

The flight of Captain HENRY C. MUSTIN'S squadron of twelve seaplanes from San Diego, Cal., to Panama ranks as the finest service achievement of the aeronautical branch of the navy. Two planes under his command did not finish with the others; they were underpowered, being equipped with three motors instead of four. The twelve planes that arrived at Panama weathered a heavy squall in the Gulf of Tehuantepec. Only one forced landing is reported. Never before has so large a squadron of seaplanes of the United States Navy, or of any other navy so far as is known, made a flight of nearly 500 miles without a stop. Captain MUSTIN'S entire fourteen planes flew all the way from Salina Cruz to Fonseca Bay. As usual, the Liberty motor gave a good account of itself.

Every now and then an American seaplane or a squadron of planes does something that makes our people proud of the aviation branch of the navy, but soon it is forgotten. In his annual report Secretary DANIELS said that naval aviation had "given fresh "evidence of its efficiency in ma- "noeuvres with the fleet and in the "most extended cruises ever made by "seaplanes." There was, for instance, a seven months' voyage, 12,781 miles in all, of six flying boats "under "their own power without serious "mishap or loss of life." To quote the Secretary: "They were often "'landed' in the open sea in winds "up to thirty-five or forty knots an "hour, and they rode in safety and "without damage in gales exceeding "eighty knots an hour." "Aviation "has taken its place as an integral "part of the fleet," Mr. DANIELS realizes, adding:

> No part of our Government more heartily favors restricting expenditure than does the Navy Department, but it is false economy to hamper the development of so important an activity as aviation by failing to provide an organization under which it can accomplish the best results.

The Secretary has recommended the creation of a Bureau of Aeronautics and relieving the Chief of Naval Operations of all details of aviation. He declared that "neither lack of nec- "essary funds nor of an organization "fitted to its needs should be allowed "to hamper the development of this "youngest and most promising branch "of the service." But the organization is lacking, and it is like pulling teeth to get adequate appropriations from Congress for a service that in the opinion of reputable specialists should prove more effective in a sudden emergency of war than the battle fleet itself. Calculating that two hostile navies possess superdreadnoughts of equal fighting power, the one having the more powerful aviation auxiliary should win the war at sea.

If the United States neglects its naval aviation branch it will be in danger in the event of a conflict with even a second-rate sea Power well equipped with torpedo and bombing planes. It is something to be proud of that NC-5 flew from San Diego to Magdalena Bay, 702 miles, the other day with a pilot and five men, but if the American people want a strong aviation branch they will have to move on Congress for adequate appropriations.

"UN-AMERICAN AND UN-CHRISTIAN."

It is an extraordinary list of widely representative names that was attached to yesterday's protest against anything like anti-Semitism in the United States. Denunciation of it as at once "un-American and un-Christian" comes with peculiar force from the signers, including, as they do, the President of the United States and members of his Cabinet, heads of colleges and universities, men eminent in the law and in business, as well as many Christian prelates and clergymen. They must have felt it a chivalrous as well as patriotic thing thus to step forward to repel calumnies directed at a single element in our democracy.

The fantastic nature of the material made use of in this campaign of slander and distrust against the Jews has often been exposed. It is a valuable added testimony, however, which ex-Secretary LANSING bears when he writes that he had examined the so-called "Protocols" and found them to be "forgeries circulated for malicious purposes." These particular things will soon drop out of sight, but the spirit behind them is one against which we must continually guard. There is no place in this country for deliberately propagated race prejudices and hatreds. To the Jews in America, who have enough serious problems of their own, it must be especially gratifying that the right hand of democratic fellowship and confidence has thus been held out to them by distinguished and fair-minded men not of their blood. In this the fundamental and typical American attitude is truly represented.

POINCARE AND BRIAND.

With the return of BRIAND to the Premiership it may be supposed that MILLERAND'S experiment in Presidential Government has met with a check. For the moment, indeed, BRIAND and MILLERAND seem to have more or less the same purpose, at least so far as dealings with Germany are concerned, but BRIAND is too important a figure to admit much restraint from the Elysée. And if at the interallied conference which is to be held a week from today—postponed from tomorrow to allow the new Ministry to get itself settled—BRIAND fails to make the progress that French opinion seems to demand, it is not impossible that the direction of French policy may pass into the hands of POINCARE.

Since that conference is to be held, it was obviously necessary to construct a French Government after the fall of LEYGUES which should have the strongest possible support in the Chamber. BRIAND can count on a good deal of backing, but POINCARE is the leader of a party which is very strong, and will continue to be strong so long as France feels the effects of the war. POINCARE'S position is logically faultless. Germany began the war; Germany caused the war; Germany devastated France and herself escaped invasion; and by a treaty signed by Germany and guaranteed by all France's allies Germany promised to pay for the damage. If she does not pay, let her take the consequences. Nothing is the matter with this reasoning except that possibly Germany cannot pay, yet so much interested propaganda of various sorts has intruded into this question that POINCARE and his followers have some excuse for doubts on that point.

Nevertheless, the policy of which POINCARE is the ablest representative would not only perpetuate bitterness of feeling between Germany and France, but would possibly fail to get as much out of Germany as the more moderate policies which MILLERAND has pursued. To talk of an indemnity of $60,000,000,000, as some French economists have been doing, is to jump clear out of the world of actuality. And whatever can be got out of Germany can probably be got more promptly and with less friction by peaceful methods than by further invasions. Above all, POINCARE'S policies would hardly find much support from British statesmen, who from various motives dis-agree with his theories, and whom he has criticised of late with a rather fierce frankness.

So for the allied conference, at least, BRIAND will be a leader more likely to insure British co-operation. An effort was made to get POINCARE to enter BRIAND'S Cabinet as Minister of Finance, but he refused. He refused because as Finance Minister under BRIAND he would have had no power to control the expenditures of other Ministers nor to direct the negotiations for the indemnity by which he still hopes to cover many of those expenditures. Fifty billion francs have been expended or appropriated for the restoration of the devastated regions, and that money must be recovered from Germany. Before POINCARE would assume responsibility for it he wanted to be sure that he could have his own way about methods of getting it.

BRIAND and MILLERAND have rebuffed POINCARE and the added strength he might have brought to the Cabinet, in order to conciliate the British. But this means that BRIAND must come out of the conference with acquisitions in the way of British support that will satisfy the large group in the Chamber which follows POINCARE. If not, BRIAND will probably have to step out. One Paris paper interpreted the fall of the Leygues Ministry as a sign that the nation wanted somebody other than Mr. LLOYD GEORGE as French foreign Minister. This would doubtless seem a strange idea to Mr. LLOYD GEORGE, who probably thinks he has given up as much as he got in his conferences with MILLERAND and LEYGUES. But it seems to express a view widely held in France. What happened to LEYGUES was a warning to BRIAND that the Chamber expects results.

PRACTICAL AND THEORETICAL TAXES.

The Merchants' Association announces its votes on the fifteen tax proposals which the United States Chamber of Commerce submitted to a referendum. The most interesting is perhaps that for a sales tax. The association's committee had the benefit of hearing some of the theoretical opponents of the sales tax, and they decided against it. But the association itself rejected its committee's report and resolved in favor of the sales tax, especially if it is decided to proceed with the amortization of the national debt at the rate of $300,000,000 a year. If such a considerable sum is to be raised the association's opinion is that "it might be raised by a gen- "eral turnover tax of one-third of 1 "per cent. on commodities." Apart from the merit of the sales tax there is something to be said in favor of allocating special taxes to specific uses, so that the taxpayers may know what their money goes for. The fate of the soldiers' bonus billions might depend upon its association with the taxes for it.

The association votes against the excess profits tax, of course, and also in favor of an income tax, with lower surtaxes and no increase in the normal rate on individuals. The association's explanation of its fifteen votes is too detailed to be followed through on each of them, especially as many are of minor interest. The yield of a tax is dependent considerably on the good-will of the taxpayers. A bad tax approved by them might produce more than a better tax adopted over their protest. Whatever the intrinsic merit of the sales tax, one of its leading assets is that the taxpayers favor it.

DADAISTS AND FUTURISTS.

It is surprising that such a booer of the bourgeois as Mr. MARINETTI, head and front of the Futurists, should revamp so wornout a notion as "tactilism," that is, the theory that as much delight, esthetic and imaginative, can be had from the sense of touch as from the other senses. No doubt the Greek Hedonists "discovered" the notion, and it must have been well known to SARDANAPALUS and pale SEMIRAMIS. A generation ago OSCAR WILDE attributed a deep sense of tactile pleasure to Dorian Gray, who loved to finger old copes and brocades and book bindings and jewels and the rest of the library of dilettantism.

Doubtless by arrangement, those other posing mystificators, the Dadaists, pretend to be disturbed by tactilism. They say it is foolish, in which case it is the same thing as Dadaism. That Zürich-born progeny of a syndicate, French, German, Spanish and what not, has been declared officially by one of the most illustrious of Dadaists, FRANCIS PICABIA, to mean nothing in the world, "absolutely nothing." That being the case, why does it squeak and gibber so much? If it would take up "tactilism" and drop all other forms by which it amuses itself and bores the world, the world would be much obliged.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

At Least He Is Cheerful.

According to Dr. CARSTENSEN, rector of Holyrood Church, this city, the young people of today are neither wild nor immoral. So he told the students of St. Stephen's College, up in Annandale, and he also told them that "the average student in college today is at least twice as clean, twice as honest and twice as hard a worker as was the average collegian of fifty years ago."

This is encouraging news, and in pleasing contrast with a great deal of current talk about modern youth. There is some difficulty, however, in believing that the young of the human species has appreciably changed in the last fifty years, or in the last 5,000, for that matter, and still harder is it to escape the doubt that anybody has a large and really intimate knowledge of any college students except those in the small group of which he was himself a part in his own college days.

The confidences of youth to old age, or even to maturity, never were apt to be complete, and they are not so now any more than in the past. On the other hand, there is not, and never was, any such person—or animal—as "the average college student," there having been always, and being, as many kinds of them as there are students, and incommensurables cannot be averaged.

That college students now are cleaner, in the literal sense of that word, than they were in the not very remote days when bathtubs with running water were unknown in college dormitories—that is probable, but it is not certain, for such bathing facilities are a convenience rather than a necessary in the maintenance of personal cleanliness, and for more than fifty years collegians have not been open to much adverse criticism on that score.

Idlers and Workers Everywhere.

In crediting the college student of today with more honesty and industry than that student's father and grandfather had, Dr. CARSTENSEN may have been right, but it is unlikely that he could prove the contention—or that anybody else could prove the opposite. Again one runs against the unchangeableness of human nature, no matter how much customs and manners may change, and again against the endless and wide diversity of human beings. There were honest, hard-working students always, and one sadly must admit that always there will be students who are dishonest and idle.

As for another belief of Dr. CARSTENSEN—that the students in small colleges have a higher standard of honor than those in the great universities—he may have been misled by the fact that the larger institutions attract more students not seriously interested in getting as much of education as they can for their money than do the smaller ones, but even after due allowance has been made for this peculiarity, perhaps the ratio of the sober-minded to the frivolous is about the same in both.

It is not to be forgotten, however, that in the big colleges the poor student can find the more opportunities for supplementing his scanty resources, and that therefore those colleges have their full share of students who, as the saying is, are working their way through. And they are hard-working enough—often too much so.

Exhortation Seems Superfluous.

To a good many people there is something just a little irritating in the ordination of a "thrift week," and in all the exhortation not to spend money rashly or needlessly that has preceded and is accompanying it. What the innumerable preachers on this subject say is all true, of course, but it has been said so many times, to so little purpose, that its repetition is more than a little wearisome. Especially is it irritating to those, always numerous and just now more numerous than ever, who, from stern necessity, are practicing economy to the extent of their ability, and, without waiting for anybody to tell them to be thrifty, long since revised their expenditures and cut down—or out—conveniences and comforts and pleasures that they had come to think of as essential to worth-while living.

The irritation of these enforced economists tends to change into anger when, in alternation to advisers who tell them to buy nothing they can do without, come others of at least equal authority who warn them that if they do this they will throw all the workers out of employment, bankrupt the manufacturers and shopkeepers and bring the whole population down in universal ruin. The "buyers' strike" is as bitterly denounced as was the purchase of silk shirts a few months ago.

As a matter of fact there has been no strike of buyers and there is none now. There has been, and is, a somewhat widespread determination no longer to pay extortionate prices for which the war was a much better explanation than excuse—a determination to teach the lesson that the doctrine of replacement value works two ways instead of only one, as the profiteers would like to have us believe.

Recognition Came in His Lifetime.

All of the cordial praise bestowed by the representatives of many nations on the late Major Gen. GORGAS in Washington on Sunday was well earned by his achievements. His fame rests securely on the promptness with which he recognized, and the efficiency with which he used, the demonstration by REED, CARROLL, LAZEAR and ASPERMONTE that FINLAY guessed right when he guessed that mosquitos distributed yellow fever.

Too often in medical history such discoveries as this have had to fight a long, hard battle against the antagonism of men whose beliefs and theories they overturned, but for once the proof was accepted as soon as it was presented, and it was the good fortune of General GORGAS to be in a position that enabled him to put it brilliantly into service. What he did in Cuba laid a firm foundation on which to build in Panama, and after that he was known the world over as the conqueror of the worst of tropic fevers in the very places where its defeat had been regarded as hopeless.

It is not too much to say that GORGAS made possible the building of the isthmian canal. He did it, and it would be irrelevant to say that others could have performed the task. He was and will remain a glory to his country and to his profession. International jealousy has not touched him, and not even briefly did he have to encounter the ridicule that Dr. FINLAY had to endure for twenty years because of bringing a grave charge against an insect that everybody else regarded as only troublesome and annoying.

HURTING GRAIN MARKETS.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

There is immediate danger that the system of marketing grain in this country will be ruined by the enactment of ill-considered laws touching the operation of existing methods of future trading. Well-intentioned people of the agricultural sections, disappointed at the decline in grain prices, have become obsessed with the idea that the situation would be improved by the elimination of all speculative trading. They propose legislation which attempts to differentiate between hedging and speculative grain trading, which in practice is impossible. Elimination of speculation from the grain futures market would so reduce the volume of trading as to render the markets practically useless for hedging purposes.

Should the hedging process be eliminated, a serious situation would arise in the credit market and loans to millers and grain men would be so reduced as to make it difficult if not impossible to carry on business. Many banks insist that their customers make purchases of grain only against sales or hedges, and should such protection be denied them it is obvious that credits to these interests must be greatly curtailed. In the case of some grain houses this would mean granting one-quarter or one-tenth the line of credit now extended, the lender being governed by the financial resources of the borrower. Millers would get only one-quarter or one-half their present line.

Without the ability to hedge, the handlers of grain would be forced to exact a much larger margin of profit from the producer as protection against a possible decline in price. It stands to reason that the net price paid the producer in such circumstances would be less than it now is under the hedging system. The miller also, being unable to protect his sales of flour by hedges in the grain market, would be obliged to exact from the consumer a large toll so as to protect himself against an advance in the price of raw material.

It is obvious, therefore, that the abandonment of the hedging process, instead of benefiting the producers of grain, would work toward lower prices to them, curtail all credit advances upon grain collateral and ultimately exact a higher price for flour and so injure the great consuming public. This is surely not the time to force a further advance in the necessaries of life as would result if Congress enacted laws upsetting the present system of marketing grain without substituting a better system for the one abandoned. A Committee of Seventeen representing various farmers' organizations has been trying for some time to devise a better system for marketing grain, but so far has not been able to improve upon present methods.

Hasty legislation along this line would work injury to producers, handlers, purchasers and consumers of grain and force such a contraction of credits as would disrupt a basic industry of world-wide importance. Such a change, instead of improving the position of the farmer, would injure him and all others connected with the grain marketing process. There are enough frozen loans already in the banks of this country without imperiling another vast line of credit and the solvency of hundreds of interests identified within the American grain trade. Canadian Sensitiveness.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Being a Canadian, I was interested and not a little amused to read your comments upon the Lewis letter in Saturday's TIMES. You begin by asking why Canadians are so sensitive about their living "north of the people who live south of them" and, as an example of this sensitiveness, you cite the Lewis letter, in which he discusses some erroneous impressions held by New Yorkers about Canada's climate.

I would agree with your criticism if these false impressions were confined to the matter of climate, but they invade other fields. For instance, an American college graduate asked me the other day to describe the way England governed Canada and the kind of men England sent over for that purpose. The same individual was greatly astonished to learn that Canadians dealt in "dollars and cents" instead of "pounds, shillings and pence." I am also reminded of an American who had just been "cooned" (sold) at Niagara Falls and who asked this amazing question: "Is this the town of Canada?"

Do you wonder that Canadians are a trifle sensitive when they meet Americans who hold these strange ideas?

A Woman Opera Director.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Your newspaper, in common with other journals, says that the appointment of Miss Mary Garden as head of the Chicago Opera Association marks the first time a woman has held this position in the world.

This is not exactly the case, for an Italian prima donna whose name escapes me has during the past year or year and a half directed the fortunes of the opera seasons at the Teatro Costanzi in Rome. In this instance the singer abandoned her career as a public performer to devote her entire time and energy to the details of management, a step we all trust Miss Garden will not take. JOHN RAYMOND.

MISS BARBARA.

She reads them over lingeringly, each one,
Before she drops them in the glowing grate;
'Tis time to part with them, for it is late
Has slipped behind the mountains, and begun
The veiling twilight's sure, swift fall; her fate
Is like a myriad others—those who wait
With quiet courage till the night is done.

But these she will not leave for stranger eyes—
Now half forgotten; and in these there lies

So, one by one, she drops them tenderly
Upon the white-hot coals, watching them rise
In beautiful swift flames, her gentle eyes
Bright with the visions which her soul can see,
Before they fall to ashes utterly,
In this her fire of evening sacrifice.
Their revelations will not now surprise
Those who have deemed her loveless—pityingly.

The flames through all the crinkling pages dart—
Blue, golden-hued and crimson-glowing streams—
As beautiful as were the youthful dreams
That flashed their short-lived glory on her days,
Warm as the young affection of her heart.
Then flames and dreams are lost in smoky haze.

LOIS WHITTLESEY.

THE SALES TAX BUSINESS WANTS.

A Levy on Merchants' Gross Sales and Not a "General Turnover Tax."

By ROBERT R. REED.

THE TIMES of Jan. 9 carried a statement by Arthur A. Ballantine, replying to an address by Hugh Satterlee reprinted in THE TIMES of Jan. 2, Mr. Satterlee advocating a sales tax and Mr. Ballantine opposing it. In advocating a sales tax I have substantially two points of difference with Mr. Satterlee, and those two points dispose of most of Mr. Ballantine's reply and also of the arguments against the sales tax contained in the report of the Special Tax Committee of the National Industrial Conference Board. This report represents, I believe, the views of a majority of the committee, although I imagine that it was prepared with the assistance of Mr. Ballantine and Dr. Adams and other sales tax opponents who were good enough to volunteer their services to the committee. In any event their whole case is ably summarized in Mr. Ballantine's reply to Mr. Satterlee and is directed very largely to the all-embracing tax on all sales or "turnovers," which is not in fact the proposal advocated by leading mercantile and business interests. Mr. Satterlee has by experience become strongly opposed to all special excise taxes and desires to substitute for them a general tax of 1 per cent. "on all sales by any one to any one."

It is not necessary in advocating a sales tax to oppose special excise taxes as such, and the sales tax advocated by leading mercantile interests is not a tax on all sales by any one to any one, but a merchants' gross sales tax, i. e., a tax of 1 per cent. upon the gross sales of "each and every business involving the sale of any commodities or merchandise produced, manufactured or purchased by the vendor for sale." A tax on so-called capital transactions, such as the sale of a house, of a going business or of securities, is radically different in principle and in its character and effects as a consumption tax.

There is no doubt that the special excise taxes are discriminatory and in many cases unfair to particular businesses. Because of this fact, it will not be possible to obtain from such taxes anything like the amount estimated and desired by the leading opponents of the gross sales tax. At the same time a few excise taxes are productive and administerable, and there is no objection in principle to special excise taxes as such. It should be observed that the final report of the Special Tax Committee of the National Industrial Conference Board, which Mr. Ballantine defends, has abandoned the effort made in its tentative report to specify the new excise taxes which it urges. Mr. Ballantine states that it has abandoned the proposal to tax sugar, tea and coffee, in fact, it abandons the effort to name these and others as proposed specific taxes, apparently in the hope that Congress will be able to put over these or equivalent taxes which at the present time cannot be safely urged or defended.

In the recent Ways and Means Committee hearings, ex-Senator Hardwick, appearing for important interests subject to a 10 per cent. sales tax on their product, stated that the tax tended to curtail their business and to "destroy the industry," and was unsound "because it imposes a heavy sales tax upon certain businesses and industries not imposed upon other industries and businesses." His statement impressed the committee, and it is certain that objections of this character will both remove a large amount of revenue now raised by such taxes and defeat any effort to secure any great amount of additional revenue from new similar taxes. My point is not that all these taxes are objectionable as such, but that they cannot be depended upon as a revenue alternative to the fairer and more general merchants' gross sales tax.

The real weakness in Mr. Satterlee's excellent argument, however, and the one which Mr. Ballantine and other opponents of the gross sales tax delight to meet, lies in the advocacy of a "general turnover" or "gross income" tax. This is not the merchants' gross sales tax. The tax platform of the New York Board of Trade and Transportation, originally proposed by Galey & Lord, calls for "the levying on each and every business involving the sale of any commodities or merchandise produced, manufactured or purchased by the vendor for a tax equal to 1 per cent. of the gross sales of such business." This proposal has been adopted by local business chambers in over twenty-five States. In the referendum of the National Association of Manufacturers it has received an 87 per cent. affirmative vote, about seven to one. This proposal has also been recently urged, at an initial one-third of 1 per cent., by Otto H. Kahn, and is substantially the merchants' gross sales tax now in successful operation in the Philippines. Like the "business" turnover tax in France, it involves no question of exempting sales of capital assets, because such sales are not within the primary conception or principle of a mercantile sales tax or, indeed, of a consumption tax. Mr. Ballantine, however, following Dr. Adams's lead, says that "other sales tax advocates less consistent than Mr. Satterlee would exempt" capital transactions. These gentlemen would like to brush aside the distinctive sales tax proposal actually urged by the most representative business interests, and to defeat the whole proposal by playing up the "consistent" idea of classing in a consumption tax the sale of a man's house or of investment securities with the gross sales of a mercantile business. It is apparent that a 1 per cent. tax on capital transactions would be prohibitive if many transactions and would defeat itself; in fact, Dr. Adams, speaking recently, not of the gross sales tax, but of the proposal to increase the tax on sales of securities from one-fiftieth of 1 per cent. to one-fifth of 1 per cent., expressed the view that so high a tax would so diminish transactions as to reduce the yield. Possibly the most logical tax on capital sales would be an excise tax equal to, say, 8 per cent. of the profit, if any, on the sale; such profit, of course, being exempted from the income tax. On mercantile sales a 1 per cent. tax is negligible as affecting the transaction and goes directly, not indirectly, into consumption. The things are different in principle, however easily they may be included in one general statement. We urge no exemption, because the distinctive tax which we propose requires no exemption.

The analysis leaves nothing of Mr. Ballantine's reply to Mr. Satterlee, and there is in fact nothing in the final report of the Special Tax Committee as it affects the avoided issue of a merchants' gross sales tax except the "integrated industry" argument which is so ably answered in THE TIMES editorial of Jan. 9. A difference of 5 to 10 cents on a pair of shoes is not going to destroy any necessary middleman or single process manufacturer. This argument is the chief of the "sales tax ghosts" which have gotten on the nerves of a relatively few business men. No one can question the skill with which the proponents, apologists and beneficiaries of existing and proposed profits taxes have sought to overcome the widespread advocacy of the merchants' gross sales tax or fail to record the large measure of undeserved success which they have so far had in confusing the issue and stemming the tide of genuine tax reform. Personally I do not question Mr. Ballantine's entire good faith or his experience in taxation problems during the last three years. Like all of us who have had to do with the taxpayers' and Government's difficulties under the present and earlier laws, he recognizes their outstanding injustices and the need of change. But apparently he does not grasp, as does Mr. Satterlee, who feels perhaps less paternal interest in the present law, the need of a clean sweep, so to speak, of experimental profits taxation and also of discriminatory excise taxes. This does not mean the abandonment either of the income tax, normal and graduated, or of proper excise taxes. It should mean the substantial elimination of the varying, accidental and discriminatory features of such taxes as they now rest on the periodic book profits and necessary transactions of the ordinary going business.

One more point is important. Much is being said of sales taxes, past and present, in various countries. Briefly these other laws demonstrate two things: first, the necessity of caution in the kind of a sales tax that is adopted, and second, the complete success of the merchants' gross sales tax where it has been tried.

AN ECONOMIC CONFERENCE.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The Congress which meets in Washington March 4th next, as well as the Congress in session there today, will face problems which transcend in importance the interests of the respective constituencies of Senators and Representatives and even of the collective constituency of both Houses. The voters in the last election did, it is true, refuse to sanction the transfer in any degree of legislative power over provision for the contributions of the United States to the peace and prosperity of the world to the representatives of foreign nations. Yet the American people did not by their verdict declare for non-participation of the United States in the solution of the world problems arising out of the war.

It may be said without fear of controversy that our people desire that the nation shall do its utmost to advance the general welfare not of the country alone, but of the rest of the world, even though by generous sacrifice by our people.

It is not a theory that confronts the world but a condition. The working-out is not to be by log-rolling or bargaining. It is not a question of interest at all but of the common salvation. Millions of human beings are starving. They are in no position to bargain and the interest of those now more fortunately placed far transcends material consideration. What is preeminently best for all is the supreme law for the world today. In an attempt to respond to all the demands of the present not only our national legislative system but the political machinery of every nation on earth must break down. The situation is but feebly suggested by the then startling voice of the great Corn Law convert of England when he uttered the historic words of his masterpiece:

> "Sir, I may be wrong, but my impression is that my duty towards a country threatened with famine requires that which has been the ordinary remedy under all similar circumstances should be resorted to now, namely, that there should be free access to the food of man from whatever quarter it may come * * * Deprive me of my office tomorrow, you can never deprive me of the consciousness that I have exercised the powers committed to me from no corrupt or interested motives, from no desire to gratify ambition, from no personal gain."

All political representatives, large or small, should take heed that the voice of humanity in distress shall be heard above the din of commercial interests or all legislative assemblies throughout the world. The law of supply and demand in food and fuel products and in raw materials is a subject for earnest conference and consultation by the best humanitarian minds of the world. They should meet at once in a Universal Economic Congress, and upon the result of their labors should the political legislators be guided and the nations act.

An Answer to Punch.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In an article from London Punch on "A Candid Appreciation of the United States," quoted at length in THE NEW YORK TIMES of Dec. 30, Mr. Punch makes the following interesting observations:

> "Indeed your memory [the memory of the United States] is not very good. Your Monroe Doctrine, which insists that nobody from outside shall interfere with your affairs, escapes you whenever you want to interfere with other people's. You even forget at convenient times your own Civil War. Just as there was not a protest made by you against the methods of our blockade of Germany for which an answer could not be found in some precedent set by you in that war of the North and the South, so now the best answer to your sympathy with the preposterous claims of the Irish Republic is to be found in those four years in which you fought so bloodily to preserve the integrity of your own Union."

Overlooking inaccuracies in the foregoing, may I call his attention to pages 186-187 of "The Education of Henry Adams"? He will find there a somewhat piquant answer. Let me quote a few sentences:

> "On the morning of Oct. 7 he [Gladstone] entered in his diary: 'Reflected further on what I should say about Lancashire and America, for both these subjects are critical.' That evening he deliberately pronounced the famous phrase: 'We may have our own opinions about slavery; we may be for or against the South; but there is no doubt that Jefferson Davis and other leaders of the South have made an army; they are making, it appears, a navy; and they have made, what is more than either, they have made a nation.'"
> "As morals, one could detect no shade of difference between Gladstone and Napoleon except to the advantage of Napoleon. No one knew so well as he [Gladstone] that he and his own officials and friends at Liverpool were alone 'making' a rebel navy, and that Jefferson Davis had next to nothing to do with it. As chancellor of the Exchequer he was the Minister most interested in knowing that Palmerston, Russell and himself were banded together by mutual pledge to make the Confederacy a nation the next week, and that the Southern leaders had as yet no hope of 'making a nation' but in them. * * * Never in the history of political turpitude had any brigand of modern civilization offered a worse example." UPKEEP DEFICIT SHOWN BY MUSEUM

Trustees Report That Metropolitan Otherwise Had a Prosperous Year.

SHORTAGE LAID TO GROWTH

Attendance Increases 46,865 and Membership Receipts Gain $39,640.

The [illegible] of the trustees of the Metropolitan Museum of Art, read at the annual meeting of the corporation yesterday afternoon, showed that, with the exception of a deficit for running expenses, last year was one of the Museum's most profitable and successful. There was a large attendance at the meeting. The report said:

[illegible] while acknowledging the generosity of members, which has been [illegible] before, and the action of the city in appropriating $500,000 toward the Museum's support, the trustees are obliged to report a deficit of $273,-[illegible] in the cost of administration this year. The expense of running the Museum has [illegible] annually since its foundation. This year it was $797,-[illegible], and the income from all sources [illegible] was $524,-[illegible] [illegible]

[illegible] the growth of the Museum, which causes its constantly increasing running expenses, the report said: An appeal by President Robert W. de Forest last Fall brought in new members and contributions which made it possible to take care of the 1920 deficit, but for the coming year, unless there are greater resources, the deficit will be even larger, it is feared.

The Museum received two important bequests last year, that of William [illegible], comprising an extensive collection [illegible] and the collection of ten paintings and two master pieces of French furniture from William K. Vanderbilt.

The payments on account of money [illegible] [illegible] $1,080,000.

[illegible] 2,798 objects of art, 28 of 577 prints and 98 of 1,281 books and photographs for the library. There were purchased [illegible] 2,796 objects of art, 662 prints and 1,708 books and photographs.

President de Forest laid special stress upon the value of a large membership and said that efforts to increase the membership last year would be continued. The total receipts from membership during the year were $118,600. This is a gain of $39,640. The total membership at the close of the year was 9,571.

The Museum's showed an increased attendance, a total of 926,808, larger than any year in its history, except in 1909, when the Hudson-Fulton celebration brought crowds of visitors to New York and to the Museum. This was an increase over the attendance of 1919 of 46,865.

Assistant Director Joseph Breck, representing Director Edward Robinson, now traveling on leave in Europe, spoke of the general activities of the Museum, and there were reports from each of the different departments showing notable extensions and acquisitions.

In December a marble tablet in memory of the late J. Pierpont Morgan, one of the Museum's chief benefactors and for many years its President, was erected and [illegible] D. Norton was elected during the year to fill the vacancy in the Board of Trustees, class of 1923, caused by the death of Henry C. Frick. Among those at the meeting were A. [illegible] Charles A. Leale, Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. de Forest, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Mansfield, Miss A. B. Jennings, Mrs. James J. Higginson, Gordon Bell, Miss Eleanor Blodgett, Otto Spengler, Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Haines Halsey, Elihu Root, Edwin H. Blashfield, Mr. and Mrs. Charles D. 1,000 GREET MENGELBERG.

Willem Mengelberg was the guest of honor at a large reception held yesterday at the Ritz-Carlton, under the auspices of Dr. B. Hubrecht, the Netherlands Chargé d'Affaires at Washington, and members of the Netherlands Committee for Arts, Science and Friendly Relations. Last night Dr. Hubrecht entertained the Dutch orchestra conductor at dinner at the Ritz.

More than a thousand attended the reception, and a group of society young women handed out programs and a booklet on Holland's artistic relations with America. The Holland Society, Daughters of Holland Dames, Colonial Dames of America and the Daughters of the Cincinnati were largely represented.

Dr. A. J. Barnouw, the Queen Wilhelmina Lecturer at Columbia University, spoke on behalf of the Netherlands Committee. In speaking of the conductor's arrival in New York he said: "I should not wonder if you stood dumfounded, on arriving in New York, at the terrific and never-ceasing din of this city, and exclaimed: 'Oh, if all that noise were music for me to conduct!' And, indeed, if you possessed the magical power to create harmony out of this chaos of sound you would deserve the gratitude of all New Yorkers for curing them of their various nervous ailments."

CARISBROOKE ENTERTAINED.

Lady Geddes Gives Reception for Marquis, Cousin of King George V.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—The presence of the Marquis of Carisbrooke, cousin of King George V. of England and brother of the Queen of Spain, made changes in Washington's social program yesterday. Lady Geddes, wife of the British Ambassador, canceled a dinner engagement to entertain in honor of the royal visitor at the British Embassy.

The Marquis, who was known on a former visit to Washington as Prince Leopold of Battenberg, is the guest for several days of Representative and Mrs. Nicholas Longworth. His visit to Washington is without official significance, but of great social interest.

CROWDER REPORTS GOOD.

Cubans Helped in Finding Solution of Political Tangle.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—Reports from Major Gen. Crowder are optimistic as to the general situation in Cuba, according to officials of the State Department. Having spent the first week of his stay in Havana in trying to find a way out of the political difficulties which had involved the young republic, General Crowder has been devoting the last two or three days, the State Department has been advised, to the financial and economic troubles of the island.

It is the general opinion here that this portion of his labor will not prove as difficult as that of unraveling the political tangle. Reports received here indicate that General Crowder has been successful in discovering the causes of the political differences and in showing how these can be overcome. This accomplished, it is believed that an adjustment of the financial and economic disturbances can be brought about promptly.

Although General Crowder, according to reports, is making rapid progress in the mission on which President Wilson sent him to Cuba, it is not possible to say as yet how much longer it will be necessary for him to remain in Havana.

Representative Emerson of Ohio today introduced in the House a resolution which was referred to the Foreign Affairs Committee, requesting President Wilson, if not incompatible with the public good, to inform Congress which United States army officers and soldiers had been sent to Cuba to investigate conditions there.

FRENCH INVITE GERMANS.

Ask Influential Persons to Be Their Guests in War-Ruined Regions.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Jan. 17.—According to the Frankfurter Zeitung, the French authorities have hit upon a unique plan to convince influential Germans, such as high officials, clergymen, Mayors and Members of Parliament, of Germany's moral duty to make good the devastation caused by the war. The French Government is sending invitations to such persons to visit, as the guests of France, the devastated districts, which they may reach by train, while automobiles will there be placed at the visitors' service.

The authorities of several German cities have already received letters from the Allied Rhineland High Commission asking for the names of persons who are willing to accept the invitations.

PLACE BUST OF JENNY LIND

In the Aquarium, Once Castle Garden, Where She Made Her Debut.

Following an appropriate ceremony and a short address by Dr. Johannes Hoving, Chairman of a committee of artists and musicians here, a bust of Jenny Lind done in Carrara marble in 1848 by W. Von Hoyer, when the great diva visited Rome, was yesterday presented to the New York Zoological Society. The bust will be placed in the Aquarium at Battery Park, where Jenny Lind made her first appearance in America while the Aquarium was still the old Castle Garden.

The Memorial Committee was the outgrowth of the original Committee of Fifty which arranged the great Jenny Lind memorial concert at Carnegie Hall last October on the 100th anniversary of the singer's birth.

In the Fifth Avenue shops today there will be unusual activity, for Mrs. Warren G. Harding, soon to be the First Lady of the Land, is arriving tomorrow to purchase her White House wardrobe and all are eager for her patronage. The disappointment at the cancellation of the Inaugural Ball is still keen, but with the prospect of greater social activity in official circles than Washington has seen for years the designers and fashionable modistes are bending all their energies toward creating gowns for the anticipated functions of the new Administration.

Every confidence in Mrs. Harding as White House hostess has been expressed, as she has tact, charm and a perfect understanding of the duties of the wife of the President of the United States. But the designers are taking into consideration another quality much more important from their point of view—that of good looks. With her snow-white hair, pleasant face and trim figure they find in Mrs. Harding an inspiration for their talents, and all are eager to show the possibilities of such a combination.

She is much smaller than her recent predecessors—more the American figure as described by designers—and has unusually youthful lines for one of 55 years of age. While it is said that she has never given undue attention to clothes, she is always well groomed and correctly dressed for any occasion. She prefers rich materials in subdued tones and never wears gowns of extreme design.

Mrs. Harding has shown much interest in the details of her White House wardrobe and during the last few weeks has given much time to planning various gowns. Small wonder, then, that special displays are being placed in the Fifth Avenue shop windows and that within the needles are flying on original models for the First Lady of the Land to wear at some historic ball or dinner.

ALL SPARTA IS VANDERLIP'S.

Buys Last Building and Will Push Work on Model Town.

Special to The New York Times.

SCARSBOROUGH, N. Y., Jan. 17.—With the purchase today of one-half of the store building owned and occupied by Nicholas Sellazzo, a former saloon keeper, Frank A. Vanderlip completed the acquisition of every piece of property in Sparta, the village near here, which he expects to make a model town. Sellazzo, who had refused to sell, capitulated today when M. R. Burgson, another property owner, gave in to Mr. Vanderlip.

Mr. Vanderlip is now free to carry out his ideas of beautifying the ancient village, which was a stopping place of Washington and his troops in the Revolutionary War and the birthplace of Admiral John Worden, commander of the Monitor in the Civil War. Mr. Vanderlip acquired one-half of Sellazzo's property from a former partner of the latter. He recently began repairs on his half. Mr. Vanderlip declined to say how much he had paid Sellazzo, but it was said that the price asked was $20,000.

WILL BEAT HOUSE INCREASE.

Leaders Predict Certain Defeat for Bill to Raise Membership.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—Lines were sharply drawn tonight for a fight tomorrow over the Reapportionment bill, which would increase the membership of the House of Representatives from 435 to 483.

Leaders of those opposing the increase stated that the measure would be voted down decisively and that a substitute plan, holding seats to the present total, would be adopted.

There seemed little sentiment for a larger House. Members from States which would lose representation said they would vote against adding 48 Representatives at a cost of about $1,500,000 a year when there was a crying demand from all quarters for economy.

The Republican Steering Committee is reported solidly against the increase, not as a committee, but as individuals. Southern Democrats, it is said, are likely to support the substitute plan, as the shifting of seats would leave their present number intact.

JUSTICE F. M. CALDER DROPS DEAD IN COURT

UTICA, N. Y., Jan. 17.—Frederick M. Calder, who assumed his duties as Justice of the Supreme Court of the Fifth Judicial District Jan. 1, following his election in November, dropped dead while presiding in court here late this afternoon.

Death came without the slightest warning. Attorneys were engaged in questioning jurors when a choking sound from the bench attracted the attention of the courtroom. Justice Calder had slumped down in his chair and before the attorneys reached him he was dead. Cerebral apoplexy was the cause, physicians said.

Judge Calder was 59 years old. He was graduated from Hamilton College in 1882 and was admitted to the bar two years later. He served as Corporation Counsel of Utica in 1892 and for twelve years was Surrogate of Oneida County.

CHICAGO, Jan. 17.—Mrs. Cyrus Hall McCormick, wife of the Chairman of the Board of Directors of the International Harvester Company, died at a hospital here early today after a brief illness. Complications believed to have ensued from an operation several years ago for gall stones caused her removal to a hospital early in the year, but her condition had been favorable until Saturday, when Mr. McCormick, who was in New York on business, and Gordon, the younger son, a student at Princeton, were summoned and arrived a few hours before her death.

Mrs. McCormick, who was Miss Harriet Bradley Hammond, was born in England in 1862, but was brought to Chicago at an early age and reared by an aunt, Mrs. Edward Stickney, wife of one of the pioneer stockyards magnates of Chicago.

VANDERBILT HORSES TO BE BROUGHT HERE

NOTED SIRES IN GROUP

ONE DERBY WINNER ON LIST

Tchad Took French Classic in 1919 —8 Racers, in Training, and 26 Yearlings in Consignment.

A strong division of the powerful racing stable of the late William K. Vanderbilt, which for many years ruled the French turf, will be seen on the New York tracks during the coming season. Announcement to this effect was made yesterday by A. K. Macomber, the California sportsman who last September purchased the racing establishment following the death of Mr. Vanderbilt for a price said to have been about $1,000,000.

Mr. Macomber announced that he intended to ship to this country thirty-six of the horses that had formerly been part of the Vanderbilt stable. These will include two noted stallions which for several years were the backbone of the Vanderbilt breeding establishment at Le Quesnoy, in Normandy, Sea Sick and Oversight; eight horses in training which will be raced during the coming Summer, one being Tchad, a French Derby winner, and twenty-six yearlings.

The shipment will be made as soon as possible and the horses will be taken to the extensive Macomber stables at Belmont Park where later they will be joined by the home-breds of the Macomber string which will come on from California.

The horses which Mr. Macomber will send here constitute one of the greatest additions ever made to the American turf. Not only will this string add interest in racing and offer a comparison between foreign and home-bred racers, but it will also immensely strengthen the breeding industry, which is even now touching new heights. The stallions are to be sent either to Kentucky or California and will become the head of the American establishment of Mr. Macomber.

Some to Remain Abroad.

"I found that my French stable was unwieldy," said Mr. Macomber, "as I had bought other horses that were racing in France. These were obtained before the death of Mr. Vanderbilt. I did not wish to race two stables in France, and have accordingly decided to bring all the Vanderbilt horses to this country with the exception of the two and three-year-olds that were extensively engaged for the great French stakes."

It is thus that the American turf is to become enriched by the blood strains which the late Mr. Vanderbilt spent years and great sums of money to develop and which will now be continued through the efforts of Mr. Macomber.

The Vanderbilt racing establishment in France was long considered one of the greatest in the world, as well as one of the most successful, and was regarded as a model for ambitious breeders all over Europe. The main establishment was located at Le Quesnoy on a tract of about 500 acres, which it is said cost Mr. Vanderbilt about $1,000,000. It was here that the stars of the French turf were bred with all the care and skill that were at the command of the Vanderbilt fortune.

The quarters for the horses consisted of long rows of two-story stables with paddocks and pastures for each of the various units and so arranged that in the course of his lifetime a horse passed through all of the various departments of the huge farm. Separate quarters were maintained for the stallions and the brood mares.

Sea Sick and Oversight, which now come to this country, were two of the best of the stallions of the Vanderbilt breeding farm. Sea Sick, by Elf II.—Saf Saf, ran a dead heat with Quintette in the French Derby in 1908, the purse being divided. He won a number of other important stakes, including the French Gold Cup, and accounted for a total of about $125,000 during his racing career.

Sires Comparatively Young.

Oversight, by Halma—First Sight, and a descendent of Isinglass, won about $126,000 on the turf and was a distinguished performer. Among the most important victories for Oversight was the Prix du President de la Republique. Both of these sires are comparatively young horses and each already has a long list of winners racing abroad. They should aid in the improvement of the thoroughbred in this country, where already are standing the two great stallions Prince Palatinee and Negofol, which were imported last year.

The interest of the average racegoer will probably centre in the horses which will be trained and sent to the post. Topping this list is Tchad, a son of Negofol, which won the French Derby in 1919. Tchad is a five-year-old now. Last year he scored other successes and during the coming season he should be a strong and interesting addition to the handicap division.

One of the racers to be brought here is Battersea, by Sea Sick, which is regarded as a particularly brilliant performer over distances. It will be interesting to see how he compares with some of the best in this country over a route, Exterminator now being the best of the long distance performers among American horses.

Another of the horses is Brumado, a brother to Brumelli, which won the French Derby and the French One Thousand Guineas for Mr. Vanderbilt. To these will be added Liberty Loan, Hand Grenade and War Fame, and others that will be sent here from California along with a large consignment of juveniles.

Cold Snap Stops Man o' War On Way to Blue Grass Farm

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 17.—Cold weather prevented Man o' War, America's greatest race horse, from leaving the Riddle Farm at Berlin, Md., today for the Blue Grass country of Kentucky to enter a stud. It is six miles from the farm to the railroad, and Trainer Feustal said the weather was too cold and raw to permit the famous race horse to travel that distance. Feustal said he did not know when Man o' War would leave, but he certainly would not go until the weather turns warmer. Feustal denied a report the horse had indigestion.

BROOKLYN POLO TRIO WINS.

The Brooklyn Riding and Driving Club's junior polo trio met and defeated the second team of Squadron A last night at Durland's Riding Academy by a score of 9½ goals to 5 in a keenly contested game.

Both teams were handicapped at three goals each, which made it an even affair in that respect, and the playing by both teams, while of junior calibre, was nevertheless of the sort that indicated the possibility for development into real polo talent. There was a dash and willingness in evidence which appealed to the critical gallery, made up for the greater part of older and much more experienced players.

In the first chukker Reichner and Ryan each drove the ball home for Squadron goals, while Alford and Smith did likewise for Brooklyn, and were aided by the Brooklyn ponies, who tallied two more goals for Brooklyn in that first chukker. At the end of the session the score stood 6 to 2 in favor of Brooklyn.

Reichner scored one, and Ryan two, for the troopers in the second chukker. Alford added another two and Smith and Pflug made one each for the trio from the City of Churches, but a half goal was subtracted from the total score of the team from across the river because of a foul by Alford, and the final score was 9½ to 5 goals.

The next game of the January tournament at Durland's Academy will be played between the Durland Meadow Larks and the West Point trio, both senior teams.

SOUTHERN TRIP IS OFF.

Harvard Will Not Invade Dixie With Negroes on Track Team.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Jan. 17.—Harvard's varsity track team, which had planned a Southern trip for the Spring recess, will not go below the Mason and Dixon line, as a result of action by the University of Virginia and the Naval Academy. To a communication by Major Fred W. Moore, graduate manager of athletics at Harvard, saying that the Crimson team included two athletes of negro blood, both institutions replied that they considered it best, under the circumstances, that track meets scheduled with Harvard in April should not be held.

The cancellation has been made by Harvard, Major Moore said today, adding that the initiative in the matter was taken by him. When the dates were arranged the fact that Harvard's negro members might not be wecome was not considered, but subsequently both Virginia and Annapolis were told that the Crimson team included negroes and that "unless Harvard would be welcomed with them it could not come without them."

Both the Naval Academy and Virginia replied that there were so many Southerners on their teams that the contest might prove embarrassing, not only for them but also for the negro members of the Harvard squad. Accordingly, the Southern trip has been canceled, said Major Moore.

The track team will have a Spring trip, however. Pennsylvania State College has invited the Crimson to a dual meeting there, and one or two other colleges north of the Mason and Dixon line may be met during the Spring recess.

McMillin Considering Offer.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Jan. 17.—"Bo" McMillin, Centre College football star, announced here today that he is considering an offer to lead a Canton, Ohio, independent football team. He indicated that while he had come to no decision he regarded the offer as a suitable bridge between the close of his collegiate course and a business career.

BROWN CHECK TAKES THE ARGONNE PURSE

Has to Be Driven Out to Win Feature Dash at New Orleans From Botheration.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW ORLEANS, La., Jan. 17.—E. R. Bradley's Brown Check lived up to expectations and won the Argonne Purse, a seven-furlong dash which was offered as the feature at the Fair Grounds this afternoon. Though showing a high flight of speed, the winner began to tire at the end and had to be driven out to win by half a length from Botheration, while Loveliness took third money in the field of eight.

Brown Check broke slowly, but was rushed up at once and took the lead after going three furlongs. At the turn into the stretch he appeared to have the race won quite easily, as he was drawing away from the field, having raced Ras into submission. But at the sixteenth pole he began to falter and Pool had to go to the whip to get him home. Botheration had closed with a rush and was fast catching the tiring leader. Ras sprinted for half a mile, but curled up to nothing at the head of the stretch.

St. Isidore Scores.

St. Isidore, which has been performing consistently for J. E. Nash, scored another victory in the fifth race at a mile and a sixteenth when he took the measure of a field of good performers in a close finish. He won by a nose from Snapdragon 2d, with Frogtown third. Wyoming, the favorite, quit badly and was last among the five starters.

Jockey Hamilton came near throwing away the victory on St. Isidore. The horse got away to a flying start and set the pace all the way, having a lead of nearly two lengths at the head of the stretch. But as he neared the finish line Hamilton eased up, just when Snapdragon began to thunder at his heels. Hamilton had to get busy again and it was only by a margin of inches that he saved the race. Snapdragon, always slow to begin, had trailed the field to the head of the stretch, where he began to close with a rush. Wyoming tried to follow the pace, but quit badly in the stretch.

The three-furlong dash for juveniles resulted in a victory for Cornstalk, a brown son of Granite, which displayed fine speed and won easily from Happy Buxton and Stamp among others, despite the fact that he went wide and had to circle the others to get to the front. Happy Buxton set the pace for half the distance, when the winner came round the field, going quite wide at the turn, and then took command to win in hand.

Harry Burgoyne Victor.

Harry Burgoyne was the winner of the mile and a sixteenth race, sixth on the card, leading home Deckmate and Claquer easily. He is in good form at present, and racing in front after the first furlong, was never seriously threatened.

There was a surprise in the last race when Crimson Rambler got home to win by a head at 20 to 1. She defeated Roisterer by making a rush in the stretch after it appeared that she was well out of it in the field of fourteen. Roisterer was in front when Crimson Rambler moved up and outgamed him for the victory.

Crespi Victor Over Eagle.

In the continuation of the New York State three-cushion amateur billiard championship tournament at the Rational Recreation Academy in Brooklyn, yesterday, Robert Crespi crossed cues with George Eagle and, after sixty-two innings, managed to defeat him by the score of 30 to 27. It was a very even game all the way, first one player and then the other taking the lead until the last inning, and Crespi with a run of 4, went out. The high runs for both players were 4.

PUN CHIN BEST DOG IN PEKINGESE SHOW

The royal dog of China, the Pekingese, and his American-bred brothers and sisters entertained in the ballroom of the Hotel Plaza yesterday, when the Pekingese Club of America benched its fourteenth annual show. One hundred and seventy odd of his royal dogdoms attended the affair, and the roster (as contained in the catalogue) reads like "Who's Who in China." The reception was also attended by most of the Pekingese owners and enthusiasts of Manhattan and the surrounding country.

The winner, both in the dog class and in the bitch class, was an imported Peke. Mrs. Clinton Irwin Martin's champion, Pun Chin of Chinatown, was adjudged the winner of the dogs. He also won the trophy of the club.

Pun Chin is a beautiful specimen of the Oriental toy breed which has become so popular in this country. His massive, broad skull (in ratio to his size, that is), with his short, stubby nose and long silken ears, would have marked him, even for the novice at bench shows, as a creature of importance and points. Mrs. Martin is being given great credit for having chosen Pun Chin from among the several champion Pekes in England for a sire to bring to America.

The winner of the bitch class, owned by Michael F. Ford, also came from the same English kennel as Pun Chin, her name being Tou Ti of Chinatown.

There were several classes for American bred Pekingese of either sex, the club being especially interested in developing and improving the breed in this country. Mrs. M. van Beuren's entries in the American classes were among those which attracted much attention, winning several of the ribbons and prizes.

Among those present at the show were Mrs. Clinton Irwin Martin, New York; Mrs. H. A. Baxter, Great Neck, Long Island; the Misses Lowther, New York; Mrs. George Blumenthal, New York; Mrs. Joseph Pulitzer, New York; Mrs. F. C. McAllister, Great Neck, Long Island, and Mrs. M. van Beuren, New York, who is President of the Pekingese Club of America.

The judge of the show was Mrs. M. E. Hafby, Huntington, Long Island.

Americans and Canadians May Meet in Football Test

BOSTON, Jan. 17.—A test of Canadian and American football by representative college teams may be had next Fall, as a result of negotiations between McGill University of Montreal and Boston College. The McGill authorities have invited the Boston eleven to go north for a game next Fall, and Graduate Manager Frank A. Reynolds said today the matter was under consideration. The Canadians play fourteen men to a team, but, with the exception of the forward pass, follow closely the American game of football.

HORR MEDALIST OF BELLEAIR TOURNEY

BELLEAIR HEIGHTS, Fla., Jan. 17.—The first tournament of the Winter golf season in Florida began today over the Belleair course, with seventy-five golfers taking part.

The honor of the qualifying round went to A. R. Horr of Englewood, N. J., who registered at 83. None of the other contestants in this rather strong field was able to beat this mark, and the surprise of the day came when two of the best players here failed to make the first sixteen. Henry J. Topping of Greenwich got off to a rather poor start and had to be satisfied with a 97, while R. A. Stranahan of Inverness was not able to do better than 99. Neither Stranahan nor Topping was able to get going until the last nine.

Another disappointment was the playing of the veteran, W. A. Alexander of Old Elm, who won this tournament last year. He made a discouraging start himself, getting a seven on the third hole. He was out in 44 and back in 39.

Burton Preston of Mansfield, Ohio, made an 85, and stood second on the list. Grantland Rice of Englewood and J. W. Noble of Great Neck were tied, with scores of 88, several strokes higher than they made in practice rounds last week. Nearly all of the field found the outward half of the journey much more difficult, the scores averaging three strokes harder going out than coming in.

The summaries:

First Sixteen.

Second Sixteen.

C. H. Worcester, Glenview, 95; L. Beecher, Hillsboro, Ohio, 96; T. W. Proctor, Boston, 96; D. L. Robinson, Portage Lake, 96; E. A. Engler, Glenview, 96; F. G. Jones, Memphis, 97; C. B. Kelland, North Hempstead, 97; H. J. Topping, Greenwich, 97; P. F. Stone, Rockford, Ill., 98; R. A. Stranahan, Inverness, 99; H. S. Taintor, Aiken, S. C., Boulee, Baltusrol, 102; L. W. Hazen, New York, 102; H. R. Platt, Glenview, 102.

PRESENT CLOCK TO PIRIE.

Metropolitan Section of P. G. A. Honors Popular Golf Pro.

In spite of the fact that the South has already claimed the presence of many members, the metropolitan section of the Professional Golfers' Association mustered some forty or more members for the first annual dinner at the McAlpin Annex last night. Besides inaugurating what is expected to prove an annual event, last night's gathering also served as a farewell party to Alex Pirie, Secretary of the association, who leaves shortly to assume his duties with the Old Elm Club of Chicago. As an expression of the esteem in which he is held by local members of the association, the departing Secretary was presented with a handsome clock, Wilfrid Reid, the Wilmington professional, making the presentation.

Besides the members of the association, a number of guests were present, including President Howard F. Whitney and Secretary W. D. Vanderpool of the United States Golf Association and Vice President A. H. Pogson of the Metropolitan Golf Association, each of whom made brief talks to the meeting.

Among other things, Secretary Vanderpool announced that in accordance with the resolution recently adopted by the U. S. G. A. providing that courses for holding the national championships must be selected at least a year in advance, selections for the open event, not only for 1922, but also for 1923 and 1924, would be made by a committee to be selected by the Executive Committee of the U. S. G. A.

Vice President Pogson announced that the P. G. A. would be called on to make three selections for the course to hold the Metropolitan Open, designating the selections as first, second and third choices, and that these recommendations would be followed so far as possible in making the final selection.

Several changes in locations of professionals in the metropolitan district have recently been made. These include the following: C. W. Singleton replaces Alex Pirie at North Shore; Alex Gerard, who was located at Baltusrol last season, will take Singleton's place at Oakland, while George Low, who spent last Summer at Bluff Point, near Plattsburg, will return to Baltusrol for the season.

Mrs. Watson also said that it had been decided to hold a midwinter meet next year on some California links. This is an innovation which will call out many contestants on the coast as well as take many mid-Western golfers to California for Winter play.

REACH AGREEMENT ON TRANSFER RULE

Major Leagues Compromise and Set Aug. 1 as Last Day for Shifts of Players.

Both major leagues will operate next season under a similar rule in regard to the transfer of players from one club to another after midseason. An agreement in this feature was decided upon last week during the conferences of the club owners in Chicago, but no announcement of the fact was made until yesterday. The change, which is in the nature of a compromise, was decided upon as part of the plan to make uniform the laws governing the two big leagues.

A year ago the American League adopted a measure that would prevent the transfer of players by trade or sale after July 1. The rule was agreed upon to prevent a pennant contender from making a deal late in the year which might result in the charge that favoritism was being shown to that particular club in its fight for a pennant. The National League passed a measure that differed only in the date named, the club owners of the Heydler circuit making Aug. 20 the final day for such deals.

The new rule sets Aug. 1 as the last day for transfers. The National Leaguers insisted that the date favored by the American League was too early and the Johnson circuit countered by declaring that Aug. 20 was too late. The compromise to Aug. 1, with one league advancing its date and the other moving in the opposite direction, puts the two organizations on the same working basis.

MACK HOME FROM SOUTH.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 17.—Connie Mack, manager of the Philadelphia American League baseball club, who returned here today from a tour of Southern cities in the interests of his Spring training trip, said he had arranged a tentative schedule of games with the St. Louis Nationals. The teams will play on alternate days at Lake Charles, La., the Athletics' training quarters, and Orange, Texas, the Cardinals' camp. Definite dates have not been decided.

One game will be played with the New York Giants at Lake Charles and two with the same team in Mobile on the return trip north. The Athletics also will play a number of games with the Houston and Beaumont teams. Practice, Mack said, would start March 5 or 6. The team will leave for the South about March 1.

WOOD AND WATHEY WIN.

Two games were played in the amateur championship snooker pool tournament of the A. A. B. A. which is in progress at Doyle's Broadway billiard room.

Courtney Wood defeated Nat Lewis in the first event by a score of 90 to 40. The winner made a runaway match of it by accumulating a run of 30 in the third inning. This is the high run of the tourney.

In the second event Bill Wathey won from Charles Shongood by a score of 70 to 56. Wathey seemed to have the game clinched in the early stage, as he knocked off 25 points after Shongood received a bad break in trying for a safety. This run of the victor's was very well executed, as every shot was at a difficult angle. Shongood was soon 40 points in the rear, but by good plugging managed to get within 10 points of Wathey when they reached the colors, but he missed an easy shot on the green.

In the balkline tournament, Nelson Mayo defeated Sydney Dickerson, 150 to 126, in forty innings. Mayo's high run was 26, while Dickerson's best effort was 18.

The American Amateur Billiard Association Class C 18.2 balkline tournament was begun yesterday at Maurice Daly's. W. Holt played the fist two games and won both. He defeated Frank Tobias, 150 to 140, and Albert Simms, 150 to 103.

HOREMANS TO PLAY AT 18.1.

Edouard Horemans, the Belgian billiard marvel who ran 701 points at 18.2 balkline Saturday night and who is eager to meet Willie Hoppe at either 18.1 or 18.2 balkline billiards, will start a two-day contest today at Maurice Daly's Academy. Thomas Gallagher, the veteran billiardist, will be his opponent, and they will play the 18.1 game. A block of 300 points will be played this afternoon and another tonight, with a repetition of that program tomorrow.

This will be the first 18.1 billiards played by Horemans since he has been in this country, although his style of play at the 18.2 game is more 18.1 than 18.2. The Belgian's method of nursing the balls in midtable is such that many local billiardists feel certain he will surpass the record American 18.1 run of 140 made by Frank Ives in a tournament in 1897. The Belgian's best European 18.1 performance is 300 points, unfinished. It was made in a game against Fritz Thiele at Groeningen, Holland.

LEMMERT WINS WITH CUE.

Defeats Grogan, 125 to 78, in State Pocket Billiard Tourney.

William Lemmert defeated Charles Grogan last night at Lawlor Brothers' Academy, Brooklyn, in the professional pocket billiard tournament for the New York State championship. The score was 125 to 78. It was the first setback for Grogan, who had won his first two games of the tournament and was in the lead until he met Lemmert. As a result of this game Arthur Church went into first place with a record of three victories and one defeat.

Grogan failed to display the form which marked his previous play in the tournament and he trailed from start to finish. He succeeded in making the high run of the game, 18, which was three more than Lemmert gathered in his most productive cluster.

George Clark and Fred Wolfert will be the contestants in tonight's game.

	W.	L.	P. C.
A. Church	3	1	.750
J. Concannon	2	1	.667
C. Grogan	2	1	.667
W. Lemmert	3	2	.600
F. Wolfert	2	3	.400
G. Clark	1	2	.333
L. Silver	1	2	.333
F. Quinn	1	3	.250

The game was played on the Columbia Grammar School court and at half time the score was 16 to 9 in favor of the eventual victors. CHANEY CONQUERS BEECHER ON POINTS

Baltimore Featherweight Gets Judges' Decision in Madison Square Garden Bout.

HAS BETTER OF 10 ROUNDS

Winner Impresses Crowd With Clean-Cut Fighting — Kilbane Watches His Rivals Battle.

Andy Chaney of Baltimore decisively eliminated Charlie Beecher of New York for a chance at the featherweight title at Madison Square Garden last night, when he was awarded the decision at the end of their fifteen-round bout. Chaney had the better of fully ten rounds and was the aggressor throughout.

The Garden was comfortably crowded with 10,000 fans, the attendance being nearly as large as that at the Leonard-Mitchell fight. The crowd came with a rush just before the first of the preliminaries. This bout was one of a series of elimination bouts to determine the next oppenent for champion Johnny Kilbane, king of the featherweights. Chaney and Beecher are two of the strongest contenders for the title.

Johnny Kilbane was present and was introduced. Announcer Joe Humphries declared Johnny would meet a man selected by Tex Rickard but did not indicate that man would be the winner of last night's bout.

There was slightly more than a pound difference in the weights of the boys. Chaney weighed 124½ to 123½ for Beecher.

Chaney Impresses Crowd.

The little fellows did not lose any time getting into action, and Chaney quickly impressed the crowd with his clean-cut style and the power he put into his punches. In the first round he sent Beecher spinning around like a top with a left to the jaw and throughout the fifteen rounds kept pounding on Beecher's body. The New York boy was very tired at the end and showed signs of the battle in his cut lips and a swollen eye.

Chaney came out of it without a scratch, though he stopped several of Beecher's lefts with his chin.

Chaney had all the better of the first three rounds, and then Beecher gained a shade in the fourth when he forced Chaney to the ropes with a series of left jabs. But Beecher's blows lacked steam and he never made Chaney slow up in his aggressive tactics. Referee Stout had to caution Beecher several times for holding in the clinches. The local boy insisted on holding Chaney's left in every clinch.

Chaney had gained a clear lead at the end of the tenth, but could not put Beecher down. The latter took severe body punishment and hung on gamely. Chaney tried for a knockout during the last three rounds, but Beecher was content to protect himself and made no effort to force the fighting.

In the thirteenth round Chaney had Beecher in a bad way, but the New York boy saved himself by holding on and weathered the storm.

There was general approval of the decision by the crowd, but Beecher's friends thought he should have had a draw and made a slight demonstration.

Battling Nelson Introduced.

The introductions just before the main bout gave Joe Humphries a chance to bring out a veteran of another era in the ring. This was Battling Nelson, who showed two cauliflower ears through the ropes and took a bow to the applause of the old-timers who recalled his best days.

Earl Baird and Joe Mooney, lightweights, put up a slashing ten round bout, the decision going to Baird, who led in most of the rounds. These boys stood toe to toe and fought very minute they were in the ring. Baird punished Mooney severely in the closing rounds. In the opening bout, a six round tilt, Frankie Fleming and Tim Kelly fought a draw. Fleming outweighed his rival by ten pounds, 165 to 155.

Johnny Gill, a protege of Dan Morgan, who was making his first local appearance, gained the decision over Billy (Kid) Herman of California, in the ten round semi-final. Gill went into the match on short notice, taking the place of Eddie Fitzsimmons, who was ill.

Those welterweights did not warm up to their work during the first four rounds and the galleries began to call for action. In the fifth Gill dropped Herman for the count of nine with a wicked right hook to the jaw. After that Herman was badly punished, though Gill could not land squarely again on the Westerner's jaw.

WILSON WINS BOUT.

Gets Newspaper Decision Over Chip at Pittsburgh.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Jan. 17.—Johnny Wilson, middleweight champion, introduced himself to Pittsburgh boxing fans at Motor Square Garden by handing Joe Chip of Newcastle a first-class lacing in ten rounds, getting the newspaper decision.

In the fifth round the Newcastle battler came close to holding the champion even, but all the rest of the rounds were very much one-sided, in Wilson's favor. The Boston boxer repeatedly shot his right to Chip's head without a return, then he would cross with his left so effectively that the brother of the former middleweight champion was three times on the verge of a knockout.

In the eighth round Chip was in a very bad way and was on the ropes, with Wilson set for a haymaker, when the bell came to the Newcastle battler's rescue.

Wilson started the bout with a stinging right jab to Chip's head, and had scored three more jabs and a left cross to the chin before the Newcastle lad closed into a clinch. In vain he bored in, and swung wildly, making himself a mark for the champion's right jab. It seemed that each time it landed Chip was thrown off his stride, and before he could resume his natural fighting pose he was slashed again and again.

The second round saw Wilson stepping out fast and forcing the milling, with Chip retreating in an attempt to evade the troublesome jab. Chip tried hard to stop the forward rush of Wilson, but failed to make any impressions with his roundhouse swings.

RATNER LOSES TO DOWNEY.

Ratner's clever blocking and ducking enabled him to stay the limit, as Downey proved a much harder hitter. Ratner was floored for the count of nine in the eighth round when Downey sent a right uppercut to the jaw. Each weighed 156 pounds.

Josephs Stops Mendell.

BOSTON, Jan. 17.—Bobby Josephs, featherweight, of this city, won his bout with Joe Mendell of Philadelphia tonight. The referee stopped the match in the seventh round. It had been scheduled for ten rounds.

Wills Knocks Out Tate.

Assemblyman to Sponsor Bill Limiting Bout Prices to $5

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 17.—Assemblyman Nathan Liberman, Republican, of New York, said tonight that he would introduce a bill in the Legislature tomorrow designed to prohibit clubs staging boxing contests from charging an admission fee of more than $5. The State Athletic Commission recently fixed $15 as the maximum price.

DARTMOUTH BEGINS ITS ATHLETIC DRIVE

Special to The New York Times.

HANOVER, N. H., Jan. 17.—Dartmouth College started a campaign among the undergraduates here tonight for funds for Memorial Field, the proposed athletic plant of the college, to be erected in memory of the ninety Dartmouth men who died in the World War. The undergraduates' drive precedes by a few days a concerted campaign among the alumni of the college.

The cost of the proposed field is $360,000, which amount has been divided into ninety shares of $4,000 each. It is hoped that each of the four classes in college will subscribe to at least one share of the ninety. Professor James P. Richardson of the Athletic Council, who is in charge of the local drive, was the principal speaker at the mass meeting inaugurating the campaign tonight.

The plans call for a complete renovation of Dartmouth's athletic plant, which for some time has been considered inadequate for the needs of the college. The regular varsity football field will be maintained in its present situation, with the wooden stands giving way to a concrete structure with 5,000 seating capacity. Additional stands available for the opposite side of the field will bring the total capacity up to 12,000. Two new gridirons will be constructed, one for the freshman team and one for those taking part in compulsory athletics.

Three baseball diamonds are included in the plans, with the varsity field on the side of the former hockey rink. A stand seating 1,500, with additional facilities available, will be furnished for baseball. Three hockey rinks will be constructed in the rear of the alumni gymnasium, for the use of the varsity and freshman teams. Tennis facilities will be enhanced by the addition of eleven new dirt courts, making the total seventeen.

A new drainage system, especially applicable to the varsity football gridiron, will be adopted, thus doing away with the muddy fields which have so often handicapped green teams in the past. After the entire project has been completed, a new wing, similar in size and structure to that now enclosing the Spalding swimming pool, will be built for the construction of squash courts.

The present plant Alumni Oval was built twenty-three years ago for a college enrolment of 300, and since that time few additions or improvements have been made.

SELLARO LEADS FENCERS.

Turn Verein's Novice Swordsman Captures the Hammond Foils.

Angelo Sellaro, youthful New York Turn Verein fencer, carried off the Dr. Graem M. Hammond foils in the novice foils fencing competition held under the auspices of the Amateur Fencers' League of America last night at the New York A. C. Sellaro, a nineteen-year-old student at St. Francis Xavier College, who is experiencing his first year in open fencing competition, went through the competition without sustaining a defeat. The young Turner scored an uninterrupted string of nine victories over rivals. Altogether fourteen fencers participated in the event.

Sellaro early loomed as the favorite for the prize donated by Dr. Hammond. In his elimination bouts on the second strip he vanquished six rivals, progressing through the series of bouts without really encountering dangerous opposition. His most formidable rival was F. W. Huber, a Columbia University fencer, who forced Sellaro at a stiff pace through a bout which went to the Turner by 5 to 4. In this contest Sellaro's ability to parry and thrust was put to a severe test, but he exhibited promising form and with his sudden, swift and effective attack, emerged the victor. In two bouts on this strip Sellaro's rivals scored two points against him, and in two others, the Turner's foes were dismissed with but one point. Sellaro defeated William Kleinwald, French Y. M. C. A., in the other bout, without permitting a point against himself.

In the final Sellaro vanquished three rivals, bringing his total of victories up to nine. He defeated A. H. Meyer, New York Turn Verein, by 5—2; W. E. Morris, Yale University fencer, by 5—3, and H. Burr, Paterson H. S., by 5—4. The latter bout witnessed a remarkable rally on the part of Burr, but in the end Sellaro's brilliant form manifested itself in a decisive recovery which brought victory to the Turn Verein representative.

The competitors were Elmer Ressegule, Columbia University; Frederick W. Huber, Columbia University; Ralph Nahon, Columbia University; R. O. Brown, Columbia University; W. E. Morris, Yale University; Raymond Perkins, New York A. C.; H. G. Hutchinson, New York A. C.; Reginald H. Post, Jr., New York A. C.; Peter Meyer, Washington Square Fencers' Club; Angelo Sellaro, New York Turn Verein; A. H. Meyer, New York Turn Verein; William Kleinwald, French Y. M. C. A.; Arthur R. ST. JOHN'S COMES FROM REAR TO WIN

Brooklyn Five Defeats Fordham, 42-33, by Sensational Shooting in Second Half.

Sensational shooting by Damico and Froelich in the last few minutes of the game gave the St. John's College quintet of Brooklyn a victory over the Fordham five in their basketball game on the court of the Brooklyn collegians, 42 to 33. Until the two stars of the Brooklyn team began their spectacular basket shooting Fordham was in the lead and apparently on the way to victory.

The Bronx quintet was in the lead, 19 to 15, at the conclusion of the first half and was able to keep in front during a great part of the closing period. The teams were tied at 31 points when the Brooklyn forwards began to make goals from far down the floor. Fordham fought hard to keep down the score, but the fancy shooting continued until St. John's had increased the lead to 9 points before the final whistle sounded.

Culloton, the Fordham centre, was easily the star performer for the visiting team, with five goals from the floor and four from the foul line. Gordon also was prominent in the Fordham scoring, with three field goals and seven from the foul line.

The line-up:

ST. JOHN'S (42).		FORDHAM (33).
Froelich	L. F.	Stocker
Damico	R. F.	Healy

ACTRESSES TO DRIVE.

Chorus Ladies Will Hold Reins in Poultry Show Goose Race.

Eighteen starters will go to the post this afternoon in the Goose Derby, the blue ribbon event of the goose racing season, which is to be held on Madison Avenue near Madison Square Garden shortly after 2 o'clock. The goose race is a special feature to mark the opening of the annual Madison Square Garden Poultry Show. Actresses from the Greenwich Village Follies, the Ziegfeld Midnight Frolic and the Century Revue will handle the ribbons during the big race. Clear weather and a fast track were the overnight predictions. The oral layers so far have failed to quote prices on the egg layers.

The drivers who will take part in this blue ribbon event of the Grand Goose Circuit are as follows: Misses Mildred Mann, Janet Stone, Margaret Davies, Olga Zlceeva, Harriet Gimbie and Cyrena Dahl from the Greenwich Village Follies; Misses Eleanor Griffith, Annette Bade, Arline Chase, Dorothy MacKaill, Ruth Budd and Lucy Smith from the Ziegfeld Midnight Frolic; Misses Loretta Harris, Muriel Manners, Pauline Dakla, Margorie Hines, Phoebe Lee and Jane Wyatt from the Century Revue. After the race the geese will be taken home by their drivers and delivered to the cooks, who will train the racers for midnight suppers.

The work of transforming the Garden into a fowl emporium got under way at midnight, soon after the last of the boxing fans had departed after witnessing the Chaney-Beecher bout. While the main amphitheatre of the Garden was resounding with cheers for the boxers the poultry aristocrats, stored temporarily in the basement, set up another din of cackles, quacks and sundry noises peculiar to their own domain. Chickens, pigeons, water fowl, turkeys, game birds, cavies, rabbits and milch goats arrived yesterday from all parts of the United States and Canada. The various entries will be on exhibition today, but the judging will not be started until tomorrow.

BANKERS HAVE GOOD CARD.

Three Metropolitan Titles to Be Decided at Track Meet.

Three metropolitan championship athletic titles will be decided in connection with the second annual indoor meet of the Bankers' Athletic League, which will be held at the Twenty-second Regiment Armory Jan. 25. The title events include the 880-yard run, 220-yard dash and standing high jump. The leading athletes of the district are expected to enter for these championship tests.

The forthcoming games will decide the athletic championship among the local banks. The league is composed of employes of nearly fifty banking institutions. Athletes of the Guaranty Club, National City Club, Central Union Trust Company, Federal Reserve Bank and other institutions holding membership are preparing for the events which have been especially set aside for them on the program of the B. A. L. games.

Altogether a card of twenty events, open and closed, will be conducted, and it is expected that a number of local stars will enter for the competition.

M. I. T. NOT TO ROW HERE.

Negotiations between Columbia and the Massachusetts Institute of Technology for a dual crew race on the Harlem River April 16 were abruptly checked yesterday, when Coach Jim Rice of Columbia put his foot down on the proposition. The request of the Boston school had been passed on and approved by the Columbia Committee on Athletics, but Rice considered that the race on the Harlem would interfere too greatly with his program. A race is already scheduled with Yale for April 30, and Rice said that he would just be beginning to let his crew down at the time of the M. I. T. contest. Considerable sentiment existed on the Columbia campus in favor of the race, since it would have been the first rowing event held on waters near the university in several years. The Childs Cup race on May 14 will now be the only home event for Columbia.

TWO BIKE TEAMS IN LEAD.

CHICAGO, Jan. 17.—The end of the twenty-fifth hour of the six-day bicycle race here found the twelve teams still tied tonight in laps and miles, but Ray Eaton, paired with Freddie Hill, and Charley Osteritter, riding with Ernest Kockler, were in the lead in points, each team having seventeen. All of the teams had covered 463 miles and two laps at the end of the twenty-fifth hour.

THE PLAY

By Alexander Woollcott

Mrs. Fiske Returns.

Jonathan Blake	Charles Dalton
Marion Blake	Mrs. Fiske
Helen Blake	Helen Holt
Junior Blake	Frank Hearn
Peggy Blake	Lola Bartlett
Chippy Blake	Nadia Gary
Bernard Randall	Donald Cameron
Douglas Brent	Fleming Ward
Adam West	Howard Lang
Jean Picard	Freddie Goodrow
Jennie	Edith Fitzgerald

Welcomed back to town by a fond and warmly enthusiastic audience, Mrs. Fiske appeared at Henry Miller's Theatre last evening in a fair-to-middling whimsy called "Wake Up, Jonathan," of which the leading rôle was somewhat recklessly entrusted to Charles Dalton. The choice was a natural one and quite in the tradition of our stage, for this mildly fanciful play, despite its occasional debt to "Candida," is so earnest an imitation of the idea and spirit of "The Twelve-Pound Look" that it would immediately occur to any manager to engage for it the services of the actor who had been identified with the success of "The Twelve-Pound Look," without stopping to think whether he had met that earlier opportunity or would meet this new one particularly well.

It is, of course, by no means the first time that Mrs. Fiske has stepped gracefully to one side and turned the centre of her stage over to the uses of some other player, but in the happy days of the old Manhattan company this was usually to some player whom she herself could admire. One doubts if she can be fervently enthusiastic over such heavy-handed playing as is brought to "Wake Up, Jonathan," by an actor who scores so many of his points with what the testimony at the Coroner's inquest refers to as some blunt instrument.

This much of protest is not meant as an implication that the many who derive great satisfaction from the matchless skill and charm of Mrs. Fiske as a comedienne will not find much to tickle and delight them in the proceedings instituted last evening at Mr. Miller's pretty theatre. At the end of the second act Mrs. Fiske quelled the agreeable tumult out front with a most engaging and felicitous speech, and at the end of any performance she can always say: "I, too, have not been idle."

For it is in her rôle as Marion Blake to sit back and listen, with a world of inner amusement gleaming in her eyes, to all the masculine humbug and stupidity booming around her. And Mrs. Fiske can listen as none of our players can. You may be sure it is a most deft and delightful performance with which she quickens and kindles a comedy that is singularly trite and insipid to begin with, but which develops some interest and a deal of amusement later on.

"Wake Up, Jonathan," busies itself with a theme which has been touched upon before by various authors. It is a comedy of the tiresome business man and says, with considerable reiteration, that money isn't everything. So, having married a success instead of a poet, the twelve-pound look dawns in the eyes of Marion Blake and away she goes. Ten years later Jonathan shows up to report with a glow of satisfaction that he has tamed the world.

"La, now," replies his lady, her shoulders agitated by her amusement, "what ever did you do that for? It was too tame as it was."

And spends the rest of the evening deflating him until he is of a size sufficiently diminished to find a corner in her household. For purposes of contrast, there shows up on the same evening another suitor of by-gone days, the unsuccessful one, the poet, the failure. As both the author and the actor, Howard Lang, who plays this part, leave him just a plain failure, with no visible redeeming attribute of humor or inspiration or other beguilement, the Candida's choice, which comes at the end of the play, is less of a shock to the sensibilities of the audience.

The other players are mostly children and all of them do well or well enough, save for an exceptionally trying ingénue, whose interference with the proceedings is slight. The somewhat thin vein of imagination wherewith the play is fed is helped out by a diverting marionette prologue, of which the significance, while scant, is apparent.

"Wake Up, Jonathan" is the work of Hatcher Hughes, a lecturer on the drama at Columbia University, and of Elmer Rice, a better known playwright, who is said to have joined the manuscript late in its history.

"DEAR ME" IS ENTERTAINING

DEAR ME, a comedy in three acts, by Luther Reed and Hale Hamilton. At the Republic Theatre.

Wilbur Oglevie	J. K. Hutchinson
Herbert Lawton	George N. Price
Robert Jackson	George Spelvin
Gordon Peck	Mart E. Heisey
Joseph Renard	Robert Fischer
Mrs. Carney	Camilla Crume
April Blair	Grace La Rue
Anthony Turner	James G. Morton
Edgar Craig	Hale Hamilton
Shelly Willard	Max Fries
Manny Bean	Robert Lowe
Clarence	T. Kodama
Dudley Quail	Baker Moore
Maid	Eula Guy

The murmuring in the rear of the Republic Theatre last night was probably the grieving of the judicious, but the applause that followed each act was unquestionably the voice of the multitude. "Dear Me" is a fairly effective retelling of the perennial Cinderella legend, made palatable by a lightly humorous touch at those moments when it is most in need of it. It is tricked out with practically all of the hokum bits that are usually found in a sure-fire work of the kind; it is thick with Pollyanna platitudes designed for the matinee trade, and still it manages to be a pretty good show.

This pleasantly obvious comedy is the work of Luther Reed, a writer of motion-picture scenarios, and Hale Hamilton, whose Wallingford will be remembered by practically everybody. With Mr. Hamilton and Grace La Rue as Prince Charming and Cinderella it has got along quite well without New York for an entire year, and doubtless could have kept right on doing so. It is now brought to town by the sure-footed Mr. Golden, and rumor has it that it was given a touch here and there by the even surer Winchell Smith. There was some evidence of that touch last night.

"Dear Me," which takes its title from the fact that its heroine was accustomed to write moralizing letters to herself, begins in a "home for artistic and literary failures," and there it finds April as a slavey with a voice. She has not only a voice, but a recipe for happiness, and it becomes clear early that the various inmates of the home are going to become quite tangled up with April's recipe before the evening is over. The play pursues a somewhat tranquil course out of the home, with April, her Prince Charming, and a broken-down musician making a fight of it together in the second act.

It winds rather an accustomed path, with the Prince revealed as no failure after all, but the son of the founder of the home. Still anonymous, he gives April her chance in musical comedy—writes a play for her and builds a theatre for her. And then the dénouement, with the once broken old men, all now come to prosperity, gathered around the board while April sings for them. Nothing for the producer of "The First Year" to frivol away his time with, it will be seen, but an agreeable entertainment, greatly enhanced by a sprinkling of good lines and intelligent staging.

Miss La Rue, emerging from musical comedy to try her hand at something lighter, manages fairly well with the rôle of April. She is happiest when she sings with the old vaudeville swing—a few songs have been neatly built into the piece—and least genuine as the slavey of the first act. Hale Hamilton, a bit well-fed for a failure, is a skilled comedian and lets nothing escape him. There is also an effective performance by Robert Fischer.

Issay Mitnitzky's Violin Recital.

One more Russian violinist was added last evening to the long New York roster of such when Issay Mitnitzky made his first appearance here in Carnegie Hall. He is a player without pretense or attempt at self-exploitation, whereby he from the first predisposed his listeners in his favor. He produces a large tone of good quality, and showed himself to be well equipped in technique, except for the bad habit of "sliding" to which he is somewhat addicted. He played largely, but not wholly, in tune; his double stopping was sometimes especially at fault.

His program began with Vitali's "Ciaconna," which he presented in a wholly straightforward manner, hewing close to the line of the text and finding little opportunity for imagination or poetical suggestion; and yet because a work belongs to the pre-classical period such qualities are not necessarily foreign to it. He fortunately put more animation and grace into his performance of Mozart's D-minor sonata; yet here, too, he seemed to have but a dim idea of style, of the essential quality that shines through Mozart's music. No fault certainly could be found with the sincerity and earnestness with which he approached it; but they did not guide him quite aright.

He played, further, Leclair's "Sarabande" and "Tambourin," Wilhelmj's transcription of a nocturne by Chopin, Paganini's "Nel cor piu non mi sento" and smaller pieces. The audience greeted and applauded him with a Slavic loyalty.

WAGNER SEES MARY GARDEN

Charles L. Wagner returned yesterday from a hasty visit to Chicago, where he consulted with Mary Garden, newly appointed opera director, as to her tour of fifty concerts originally booked by him this season. Mr. Wagner said his appointment as assistant to Miss Garden in the business management of the Chicago Opera was still unsettled. The company's opening performances in New York next week, he added, would be as already announced. He had spent less than a day in Chicago and hurried back to preside at a meeting of the National Musical Managers' Association at the Hotel Pennsylvania last night.

Schumann Club in Old Songs.

The Schumann Club, a chorus directed for the eighth season now by Percy Rector Stephens, gave an evening of songs chosen by the conductor and arranged for women's voices by Deems Taylor before a large audience in Aeolian Hall last night. An ambitious departure was the singing of early and medieval Italian music, including a fourteenth century Latin hymn, "Concordi Laetitia," with others by Caccini and Bononcini, and Durante's "Danza." There were also old and modern French airs, Belgian and Armenian folksongs, an English "May Day Carol" and present-day compositions by Hatton, Cecil Forsyth and Harold Smith.

Maurice Reeve in Piano Recital.

Maurice Reeve, once a child pianist in England and now a mature artist, who also fought and was wounded with the British forces in France, gave a matinee recital in Aeolian Hall yesterday before fewer hearers than his merit deserved. He brought no novelties by English composers, preferring to introduce himself in classic, Bach's B flat prelude and fugue, the "Appassionata" sonata of Beethoven and a Chopin group. In conclusion he gave, however, modern pieces by Debussy and others, for which acknowledgment was made to a society receiving the royalties under international copyright. Mr. Reeve should be heard again; he is not yet acclimated and his nerves have not recovered perhaps from the shocks of war.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

"In the Night Watch" will open at the Century Theatre next Wednesday night instead of Monday. Harold de Becker has been added to the cast.

William Faversham in "The Prince and the Pauper" was transferred last night from the Booth Theatre to the Apollo.

Florence Reed of "The Mirage" will be the guest of honor at a luncheon of the New York Theatre Club at the Hotel Astor today.

MUSIC NOTES.

Paul Kochanski, violinist, sailed from England on the Carmania yesterday for an American tour arranged by George Engles. He will make his debut with the Symphony Society on Feb. 14.

Erika Morini, a young woman violinist, will make her debut here on Jan. 26 with an orchestra led by Arthur Bodanzky, playing two concertos, Paganini's in D and the popular classic of Mendelssohn.

Frances Alda will give a public recital in the ballroom of the Waldorf-Astoria this evening as guest of the Rubinstein Choral Society, directed by Mrs. W. R. Chapman.

COHAN TO LEAVE HIS ROLE.

Producer's Part in "The Meanest Man" to Be Acted by Otto Kruger.

George M. Cohan, owing to the press of other work, will retire from the cast of "The Meanest Man in the World" either this week or next. His place in the play at the Hudson will be taken by Otto Kruger, probably next Monday night.

Mr. Cohan, who is producing several new pieces, at present finds the double duties of acting and producing too onerous. He is at present preparing a second company of "The Tavern," which, with Lowell Sherman in the leading rôle, will open at Cohan's Grand Opera House in Chicago on Jan. 31. "Love and Learn," which is now on tour, requires the producer's attention, and he is also about to cast a new play by Augustus Thomas.

"Manon Lescaut" Sung Again.

Puccini's early opera, "Manon Lescaut," was sung for the second time this season at the Metropolitan last evening. Mme. Alda, Messrs. Martinelli and Scotti headed a familiar cast, and Mr. Papi conducted.

One price—fixed and inflexible —50c for service

McBRIDE'S are trying to stabilize the theatre ticket business by establishing firmly the policy that fifty cents above box office price is the proper value of the best theatre ticket service.

The very foundation of this business is our reputation for squareness and service and that's something that no premiums could induce us to sacrifice. There are no evasions—no excuses. Our fifty cent policy is unalterable—no matter how much the traffic will bear.

TRY CAPT. HARRISON FOR TUGBOAT SALE

Officer Faces Court-Martial on Charge of Accepting $2,500 Despite $10,000 Offer.

The court-martial of Captain Ramon B. Harrison, formerly an officer of the Army Transport Service at Hoboken, charged with selling, as an agent of the United States, the tug Grover Cleveland for $2,500, when an offer of $10,000 was in hand, was begun yesterday at Governors Island and will be resumed at 10:30 o'clock this morning. The Court overruled an objection of Major William A. Turnbull, Judge Advocate, and ordered him to specify the charges against the accused officer.

Captain Harrison thereupon was charged with several violations of the Articles of War, in that he unlawfully sold the Grover Cleveland to Ernest Rudolph for $2,500 when it was valued at $10,000; that he disposed of the tug knowing at the time of the sale that Captain Matthew P. Quigley of the New York Fire Department "was ready" to pay him $10,000; in that he "jointly and knowingly and in pursuance of a common intent," sold the tug to Rudolph, thus causing a loss to the United States of $7,500. The Grover Cleveland later was bought from Rudolph by the City of Newark for $18,000.

The tug was sold by the Government late in September. Captain Harrison was discharged from the army in December, and since then has been confined at Governors Island, there being no bail system available. Both the Judge Advocate and the defense, it was evident yesterday, will bring testimony to bear on several dates involved, about which Captain Quigley seemed uncertain. He admitted he was not sure that it was Captain Harrison whom he interviewed first about the tugboat. Captain Quigley's testimony was being taken yesterday when the court adjourned.

The court, which will sit again today, is made up of Colonel William Allaire, President; Colonel Samuel S. G. Jones, Lieut. Col. William A. Carleton, Lieut. Col. C. Anderson, Major John S. Sims, Major Octave De Carey and Major William R. McCleary. Mr. Holmes, the civilian counsel, is aided by First Lieut. Bernard P. Hay.

Resumption of Shipping Board Inquiry Reveals Further Repair Irregularities.

COMPETITION CALLED 'JOKE'

Defective Ships Sent to Sea, Says Witness—Others Beached by Incompetent Masters.

The Congressional Committee on Shipping Board Operations resumed its hearings here yesterday at the Hotel Pennsylvania. Witnesses testified that competition among ship repairmen in the New York district was a "joke"; that losses were incurred by the Shipping Board on account of the failure of the Bureau of Survey to furnish requisitions; that Government inspectors were intimidated; that defective ships were sent to sea; that successful efforts had been made to combat profiteers who have subleased city-owned piers; that Shipping Board vessels have been run aground through the incompetence of their masters, and that irregularities were found in the purchase of supplies of all kinds.

One glaring irregularity in the purchase of ship supplies was cited by Myron C. Baker, District Controller of the Shipping Board at Boston. He said that about three months ago the Division of Operations at Philadelphia advised John S. Emery & Co. of Boston, operators of the Lake Ellendale, to direct the ship to take on fuel oil at Philadelphia from the Blue Star Navigation Company. The operating company was told the price would be $5 a barrel. When the vessel reached Philadelphia the Blue Star Navigation Company sent it to the Mexican Petroleum Company for oil, and the latter company charged only $1.38 a barrel. There was a difference of about $15,000, according to Mr. Baker, in the amount of the operating company's check and the bill rendered by the Mexican Petroleum Company. The witness could not say where this difference of $15,000 went. An investigation was being made.

Accounting System Improved.

Mr. Baker said the accounting system in his office had been greatly improved. Asked if he had been hampered by the home office, the witness admitted he had, but not recently.

Edward C. Burke, business representative of the International Brotherhood of Boilermakers, testified he was one of several workmen who had received three days' pay for about three hours' work on the steamship Moline, which was being repaired by Arthur Tickle & Sons at Port Newark. He and the other employes thought they were entitled to the money because the Government was willing to pay it.

Burke said he was an assistant foreman at the Shooter's Island plant of the Standard Shipbuilding Corporation, where he was assigned to Hull 13, the defective riveting of which was described by Thomas Purcell, another foreman, last December.

"Did you see any defective riveting?" asked Chairman Walsh.

"I saw all bad riveting," replied Burke. He said Hull 13 was the last of her type of ships to be completed and that left-over materials were put into her structure. Among such materials he mentioned plates intended for another hull. These plates could not be made to fit. He reported the matter to his superiors, but was told the plates would have to fit. Burke said he then left the job.

Captain Oscar W. Parker, Superintendent of the Marine Department of the Northern Division of the Shipping Board, testified that dock profiteers in New York City, many of whom have procured leases on municipal piers, were gradually being forced to reduce their exorbitant charges, which have run as high as $500 a day. The rate charged by the city for use of its piers was fixed by law at 2 cents a ton a day for the first 200 tons and ½ cent a ton for tonnage above 200.

Under his instructions, idle Shipping Board vessels are no longer tied up at wharves where excessive charges are made, but are taken to Prall's Anchorage in the Kill van Kull. Speculators and private operators were charging $180 a day for wharfage, according to Captain Parker, who said this was $140 in excess of a reasonable rate.

"I am trying as fast as I can to reduce these charges," said Captain Parker, "by taking Shipping Board vessels elsewhere.

"Dock profiteering is being broken up in New York City. We are getting dockage from Robins Dry Dock Company, Tebeau Yacht Basin and elsewhere for 2 cents a ton for the first 200 tons and one-half of a cent a ton on additional tonnage over that amount."

Captain Parker testified that some of the boats of the Submarine Boat Corporation were delivered before they were completed and before defects in construction had been remedied. So defective were some of these vessels that the Shipping Board had to spend from $5,000 to $15,000 to make them seaworthy. He said defects were found in riveting, in general construction and in design. He said he objected to the acceptance of these ships and had reported their condition to the Construction and Repair Department. His reports were ignored.

James L. Lafferty, field auditor for the Emergency Fleet Corporation, said that after spending eighteen months in the Crane Repair Yard, Brooklyn, he had become convinced that competition among ship repair yards was "more or less a joke." He said that whenever he or another field auditor questioned an item the repair companies would delay their explanation for several days and then simultaneously report. While there was some difference in the charges made, all were practically the same.

Checker Tells of Threats.

The witness said one of the "really bad situations" was due to the failure of the Bureau of Survey to deliver requisitions before repair work was started.

John J. Pigot, a former checker in the shipyards, told of alleged threats against checkers. He had been beaten up in Brooklyn. Another checker had been found dead in a ship, but investigation showed he had gone there to gather chicken feed when the ship was being fumigated.

When the hearing is resumed this morning at 9 o'clock Mr. Baker will resume his testimony. The committee will continue its hearings here through Thursday and on Friday will go to Washington to hear Charles E. Piez, former head of the Emergency Fleet Corporation.

DEFENDS SHIP REPAIR PRICES

A denial that the cost of ship repair work is exorbitant is made by Edward P. Morse, head of the Morse Dry Dock and Repair Company of Brooklyn, in a letter sent yesterday to Commander R. D. Gatewood of the Shipping Board, in answer to statements made by the latter on Jan. 11 last. The letter was made public with the consent of Commander Gatewood, and asserts that the Morse company is making every effort to reduce expenses and increase efficiency.

Mr. Morse points out that ships of all nationalities are repaired in the yards, and the company must carry a large assortment of plates to meet the requirements of these vessels. On the subject of tug service the letter says:

"You pay only for the time of actual service and had we not tugs of our own it would be necessary to pay the tug for the time of running to the yard and its rendezvous."

OVERSEAS BOXERS WIN SOCIETY BOUTS

INDIAN BOXER KNOCKED OUT

Ben Davis, Choctaw, From Camp Meade, Takes Count—Part of a Fete for Director Gavin.

One of the most distinguished gatherings of men and women that has ever witnessed a series of boxing bouts in this country gathered last night at the Hotel Commodore to view the program of international amateur contests between American and English army, navy and police boxers. The British boxers made a clean sweep of the series, scoring victories in two army matches, a navy encounter and a battle between policemen. The last bout of an extensive card which included, also, a series of local amateur contests, did not conclude until an early hour this morning.

Seated at tables which surrounded, and, to the capacity of the ballroom, led away from the ring in the middle of the floor which has served for social functions of national significance, were more than a thousand leaders in the nation's industrial, professional and political life. Seldom before in the history of boxing in this country has such a thoroughly representative gathering been in attendance at any ring matches. Not in the history of the sport has a similar series of contests been conducted amid such surroundings. Many women, wives of some of the guests, watched from balcony boxes circling the ballroom, and evinced as much interest in the series of contests as did their husbands, who cheered and urged the competitors from their tables on the ballroom floor.

Captain E. V. Chandler, British Army heavyweight representative, scored the first international victory when he gained the judges' decision over Private John Cortwright, Camp Holabird, Md., in the heavyweight championship battle. In the army light-heavyweight encounter Hugh Brown, champion of the British Army, knocked out Ben Davis, Indian fighter, of the Seventh Division, U. S. A., Camp Meade, Md., in the second round of a scheduled three-round contest. John Watson, British Navy champion, gained the judges' decision over Ralph Ritchie, American Navy representative, in three rounds, and the fourth English triumph came when Harry Mallon, London's middleweight champion "bobby," received the judges' decision over Patrolman Johnny Ruff, one of New York's "finest," in three rounds.

Distinguished Crowd Present.

The unusual spectacle of the Commodore's ballroom thus transformed into a boxing arena was experienced by a gathering which represented perhaps the most distinguished assemblage of boxing enthusiasts that has ever been in attendance on a ring match in the nation's history of the sport. In point of prominence the crowd excelled even the gatherings which witnessed the world's heavyweight championship battle between Jack Dempsey and Bill Brennan and the world's lightweight championship contest in which Benny Leonard defended his title against Richie Mitchell.

Overhead, in the gallery surrounding the ballroom where men clapped hands, emitted yells of encouragement, urged boxers on in excited tones and cheered or voiced open disapproval of the decisions rendered by the judges, were boxes in which sat wives of some of the prominent sportsmen who attended the banquet. In their brilliant evening gowns they watched the pugilistic proceedings below them with as much concern as did their male companions, who in the past held the ring sport exclusively to themselves. Animated expressions, clenched hands, nervous motions as if in accompaniment to the rhythm of the boxers' movements as they led, dodged, ducked or cracked home wicked blows—these expressions of feelings, without excited yells, reflected the deep interest the women guests had in the affair, an interest which closely rivalled that of the men accustomed to exciting moments in their favorite pastime.

Among the invited guests were Sherwood Aldrich, LeRoy W. Baldwin, W. Warren Barbour, August Belmont, John McE. Bowman, James C. Brady, Nicholas F. Brady, Joseph Day, John A. Drake, General Coleman du Pont, Michael Friedsam, F. W. Frueauff, Harvey D. Gibson, Eugene G. Grace, D. W. Griffith, John Hays Hammond, Frank H. Hitchcock, Otto H. Kahn, Foxhall P. Keene, Colonel W. L. Kenly, Sheriff David H. Knott, Hon. F. H. LaGuardia, Hon. Franklin K. Lane, Hon. William G. McAdoo, General B. B. McAlpin, Major Gen. H. P. McCain, Edgar L. Marston, S. A. McGeath, Major Gen. C. T. Menoher, George G. Moore, W. Forbes Morgan, Hon. Charles F. Murphy, Major Grayson, M. P. Murphy, Rear Admiral A. P. Niblack, Rear Admiral James H. Oliver, Rear Admiral J. W. Oman, Major Gen John F. O'Ryan, Herbert L. Pratt, J. L. Replogle, Rear Admiral T. H. Rogers, H. H. Rogers, Captain Kermit Roosevelt, Colonel Theodore Roosevelt, Colonel Jacob Ruppert, Allan A. Ryan, Charles M Schwab, Norrie Sellar, Admiral William S. Sims, F. H. Sisson, Harry F. Sinclair, R. A. C. Smith, Rear Admiral Joseph Strauss, Walter C. Teagle, Eugene V. R. Thayer, R. T. Vanderbilt, Rodman Wanamaker, James H. Ward, Harry Payne Whitney and Payne Whitney.

An Unusual Setting.

The setting was ideal. Seldom has a series of boxing competitions been held in quite the equal of the surroundings of last night.

William A. Gavin, Managing Director of the International Sporting Club, in whose honor the event was arranged, sat quietly through it all at the speakers' table, watching nervously, almost apprehensively, to judge by his facial expression, as the bouts progressed. Directly across the way from Director Gavin was a figure which detracted his gaze and his attention from the proceedings confronting him. In a box above the ring and directly opposite Director Gavin sat Mrs. Gavin, with a party of friends, and her interest was surpassed only by that of her prominent husband, who was mainly responsible for the restoration of the sport in this State.

Before the night's boxing began Director Gavin was unqualifiedly acclaimed as responsible for the return of boxing in this State and as a pioneer in the sport's rejuvenation throughout the country. Gutzon Borglum, famous sculptor, who acted as temporary toastmaster, and who himself was a prime mover in the I. S. C. and the Army, Navy and Civilian Boaord of Boxing Control which assisted in the work of re-establishing the sport here, spoke in glowing terms of the work accomplished by Director Gavin in the process of convincing legislators at Albany that times had changed from what they had been and that there was a pronounced majority in favor of legalized professional boxing here.

Walker Eulogizes Gavin.

Following Mr. Borgium, Senator James J. Walker, who introduced the bill, eulogized the untiring labor, mental and physical, the intellectual power and the dogged persistence of Mr. Gavin in his work of re-establishing boxing. "It would have been impossible to put the bill over," said Senator Walker, "without the ability, the foresight and dominating forcefulness attracted to the measure solely through the solicitation of Mr. Gavin. And, without any show of modesty, I wish here publicly to give Mr. Gavin the credit which has erroneously been heaped upon me as the originator and father of the bill bearing my name which now legalizes boxing in this State."

Justice Bartow S. Weeks, prominent in Amateur Athletic Union activities, added his endorsement to the sentiments expressed by the two preceding speakers and reminded his hearers that the work of boxing participate to a considerable extent in the winning of the World War.

Indian Is Knocked Down.

The most spectacular victory of the evening was provided in the battle for international supremacy between Davis and Brown. Davis, a full-blooded Choctaw Indian, was regarded as a dangerous foe for the Briton in this contest. He had survived a trying series of elimination contests in attaining the opportunity to engage the British invader, and had demonstrated ability which promised an interesting session. The Indian and Brown went through the first round of their contest without producing anything out of the ordinary. Brown, as was the case with the other British boxers, showed superior skill and a more comprehensive knowledge of scientific boxing and earned the honors of the round. The British boxer increased his efforts in the second round until suddenly he whipped over a right swing to the jaw which sent Davis in a crumpled heap to the canvas. The Indian was counted out.

Sailor Ralph Ritchie of Uncle Sam's navy, and Sailor John Watson of the British navy, provided another spectacular contest, in which it seemed that one or the other of the principals would go down in defeat before the expiration of the three rounds. The battle went its scheduled distance, however, and Watson gained the decision.

Watson's clever boxing, his speed of hand and foot, and his ability to land cleanly and carry a consistent offensive, gained him the first round. In the second a terrific right to the jaw sent the British boxer down for a count of nine. He recovered quickly, however, and lasted the round without difficulty. In the third session Watson dropped Ritchie for a count of seven with a smashing right to the jaw, and thereafter accumulated enough points to give him the victory.

The traditional cleverness and scientific ability of the English boxers in the other bouts brought them victory over their American rivals. Captain E. V. Chandler, British army heavyweight, slim, lithe, well-muscled boxer who towered over his rival and enjoyed an appreciable advantage in reach, carried off the judges' decision over Private John Cortwright, Camp Holabird, Md., American army heavyweight, in the first of the international bouts. Cortwright was of the rough, aggressive, rushing type of boxer, who continually bored in. In the face of Captain Chandler's cool, calculating jabbing and accompanying hooks and crosses, Cortwright was ineffective and was decisively outpointed in every round.

In the New York-London police bout, between Middleweight Johnny Ruff of the local department and Middleweight Harry Mallon of the Crown forces, the British boxer gained the judges' decision.

The match was held under International Amateur Federation rules, which provide for three rounds, the first two of three minutes' duration each, and the third of four minutes. A point system is followed whereby the judges are empowered to award a maximum of five points each in the first two rounds for attack, defense, science and clean boxing, and a maximum of seven points for the third session. Billy (Kid) McPartland, old-time featherweight boxer, refereed the match.

The most important contest prior to the international matches decided the army-navy lightweight championship. Sergeant Daniel Toomey, a 133-pound doughboy, holding the army title, and Jimmy Brown, possessor of the navy lightweight championship, were the principals. After a hurricane battle of four rounds the title went to the navy, when the judges, John O'Brien and John Conlon, agreed on the jackie as the winner.

This bout was one of the most interesting of a long card. The sturdy fighting men threw whatever science they had to the winds and went at each other hammer and tongs. Head to head, rushing, tearing, punching from every direction, and with all blows known to the ring, they progressed through four rounds of milling which had the distinguished crowd in an uproar of yells. At the end of the customary three rounds the judges disagreed and Referee Tommy Smith ordered an extra session. In this chapter Brown compiled enough points to gain the judges' decision.

Two local flyweight champions clashed in the second bout. They were Willie O'Connell, Paulist A. C., district titleholder, and John P. Fanning of the Hudson Guild, New York State champion at 108 pounds. After an interesting session Fanning gained the judges' award in three rounds.

Assembly Urged to Make Plea For Modified Volstead Act

ALBANY, Jan. 17.—New York State legislators were requested tonight to ask Congress to "effectually and rationally" modify the Volstead act so as to permit the sale of light wines and beers containing a more liberal alcoholic content than one-half of 1 per cent.

The request was made in a resolution offered in the Assembly by Assemblyman Henry Baum of Queens. Under a new rule the resolution was laid over until tomorrow.

GERMAN INDEMNITY BRIAND'S PROBLEM

Premier Will Be Ousted for Poincare and Mailed Fist if Moderation Policy Fails.

NEED OF MONEY DESPERATE

France's Hope That Germany's I. O. U., Endorsed by Her Allies, Can Be Discounted Here.

By EDWIN L. JAMES.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Jan. 17.—President Millerand promulgated today a decree creating the Briand Ministry and tomorrow or Wednesday the new Premier will go before the Chamber of Deputies and ask a vote of confidence. This he will in all probability receive by a large majority, thereby being entrusted with the task of conducting the indemnity negotiations which will begin next week when the allied Prime Ministers meet.

If M. Briand makes what the Deputies regard as satisfactory progress he will remain in office. If he does not he will certainly fall and be replaced by former President Poincaré.

M. Briand's task is to pull France out of the financial hole in which the war left her. That task is the preoccupation of all official France. It is a task which must be accomplished if French business is to regain its position and if the French Government is to restore its credit.

Deficit 35,000,000,000 Paper Francs.

The task of remending France's finances depends basically upon securing the German indemnity. And this is why: The big black cloud on the French financial horizon is the deficit of 35,000,000,000 paper francs disbursed in 1919 and 1920 for reconstruction work and which Germany is counted on to pay. According to the financial plans for 1921 this deficit will be increased by another fifteen or eighteen billions, thus making a deficit of some fifty billion francs in the governmental accounting. This is money which is being actually paid out by the Government. It is obvious that the Government cannot keep on paying out such sums without resources.

The appropriations for 1920 were about 45,000,000,000 francs. Of this twenty-seven billions was ordinary expenditures. Twenty-two billions is taken care of by the Government revenue, according to the Finance Minister's calculations, and five billion goes for pensions, which Germany is also supposed to pay. The other eighteen billion represents what was paid out in 1920 for reconstruction work.

It is because this has not been sufficiently realized in America that a somewhat incorrect idea of French finances obtained across the Atlantic. Many persons formed estimates of the French financial situation without giving proper importance to the indemnity, regarding that as something indefinite and not to be taken into current account. You can never make calculations of French finance agree with French calculations if you leave out the indemnity. If Germany does pay, France sees a way out of the financial woods; if Germany does not pay, France does not see a way out. Therefore, securing the German indemnity is France's big problem today.

There are in France two policies advocated with regard to the indemnity.

One is that France should fix what she believes Germany should pay her and then by force compel her to pay. This is the policy supported by M. Poincaré and which is favored by a majority of the Chamber, which is strongly Nationalist. The other is that it is better for France to make her demands more moderate in order to obtain the agreement of England to stand with France in forcing collection. This is the policy of President Millerand and the one which will be followed by Premier Briand.

It does not abandon the ultimate use of force if need be, but that force would be the army of France and the fleet of England, rather than the army of France alone.

There was another policy—that of M. Leygues—which consisted in laying down that Germany must pay five annuities of three billion marks each and that the sum total be left to be fixed later. This method doesn't appeal to the majority of Frenchmen, and when it was learned that ten days ago M. Leygues sent a note to Mr. Lloyd George definitely proposing such a settlement President Millerand and the party leaders got together and threw Leygues out.

The British Government has laid down as a prime condition to its assent to the ultimate use of force to collect the indemnity that France agree to some fixed sum. And this is the policy M. Briand will follow.

What President Millerand and Premier Briand want is that England, France and Belgium shall agree on the amount which Germany must pay. Germany would have no part in this decision. The amount once fixed, German and allied experts would meet and work out a formula for its payment. This plan, drawn up by M. Briand, would have England agree with France that if Germany does no pay according to what is adjudged her ability the British fleet will join with the French Army in enforcing payment either by seizure of the German customs machinery or by the occupation of additional German territory, or both. This is the scheme drawn up at Spa for the coal deliveries and for disarmament and which worked fairly well. Mr. Lloyd George has several times agreed to this plan provided the French will accept an indemnity figure the British regard as reasonable. Thus, then, much depends on fixation of the amount.

Is the One Big Question.

At the bottom of the business that is the one big question. The nearest England and France have been getting together on this point was last Summer at Boulogne, where it was agreed that the indemnity should be fixed at the current value of 85,000,000,000 marks gold, payable in installments in forty-two years with 8 per cent. interest and 1 per cent. for amortisement—which would bring the ultimate total to be paid by Germany to something like 250,000,000,000 gold marks, subject to reduction if she paid more quickly.

The reason for the high interest rate was that it was planned to float the bonds based on the German indemnity and guaranteed by England and France which would be offered for sale in America, 8 per cent. being judged the rate which would attract American bankers. For when France, who, by the way, gets some 60 per cent. of the indemnity, has obtained the agreement of the Allies to the amount, she cannot wait forty-two years, or even twenty years, to get a large part of it. Northern France must be rebuilt now.

Of course, Germany has made much of the plea that she cannot pay a great deal. However, France still remembers that Brockdorff and Rantzau once offered to settle the whole bill for a hundred billion gold marks. She notices that Germany's exports are ahead of imports and that German industrial concerns are paying big dividends. She also knows that the Frenchman is paying about three times as much taxes as the German. Putting these things together, France is set on making Germany help her out of the hole in which Germany put her.

Missing Seaplane NC-6 and Crew Are Safe In a Little Cove on the Nicaragua Coast

SAN JUAN DEL SUR, Nicaragua, Jan. 17.—The United States Navy seaplane NC-6 and its crew are safe in a cove about fifteen miles north of San Juan del Sur.

Lieutenant Compo, commander of the seaplane, and the chief machinist's mate arrived here this evening to report to the convoy ship.

A tremendous hurricane began to blow from the northeast Saturday morning and continued all day Sunday. The NC-5 and the NC-6, flying together, ran into the hurricane about forty miles north or San Juan Del Sur. Both machines were forced to alight on the water, which was lashed into fury by the wind. The NC-6 "taxied" to shore under great difficulties.

ABOARD U. S. S. NEW MEXICO AT SEA, Jan. 17 (By Radio to the Associated Press).—Two divisions of destroyers attached to the Pacific Fleet were ordered today to search for the naval seaplane NC-6, reported to be lost off the Gulf of Nicoya, Costa Rica. The airship was participating in the group flight from San Diego to Balboa, Canal Zone. The destroyer Munford is still standing by the NC-5 of the same group, which was forced down and partially wrecked yesterday off the Gulf of Nicoya.

The NC-6 was last seen within a short distance of the Gulf of Nicoya.

NEW FRENCH CABINET BUSY ON PROGRAM

Premier Briand's Declaration of Policy Expected to Be Made to Chambers Tomorrow.

PRESS NOT ENTHUSIASTIC

PARIS, Jan. 17.—The new Cabinet met late this evening and began consideration of the terms of the ministerial declaration, which will probably be read in Parliament Thursday.

The Ministry decided upon the suppression of the Department of Food Supplies and also, on proposal of M. Doumer, that the Department for the Liquidation of War Stocks be attached to the Ministry of Commerce. Bills authorizing this transfer and creating an under-secretary of the Foreign Office will be introduced at an early date.

The appointment of the following Under-Secretaries of State was announced:

Finances—M. PAISANT.
Interior—M. COLRAT.
Posts—PAUL LAFFONT.
Aviation—LAURENT EYNAO.
Merchant Marine—M. RIO.
Technical Education—M. VIDAL.
Agriculture—M. PUIS.
Devastated Regions—M. LUGOL.

Little enthusiasm was evinced today by the newspapers of Paris over the new Cabinet. Expectations of a "great national administration," raised by Raoul Peret, who on Saturday announced his failure to form a government, were not realized in the Ministry chosen by M. Briand. Most journals expressed mild satisfaction, or reserved judgment.

In discussing the Ministry chosen by the new Premier, the Journal said: "It contains every element except Simon-pure Royalists and Communists." The Figaro, which ardently supported former President Raymond Poincaré for the Premiership, openly expressed its disappointed, saying, "It is the usual patchwork Ministry according to the pre-war formula," while the Oeuvre asked: "We have a new Ministry. Shall we have a new government?"

The radical tendencies of the new Premier are subject to comment here, his early association with John Leon Jaurès, the Socialist leader assassinated in 1914, being one of the salient features of his advance in politics. French socialism, which since the Congress at Tours two weeks ago has been torn by dissensions between Communists and more moderate elements, may find in M. Briand a man who can do much toward uniting factions and saving the party as a political power.

Premiers Lloyd George and Briand will meet for a conference on German disarmament and other matters now awaiting settlement on Jan. 25, it was announced today. The date for this conference was at first fixed for Jan. 19, but a postponement was made necessary because of the Ministerial crisis which developed here last Wednesday.

FIND CRIMINAL REDS IN PARIS ROUND-UP

Nearly 700 Held in Search of Foreigners—Some Innocent Americans Freed.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Jan. 17.—The police continued their offensive against undesirable foreigners with such vigor during the week-end that now nearly 700 hace been held under security until they have proved their identity and their means of support in a manner satisfactory to the authorities.

In the police net many quite innocent Americans and others have suffered momentary entanglement, because they had gone forth seeking adventures without their identity papers. These and all who can give a satisfactory account of themselves have been invariably treated with courtesy and released at once, but among the 700 who have been taken have been found a larger number of Russians. Germans and undesirables of every race than even the police suspected of being in the city.

Most of the Russians were masquerading as Poles and the Germans as Czechoslovaks and Austrians. Some of them gave satisfactory explanations of their presence, but a large number have been identified as closely in touch with the communist movement in its worst features. They belong to the criminal classes whom Lenin used with such effect in Moscow and Petrograd to upset the then existing Government during the war.

In several cases the rooms occupied by these men and women have been searched by the police. Enough evidence has been found to show that they were receiving funds from suspicious sources, and in some instances were in direct communication with Soviet agents.

Several men taken have been identified as having been concerned in crimes in Paris. All of these are to be deported.

PARIS, Jan. 17.—The American Chamber of Commerce in Paris held an election of officers today. Judge Walter Berry was re-elected President.

FIND RUSSIAN TRADE HOPELESS PROSPECT

But British Investigators Expect to Open Barter With Baltic Provinces.

SOVIET CAN OFFER NOTHING

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Jan. 17.—A delegation of business men, including Sir Charles Sykes and Sir William Petersen, who have been investigating the possibilities of the free harbor of Copenhagen as a centre for a scheme of trade by barter in the Baltic Provinces and other countries, returned to London tonight.

Members of the party, when interviewed, expressed themselves as satisfied with the progress that had been made. The discussions at Copenhagen, it was said, centred around ways and means of removing the difficulties concerning the exchange of goods. No barter scheme was possible without an organization on a large scale, the security which a centre such as the free port of Copenhagen would give and a reorganization of the transport, fuel and credit facilities of Europe.

Not only had discussions of a general nature taken place, it was stated, but important developments of a practical character had been agreed on, as a result of which the members of the party looked forward to establishing a system which would reopen trade outlets and so relieve the want of Eastern Europe and unemployment at home.

Questioned as to Russia, Sir Charles Sykes said that the subject had been carefully gone into and he was bound to say that in his view, trade agreement or no trade agreement, no substantial business was possible from that direction for a long time. A certain amount of trade was taking place today, but Russia had practically nothing to offer in exchange for goods, for she had been rendered economically dead by her system of government.

The Bolshevist policy abroad was world revolution, Sir Charles declared, and of £12,000,000 to £15,000,000 of Bolshevist gold which had been sent abroad not a third had been used for the purchase of supplies. Those supplies, too, were almost entirely for the equipment of the Red army necessary to maintain the Communist power. The bulk of this expenditure had been for khaki cloth and certain contracts had been discussed for transport material.

The Soviet clearing house in Copenhagen, which was established by Krassin jointly with business men for the purpose of utilizing Bolshevist gold as a credit for trade, had broken down, Sir Charles added, owing mainly to the fact that the bulk of the gold had been utilized for propaganda purposes, and to a lack of commodities in Russia which could be exported.

"We cannot," he said, "look for trade in that direction and must concentrate on the Baltic provinces and other parts of Eastern Europe, where, however bad conditions may be, they are infinitely more hopeful than in Russia."

It is understood that as a result of proposals which have been agreed on at Copenhagen important negotiations are taking place this week and the next in London.

ITALIAN SOCIALIST WINS CHEERS FOR UNITY PLEA

LEGHORN, Italy, Jan. 17.—Deputy Lazzari, who is to the Italian Socialists what Eugene V. Debs is to the American Socialists, argued for unity and opposed violence in a speech before the conference of the Socialist Party today. His words had the effect of bringing more into unison the Communist and Moderate elements, which has been threatening a break. His speech was constantly applauded, and he was the recipient of an ovation in which all factions participated.

Signor Lazzari declared that violence was useless; that it only tore down and destroyed. To adopt violence was to return to the old theory of an eye for an eye, a tooth for a tooth; it was an antediluvian theory unworthy of civilized people.

"We old militants," he continued, "find ourselves in the painful position we have brought about after forty years. It is said that unity has more dangers than advantages. I tell you that for the good of this cause and for the good of the laboring class there is not the slightest doubt that unity is a great advantage."

The millionaire Bolshevist, Terracini, who is 30 years of age, occupied the platform during the whole evening session, propounding Communist doctrines, urging violence and attacking the tendencies of the Moderate Party in not responding to the call of the Red armies in Italy. Terracini replied to the taunts of his adversaries and withstood the attacks directed as a protest against his inflammatory utterances. He was applauded intermittently by the Communists.

Terracini is a lawyer by profession. He acquired his wealth, however, in business.

LABOR PARTY AGAIN HITS CROWN FORCES

Supplemental Report Says Irish Witness's Home Was Invaded and Furniture Smashed.

'BATTLE OF TRALEE' A MYTH

LONDON, Jan. 17 (Associated Press).—A supplementary report of the Irish Investigating Commission of the Labor Party, which recently visited Ireland to investigate conditions there, was issued this evening. It states that the publication of the testimony of one witness before the Investigating Commission resulted in a visit to his home by armed men, who, not finding the witness, proceeded to damage the furniture.

The supplementary report challenges the accuracy of the Government's accounts of the "battle of Tralee," drawing the conclusion that the "battle of Tralee is a figment of the imagination," and alleges that "there is serious conflict between the evidence gathered by the commission and the fanciful, highly colored story of the battle of Tralee presented in the House of Commons by the Chief Secretary."

The document cites what it intimates was a case of the deliberate faking of a photograph portraying a battle scene in order to support accounts given in the House of Commons. The report says the photograph in question has been suppressed, but it recounts how it pictured a wounded cadet and two dead Sinn Feiners lying in a road, and the cadets taking Sinn Fein prisoners in the background.

The report declares that this photograph appeared in many newspapers and was variously captioned as "A picture from the Kerry front" and "An illustration of the battle of Tralee."

"What we wish emphasized," says the report, "is that this photograph purports to have been taken in Southwest Ireland." Attention then is called to a photograph included in the report showing a junction of two roads just outside of Dublin. The report adds: "It is this exact scene, with the addition of the people referred to above, which has appeared as a picture of the battle of Tralee. There is no such scene in the vicinity of the 'battleground.' We do not know who arranged for the taking of the photograph outside Dublin, but can understand that its publication would give an air of verisimilitude to the story of an encounter as described by Sir Hamar Greenwood (Chief Secretary for Ireland)."

With reference to the attempted victimization of a witness examined by the commission the report says:

"About 2 o'clock in the morning following the publication of the evidence in the newspapers, we are informed from a trustworthy source that a number of armed men burst into the house where the witness lived. Fortunately for him, he was not there, but the men damaged the furniture and other effects in the house and on leaving one of them said: 'Tell him we will get him, and when we do we will guarantee that he will give no more evidence. We will make a clean job the next time.'"

"This scandalous incident," the report adds, "illustrates the peril of giving evidence on the doings of the armed forces of the Crown. We regret that an attempt should have been made to victimize a witness, whose only offense was that he told the commission of his experience with agents of the British Government."

Six men were arrested this morning in connection with the attempt to set on fire the premises of the Vacuum Oil Company at Wandsworth last Saturday. The police allege that it is their belief that one of the prisoners is the virtual leader of the so-called Sinn Fein terrorist gang in London. They assert further that a large collection of papers and documents seized indicates the connection of the arrested men with the Sinn Fein movement.

TROOPS WITHDRAWN FROM DUBLIN RAID AREA

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

DUBLIN, Jan. 17.—Dublin's record raid concluded suddenly this afternoon. With their barricades and barbed wire entanglements and reinforcements of tanks and armored cars, the troops were withdrawn at 2 o'clock, and the inhabitants within the area of half a mile west of Capel Street, which had been subjected to search, were free to leave and enter the district.

From a semi-official source today I learn that my suggestion, cabled yesterday, that the objects of the raid were the arrest of two men and the location of an arsenal, is correct. No support is forthcoming for the picturesque theory that the investment, which included the law courts, was a military precaution against a supposed plot to rescue Joseph Murphy, a Cork man condemned to death for participation in an ambush, whose case was argued in the courts today.

Eight arrests were made, but the men have since been released. The search was conducted on exhaustive lines and entrance to untenanted buildings was forced. Persons in the sections which were still receiving attention this morning were conducted on shopping expeditions in the district by soldiers, a detachment of whom kept the whole area under observation from a church tower.

So far as known, the results of the raid were negative.

DUBLIN, Jan. 17 (Associated Press).—Concealed hoards of arms, ammunition and gelignite are officially reported to have been discovered in Fermoy and Glenworth Castle, in the martial law area of Cork.

An appeal against the infliction of the death penalty upon Joseph Murphy was heard before the Court of Appeals today. Decision was adjourned until Jan. 25, and the execution of the prisoner was postponed until Jan. 27.

While preparing an ambush at Timoleague, in the martial law area, twenty-five men were taken prisoner today by troops. An official communiqué issued tonight in Dublin says:

"A detachment of the Essex Regiment surprised a party of men who were preparing an ambush. There was an exchange of fire, and twenty-five civilians were captured. The troops suffered twenty casualties."

A garrison, consisting of two Sergeants and ten constables, at Mullinavat Barracks, County Kilkenny, early this morning beat off a determined attack. The fight lasted half an hour. Bombs, in addition to rifles and revolvers, were used by the Republicans. All the windows in the building were shattered, but the occupants escaped injury. Traces of blood in the vicinity indicate that one or more of the attackers were wounded. They left behind fuses, shotgun cartridges, bombs and gelignite. A roughly contrived infernal machine placed against the wall of the barracks was found unexploded, the fuse having failed to work.

Wires were cut and roads blocked over an extensive area.

CORK, Jan. 17.—A large body of men attacked the Tuckey Street Police Station this morning. They were repulsed, however, after a fight with bombs, rifles and revolvers lasting a half hour.

Prices realized on Swift & Company sales of carcass beef in New York City for week ending Saturday, Jan. 15, 1921, on shipments sold out ranged from 13 cents to 20 cents per pound and averaged 17.46 cents per pound.—Advt.

Bittner in a statement said that "the United Mine Workers of America, through their chief counsel, Charles Evans Hughes, will begin proceedings immediately."

RUMANIA SEEKS POLISH ALLIANCE

BUCHAREST HAILS HALLER

Czechoslovakia, Fearing War, Said to Have Dismantled One Railroad Connecting Her With Rumania.

By WALTER DURANTY.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Jan. 17.—There has been a curious series of flat contradictions recently between statements of the French Foreign Office and the Rumanian Press Bureau and statesmen with regards to the situation in Bessarabia and Bolshevist intentions on the subject.

The affair began a month ago with a statement by the radio agency here to the effect that Rumania was mobilizing three classes of the army owing to fear of Bolshevist invasion. There is no suggestion that this was inspired by the French Foreign Office, but almost simultaneously the latter did announce that it had received news of heavy Bolshevist troop concentrations in the region east of Bessarabia. Later there was some confirmation of this from Moscow in the shape of an explanation by Tchitcherin that this and similar troop movements were for purposes of Winter quarters and demobilization.

Meanwhile one of the leading officials of the Rumanian Legation here, Prince Ghika, issued a denial of the radio story and declared the whole business invented for the purpose of influencing the exchange market.

Since then the Foreign Office has reiterated its statements about the Red troop, concentrations, which it claims to have received from several different sources. Tonight the Temps prints the following communique from the Rumanian Press Bureau:

"Alarmist stories that have been circulated about the situation on the eastern frontier of Rumania are misleading and have no serious basis. Alleged mobilization of several Rumanian classes and militarization of the railroads are inventions whose object is to favor deals on the Stock Exchange and injure Rumanian credit."

Furthermore, there was issued yesterday a radiogram from Moscow inviting Rumania to an amicable conference and insisting on the pacific sentiments of the Soviet Government toward Rumania.

Possible Key to Mystery.

Further down the same column in which these two pieces of news appear the Temps prints a third item, which perhaps gives a key to the mystery. It is a cable from Bucharest describing the warm welcome given to the Polish General Haller on his arrival there and speaking in terms of hopeful expectation of the coming visit of the Polish Foreign Minister, Prince Sapieha.

"It is more than probable that failure of the Riga negotiations between the Poles and Bolsheviki and the intention of the Soviet Government to transform the Dniester region into Winter quarters for the Red Army prove the necessity for Poland and Rumania to get together with regard to the Russian problem."

The writer goes on to dwell at some length on common interests of the two countries and the impossibility of their remaining isolated from each other.

All of which comes to this—Rumania is now exceedingly anxious to make a close alliance with Poland. The idea has been in the air for many months. Rumania boomed the "Petite Entente" with the Czechs and Jugoslavs while Poland seemed in danger of being overwhelmed by the Reds. Then the Poles made their brilliant recovery, and meanwhile the Petite Entente gradually disintegrated.

At the present moment the Rumanians are on little better terms with the Czechs than are the Poles themselves, between whom and the Czechs the coal area always has been a bone of contention. I learn from unquestioned authority that the Czechs have recently dismantled one of two railroads connecting their country with Rumania because in case of war it could not easily be blocked, whereas the other traverses a wide bridge which could be blown up.

Finally, despite their denials, Rumanians are anxious about Bessarabia, which, for all the consent of the allied Premiers to their occupation, they know Russia regards as part of her territory.

The Poles have met the Bolsheviki in the field successfully, and also the Poles have France behind them, whom Rumania's entry into the Triple Alliance rather alienated from her. For these and other reasons the Rumanians are now eager for an alliance with Poland, which explains their insistence on the falsity of all news that make the Poles shy of considering the proposition.

Attitude of the Bolsheviki.

As for the attitude of the Bolsheviki themselves, it can be explained in two ways. First, their "trade" negotiations with England have gone so far that they have at least reasonable hope of a de facto recognition before long. Accordingly, it would be the height of folly for them to ruin their prospects by aggressive action now.

Secondly, it is an old rule of European diplomacy to have a sword in one hand and an olive branch in the other.

"We want to be friendly," is the argument, "but if you will not be friendly on our terms here is what is coming to you."

In concentrating troops within easy reach of Bessarabia at the same time they are asking for a conference, the Bolsheviki are simply copying the system of Bismarck and his successors from the middle nineteenth century to June, 1914.

VIENNA EXPELLING JEWS.

VIENNA, Jan. 15.—The problem of Eastern Jewish refugees in Vienna again came up in the National Assembly last night on an interpellation by Deputy Kinschak, who demanded to know why the expulsion of the refugees was not being expedited. Jacob Redmann, Burgomaster of Vienna, in reply, said that by a new arrangement the police were obviating long legal appeals and hoped to expel the refugees more rapidly.

The Burgomaster said he had requested the Chancellor to approach the foreign representatives in Vienna in order to effect an agreement on the expulsion of all undesirable aliens without complications.

GOMPERS DEFIES LATIN DELEGATIONS

Refuses to Forward Pan-American Labor Order to Wilson to Quit Santo Domingo.

HE ASKS IT BE MODIFIED

They Try to Oust Him as President of the Congress, but He Is Re-elected.

THEN EFFECTS COMPROMISE

He Gets Unanimous Vote That Wilson Be Merely Requested to Accelerate the Evacuation.

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 17.—Samuel Gompers today was re-elected President of the Pan-American Federation of Labor. His election followed a three-hour debate in which there was a split among the delegations, the Mexicans, Salvadoreans and Guatemalans voting against the unanimous acceptance of the resolution nominating Mr. Gompers.

The next session of the Congress will be held in Guatemala City.

In addition to Mr. Gompers, John P. Frey, James Lord and Luis Morones, the latter a Mexican, were nominated for the presidency. All of them, including Mr. Gompers, declined to accept the nomination. Mr. Gompers was then renominated and re-elected.

Although some of the Guatemalan, Salvadorean and Mexican delegates energetically opposed Mr. Gompers, the solid American, Santo Domingo and Porto Rican ballot swung the others into line when it appeared that Mr. Gompers would be voted down.

A difference arising at the morning session concerning the Santo Domingan question was compromised during the noon recess. The congress unanimously voted that Mr. Gompers should send a note to President Wilson merely requesting that the evacuation of Dominica be accelerated.

At the outset of the morning's session Mr. Gompers was asked by the Santo Domingan delegation to answer a question whether a telegram protesting against American occupation and demanding an immediate evacuation of the island had been sent in accordance with the resolution approved by the labor congress last Friday. Mr. Gompers's reply that he desired to modify the text of the convention's telegram, inasmuch as the American Government already had declared itself in favor of evacuation, started a heated argument in which the Latin American policy of the United States was bitterly criticised by the Dominican, Salvadoerean and Mexican delegates.

Wilson's Policy Is Denounced.

President Wilson's plan for a Dominican administration was declared to be nothing but "a repulsive protectorate, which has been similarly imposed in Cuba, Haiti and Nicaragua," by the Santo Dominican delegate, Estrella, who, in an address extending over an hour, assailed the policy of the United States in his native land.

"American bayonets are supporting American capital in Santo Domingo," he declared. "The American Government is not actuated by love of liberty, but because the country is a valuable field for American expansion and American capital and because it is valuable for strategic purposes."

The Dominican delegation's attitude was supported by Señor Gracidas of Mexico, who insisted on "immediate evacuation," asserting that he had seen "some United States evacuations which have not been made rapidly."

The morning session was adjourned by Mr. Gompers before any final action took place. Mr. Gompers explained again to the delegates that his delay in sending the telegram to President Wilson was because the original text requested something which the United States had already agreed to, and he wished the Congress merely to request acceleration of the evacuation of Santo Domingo.

Señor Solana of Salvador openly declared that his delegation would abandon the congress unless Mr. Gompers immediately sent the telegram. The Dominican and Colombian delegations asserted after the meeting adjourned that they would act likewise.

Although the trouble had its origin with the technical refusal of Mr. Gompers to abide in detail by the resolutions passed unanimously by the congress, it is said that behind it was an effort by the Spanish-speaking delegates to test their strength against the American delegation.

It was expected when the congress adjourned Saturday evening that the final session would be held today, but many delegates today expressed willingness to continue the deliberations until late this week, if necessary, so that each constituent member of the congress might discuss fully all questions submitted.

The American delegation apparently was the only one wishing to return home immediately.

At least fifteen resolutions were discussed by the convention today, the committee in charge of resolutions having been busy over the Sunday recess in completing consideration of all matters laid before it.

Coal Piles Up in Seaports as Result of Cancellation of Foreign Orders.

LONDON, Jan. 17.—When workers appeared this morning at several Yorkshire collieries they were informed that owing to the slackness of trade the mines were closed. Several thousand men have been thrown out of work as a result of this action.

Several thousand cars of coal in seaports awaiting shipping are held up because of the cancellation of orders from abroad.

It is expected that this week's production of coal will fall under 3,000,000 tons.

VIENNA, Jan. 15.—The police have recovered property valued at 5,000,000 crowns (about $10,000 at present exchange rates), part of the money alleged to have been stolen by Israel Krumholz, the moneylender accused by immigrants in New York of having swindled them out of sums aggregating $168,000.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

The week began on Wall Street yesterday with a vigorous advance in European exchange, further recovery in Liberty bonds, a money market which still showed tendency toward easier rates notwithstanding Saturday's deficit in bank reserves, but a stock market which, except for a flicker of speculative life in the street railway shares, relapsed into purposeless fluctuations. The movement of foreign exchange was noteworthy; it affected nearly all European markets and occurred on the basis of an unusually large and steady business, which seemed to originate on both sides of the ocean. The fact should again be emphasized in explaining this show of strength, that last Autumn's decline, of sterling particularly, was much more a consequence of the acute money stringency in America than of the ordinary incidents of international finance, and that therefore the recovery, on the disappearance of the American money strain, has been perfectly logical.

In days when Europe as well as America maintained gold redemption of its currencies, sterling would decline in the face of abnormally high money rates at New York. The sales of bills which caused the decline on those occasions represented transfer from London's cheaper money market of American or foreign capital, to be loaned in Wall Street. That process did not cut a figure in precisely the same way on last Autumn's market, but the principle was the same. The sales of sterling last October and November reflected the effort of American bankers or business men, who possessed London credit balances on which they had not drawn at the low existing rates, to call home such credits at a time of urgent need, even if the sacrifice were large. The position is now being rapidly reversed; it is as profitable to leave accruing London credits to be loaned on Lombard Street as to bring them to New York, and there is little reason for supposing that the movement will not continue.

In yesterday's Wall Street money market there was little or no change. Time loans on Stock Exchange collateral were again made around 6 per cent.; which was fractionally under the day's London rate, although that market also was slightly easier. Call money held on the Stock Exchange all day at the uniform 6 per cent. rate to which it was lowered last Thursday, but loans were occasionally reported as obtainable on the Street at 5. Not much attention was paid to Saturday's deficit in reserves; partly, perhaps, because recent experience with the Federal Reserve machinery has shown that a "deficit week" at the Associated Banks is almost invariably followed by a substantial surplus, but more especially because it is now recognized that maintenance of the high Reserve Bank rate may mean only that unnecessary increase in private bank loans, on the basis of rediscounts, is still being discouraged.

After a day of generally meaningless fluctuations the stock market ended with about as many net declines as net advances. Most of the changes were unimportant and the day's transactions in stocks were hardly one-half as large as on Monday of last week. The one exception was in the street railway companies, whose stock and bonds rose several points on the movement to introduce in the Albany Legislature the bill for increased fares. It must be admitted that, although the statistical justice and the economic necessity for this change can be absolutely proved, the controversy is certain to be a long one. The plain facts of the matter are that the present scale of wages is such that, since the increase of wages a year and a half ago, operating costs and interest on legitimately incurred debt are greater than what the companies can earn by carrying passengers for 5 cents each.

Wages cannot be readjusted as is being done, more or less widely, by manufacturing concerns, and the inevitable result, quite apart from any loss to the investors, is the notorious deterioration in facilities with which every New Yorker is familiar. But the controversy has all along been confused through the extremely ill-judged use by the Interborough management, before the 25 per cent. increase of wages in August of 1919 and at a time when the company was selling securities, of a positive estimate by its engineering experts that a 5-cent fare was adequate. That report does not apply to the situation as it was altered by the subsequent change in the company's labor schedules; but the general public bases conclusions on it.

MONEY.

Both call and time funds on the Stock Exchange showed no change over the closing quotation of last week. For demand funds the rate all day was 6 per cent. For fixed period money, brokers were quoting the range as 6@6¼ per cent. for both classes, all dates. There was a report of some sixty-day money going at 6 per cent. Bankers' acceptances and prime name commercial paper were quoted at previously prevailing rates.

Holders Asked to Deposit Bonds.

Holders of the general consolidated gold 5 per cent. bonds of the Atlantic Avenue Railroad Company of Brooklyn have been invited to deposit their bonds with the Columbia Trust Company under a deposit agreement which is being prepared by a newly formed Bondholders' Protective Committee. Three instalments of interest on the bonds have been defaulted. The company is one of the predecessors of the Nassau Electric Railway Company, controlled by the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE

Renewed Advance in Rates on European Markets.

Under active purchases of foreign exchange bills, the rates on nearly all important European markets advanced sharply yesterday, with sterling in the lead. The sterling rate advanced 3⅝ cents and closed at the highest; a similar advance in francs, lire and marks left those markets also at the best figures of the day.

Scandinavian rates advanced nearly ¼ cent per crown; there were minor advances in exchange on Hungary, Serbia, Jugoslavia, Rumania, Greece and Czechoslovakia.

Argentine exchange declined, however, from 34⅝ cents to 34⅜ and Brazilian from 15⅜ to 15¼. Exchange on Montreal also reacted slightly from 87.8 cents per Canadian dollar to 87.4.

FEDERAL RESERVE RATIOS.

Six Banks Make Poorer Showing Than Year Ago, Six Better.

Comparison with this week a year ago of the ratio of Federal Reserve Bank's cash reserves to their note and deposit liabilities shows that the percentage is lower at New York, Richmond, Atlanta, Chicago, Minneapolis and Dallas, but higher at the banks of the other six districts.

The detailed statement of the twelve separate Federal Reserve Banks makes the following comparison in ratio of cash reserve to deposit and note liabilities with the preceding week and with the corresponding week last year:

BUILDING STEEL TRADE DULL

December Orders Only 26 Per Cent. of Plant's Capacity.

Structural steel orders were at low ebb during December according to figures compiled by the Bridge Builders and Structural Society. Orders were placed for only 47,000 tons or the equivalent of about 26 per cent. of capacity. In November new business amounted to 27½ per cent. of capacity and for December a year ago the orders equaled 85 per cent. of capacity.

Total orders for 1920 were 1,161,000 tons, the equivalent of 54 per cent. of capacity, compared with 53½ per cent. in 1919 and 55¾ per cent. in 1918.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Tractions the Feature.

The traction shares, both as a group and as individual issues, were easily the feature of the early trading yesterday as the direct result of the news from Albany that a strong effort would be made this Spring in the State Legislature to push through a relief measure for the New York City companies. Gains from the preceding closing ranged from fractions to more than 5 points. Manhattan led the group with more than a 5-point net gain, while Interborough Consolidated preferred, Third Avenue and Brooklyn Rapid Transit shared in the advance. There was evidence that the professionals bought stock at the opening, and this was borne out later when profit-taking sales brought about a reaction near the close. In spite of this, however, last prices were generally near the highs for the day. The fight of the local traction companies for an increased fare has from time to time resulted in an erratic interest in the shares which was usually timed to the circulation of rumors regarding legislative action, but yesterday's advance seemed the result of more than purely professional interest. The volume of business done did not equal the turnover of traction shares on occasions when they were active last year, but the opinion was expressed in some commission houses that buyers who had been out of the stock for a long period were back in again.

A Merger of Copper Companies.

There was a report yesterday that several of the copper companies were planning a merger to the end of cutting down costs which are a serious item with the price of copper around current levels. If such a merger is planned it is not far beyond the early stages of discussion. In fact one prominent copper producer characterized the report as absurd. Some of the companies mentioned in connection with a merger were Chile Copper, Kennecott, Braden and the porphyry group, Utah, Chino, Ray Consolidated and Nevada.

Bethlehem Steel.

For some time there has been a rather wide difference between the two common stocks of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation, the A and B shares, the first named selling from 1 to 2 points below the latter. Yesterday this was changed sharply when the A shares gained 2 points on a turnover of only a few hundred shares. At the end of the day the A shares were nearly a point above the B stock. There is no difference between the two issues, with this exception—that the A shares carry a voting privilege and the B shares do not. Hence there was no reason for the A stock selling below the B so far as value is concerned, and it might be expected that the voting privilege would give the A shares a slightly better market quotation than the B. However, the B stock is the active issue and the disparity in prices has probably been due to this factor.

Car Loadings Decrease.

Further proof of the depression in general business is furnished in car loadings on the railroads in the week ended Jan. 1, 1921. The total of car loadings in that period was only 598,905, as compared with 745,446 in the corresponding week two years ago. The latter figure illustrated the slump in freight traffic following the signing of the armistice. The detailed figures show that in the week ended with Jan. 1, 1921, less grain, live stock, lumber, coal, ore and miscellaneous freight was shipped for a very long time.

Money Firmer.

Money seemed to be a little firmer yesterday, which, perhaps, was natural after Saturday's deficit in the actual bank statement. On the Stock Exchange the 6 per cent. rate ruled all day, and outside, while there were reports of money to be had at 5 per cent., it is doubtful if any loans were made at the figure. Time money, which has been quoted at 6 to 6½ per cent. since the middle of last week, was unchanged, also with reports sixty-day money to be had at 6 per cent., but with no very definite news of actual loans. After last week's downward flurry, it is not strange that there should be upward reaction, but in the Street most people are not concerned by any temporary stiffening and are confident that the downward movement will continue.

Special Gold.

Some $1,500,000 gold bars came in yesterday from France, consigned to J. P. Morgan & Co. and Lazard Freres with the Morgans getting about a third of the total. No information concerning this gold could be obtained, other than that it was the result of a very "special" operation.

Scandinavian Exchange.

The advance in Scandinavian exchanges continued yesterday, with that on Copenhagen showing the most sensational rise. This rate, which had been 17.55 on Saturday, went to 18.10 yesterday, which was the highest to be quoted since April 16 of last year. The low point for 1920 and for all time was 13.00, made on November 12 last, so that yesterday's price represented a recovery of 510 points in little more than two months. The Norwegian rate, which was up 20 points yesterday to 17.45, also sold at 13.00 on November 12, while the Swedish rate on November 8 last was at 18.55 against yesterday's price of 21.40. The extreme low for Swedish exchange was 17.70, made on Feb. 5, 1920.

Suing the Railroad Administration.

Word that the United States Supreme Court had refused to review a decision of the Supreme Court of California, which found that the United States Railroad Administration was not immune to damage suits arising from the operation of a common carrier during Federal control, was not a surprise to railroad men. The Federal Control act stipulated that any carrier which did not sign a standard return or compensation contract with the Railroad Administration could first take any claims which it might have to a Board of Referees. If the carrier was not satisfied with the finding of the Board of Referees an appeal could then be made to the Court of Claims. That claims aggregating hundreds of millions of dollars will be made by the roads has been the belief in many quarters since the first few months of Federal operation, while a number of the annual reports of the roads have mentioned the fact that steps had been taken to press such claims.

Safety First Meetings.

In an effort to further decrease the number of accidents among its employes the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Company yesterday began a series of "Safety First" instruction lectures. All of the principal cities on the B. & O. system will be visited by the Superintendent of the Safety Department of the company, who will illustrate his talks with moving pictures. The lectures will be delivered in twenty-four cities including Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, St. George (S. I.), Cleveland, Chicago, Cincinnati and Dayton.

BANKERS MARK TIME ON FOREIGN LOANS

Important Developments Expected Today, However, in the Belgian Situation.

OTHER PROGRAMS ADVANCED

Said to Be Stand-off as to Whether France, Belgium or Switzerland Is Accommodated First.

Nothing developed yesterday with regard to the program of foreign financing which bankers now have under consideration, and in some quarters it was said to be about a stand-off as to which of the foreign loans would be offered first. Some important developments in the Belgian situation are expected today, and if these eventuate that country is likely to head the list. But it is said substantial progress has been made on the French and Swiss programs and that either or both of these may come ahead of the Belgian offering.

The securities of all three of these countries were heavy yesterday, the French 8s selling down to 98¾, the Swiss 8s to 103 and the Belgian 7½s to 97. Offerings were fairly heavy and the market was more responsive to them than it has been in a long time. This, ordinarily, would be construed as a reasonably sure indication of early announcements of new loans.

Thus far nothing definite has been said concerning a British loan. As a matter of fact, the only discussions, so far as known, have been between officials of the British and United States Governments regarding the funding of the indebtedness of the former to the latter. It has been reported, though, that the British were anxious to pay off and retire the British Treasury bills now circulating here. These bills outstanding aggregate between $15,000,000 and $16,000,000, and advices indicate they will not be retired and that the outstanding volume, for the time being at least, will be held at between $15,000,000 and $20,000,000.

South American countries which have been negotiating with local bankers for credits are said to have made some progress lately, but not a great deal. The authorization by Chile of a five-million-sterling loan is presumed to mean that that country is preparing to negotiate with London, but bankers say that the loan may be floated here. South American financing, however, is very uncertain, as witness the fact that the proposed loan of $30,000,000 to the Brazilian State of Sa Paulo was virtually consummated last Fall when a hitch arose and the whole plan was abandoned.

$10,126,000 Detroit Bonds on Sale.

Kuhn, Loeb & Co., Hallgarten & Co., and Kidder, Peabody & Co. were awarded yesterday the $10,126,000 City of Detroit 5 per cent., 5½ per cent. and 6 per cent. serial bonds which that city had offered. The bonds, which will mature serially from 1922 to 1951, will be offered to the public today as follows: Bonds maturing 1923 on a 5⅝ per cent. basis; maturing 1924 and 1925 on a 5⅜ per cent. basis; those of 1926 to 1929 inclusive, on a 5¼ per cent. basis; 1930 to 1934 at 5¼ per cent.; 1935 to 1951 on a 5.10 per cent. basis for the 5 per cents and 5½ per cents, and on a 5.15 per cent. basis for the 6 per cent. bonds.

ASKS NEW ANTI-FRAUD LAWS

Massachusetts Commissioner Says Investors Need More Protection.

BOSTON, Jan. 17.—Legislation requiring that securities of uncertain enterprises be passed upon by State officials before being sold, and that brokers and their salesmen be registered so that sale of securities through misrepresentation may be prevented, is recommended by a special commission in a report filed with the Legislature today.

The commission asks an amendment to existing legislation to place persons or corporations receiving money on deposit for safekeeping or investment under the jurisdiction of the State Banking Commissioner.

"It is difficult, indeed, to assert that the criminal statutes can be an effective check, in view of the fact that fraudulent or worthless securities amounting to between $30,000,000 and $50,000,000 were sold in this Commonwealth during the last year," says the report. "The difficulty in stopping such schemes as Ponzi's lies in the inadequacy of the existing statutes. Under the legislation now recommended it would have been impossible for Ponzi to operate in this State."

The commission was composed of Attorney General J. Weston Allen as Chairman; William D. Trefry, former Commissioner of Corporations and Taxation, and Samuel Spring.

BIGGER BANKERS' JOURNAL.

To Supply Fuller Commercial Information for Business Men.

At a meeting yesterday of the Public Relations Commission of the American Bankers' Association, under the Chairmanship of Francis H. Sisson, Vice President of the Guaranty Trust Company, plans were laid for the enlargement of the scope and contents of the association's official journal, and the appointment of James E. Clark as editor was decided on. It is the plan of the commission that the Journal shall not simply interpret the banks of America to the general public, but that it shall also supply comprehensive and authoritative data on domestic and international commerce which will be of use to bankers and business men alike.

James E. Clark, the new editor of The Journal, has had wide experience in the publishing field. After fifteen years in newspaper work, he entered the magazine world, editing The American Motorist, and Advertising and Selling.

Bank in South Caroline Fails.

The Trend of Bond Prices

as indicated by

The Decline in Commodity Prices

There is an inexorable economic law in accordance with which bond prices move contrary to commodity prices. Temporary conditions may delay the perfect operation of this law, but ultimately the trend is so defined.

In times of industrial activity and rising prices, money flows from investment channels into commodities. The consequent demand for money for industrial purposes increases its cost, and new bond issues bear higher rates. Prices of old bond issues adjust themselves to lower levels so that the yield may equalize the prevailing rates for new issues.

In times of industrial reaction and falling prices, the demand for capital for industrial purposes slackens and money rates fall. Money, becoming more plentiful, flows back into investment channels. The demand for bonds and the tendency of bond prices to adjust themselves to lower money rates cause bond prices to advance.

Last May, in an effort to show that, with commodity liquidation imminent, bond prices were due to advance, we prepared a table, an excerpt of which is given below, indicating the enormous decline in bond prices as measured in terms of the inflated values of commodities. A third column has been added to bring the exhibit up to date.

Unskilled day labor	days	55.4	12.6	16.4
Sugar—Ref. Gran	lbs.	2,395	350	1,038
Cotton	lbs.	746	188	512
Steel Rails	tons	3.46	1.40	1.82
Steel sheets	lbs.	5,243	1,400	1,885
Pig iron	tons	6.58	1.64	2.36
Copper	lbs.	685	405	656
Wool—100 grades (Avge.)	lbs.	408	114	828
Wheat	bu.	88½	24	40
Corn	bu.	121	34⅓	86⅓

Brick—Common	M.	13.85	3.08	4.55
Yellow pine	feet	3,233	700	1,323

As subsequent developments have shown, bond prices touched their low level in May, 1920, and turned about, while commodity prices have been sharply declining since. Though the rapid advance in bond prices in the months immediately following May has not been entirely sustained, bonds are to-day substantially above their low point.

The advance, however, has not been proportionate to the decline in commodity prices, for the reason that liquidation is still in process. Money rates, which must eventually ease, have not done so materially as yet owing partly to the quantity of credits tied up in unsold commodities.

How far the operation of the economic law has progressed to date is best exemplified in the following comparison of Dun's Index Number of the average prices of 300 commodities with the New York Times' average of 40 bond prices:

	May, 1914	May, 1920	Jan., 1921

It is thus apparent that the advance in bond prices since last May has not been proportionately as large as the decline in commodity prices.

We conclude from the above that while the continued advance in bond prices may be temporarily checked by secondary influences, fundamental economic principles indicate that the trend is now definitely upward.

We shall be pleased to send upon request our circular containing a selected list of bonds which we recommend for investment.

Deflation and Bond Prices

THE great decline in bond prices for the past eight years, due to inflation, high commodity prices and high interest rates, has created an opportunity to purchase seasoned bonds at figures almost unequalled since the Civil War. The process of deflation appears to be under way and combined with other economic factors should force future bond values much higher than at present.

RENTS RAISE INCOME TAX OF LANDLORDS

Revenue Bureau Expects Realty Owners to Pay Higher Totals Than in 1920.

SOME DEDUCTIONS LEGAL

Expense of Getting Tenants Not Taxable — Depreciation Also Allowed.

Increased rents are expected to increase income taxes this year, according to a statement of the Bureau of Internal Revenue. The law requires that every dollar received for rent be included as gross income in the returns, but both landlord and tenant are allowed certain deductions.

"Where property is held for renting purposes," says the bureau, "the owner may deduct the cost of securing tenants, such as advertising and maintenance expenses. A tenant may deduct the rent paid for business premises, but not for his home, which is a personal or living expense. Interest and taxes paid by the tenant on behalf of the landlord are deductible by the tenant as additional rental, provided the property is business property. Such items represent income to the landlord and must be included in his return of gross income, but are deductible by him also.

"Frequently a tenant agrees to erect a building or make other permanent improvements for the benefit of the landlord. The cost of such improvement is a capital expenditure, and in order to return to the tenant his investment of capital, an annual deduction may be made from gross income of an amount equal to the total cost of such improvements divided by the number of years of the term of the lease, and such deduction shall be in lieu of a deduction for depreciation.

"Under the head of depreciation owners are allowed a "reasonable amount for exhaustion, wear and tear of property used in trade or business, including a reasonable allowance for obsolescence." This deduction must be made as a separate item.

"As the rate at which depreciation may be claimed is dependent upon local conditions, no specific rate is established by the law and regulations.

"To compute the proper amount of depreciation, the taxpayer should determine the probable lifetime of the property, then divide the fair market value March 1, 1913, or the cost if acquired subsequent thereto, by the number of years so determined. This will give the annual depreciation allowable. For example, a frame building, the probable lifetime of which is twenty-five years, cost $4,000. Divide 4,000 by 25 and claim $120 each year as depreciation.

"Deductions for depreciation are limited strictly to business property."

NEW EDITION NOW READY

Moody's Government and Municipal Rating Book

The constantly growing interest in foreign securities makes this new edition unusually timely. It is the only annual publication covering this field.

The book contains complete statements and records of all of the bond issues of the United States, Canada, Great Britain and her colonies, France, Belgium, Italy, Spain, Switzerland, Holland, Denmark, Norway, Sweden, Finland, Germany, Austria, Japan, China, Argentina, Brazil, Cuba, Chile and all other South American Republics.

In addition, full statistics of American cities, states, counties and towns, all the political divisions of Canada and all the chief cities and political subdivisions of Europe, South America, and other parts of the world. Both external and internal foreign securities are included. In all, more than 30,000 government and municipal bond issues are classified and rated.

Details regarding the various European external issues which have been sold in this country are clearly defined in this volume. The unusual terms of payment of many of these issues have not heretofore been clearly explained. This new edition will therefore be found unusually valuable from this point of view alone.

Practically the entire edition has been sold on prior orders, and if you are interested we urge prompt action.

PRICE $15.00 per copy, delivered; in combination with our Railroad, Industrial and Public Utility Editions, $60.00 per set. Address: Dept. A.

Short term bonds are better for some; long term bonds are better for others

Investment requirements differ with the individual.

For those who have surplus funds which they may need at any time or on a specified date within the next few years, the present market offers short term notes of the best character on very attractive terms. Funds may be temporarily invested in such short time notes to advantage.

On the other hand, for those whose funds need not be kept liquid, long term bonds are recommended. The investor thereby assures himself of a high yield over a long period of years—an opportunity that seldom exists.

FINDS BANKS READY FOR ANY EMERGENCY

GRATIFIED AT SITUATION

Declares Conservative and Prudent Management Has Helped Restrain "Orgy of Extravagance."

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—John Skelton Williams, Controller of the Currency, declared in a statement made public today that the national banks were in a strong condition and well fortified to meet any emergency which might arise in the period of readjustment. The facts and figures presented, he said, would make it appear that some of the criticisms as to alleged financial inflation were, as far as the national banking system was concerned, entirely unjustified.

The statement by Mr. Williams covers the condition of all national banks as of Nov. 15, 1920.

"Their present strong and well-fortified condition," he says, "and the fact that their aggregate borrowings on rediscounts and bills payable amodnt to only about 10 per cent. of their total resources, is particularly gratifying when we consider that our people in the last three and one-half years have taken up, paid for and have pretty well digested about $24,000,000,000 of Government obligations."

Mr. Williams takes up the reports concerning the part which banks may have played in the period of speculation following the armistice.

Less Inflation Reported.

"A further analysis of the figures of Nov. 15, 1920," he says, "as compared with the statement of all national banks on March 4, 1919, four months after the armistice, suggests that there has been far less inflation of credit and loans, at least so far as the national banks are concerned, than is popularly supposed, and some of the criticisms which have been made as to the alleged financial inflation, as far as they are concerned, is hardly justified. The generally conservative instincts and prudent management of most of our bankers have been a healthy and restraining influence to the orgy of extravagance and speculation which raged during the eight months' period succeeding the armistice.

"The loans and discounts of all national banks on March 4, 1919, plus the United States Government securities owned, which may be regarded in the light of loans to the Government, but exclusive of United States bonds held to secure circulation, amounted to $12,694,650,000, as compared with $13,749,926,000 on Nov. 15, 1920.

"This was an increase in loans and discounts and United States Government securities held during the last twenty months of only $1,055,876,000, or less than 9 per cent. It should be taken into consideration that during this period of twenty months the Government sold and collected for $4,500,000,000 of Victory notes, the majority of which were sold and collected for through our national banks."

Resources and Deposits.

Of the general conditions of the national banking system, the statement by Mr. Williams says:

"The total resources of all national banks on Nov. 15, 1920, amounted to $22,081,013,000. This was an actual increase since Sept. 8, 1920, of $196,433,000, but a reduction as compared with the corresponding call a year ago of $583,079,000.

"The total deposits amounted on Nov. 15, 1920, to $16,981,702,000, an increase since Sept. 8, 1920, of $209,746,000, but a reduction since Nov. 17, 1919, of $506,161,000.

"The total of loans and discounts, exclusive of rediscounts, aggregated $12,311,314,000, an actual shrinkage since Sept. 8, 1920, of $104,248,000, but an increase over the corresponding period of the previous year of $751,272,000.

"The lawful reserve, plus items in process of collection with the Federal Reserve Banks, on Nov. 15, 1920, amounted to $1,748,497,000, being practically stationary as compared with Sept. 8, 1920, the increase being only $25,060,000, and the increase over the previous year being only $9,783,000.

Government Securities Held.

"The United States Government securities held amounted to $2,152,465,000 (of which about $700,000,000 were held to secure circulation), a reduction since Sept. 8, 1920, of $22,554,000 and a decline as compared with Nov. 17, 1919, of $729,416,000.

"The increase of $751,272,000 in loans and discounts as compared with Nov. 17, 1919, is approximately offset by reduction in the amount of United States Government securities held of $729,416,000.

"It would appear that the banks obtained the funds with which to meet the shrinkage in deposits of $506,151,000 as compared with Nov. 17, 1919, by increasing their bills payable and rediscounts. The bills payable and rediscounts on Nov. 15, 1920, amounted to $2,900,635,000, the increase over Sept. 8, 1920, being $90,993,000, and over Nov. 17, 1919, $648,002,000.

"The other bonds and securities held by national banks on Nov. 15, 1920, amounted to $1,833,060,000, an increase over Sept. 8, 1920, of $27,507,000 and a reduction as compared with Nov. 17, 1919, of $37,017,000.

Shrinkage in Amounts Due.

"The amount due to other banks and bankers shrank $788,981,000 during the year to $3,094,467,000 on Nov. 15, 1920. This reduction was partly offset by the decline of $582,478,000 in the amount due from other banks and bankers which, on Nov. 15, 1920, was only $3,123,480,000, as compared with $3,706,938,000 Nov. 17, 1919.

"The proportion of loans and discounts to deposits on Nov. 15, 1920, was 72.53 per cent. as compared with 74.11 per cent. on Sept. 8, 1920, and 66.18 per cent. on Nov. 17, 1919.

"The strong position of the national banks is further apparent when we consider that the amount of United States Government bonds which they hold, exclusive of those held to secure circulation, plus the loans made by these banks on the security of Government bonds, is practically as much as the sum total of their bills payable and rediscounts, including money borrowed from the Federal Reserve Banks and from all other banks.

"In other words, if the national banks should sell their United States Government bonds to investors and collect the money which they are now advancing on United States Government bonds they could, as a whole, pay every cent they owe to the Federal Reserve Banks, whose earnings would, as a result, be reduced approximately $150,000,000 per annum, unless they should find other means for employing their funds. Approximately 90 per cent. of all the rediscounts of the national banks are obtained from the Federal Reserve Banks."

Warns Employes Not to Risk Savings

T. O. Edwards, auditor of the Southern Pacific Company, has issued a word of warning to employes of the company against risking their savings in purely speculative ventures. This was sent out when it was discovered that several employes had lost Liberty bond savings through the unscrupulous misrepresentations of crooks. The statement suggests that all investments be thoroughly investigated before employes withdraw savings.

NEW STRENGTH FOR WHEAT IN CHICAGO

Down at Start, but Heavy Buying for Sea Board Interests Sends It Up at Finish.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Jan. 17.—General business conditions are showing gradual improvement, with a decrease in unemployment in this territory. The heavy sales of cash corn by the country are expected to be reflected in a contraction of loans by interior banks in the near future, and while offerings of grain dry up on the declines there is plenty for sale on the rallies. It is understood that Butler Brothers will declare the usual quarterly dividend next month, with some talk of an extra, although this is regarded as improbable in some quarters.

The unexpected happened in wheat today. Lowest price was made early and the highest at about the close, with net gains of 2⅜@3¼ cents, after a range of 3⅝@4½ cents. There was heavy buying by houses with seaboard connections to remove hedges against export sales, confirmation being secured on 1,040,000 bushels by Chicago houses alone via the Gulf, with every indication that the total day's business in all positions was around 1,500,000 bushels.

Omaha sold 120,000 bushels. Premiums at the Gulf were firmer, with January and February loading quoted at 21 cents over Chicago March. Included in the day's sales were 240,000 bushels for April loading at a price understood to be about 20 cents over March. This was regarded as of great significance by the trade and an indication that the European demand was to continue.

The claim that the British had bid equal to 10 cents under American prices for 3,750,000 bushels Indian wheat had little effect, as that country is suffering from famine, and, while it has a surplus, a great deal of wheat will be carried over to make up for the deficit in this year's crop. The report that the New South Wales crop has been cut 25 per cent. by a big storm, though announced in cables a month ago, had some effect. It is officially denied that there was 70,000,000 bushels of wheat carried over into the new crop that was not included in the figures given out at that time. This report has been in circulation for two weeks.

Country offerings on the break were small. Premiums on hard Winters and Springs here were off 1 cent, as compared with March, and Red Winter 4 to 5 cents over. At St. Louis premiums on Red have declined around 22½ cents in the last ten days.

Sentiment after the close was decidedly mixed, but it was very noticeable that the leading bull interest was a free seller of offers after the close, which was taken as indicating that bulges would be limited for the time being. The technical position in all grains was weakened by the upturn today, many local professionals covering on the early break.

Short covering and the strength in wheat were responsible for the advance of ½ to ¾ cents in corn at the last. Export sales in all positions aggregated 755,000 bushels. Oats closed ⅛ to ¼ cents higher, and rye ¼ to 1⅛ cents higher. Cash houses were the best sellers of oats.

Routine news attracted little attention. A decrease of 3,029,000 bushels in the visible supply of wheat brought the total down to 38,154,000 bushels, compared with 41,183,000 bushels a week ago and 66,090,000 last year. Corn increased 1,260,000 bushels, and is 7,909,000 bushels, against 6,649,000 the previous week and 3,455,000 last year. A large increase is expected again this week.

Primary movement is increasing, receipts of wheat being 1,975,000 bushels, against 2,003,000 bushels a week ago and 1,381,000 bushels last year. Shipments were 1,020,000 bushels; week ago, 722,000 bushels; last year, 973,000.

Arrivals of corn were the largest of the season—2,125,000 bushels; week ago, 1,599,000; last year, 1,210,000, and shipments, 823,000 bushels; week ago, 801,000; last year, 492,000.

PACKERS COMPLAIN OF TRADE BOARD

Say Their Export Business Is Menaced by Circulaton Abroad of Investigation Report.

GOVERNMENTS GET COPIES

Members of Congress Told of Proposals Before Commons to Restrict American Meat Concerns.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—The attention of members of Congress was called today by the Institute of American Meat Packers, through its Washington office, to proposals submitted to the British Parliament regarding the meat industry and said to be designed to restrain American packers from further extending their world trade.

The institute, in an open letter to Senators and Representatives transmitting a report to Parliament by a sub-committee of the Standing Committee on Trusts, says this report was a "consequence of the deliberate circulation in foreign countries by the Federal Trade Commission" of the commission's report on its investigation of the "Big Five" packers conducted several years ago by direction of President Wilson.

It is charged by the institute that the Trade Commission not only furnished copies of its report to representatives here of foreign countries, but also asked the Diplomatic Bureau of the State Department to transmit copies of the report direct to these Governments.

The commission, it is charged further, sent to the Diplomatic Bureau a form letter to be used in transmitting the report, which said:

"There is enclosed herewith a copy of the summary of the report of the Federal Trade Commission on the meat industry which was recently released for publication by President Wilson and which may be of interest to your Government."

"By this form letter," says the institute's communication, "President Wilson was made to extend the invitation to foreign Governments to take the 'fundamental action' which the commission said was necessary to prevent international control of meat products by the American packers."

The institute's letter goes on to say that members of Congress, after reading the British committee's report, which quotes at great length from the Trade Commission report, "will appreciate the serious disaster which threatens the live stock industry of this country as a consequence of the deliberate circulation in foreign countries by the Federal Trade Commission of its false and unjust charges against the American packers."

The British committee's report, a digest of which was published recently in the United States, says "no complaint was made (at hearings held by it) of unfair trading on the part of the American companies beyond severe cutting of prices for the purpose of developing trade or clearing surplus stocks," but it charges that "there is at least a tacit understanding between the American meat companies to respect each other's position, which secures to them all the economic advantages of an active combination."

The committee finally recommends that "it should be the declared policy of his Majesty's Government to prevent the percentage of the beef trade, which is at present in foreign hands, from increasing to the loss of producers at home and in the Dominions and of British importing companies," and that expansion of foreign interests in the United Kingdom should be restrained by taxation and subsidizing refrigerated shipping companies.

United Railways & Electric Company of Baltimore

Ten Year 7½% Secured Gold Notes

Dated January 15, 1921. Due January 15, 1931.

Interest January 15th and July 15th.

Principal and interest payable at the banking house of Alex. Brown & Sons, Baltimore. Coupon Notes in denominations of $1,000 and $500, registerable as to principal only. Redeemable as a whole or in part at any time at the Company's option on sixty days' notice at 105 on or before January 15, 1926; at 104 thereafter to January 15, 1927; at 103 thereafter to January 15, 1928; at 102 thereafter to January 15, 1929; at 101 thereafter to January 15, 1930; at 100 thereafter to maturity, plus accrued interest in each instance.

Total Issue.....$1,500,000.

BUSINESS—The United Railways & Electric Company of Baltimore was formed by consolidation in 1899 of all the street railways in Baltimore and vicinity. At the present time it operates a total of over 418 miles of trackage, serving a population estimated to be about 800,000.

FRANCHISES—All of the franchises of the Company in the streets of the City are perpetual with the exception of about 16 miles of disconnected franchises which are for 25 years, renewable for 25 more. Charter provisions of two of the merged companies permitted the City to purchase the properties of these two companies (owning 56 and 13 miles of track) at recurring periods of 15 years, but it was also provided that in such event the City should pay not only the physical value of the properties, but the value of the FRANCHISES as well. This is an unusual protection to security holders.

PURPOSE OF ISSUE—The proceeds of these $1,500,000 notes will be used to retire $1,222,000 notes of the Company which will mature February 1, 1921, and for other corporate purposes.

SECURITY—These notes will be secured by deposit with the Trustee of $3,000,000 United Railways & Electric Company of Baltimore First Consolidated Mortgage 4% Gold Bonds, due March 1, 1949.

The total market value of the pledged bonds at present prices is about 29% in excess of this present issue of notes.

EARNINGS—During 1920 the Company operated on a 7 cent fare, which is still in force. For the fiscal year ended December 31, 1920 (figures partly estimated), the total operating revenues of the Company were $17,308,000, and the balance after the payment of all fixed charges $1,610,400. After the payment of $560,000 on $14,000,000 Income Bonds, the net income remaining amounted to $1,050,400.

The total annual interest charge on this issue of notes amounts to only $112,500. This is only $51,400 more than the annual interest charges on the $1,222,000 notes due February 1, 1921, which will be retired by the proceeds of this issue.

The Public Service Commission of Maryland has held that "the best interests of the public with respect to the Company require that it should earn a balance of not materially less than one and a half times its fixed charges, or $1,500,000 per annum, after the payment of operating expenses, fixed charges, taxes and the making of reasonable allowance for its accident and depreciation reserves." For further details reference is made to letter of the president dated January 15, 1921, a copy of which will be furnished upon request.

Big New York Bank Strongly Endorses Credit Insurance—

A leading bank of New York City has just written the American Credit-Indemnity Co., as follows:

"We are pleased to learn that the matter of Credit Insurance for mercantile houses is being brought to the attention of Banks, particularly in these times.

"We have for sometime past been particular to learn from borrowing depositors whether such insurance is carried. It is our intention to incorporate in our blanks for financial statements this query. Undoubtedly this is just as important as fire insurance on merchandise."

Bankers in every part of the country are endorsing precautions that prevent, else pay, bad debt losses beyond the normal, which the American's "Unlimited-Interim-Payment" Policy does.

Manufacturers and wholesalers, there's no better way of starting the New Year than by getting the full particulars of our protective service. Write or phone today.

COTTON PRICES RISE AFTER EARLY BREAK

Disappointing cables from Liverpool caused a break of 25 to 35 points in the general list early in the day yesterday, but after the Liverpool closing had come in the cotton market turned and by closing time had scored a net advance of 20 to 26 points and finished the day firm at gains of 11 to 13 points for active months.

Business was not particularly heavy, and there was none of the excitement that some recent days have produced. However, the undertone seemed firm enough, as witness the way the market recovered after its poor start. The buying which sent values up in the afternoon was largely local, coming mostly from Wall Street houses, but with some of the local trade and commission houses participating to a limited extent.

Arrivals of 10,633 bales from the South, which will be inspected and passed in time for delivery against January contracts, probably puts an end to the fear of a squeeze in the January shorts. The trade has been expecting heavy arrivals for several days, but there was apprehension in some quarters that the cotton would not reach here in time to be available for January delivery.

Trade news was scarce again and was not of very startling character. Spots both here and in the South were slightly above the final figures of last week, but the gains were not great and the tone of the spot markets was not noticeably improved. Against this, however, it should be borne in mind that the Southern spot markets have undergone a notable improvement since the beginning of the year and are now greatly better than they were late in November and during most of December.

The local market for spot cotton was quiet, 15 points up, at 18.05c for middling upland; sales, 2,300 bales. Now Is the Time to Increase Your Advertising

WHEN your car hits the up-grade, do you throttle down? Not if you want to make the grade! You step on the throttle and coax and jockey until you're over the crest.

Today, selling is on the up-grade and in sandy going. The public is muffling its ears against persuasive argument. If you cut down your sales effort, what chance have you to maintain your sales?

Now is the time to increase your advertising, when the faint-hearted and the weak are leaving the field to the courageous and far-sighted. Wise and seasoned advertisers, who know what advertising is and can do, are now spending more to take advantage of their opportunity. Experience has shown them that advertising is not only the most efficient method of sales promotion, but the greatest insurance against future competition.

We should be glad to discuss with you your sales problem, and how advertising can aid you.

FUR AUCTION STARTS WELL.

Active Bidding for Marten, Fisher, Beaver and Muskrat.

Active bidding for marten, fisher, beaver and muskrat, particularly for marten, was the feature of the opening sessions of the sixth annual Winter fur sale in the Masonic Hall here yesterday. The prices obtained for the skins sold during the day, although said by buyers to be generally lower than those which ruled at the last previous sale in this city last April, were asserted to be much better than had been expected in view of the marked readjustment of values that the fur trade of the world has witnessed in the last nine or ten months. Yesterday's prices supplied the first real basis on which the industry has had to work for some time and, because of this, interest in the sale was widespread. The attendance when the hammer fell on the first lot sold was about 500.

Manufacturers were the chief buyers, and they bought the better qualities of skins freely. Furs for Summer use came in for considerable attention. The sale opened with an offering of 160 wolverine, which brought prices ranging up to $12. Bidding for them was only fairly active, but buyers were all attention when fishers were put on the block. Top price for fisher was $100. Russian sable moved well, with a "top" of $155. Beaver sold up to $24.25, a figure that brought a scattering of applause.

At the afternoon session marten was the start with $51 as the best price. Muskrats also moved well. A new departure yesterday was the selling of 330 dressed and dyed Alaska sealskins. Bidding for them was fairly active, and they brought prices ranging from $33 to $48. At the close of the day's selling it was unofficially estimated that the total amount realized was not far short of $500,000.

Wolverine	$12.00	$22.00	50
Fisher	100.00	236.00	45
Russian sable	155.00	540.00	47½
Beaver	24.25	30.00	20
Lynx	31.50	50.00	40
Wild cat	5.10	11.75	*30
Otter	38.50	66.00	†30
Muskrat—
Brown	1.75	5.15	65
Southern	0.55	1.85	70
Black	1.45	4.55	65
Marten	51.00	80.00	40
Seal	48.00	....	....

*Southwestern. Northern wildcat dropped 60 per cent.

†Northern. Southern otter declined 60 per cent.

Today will be fox day at the sale. Gray fox will be offered first by Auctioneer J. Gordon Noakes of the New York Fur Auction Sales Corporation, following which will come sundry blue, white, cross, Australian and silver foxes, kolinsky and civet cat. Selling will begin at 9:30 A. M.

TOBACCO SALES RESUMED.

Burley 1920 Crop Brings Higher Prices Than Early in Month.

LEXINGTON, Ky., Jan. 17.—Sale of the 1920 crop of burley tobacco in Central Kentucky, Indiana and Ohio was resumed today after a delay of thirteen days, due to efforts to force prices to a higher level.

Buyers here today bid on virtually all tobacco offered, regardless of quality. Prices averaged somewhat better than on Jan. 3 and 4, the top being $38.50 per 100 for choice tobacco and the lowest being 50 cents per 100. Much poor tobacco was on the market.

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., Jan. 17.—Higher prices prevailed on the Huntington burley tobacco market today. Total sales aggregated 175,000 pounds, the average price being $30 per 100 pounds. There was a marked absence of low-grade offerings.

Trading Quiet at London Wool Sale.

LONDON, Jan. 17.—At the wool auction sales today 11,330 bales were offered. Trading was quiet and prices unchanged, although slightly reduced selling limits allowed of the absorption of the larger portion of the medium crossbreds.

Gray Goods Do Pretty Well.

Gray goods got away to a quiet start here yesterday, but the demand improved during the afternoon and a pretty fair volume of business was transacted. Near-by deliveries of Southern 38½-inch 64-60 printcloths sold for 8⅝ cents, with similar shipments of 39-inch 68-72s, also Southern goods disposed of at 9¾ cents. Eastern makes of 38½-inch 60-48s brought 7¾ cents for nearby months, and the general asking price for them now is 8 cents. Among the day's trading in sheetings were sales of 5-yard goods at 7⅝ cents, while 5.50s moved at 6⅝ cents. Buyers continued to pay 14 cents for 39-inch 64-104, 4.20-yard sateens.

To Spend $5,000,000 Here.

Desirable merchandise of all kinds will be bought for cash to the extent of $5,000,000 by the American Wholesale Corporation of Baltimore, purchases of this size being made necessary, according to an announcement of the corporation, by the heavy buying at its January sale. The corporation is in the market for practically all kinds of general merchandise, excepting groceries. Manufacturers who may be interested in the corporation's needs are invited by it to communicate with its temporary local office, which is situated on the second floor of the building at 45 West Eighteenth Street, or with its main offices at Baltimore, beginning tomorrow. The corporation announced yesterday that its permanent New York office would continue at 254 Fourth Avenue.

Feather Trimmings Being Seen.

Feather trimmings are appearing on the Spring hats now reaching this country from Paris. Large, drooping plumes of ostrich, as well as glycerined and drenched effects, are seen, and burned pheasant plumage is also employed. The latter is used to trim a turban of sapphire-blue visca cloth, which is shot through with strips of celophane. The line of the brim is high, and the plumage, dyed sapphire-blue and having fleckings of black, entirely covers it and droops in a shaggy effect. Stiff curled whips of the feathers dangle from one side of the brim, reaching below the ear.

Fall Ginghams Are Opened.

Fall lines of dress ginghams, seersuckers and chambrays for the wholesale trade have been opened by Amory, Browne & Co. All orders are being taken subject to opening prices, which, it was said yesterday by an executive of the company, are usually announced in March or April. Because of the limited production anticipated, allotments to buyers have been made. Practically all of these had been confirmed late yesterday afternoon. The price of Lancaster staple ginghams has been advanced to 13½ cents, with deliveries unavailable before the second quarter of the year.

New Prices on Woolen Surplus.

The intention of the leading woolen factor to name new and much lower prices on its surplus holdings will remove considerable anxiety in the trade, though it may substitute worry of a different kind over competition. The new prices will be announced tomorrow. It is said they will discount not only the recent wool cut but also the lower prices for woolens. It is understood to be the desire of the company to complete its sales through its own organization without resort to an auction. The latter, however, is planned in the event that the accumulations of suitings cannot be moved in any other way. Estimates of the probable reduction were made yesterday in the market, and it was commonly thought that the "distressed price" level would have to be equalled or lower. This would bring the average [illegible] to about 40 per cent. of the opening price.

Reaching the Saturation Point.

The opinion is heard more often in wholesale dry goods quarters that retail sale offerings may expect less response from now on, especially in the larger distributing centres. It is felt that the public has not only been fed up on sales, but that the latter have actually reached their "saturation point." This is held to be particularly true in the case of clothing for both men and women, as well as certain other apparel, which has been so much in the public eye, and on which the liquidation has been so protracted. The thrift movement is expected to exert a curtailing effect on public expenditures, especially if the situation is as described.

Garment Retailers' Convention.

Samuel Reyburn, President of Lord & Taylor, will be one of the chief speakers at the convention of the National Garment Retailers' Association, to be held on February 3 at the Hotel Commodore. Jules Bache will speak on the sales tax. John S. Horde, former Internal Revenue Commissioner of the Philippines, where such a tax was used, has been invited to talk on the same subject. Thomas Gould will discuss retail credits. Prices and their probable trend, buying policy, advertising and other subjects will be dealt with at the meeting.

Results From Retail Meeting.

In the wholesale clothing trade, the results of the meeting of retailers to start today at St. Louis are eagerly awaited. The members of the National Retail Clothiers' Association have a program which embraces the four season movement, discounts, zone datings and other important matters. However, it is from the conference of individuals that the manufacturers expect the most benefit, as a general decision that prices are low enough to buy safely may bring substantial aid to the wholesale Spring season. Developments during the last two weeks are understood to indicate a freer purchasing policy on the part of the retailers, a condition which may be reflected at the convention.

Line Instead of Trimmings.

It is understood to be the belief of designers of the better grades of women's garments that, from now on, more effort will have to be given to effecting new lines in their modes in lieu of ornate trimming. The lavish use of either beads or embroidery is, therefore, being discouraged, although new treatments for these trimmings are still to be found in even the higher-priced garment lines. For all but the most exclusive houses, the matter of radical changes in design waits upon the commercial opportunity which will be afforded, once the retailers have fully liquidated their stocks. In the meantime, merchandise "at a price" still has the floor.

Wondering About New Prices.

Interest on the part of importers and prominent jobbing buyers of linens centres at the moment in the prices of yarns, &c., which will replace those in the fixed list which was drawn up some time ago by Irish, Scotch, French and Belgian spinners and which was to have continued in effect until March 31. Due to the inability of the manufacturers to do business at prices based on those in the list, it was abandoned, by agreement, on Saturday last. Regardless of how large or small stocks of linens may be on the other side of the Atlantic, it is asserted that these goods are not plentiful here because wholesale buyers have been refusing to pay the prices asked for them. The abandonment of the yarn list, however, will mean generally lower prices, and is expected to bring about a marked improvement in business.

BUSINESS NOTES.

Meetings of the hosiery and knit goods buyers of the Dry Goods Union will be held today, tomorrow and Thursday, at 432 Fourth Avenue.

December sales of the J. C. Penney Company, Inc., which operates a chain of dry goods stores throughout the country, showed an increase of $1,623,259 over those of the same month in 1919. The company's total sales for 1920 amounted to $42,846,[illegible] which was an increase of $14,062,043.11 over the total for 1919.

TROLLEY FARES INCREASED.

Subway Gains Through Flatbush Avenue Line's Action.

The Brooklyn City Railroad Company yesterday put into effect the double fare on its old Flatbush Avenue line, running from Park Row, Manhattan, to East Forty-ninth Street and Avenue M, Flatbush. A platoon of policemen and employes of the company were on hand at Foster and Flatbush Avenues, where conductors collected the second fare.

The company officials were afraid that there would be a renewal of the disturbances of a year ago, but there was a noticeable falling off in the number of persons using the lines. That was explained by the fact that within the last four weeks the Interborough subway was extended to a point half a mile south of Foster Avenue and most of the patrons of the trolley road walked to the subway stations.

In the evening the number of persons who paid the second fare had increased, but it was evident that more people returned home by the subway, although officials of the trolley company asserted the normal number of passengers was carried.

ASKS TRIAL TO OUST BELLEVUE TRUSTEES

$36,500 BOILERS INVOLVED

Corporation Counsel O'Brien has been asked to investigate the action of the Trustees of Bellevue and Allied Hospitals in rescinding a contract awarded to the Chute, Thornton & Bailey Corporation for the installation of three boilers costing $36,500 in the new Fordham Hospital. At the same time Commissioner of Accounts David Hirshfield has recommended in a report to the Mayor that the Trustees be tried on charges of incompetency with a view to removal, because of their action in rescinding the contract.

In building the new hospital the Trustees authorized Woodwell & Resler, architects and engineers of 501 Fifth Avenue, to draw plans for the installation of three boilers, the specifications setting forth that they should be straight-tube boilers of a certain standard. The contract went through the Board of Estimate without objection and four bids were offered, those of the Chute, Thornton & Bailey Corporation, which obtained the contract, being the lowest. When the firm delivered three bent-tube boilers these were rejectd.

According to the Trustees, persistent efforts have been made by Commissioner Hirshfield and Francis P. Bent, Contract Supervisor of the Board of Estimate, to have them accept the boilers.

The Trustees are Dr. John W. Brannan, John G. O'Keefe, James J. Paulding, James A. Farley, Miss Juliette Lissberger, Dr. John W. Perrilli, Morris Weinberg, Henry C. Wright and Bird S. Coler, Commissioner of the Department of Public Welfare, ex-officio member.

No effort will be made to carry out Commissioner Hirshfield's recommendation to have the Trustees tried until a report has been submitted by the Corporation Counsel.

TOPICS DISCUSSED BY KNIT GOODS MEN

After a discussion of market conditions by members of the Jobbers' Association of Knit Goods Buyers in annual meeting yesterday at the Waldorf Astoria Hotel as part of the convention program of the National Wholesale Dry Goods Association, the trend of opinion seemed to be toward March 15 as the opening date for Fall underwear, although the need of price stabilization by manufacturers with regard to Spring lines was emphasized. A standard form of contract was approved and will be taken up by a committee of manufacturers, selling agents and wholesalers. Selling terms came in for a good deal of comment from the jobbers as well as from some manufacturers present.

The standard knit goods contract, proposed for adoption by the trade, is featured by a clause which covers late or non-delivery by the manufacturer. L. U. Lynt of the Little Falls Manufacturing Company, in describing the contract, said.

"Every effort has been made to have the instrument eminently fair to both sides. It simply asks you to take what you buy, if delivered in accordance with contract. It provides a penalty for the manufacturer who over-sells and to the buyer who is injured in that event, since it gives the option of canceling the contract and receiving cash as liquidated damages to the extent of 10 per cent. of the contract price of undelivered past due goods, or accepting delivery at a later date to be agreed upon. It insures the manufacturer so that he may go ahead, confident that material purchased can be made up and delivered, and you are protected both from unfair manufacturers and competition from those in your own line who might, without a contract, be less scrupulous about canceling than you and then force you to sell at a loss to meet prices based on his new purchases."

The speaker also took up the question of selling terms in order to show why the mills could not extend long datings, unless they were possessed of exceptionally good financial arrangements.

Joseph P. Voorhees, in a talk on hosiery conditions, drew attention to three surprising features in the present readjustment. One is the quantity of goods constantly appearing on the market at distress prices; another, the money invested in hosiery by jobbers and retailers so many months before they could use it in their legitimate business; and the third, the poor quality of hosiery delivered by formerly reliable manufacturers. Concerning overproduction, he thought that the working of double shifts might be an explanation. Present prices, he stated, were in most cases too low from a manufacturing standpoint. Regarding labor he said:

"There is a good deal of talk about labor having to take a big cut, but it is well known that textile mill labor was underpaid before the war, and many have been slightly overpaid through reaction during the war, but, even if you were able to reduce the mill workers 30 per cent., I doubt if it would make a difference of over 13 cents a dozen, or a cent and a half a pair. So you can see that would not make very much change in the selling price to the consumer."

He advised very careful buying by the wholesalers and suggested that they do not sell their customers so far in advance.

In a round table discussion on hosiery selling terms, the wholesalers present could see no reason for short datings that, in effect, makes it necessary for them to finance the manufacturers as well as their retail customers. Manufacturers answered this objection by pointing to the terms they had to meet in the purchase of their materials. On the question of an opening date most suitable for mill economy, a manufacturer stated that openings which would insure twelve months' operation would be the most economical, as the overhead expense now going on in mills that are shut down must be added to the cost of goods made in the future. In the last month, he said, the overhead item for his mills has advanced from 75 cents to $1.58.

The morning session of the meeting, which approved of the knit goods contract and its arbitration features that will be carried out by a committee of three or five to be appointed, objected to the proposed charges of some manufacturers for labels. E. C. Hall presided.

LAND VALUED AT $200,000

The Peoples Hospital now located at 203 Second Avenue has purchased as a site for a new million-dollar hospital 222 to 232 East Fifteenth Street.

The property which was purchased from various owners consists of five four and five-story old fashioned private dwellings having a frontage of 116 feet on the south side of Fifteenth Street and a depth of 103 feet opposite the Friends Meeting House and Stuyvesant Square. Joseph P. Day negotiated the sale of the property, which was held at about $200,000.

According to Julian Goldman, President of the hospital and Chairman of the Building Committee plans for the new structure are being prepared by Ludlow & Peabody, architects.

It is hoped that twenty stories may be permitted, though there is some fear that the zoning ordinance may restrict the structure to fourteen. Accomodations will be provided for 500 patients. Every modern hospital development will be included in the new home. The work of demolishing the old buildings on the site will begin, it is planned, in six months. Probably two years will be consumed in completing the new building for occupancy. After that time the present hospital will be used as a dispensary.

The Peoples Hospital, which was founded about eleven years ago, and which now has room for but ninety five patients, has steadily grown in favor and importance on the east side. A recognition of this service led a number of merchants and business men throughout the city to support Mr. Goldman in raising the necessary fund.

APARTMENTS FOR SALE OR TO LET.

Proposed New Apartment House

It is proposed to construct a modern nine story building on a desirable plot of ground, conveniently located to every transportation facility.

There will be 61 apartments of from 3 to 7 rooms each, containing every modern convenience: kitchens, pantries, bathrooms, foyer halls, separate servants' rooms, electric light, refrigeration, etc.

This proposition is to be undertaken on a "truly co-operative" plan for the benefit of subscribers and not for the profit of Real Estate operators.

Rentals will average about 60% of current rates.

The individual investment will be nominal and will represent the following features: Safety of investment, satisfactory income return, housing accommodations on substantially pre-war rates and a reasonable opportunity for a substantial profit on the original investment.

Interested parties are invited to write or call for full particulars—a personal call solicited.

Will kindly turn your ear this way,
And take a trip to Central Park,

I'm living there, take it from me!
There are four bright rooms, a kitchen real,
The kind your wife would wanta steal,
Steam, gas, electric, day or night,
Don't let it slide—the price is right!

WITNESSES REVEAL BRINDELL'S POWER

Agreement Shows Employers Were Expected to Use Only Trades Council Men.

TELL OF $5,000 PAYMENT

Lawyers Clash Frequently, and Both Untermyer and Littleton Are Rebuked by Court.

Evidence showing the great power wielded by Robert F. Brindell in the Building Trades Council was introduced yesterday by the prosecution at the labor leader's trial before Justice John V. McAvoy and a jury in the extraordinary term of the Supreme Court on a charge of extorting $5,000 from Max Aronson for calling off a strike on Aronson's building at 229 West Thirty-sixth Street.

Reading from the constitution and by-laws of the council, Samuel Untermyer disclosed that the entire Executive Committee of seven was appointed by the Chairman, Brindell, and that he had power to authorize strikes. Provision also was made for the calling of strikes through the Executive Committee, which was controlled by the defendant.

During the testimony of Samuel B. Donnelly, Secretary of the Building Trades Employes' Association, it was shown that pursuant to an agreement between the employes, the employers were expected to use none but council workers and protested when they did not do so.

Donnelly maintained that the employing association made no discrimination against working men who were not affiliated with the Building Trades Council. To refute this assertion, Mr. Untermyer read this circular letter sent out by Donnelly on July 20, 1920:

Members.

"Gentlemen: The Building Trades Council complains that members of our association are employing laborers who are not members of unions seated in the Council.

"The possession of current working cards of the Building Trades Council is the only certain certificate of regularity, and all laborers employed by you should have that card."

Attorneys Rebuked by Court.

Brindell's power was further testified to by Frederick Wielandt of the Micwill Company, the mason contractor employed by Aronson on the building where the strike mentioned in the indictment took place. He called to see Richard Pike, walking delegate of the hoisting engineers, regarding the strike. Pike, whom the prosecution has been unable to locate, said, "You will have to see Brindell. I get my orders from him."

Mr. Untermyer clashed frequently with Martin Littleton, counsel for Brindell. Both were reproved by the Court. Mr. Littleton vigorously objected to questions concerning Pike and Roswell D. Tompkins, secretary of Brindell's council, who also is being sought as a witness.

Levy Tells of $25,000 Payment.

Mr. Littleton fought hard but unsuccessfully to keep out of the record testimony of Ephraim B. Levy, a builder, who said he had paid $25,000 to call off a strike that tied up operations on his building at Seventh Avenue and Thirtieth Street for more than three months. Levy told of telephoning to Brindell's office when he heard the strike was called. He was informed Brindell was out and was given a number where he might be found and called it. A man who said he was Brindell answered the telephone.

Three or four days after he promised to pay the money the men returned to work, Levy testified. All those who went out on strike were union men, he said. The same men, with the exception of the steel erectors, returned to the building.

Mr. Untermyer sprung a surprise when he called Matthew Brindell, brother of the defendant, as a witness for the prosecution. Brindell said he was in the second hand automobile business at 1,880 Daly Avenue. He denied he had ever received payment of $15,000 or one of $10,000 from George Backer, who was in charge of Mr. Levy's construction work.

From the cross-examination of witnesses by Mr. Littleton it appeared that the defense might base part of its case on the ground that the strike on Levy's job was the result of the secession of a union of laborers from the council.

Mr. Ward testified that Aronson discussed with him the question of paying $5,000 to have the strike stopped. He was not present when Aronson drew the check.

Two Talesmen Are Fined.

Two talesmen who were called on the special panel and who failed to appear were fined yesterday by Justice McAvoy. Joseph Kissick Jr., Vice President and Treasurer of the De-Ved Kissick Company, 149 Broadway, was fined $250. Stanley Newman of 247 West 127th Street was fined $100.

The special Federal Grand Jury which is to investigate charges of illegal combination among manufacturers and dealers in building materials by following lines developed by the Lockwood committee was sworn in yesterday before Judge Learned Hand of the United States District Court. E. Morgan Gilbert of 45 East Thirty-fourth Street was chosen as foreman.

NEBULA DREYER BREAKS ALL SKY SPEED RECORDS

Portion of the Constellation of Cetus Is Rushing Along at Rate of 1,240 Miles a Second.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Jan. 17.—The nebula Dreyer No. 584 in the constellation of Cetus has broken all known speed records of the heavens. It is dashing through space away from the earth at a velocity of almost 2,000 kilometers (1,240 miles) a second, the highest speed ever attained by a celestial object, according to word received at the Harvard Observatory today from Dr. V. M. Slipher of the Lowell Observatory, at Flagstaff, Ariz., who announced the result of spectographic observations there.

Professor Solon I. Bailey of the Harvard Observatory said that most stars moved through the heavens with a speed of less than 100 kilometers a second, while some had been known to go a few hundred kilometers a second, and others as fast as 1,000 kilometers a second.

The highest celestial speed previously recorded was by another nebula and was 1,180 kilometers a second, he added. No sun, star or nebula ever approached the speed of Dreyer No. 584, in his opinion.

The nebula, which is so faint that it is not visible to the eye, is in the lower southern sky in the early evening.

SET NEW WIRELESS RECORD.

Hartford and Los Angeles Papers Exchange Messages in 68 Minutes.

HARTFORD, Conn., Jan. 17.—What is claimed to be a world's record for civilian wireless transmission was made early today when a message from The Hartford Courant to The Los Angeles Times was relayed across the continent by the station of Hiram Percy Maxim here. The reply came in one hour and eight minutes.

DEATH HOUSE CHEF, HIS PRIDE HURT, QUITS

Sing Sing's Star Cook Says the Condemned Men Were Too Particular.

Special to The New York Times.

OSSINING, Jan. 17.—Jim Blanche, convict and Sing Sing's star chef, who left Warden Lawes's own kitchen to cook for condemned slayers in the death house, has thrown up his job, keepers announced today, because his customers found so much fault. Blanche said he could not stand the condemned men's censure.

Blanche, whom officials pronounced a "crackerjack cook," was transferred to work on death house menus last Summer. Not only did he get no tips, but he got no praise nor thanks. His only reward was complaint. His pride was hurt and he quit. The warden has ordered that no inmate do the death house cooking hereafter. Instead it will be supervised by Louis Beaulieu, official chef of the prison.

Blanche, who is serving two and a half years for larceny in Manhattan, will go home in three weeks. Meanwhile he will cook for the inmates in the outer prison.

It is said there are several reasons why condemned murderers are hard to satisfy in the matter of cooking. Their food, which is cooked in another building, has to be carried through long corridors to the death house and often gets cool on the way. Also, as they worry a lot and have little exercise, their appetites are below normal and they become very particular about what they eat.

ASSAIL PROPAGANDA AGAINST BLUE LAWS

BOSTON, Jan. 17.—Resolutions protesting against the "propaganda or misrepresentation and falsification," touching the so-called blue laws which were never enacted or enforced," were adopted at a joint meeting of the Lord's Day League of New England and the Evangelical Alliance of Greater Boston today. Rev. H. L. Bowlby of New York, General Secretary of the Lord's Day Alliance of the United States, said that his organization was not seeking a return to the stringent laws of the Puritans.

He said its concern was to prevent commercial interests from "putting the dollar mark across Sunday," adding:

"The time has come when men in public office must draw the line between the American Christian Sabbath and the Continental Sunday which is being foisted on us."

He denied that the alliance desired the closing of restaurants, stopping of railway traffic or suspension of newspapers on Sunday. He opposed Sunday theatrical performances or sacred concerts "because there's nothing sacred about them. It's the dollar."

Governor Cox told the meeting it was his belief that Sunday should be a day of rest in which worship should have its place, and time and thought should be given to making family ties stronger. He said there should be consideration for those who were kept indoors during the week and needed to get into the open air on Sunday, but urged that people take such outings "as families and in a quiet and orderly way."

NAVY PLANS TO 'SHOOT' AIRPLANES FROM SHIPS

Capt. Craven Says Tests Are Being Made With Catapults—Experiments With Collapsible Planes.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—Naval airplanes, instead of "taking off" from the decks of ships while at sea, will be hurled from catapults, if experiments of the Navy Department prove successful, the House Naval Committee was told today by Captain T. T. Craven, Director of Naval Aviation. Tests are being made, he said, at the Washington Navy Yard, where it is planned to shoot a seaplane from a catapult soon to see if the plan is feasible.

Captain Craven said he was convinced the new method would prove superior to present attempts to get under way from decks limited in size.

The navy is attempting also to construct collapsible planes, the committee was informed, so they can be taken down and stored on board during bad weather at sea. The present system of keeping planes on top of the turrets, Captain Craven said, has proved unsatisfactory, as they are in the way and obstruct vision.

An appropriation of $35,000,000 has been requested for naval aviation during the coming fiscal year. During that time, the committee was told, the navy's station at Hampton Roads will become the most important aviation operating base on the Atlantic Coast.

Further improvements, Captain Craven said, are planned at San Diego, Cal., the main base on the Pacific. He urged that a "considerable sum" be expended on the Coco Solo station at the Panama Canal in order to protect "the canal adequately."

BALDHEADS WOULD EXPAND.

Connecticut Club Wants to Start Branches in Every City.

Special to The New York Times.

GREENWICH, Conn., Jan. 17.—Application is to be made by the Baldhead Club of America to the State Legislature for the extension of its incorporation charter so that branches of the club may be organized in every town and city in the United States. This was decided at a meeting of the officers and committees of the club in New Haven Saturday evening, when W. A. Warner, President of the club, entertained the officers and committees at a banquet.

Already hundreds of applications have been received for such branch clubs. A branch club must have twenty-five charter members.

Plans were discussed for the annual banquet to be held in Torrington the second Monday evening in May, when it is expected that Governor Everett G. Lake of Connecticut will be the principal speaker.

Records in the office of County Clerk Schneider disclosed yesterday that Robert E. Ward, who was sued on Saturday by Mrs. Ada Tyler for $4,356 she lent him to pay for a Nevada divorce from his wife in order that he might marry Mrs. Tyler, was married on Nov. 19 last to Mrs. Adelaide Claypoole Frank, whom he met in Reno while suing for his divorce.

COURT HOUSE ASHES PUT UP TO MACSTAY

ADVISES AGAINST SUITS

In a report to the Board of Estimate, submitted yesterday, Meier Steinbrink, associate counsel to the Board in its investigation of city contracts, placed responsibility for dumping ashes upon the court house site upon Arnold B. MacStay, ex-Street Cleaning Commissioner. Mr. Steinbrink found that Grover A. Whalen, Commissioner of Plant and Structures, was still legally a member of Holland & Co., one of the firms which dumped ashes on the site, and reported that in his opinion the dissolution of the firm, which Mr. Whalen said took place in 1917 before he became Secretary to Mayor Hylan, was too informal to be binding.

Mr. Steinbrink reported that the city had no cause of action against Holland & Co., as suggested by Samuel Untermyer, counsel of the Lockwood committee, because the ashes were dumped with the consent of the Street Cleaning Commissioner and the city never made any demand for their removal. Mr. Steinbrink said that Holland & Co. was only one of 107 firms which dumped ashes there. He found that the quantity dumped by this particular firm was 1,174 cubic yards, the cost of the removal of which would be only $6,694, instead of $400,000, as estimated by Mr. Untermyer.

Mr. Steinbrink said that although the partnership agreement between Mr. Whalen and Edward V. Holland called for a dissolution in writing, there had been no formal dissolution and that the firm's account with the Guaranty Trust Company was continued as in the past, with Mr. Whalen having the power to sign checks, even though he had not done so.

"It sounds incredible," Mr. Steinbrink said, "that partners who had been careful to have a formal contract of partnership, containing a dissolution clause, should have arranged to dissolve in so casual and offhand a manner, with no change of the bank account, no notice to creditors and nothing to evidence the dissolution but a conversation without witnesses. It is not what one would expect from men of intelligence or business experience.

"The institution of more than 100 actions by the city for the recovery of damages claimed to have been suffered would not, in my opinion, be justified. These claims are too speculative to spend either time or city money in pursuing them, especially since there is no way of determining which contractor is chargeable with the dumping of the ashes still remaining on the site."

When Mr. Steinbrink finished reading his report, Mayor Hylan said he wished it made clear that the permission for dumping ashes originally came from the Court House Board and that the filling in of the site was of great service during the war.

Mr. MacStay, now Deputy Commissioner of the Department of Public Welfare, admitted responsibility for granting permission to dump the ashes.

JUSTICE PAGE TO SIT AGAIN.

His Redesignation Follows Governor's Receipt of Ford's Protest.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 17.—Governor Miller announced today that he had received a letter from Justice John Ford of the Supreme Court, printed in THE TIMES this morning, opposing the redesignation of Supreme Court Justice Alfred R. Page as a Justice of the Appellate Division.

"Have you any comment upon or answer to make to the letter?" Governor Miller was asked.

"I have today assigned Justice Page to sit with the Appellate Division again," said the Governor.

"Is that your answer to Justice Ford?" the Governor was asked. He made no audible answer, but smiled.

PROMOTERS CALL WORLD TITLE BOUT FOR $500,000 OFF

Failure of Dempsey and Carpentier to Post Forfeits as Agreed Given as Reason.

CONTRACT HELD TO BE VOID

Proposed Meeting Between Champion and Willard Is Also Unlikely to Occur.

TICKET PRICE LIMIT CAUSE

Action of National Boxing Association in Fixing $15 Maximum Expected to Ban Big Bouts.

The battle for the world's heavyweight crown between Jack Dempsey, the champion, and Georges Carpentier, European title-holder, for which Promoters Charles B. Cochran of England and William A. Brady and G. L. (Tex) Rickard of this country, offered the enormous purse of $500,000, is definitely off. Failure of the principals to deposit forfeit moneys, as was provided in the contract signed by the promoters, boxers and their managers, led to the cancelation of what promised to be the most stupendous boxing enterprise in the history of the sport.

Under the terms of the contract for the bout, the promoters collectively agreed to deposit the sum of $100,000, as a guarantee of good faith. This sum was to be deposited with the Central Union Trust Company on or before Nov. 20, 1920. The managers of the respective boxers agreed to deposit each $50,000, Francois Descamps for Carpentier and Jack Kearns for Dempsey. The boxers' deposits, like that of the promoters, were to have been posted with the Central Union Trust Company, in cash, its equivalent in marketable securities, or in the form of a bond on or before Nov. 20 last.

Cochran's Deposit Only One Made.

As yet but one deposit has been made of the guarantees contracted for. Charles B. Cochran, the British promoter who was largely instrumental in effecting the match, is the only party to the contract who has deposited the money stipulated in the contract. Mr. Cochran, before he left this country for London in November, left his check for his part of the promoters' deposit with his American representative, Mr. Brady. This check, for $33,333.33, it has developed, was sent to Europe and cashed, the money being deposited according to contract by Nov. 20, with the Central Union Trust Company. This was the sole deposit made.

Manager Descamps, on behalf of Carpentier, posted a check for $50,000 in France, upon his arrival there after arranging the match in this country, but the money has never been forwarded here. The French Government, it is understood, refused to permit the withdrawal of such a sum from the country, in view of the stringent financial conditions in the French Republic. In the strict legal sense, therefore, Carpentier's money has never been deposited according to contract.

It develops that no deposit was ever made by Manager Kearns on behalf of the champion. Nor has there been any time extension granted Dempsey in which to make the stipulated deposit.

Huge Purse Gone for Good.

For these reasons the match has been abandoned, temporarily, at least, as far as the promoters are concerned, and permanently, in so far as the distribution of the enormous purse provided in the original contract is concerned. Under the terms of this document Dempsey, as champion, was guaranteed the sum of $300,000 for defending his title against the French challenger, while Carpentier was guaranteed $200,000. The guarantees were unconditional and were to be paid on the basis of "win, lose or draw," in each instance.

The contract provided for the conduct of the match either in March, 1921, or between May 29, 1921, and July 4, 1921, at a place to be designated by the promoters. The contest was to be "for not more than fifteen rounds, and not less than ten rounds," according to the contract. It was stipulated that it was optional with the promoters to arrange for the conduct of the battle in the United States, Canada, Mexico or Cuba. This provision was inserted to guarantee against a removal of the bout to Europe.

Any possibility of legal entanglements preventing the promoters from abandoning the bout, even though the promoters' complete $100,000 had not been deposited, was removed, it was said, through the boxers' failure to deposit their money as was stipulated. Part of the promoters' deposit has been made, as represented in the money of Promoter Cochran, it was pointed out, but there has been no deposit, as is provided in the contract, on behalf of either Dempsey or Carpentier.

Further Features of Agreement.

In the articles for the bout it was agreed that the promoters were to notify the principals and their managers by registered mail, not later than Jan. 1, 1921, if the contest was to be held in March. If it was decided to hold the match between May and July the promoters agreed to notify the boxers or their managers by March 1. The boxers were bound to an agreement to be on the battleground in training forty days prior to the day of the match.

While the failure to adhere to the deposit stipulations of the contract is the alleged compelling force in dictating an abandonment of the battle, there are other elements of almost equal significance which enter into the situation. Not the least of these is the action of the National Boxing Association

One-Class Passenger Liners Begin Transatlantic Trips

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Jan. 18.—For the first time in several years transatlantic liners are sailing from England for America with no distinction of class in its passengers. There are no first, second or third class berths on the Albania, Cunard liner, which left Liverpool today for New York via Queenstown on her maiden trip.

The Albania is described as a one-class boat, all passengers having their own cabins, and the run of the entire ship.

The new White Star liner Vedic, which is due here today from Liverpool, has been constructed on similar lines to the Albania for one class of passengers.

J. J. RYAN'S FORTUNE GOES TO ACTRESS

Miss Dorothy L. Whiteford Gets Residuary Interest in His $130,000 Estate.

WIDOW CUT OFF WITH $100

Will States That 1915 Separation Agreement Provided for Her and Children.

The first intimation that the late Joseph J. Ryan, youngest son of Thomas Fortune Ryan, had been separated from his wife since 1915 came yesterday when his will was filed with the Surrogate. It leaves but $100 to his widow, Mrs. Nannie Morse Ryan, the residue of an estate, estimated at $130,000, including what he was entitled to under his mother's will, going to Miss Dorothy Lucille Whiteford of 172 West Seventy-ninth Street. The will was executed on Nov. 24, 1919.

Miss Whiteford, who had known Mr. Ryan for several years, is the daughter of John H. Whiteford, a manufacturer of toys at 675 Hudson Street. She has been on the stage in musical comedies and was in "The Royal Vagabond" cast until injured by the fall of a lamp used in a setting. At present she is in Rockledge, Fla.

In explanation of the small bequest to Mrs. Ryan, the will states: "I make this small bequest to her inasmuch as ample provision has been made for her support and the support of our children during her lifetime by a separation agreement entered into between us dated May 6, 1915."

The will provides that from two life insurance policies valued at $25,000, $5,000 shall be paid to Mr. Ryan's son, Joseph J. Ryan Jr.; $5,000 to his daughter, Elinor M. Ryan; $10,000 to Miss Whiteford; $2,500 to "a friend," Anthony V. Lynch Jr.; $1,000 to another friend, George A. Pratt, and $500 to the latter's daughter, Dorothy Pratt. Similar sums are also given to Harry Klentsch, a friend, and Kate McDonough, "in recognition of her long and faithful service to my mother."

The residuary estate is given to Miss Whiteford, and there is a condition that any one contesting the provisions of the will shall forfeit his legacy. It could not be learned from Mrs. Ryan's attorneys, Clarke & Clarke, whether the widow would contest the will or not. She is at present in Rome, Italy, with her children.

John J. Robinson, attorney for Miss Whiteford, said last night:

"Miss Whiteford and Mr. Ryan thought a great deal of each other, and there is no doubt that they would have been married if circumstances had permitted. As it was they were good friends.

"Mr. Ryan, I believe, had about $6,000 a year allowed him by his father. He had not been engaged in business for years, although there was a time when he was an automobile salesman. Since he returned from the war he had not been in business at all. The agreement with Mrs. Ryan called for payment to her of $4,200 a year, and I believe this money was paid by Mr. Ryan's father. Mr. Ryan met Miss Whiteford about a year after the separation."

Mr. Ryan's marriage with Miss Nannie Morse, the daughter of Alexander Porter Morse of Washington on Jan. 18, 1910, was an elopement. He was just twenty-one at the time. Mr. Ryan's father did not approve of the marriage. The couple went to Pasadena, Cal., and after a brief stay there came East to obtain the elder Mr. Ryan's approval.

LEGISLATORS JOIN TO FORCE ADEQUATE BROOKLYN TRANSIT

WILL RECEIVE COMPLAINTS

To Quiz Garrison and Investigate Franchises Under Which Lines Are Operating.

MILLER'S VIEWS WITHHELD

Governor Preparing to Submit Own Plan Covering Transit Situation in Whole City.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Jan. 18.—While Governor Miller is giving close study to New York City's transit problem and expects to send a message on that subject to the Legislature within a few days, Senators and Assemblymen from Brooklyn, regardless of party, are organizing for determined and united action on the transit situation in that borough. Their action is due directly to the failure of the Senate at its session last night to adopt the Simpson resolution, calling on the Public Service Commission to investigate and report to the Legislature the underlying facts in relation to the abandonment by the Brooklyn City Railroad Company of service on its Park Slope line.

At an initial meeting held today and attended by most of the Republican Senators and Assemblymen from Brooklyn, as well as the two Socialist members from that borough, two committees were appointed, one to look into the franchises under which the Brooklyn City Railroad Company and the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company are operating, and another to call on the receiver, Lindley M. Garrison, to ask when relief may be expected. The meeting was held behind closed doors in the room of the Assembly Judiciary Committee and lasted half an hour. No Democratic member attended, but this was attributed to the fact that notices sent out in advance had been misunderstood by the Democrats.

Determined to Get Action.

Senator William T. Simpson, author of the resolution which was shunted into the Senate Committee on Public Service, was elected Chairman of the group of protestants, while Senator Maxwell S. Harris of the Fourth Senate District was made Chairman of the Committee on Franchises and Senator Alvah W. Burlingame Jr. of the Eighth Chairman of the Committee on Receivership.

"We are determined," said Senator Simpson after the meeting, "to find out what is the matter with the transit situation and compel some sort of a settlement that will insure adequate service on the Brooklyn traction lines. The committee will devote its first week to the ascertainment of facts, and for that purpose will receive complaints, which may be made to any of the Brooklyn lawmakers. These in turn will report to another meeting next Monday night.

"Through the Franchise Committee we expect to find out whether the companies have complied with the charters under which they are operating. Through the Receivership Committee we expect to find out how soon a settlement may be expected. If the companies are solvent, what need is there of a prolonged receivership? If not, they should be declared bankrupt and the accounts settled. We intend to get answers to our inquiries, too."

The aid of civic organizations in Brooklyn, including the Chamber of Commerce, will be sought. "There will be absolutely no let-up until we have compelled action of some sort leading to a satisfactory solution," the Senator added.

Governor Has Own Plan.

Governor Miller refused to comment on the action of the Brooklyn delegation and on what occurred in the Senate last night, including the attack of Judge Julius M. Mayer by Senator Burlingame. He said he was engaged at present in working out a solution of the tangled traction situation in the City of New York. While his views as to a solution are not known, except to a few persons, some of whom are at the Capitol, it was stated today that his forthcoming message would give no encouragement to the New York State Railways Association in its attempt to get legislation that would provide a flat legislative mandate in favor of increased fares.

The Governor has in mind a method of dealing with the situation which is thought to be radically different from

Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt Sells Country Home, "Stepping Stones," to Ormond G. Smith

Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt, who recently sold her home at Fifth Avenue and Fifty-second Street to the Empire Trust Company for about $3,000,000, and purchased a $50,000 house on Sutton Place, yesterday closed contracts for the sale of Stepping Stones, her Summer home at Jericho, L. I.

The buyer is Ormond G. Smith of the publishing firm of Street & Smith, who is reported to have paid about $500,000 for the property. Mr. Smith recently sold his country place at Oyster Bay to John N. Willys of the Overland Automobile Company for about $1,000,000.

Located in the picturesque Wheatley Hills, Stepping Stones is one of the notable places of the section. The estate consists of about 125 acres of park land adjoining the estates of E. D. Morgan and M. S. Burrill. The house, which occupies the crown of a hill that overlooks the estate, was built from privately prepared plans by John R. Hill, under the personal supervision of the late William K. Vanderbilt.

On returning from Europe, where Mrs. Vanderbilt expects to spend the Spring, she will occupy the dwelling at 1 Sutton Place, a two-block thoroughfare running from East Fifty-seventh to East Fifty-ninth Street, along Avenue A. It is a four-story and basement old-fashioned brownstone dwelling on a lot about 20 by 100 feet, which is to be remodeled and decorated at a cost of about $100,000

Others who have purchased homes in the Sutton Place development are Mrs. Stephen H. Olin, a sister of Mrs. Vanderbilt; W. Seward Webb Jr., Eliot Cross, Robert C. Knapp, Mrs. Lorillard Cammann, Miss Elisabeth Marbury, Dr. Edgar Stillman, and Professor J. P. Chamberlain of Columbia University.

Archduchess Without Money Wants to Wed 'Rich and Refined' American, Not Very Old

PARIS, Jan. 18.—Nobility is going cheap in Central Europe, and any American who is anxious to marry a real live Archduchess can have his chance by answering the following advertisement which has appeared, among others not dissimilar, in a Tyrolean newspaper:

"Charming Archduchess, accomplished musician, with knowledge of several languages, brought up in luxury and now tired of a miserable existence without money, would marry rich and refined American or English gentleman about 38 years old. Parvenus and individuals of other nationalities need not apply. The Archduchess will willingly emigrate and even, if necessary, change her religion. An interview might be arranged in Switzerland."

This Archduchess is not alone in resorting to this method of trying to escape from a miserly existence in the former Austrian Empire. Vienna newspapers are full of such advertisements, and the advertisers, despairing of finding suitable matches in their own country, are now beginning to advertise abroad.

UNTERMYER CALLS FOR PALMER INQUIRY

Investigation Into Department of Justice and Alien Custodian's Office Demanded.

WOULD HAVE CONGRESS ACT

Complains of Fines for Sand Men and Criticises Whitman's Publicity Methods.

Samuel Untermyer, chief counsel to the Lockwood Committee, in an address last night at a dinner held at the Hotel Commodore in honor of Nathan Hirsch, former Chairman of the Mayor's Committee on Rent Profiteering, called for a thorough Congressional investigation of the Department of Justice and the office of the Alien Property Custodian.

"The vast powers and patronage of those great officers are said to have been used, and it is the general belief that they were incidentally used, to build up a political machine, which fortunately failed of its purpose," he said. "But the uses to which their vast patronage was put was none the less sinister because they did not succeed. I have no direct legal evidence but if a fraction of what comes to me is true (and I believe much of it to be true) such an investigation will disclose to the world a series of the most mortifying scandals that has ever befallen our country.

"Fortunes in patronage are believed to have been squandered among favorites in the form of lawyers and directors' fees taken out of the pockets of citizens and aliens whose properties were seized or unfortunately came under the control of the Government. There is just one decent loophole of escape for us and that is by a merciless exposure of the facts by the Congress."

Criticises Palmer's Aids.

Mr. Untermyer criticised Colonel William Rand and Isidor J. Kresel, Special Assistants of Attorney General Palmer, for permitting the members of the Sand and Gravel Board of Trade to escape with fines in the Federal Court yesterday, after pleading guilty to violation of the Sherman anti-trust law, and said that the consideration which justified such action in the limestone cases did not apply to the sand men. He added that the prosecutors did not have the grace to consult the Lockwood committee before taking action.

He characterized Mr. Palmer's dealings with combinations of manufactures violating the law as "humiliating, blundering and inefficient," but he said they were "a brilliant success" compared with his administration of the Alien Property Custodian act, the sedition laws and the internment of enemy aliens. There never has been a Government department, national or State, so urgently in need of immediate and painstaking investigation as those of the Alien Property Custodian and the Department of Justice, he said, adding that such an inquiry must be conducted under non-partisan direction and only after careful preparation.

The policy of confiscation involved in the Alien Property act was contrary to this country's best traditions and in violation of treaty obligations, while the manner of executing the laws was medieval and brutal, he said.

"We should take action to redeem our fair name in the eyes of the civilized world and should do it quickly," Mr. Untermyer went on. "Let us get the facts, whatever they may be, publish them broadcast and right whatever wrongs may have been done before it is too late."

Secret Service Arraigned.

He said that he believed an investigation of the Secret Service of the Department of Justice would develop that it did little except to rely largely on the reports of the British Secret Service gathered in this country before we entered the war, permitting Americans to pay off British grudges "and play their game and induce us to intern the unfortunates who had inherited their enmity before we entered the war."

After praising the work of Mr. Hirsch in the housing crisis Mr. Untermyer reviewed the events leading up to the Lockwood committee's investigation, explaining that he fought to obtain for witnesses as fair conditions as possible. From this he went on to say that there was another radical departure from precedent that he had been trying to bring about in connection with the criminal charges being presented to the Grand Jury and arising out of the committee's deliberations.

For about ten years the Grand Jury system had been grossly abused to unworthy ends, he said, and it had been a common experience to find prosecuting officers or their assistants "exploiting themselves day by day in the public press in sensational cases, giving the names of witnesses that were about to appear before the Grand Jury, stating to what they were intending to testify and furnishing reports of the testimony given by them, in open and shameless defiance of the fundamental theory of

WILL ASK ANOTHER POLICE INDICTMENT

CAPT. DU BOIS NOT RETIRED

New evidence of police graft, involving a police captain who has made application for retirement, will be presented to the additional Grand Jury today by Charles S. Whitman, special counsel to the District Attorney in the inquiry into charges of corruption in the city departments. Mr. Whitman said last night that he would ask for the Captain's indictment.

The case against the police Captain is said to have been speeded up in an attempt to block his retirement until the charges have been acted upon and the Captain has either been cleared or convicted. The application asked for retirement at midnight last night. Mr. Whitman, it was learned, requested Police Commissioner Enright to hold up the application pending the Grand Jury's action.

Announcement was made yesterday afternoon that Police Captain John H. Boyle Jr. and Captain Percy Du Bois were to be retired at midnight last night. Captain Boyle, it is said did retire, but Commissioner Enright countermanded the order retiring Captain Du Bois, and he is still on the force.

Captain Boyle was the commadner of the West Twentieth Street station and lives at 637 Baker Avenue, the Bronx. He was appointed a patrolman in 1888, a sergeant in 1897, a lieutenant in 1902, and was made a captain in 1913. In 1902 he was commended by the department for heroism in stopping a runaway horse. Previous to joining the force he was a street car conductor.

Captain Boyle was the commander of of the Atlantic Avenue Station in Brooklyn. He has been in the Police Department more than twenty-five years. For four years he was assistant to former Inspector Max Schmittberger, who died three years ago. Du Bois formerly commanded the West Twentieth Street Station.

Under the rules of the department, if a member is retired his conviction would not affect his right to a pension. In this case the pension would amount to $2,000 a year, the half pay of a Captain.

Sworn Statements Obtained.

Mr. Whitman, beyond admitting that an indictment of "another police Captain" would be sought today, declined to discuss the nature of the charges or to answer any questions relating to the identity of the Captain. It was learned that the witnesses in the case were among the persons who were examined at the District Attorney's office on Monday by Mr. Whitman and his assistants, James E. Smith Jr., Frederick J. Groehl and William Chilvers. Sworn statements have been obtained by Mr. Whitman from each of the witnesses.

The police captain involved in the corruption charges is said to have been at one time in command of one of the busy Manhattan precincts. At present he is in command of a station in Brooklyn.

Mr. Whitman was asked whether he would subpoena Frank Lord, a former Deputy Police Commissioner, as a result of a speech made Monday night by Mr. Lord in which he is quoted as saying that 16,000 policemen were "on strike" against Commissioner Enright.

"I know Mr. Lord very well," Mr. Whitman replied. "I know that he would be only too willing to render us any assistance in his power. I have no doubt of his entire good faith. It will not be necessary to subpoena him. I will see him at his convenience and mine."

Thomas Reports to Whitman.

Albert Thomas, the detective sergeant for whose aid Mr. Whitman made a strong fight, reported at the Criminal Courts Building yesterday on orders given by the Police Commissioner as a result of Monday's conference between Mayor Hylan, Mr. Whitman, District Attorney Swann and Commissioner Enright. Thomas will have complete charge of all investigations started by Mr. Whitman. The number of other detectives who will be asked for will depend upon developments, Mr. Whitman said.

Mr. Whitman said that he and his aids had spent yesterday in sifting the mass of information that has come to him from many sources. This includes the information submitted by Meier Steinbrink, chief counsel in charge of the Board of Estimate's inquiry into city contracts, and is understood to relate entirely to other city departments than the Police Department, which so far has taken all of Mr. Whitman's attention.

Complaints against the Police Department have been reaching Mr. Whitman at the rate of about fifty a day. Some of these, Mr. Whitman said, furnished "good leads." The information in some cases relates not only to the Police Department, but includes other city departments.

PENNSYLVANIA LINES ASK MEN TO ACCEPT A FIVE-DAY WEEK

Workers Are Told in Pittsburgh That Only Alternative Is 20 Per Cent. Cut in Force.

CREWS MUST DOUBLE UP

Workers Who Run One Train Must Now Operate Two—To Cut Official Staff in Half.

MEN AGREEING TO PLAN

Announcement Is Made That Trade Depression Makes Economy Necessary.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 18.—Unless every one of the employes of the Pennsylvania Railroad system agrees to cut his working time one day weekly a 20 per cent. reduction will be made in the working force of the entire system.

Train crews that heretofore have been operating what is known as a single train, in the future will double up—that is, one crew will do the work that two crews have done.

The official personnel of the system will be reduced 50 per cent.

These three orders have gone out over the Pennsylvania Railroad system, and today saw the beginning of a census of employes in this district, who are asked to volunteer to give up one day a week. Trainmen, telegraphers, yard men, clerks, road men, freight handlers and every class of employe on the entire system will be asked to sign an agreement stating that he or she is willing to lose one day a week until such time as their company sees fit to restore all employes to full time.

While there is no actual demand that employes agree to accept the reduction in time, it is made known in the circular that unless they do they must face the alternative of a 20 per cent. reduction in the working forces of the entire system. This reduction is to be put into operation immediately.

Many Affected in Pittsburgh.

In this city alone there are many thousands of persons employed by the Pennsylvania Railroad. So far as could be learned today, the majority of those who have been asked to agree to the new working schedule have accepted it rather than face the probability of being thrown out of employment entirely.

For several months a steady reduction in the number of trains employed has been under way. Under the new order several hundreds of men will be thrown out of employment here. The rule will apply to the entire system according to word received here today.

Probably the most drastic rule being put into force is the reduction of the official personnel of the system to 50 per cent. of its present number. This reduction, according to present plans, it is said, will run the gamut from highly placed officials down to private secretaries.

Maintenance, operating, executive, legal and every other branch of railroad activities will be affected by the new order.

Just how soon the pruning knife will begin work on the official heads is not known here. That it is scheduled to begin shortly, however, was the statement made here today by men who are engaged in the work of listing those slated to go.

Necessity for economy in operation, because of reduced revenues due to slackening business, is the reason advanced by the railroad for its radical departure.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 18.—In line with its policy of economizing wherever possible, the Pennsylvania Railroad, it was announced tonight, will continue over its entire system to reduce working forces or put them on a shorter time basis.

"Some departments at the Broad Street station have gone or will go on a more economical basis," an official said. "This retrenchment program was begun on various parts of the system several weeks ago. It is being pushed as hard as possible."

Asked concerning a report at Pittsburgh that employes were asked to agree to lay off one day each week or force a 20 per cent. reduction in numbers, the official said that this might be true along some parts of the line, but that no such plan was in effect in Philadelphia.

Other Centres Announce Cut.

ALTOONA, Pa., Jan. 18.—Announcement was made today at the Pennsylvania Railroad Company offices that effective Friday at least 225 employes would be laid off because of the continued business depression.

This city, Hollidaysburg, East Altoona and Mifflin are hit by this retrenchment, while the middle division storehouse here has been abandoned and all such work will be done at Harrisburg. All but one track in the Hollidaysburg yards have been abandoned, 100 men being put off. The East Altoona roundhouse loses 125 men.

Cuts in office forces are also anticipated, but no official announcement has been made.

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa., Jan. 18.—Reduction orders on the Pennsylvania Railroad in this city and on the Williamsport Division resulted in the temporary suspension of 405 employes on that division today. Of this number 43 were employed in this city.

WILMINGTON, Del., Jan. 18.—Approximately 2,500 employes on the South-

FOR BIG FRENCH TAX ON FOREIGN BANKS

AND LIMIT BOND DEALINGS

Would Permit Operations Only in Those Foreign Issues Put Out by Their Nationals.

By WALTER DURANTY.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Jan. 18.—Foreign banking circles in France are rather upset by a new measure now being studied by the Finance Committee of the Chamber, which, should it become law, might drive all foreign banks out of business. The measure was proposed a little before the end of the year and contains the two following provisions:

"1. Foreign banks installed in France shall be subject, in addition to other taxation, to a special tax of 1 per 1,000 on their capital and reserves and a supplementary tax of 2 per 1,000 on all business of any kind done by them in France.

"2. Foreign banks installed in France shall be forbidden to receive deposits or take part in any operation, relative to foreign issues, other than those concerning their own nationals, without Governmental authorization given by decree."

In the preamble to the bill, which is a savage attack on foreign banks and their "shady manoeuvres" the author of the bill, Deputy Georges Gerald, makes it clear that his purpose is indeed to make their continued existence in France impossible.

Since the war the number of foreign banks in France, especially American, British and South American, has greatly increased, and the impression has spread among a section of the press and public unfamiliar with economics that they were in some mysterious way responsible for the fall in French exchange. This, however, is the first occasion on which a deputy has put his opinion on record in the form of a proposed law.

For several months there has been something approaching a campaign against foreign banks in some French newspapers, some of them of undoubted standing, and M. Georges Gérald's proposal appears to be its culmination. Exactly what purpose the promoters of this campaign hope to serve is not clear. If, instead of correcting the erroneous opinions of the public, they succeeded in stirring up sentiment so that the Georges Gérald bill became a law, its most probable effect would be the withdrawal of foreign banking institutions. This could hardly fail to cause France serious injury.

Not only would it bar the plans now in consideration for aiding France to bear the reparations burden, once the amount of the German indemnity is fixed, but it would coincide with the moment when France is reported to be negotiating for a new loan of $100,000,000 in the United States, and when there is talk of trying to arrange for the extension of the maturity of the loans already outstanding.

The argument put forward in support of the proposed legislation is that the State of New York has a law forbidding agencies of foreign banking concerns established there to accept deposits and that in Spain a special tax has recently been imposed upon foreign banks. The French are believed to be unaware that important American banking interests are trying to get the New York State law repealed and that, in fact, it was recently repealed by the Assembly and the Senate and is only still in force because the Governor refused his assent. In Spain the law has proved unpopular, and there is talk of having it repealed.

At a time when commercial and financial operations in France are cruelly hampered by difficulties of post-war recovery M. Georges Gérald's proposal is regarded as little less than suicidal. Far from taking capital out of France, the foreign banks actually introduce it, and, anyway, as regards the exportation of capital, foreigners are subject to the same restrictions as the French themselves.

I learn on high authority that there are hundreds of millions of francs almost entirely of foreign origin, held by foreign banks here for the account of clients in their respective countries. This money is invested for the most part in short-term French Government securities, and, however employed, tends to assist the economic situation of the country.

The reproach address by M. Georges Gérald to the foreign banks that they take advantage of the favorable exchange position to install themselves in costly and luxurious premises, can be met by the answer that every franc of money so spent helps French exchange, which would not be slow to suffer if all foreign capital were repatriated as the result of the withdrawal of foreign banks.

SENATORS DEMAND ROOT FOR CABINET IN PLACE OF HUGHES

Leaders Start Effort to Induce Harding to Reconsider Choice for Secretary of State.

FEAR CLASHES IN OFFICE

PENROSE SENDS A PROTEST

Opposes Hoover as Well as Hughes —President-Elect Is Expected to Try Conciliation.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—An eleventh hour effort to induce President-elect Harding to offer to Elihu Root the office of Secretary of State appears to have been undertaken by some prominent Republicans. Sentiment in the Senate, which, on its face, had been anti-Root, is now undergoing a change born of the antagonism of some party leaders to the appointment of Charles E. Hughes to the senior place in Mr. Harding's Cabinet.

In the opinion of these Republicans the selection of Mr. Hughes as Secretary of State would be an error of judgment on the part of the President-elect. They contend that it would not strengthen the party and would lay the foundation of clashes between the State Department and the Senate, for the idea is widespread that the Senate and Mr. Hughes will not be able to work in harmony in the conduct of the foreign relations of the United States.

It has become evident that while many Republican Senators, particularly those of the irreconcilable group, are not anxious to have Mr. Root take the portfolio of Foreign Affairs, they prefer him to Hughes, and are convinced that Root is the only man who would have any chance of consideration for head of the Cabinet as against Hughes.

Barred Root as League Friend.

The most interesting phase of the effort now under way in Mr. Root's behalf is that it has the sympathy of some of the bitterest of the bitter-end irreconcilables. Their opposition to Mr. Root has been based on his friendly attitude toward the League of Nations. They have a great personal liking for the distinguished lawyer and statesman, but this has been outweighed in their minds by his sympathetic attitude toward preserving the structure of the League in a revision of the Covenant to meet American sentiment.

Mr. Harding has been aware of the feeling among his old friends in the Senate, and this has influenced him to eliminate Mr. Root in making up his Cabinet slate. With Mr. Root's name erased from the tentative Cabinet list, if it ever was there, Mr. Harding began making inquiries concerning Mr. Hughes's fairness and availability for the Secretaryship of State. Just why he should have been impressed with the idea that Mr. Hughes would be a suitable choice is not understood by some Senators, who are mystified as to the influences that worked on Mr. Harding in Mr. Hughes's behalf.

Mr. Hughes may have one or two backers in the Senate, but they have not been in evidence, and it is asserted that discussion among the Republican members of that body has shown that an overwhelming sentiment exists against his selection.

None of the prominent Republicans in Washington who have discussed issues and Cabinet personalities with the President-elect has any doubt that Mr. Hughes's name heads all the rest on Mr. Harding's tentative slate. Some of them, particularly the irreconcilables, would like to have Dr. David Jayne Hill chosen for the State Department. But they think that his name is not now under consideration. They believe that the only man who could be put forward with any chance of displacing Mr. Hughes in the President-elect's preference is Mr. Root, and in that belief the drive for Mr. Root's appointment is on.

Reluctant as the irreconcilables are to recommend that a man of Mr. Root's attitude toward the League be chosen Secretary of State they prefer him to Mr. Hughes. Their only comfort in this situation is the thought that with Mr. Root in the Cabinet the Administration would be strengthened among the people.

Penrose Protests Hughes and Hoover

Senator Penrose has written to President-elect Harding, protesting strongly against the appointment of Mr. Hughes to the Cabinet. He has included Herbert Hoover in the protest. This action has the sympathy of many Republican Senators and has encouraged them to undertake the effort to induce Mr. Harding not to offer a Cabinet portfolio to Mr. Hughes.

The feeling against Mr. Hoover is not so strong as that against Mr. Hughes. In fact many Senators feel that with Mr. Hoover in the Cabinet the people would be inclined to think that Mr. Harding was anxious to give the country the best administration possible.

The feeling exists among some leaders that Mr. Harding has been misled as to the effect that Mr. Root's appointment as Secretary of State would have on the party. That the President-elect was advised not to offer the State portfolio to Mr. Root is well known, but the arguments advanced in this connection have given way to the preference now shown for Mr. Root as compared with Mr. Hughes.

It is not known whether Mr. Root would accept the Cabinet office if it were offered to him. Some think that he would decline the proffer. But if Mr. Harding should ask him to enter the Cabinet, strong pressure would be brought to bear upon him by some of the important men in his party who have heretofore opposed his undertaking the duties of Secretary of State again.

That Mr. Harding has tendered Cabinet places to several men is understood among Republican Senators and Representatives who are well informed. Their understanding is that these tenders have been made to ex-Senator Weeks of Massachusetts, probably of the Secretaryship of War; Harry M. Daugherty of Ohio, of the Attorney Generalship, and although there is doubt among some of them in this instance, to Will H. Hays of Indiana of the Postmaster Generalship.

Beyond these they have reason to believe that Mr. Harding has not gone. That he has withheld making a definite offer to Mr. Hughes seems well substantiated, and the same applies to Charles G. Dawes of Illinois, who is down on Mr. Harding's slate for appointment as Secretary of the Treasury.

Harding in Dilemma Over Hughes.

MARION, Ohio, Jan. 18.—Current reports that there is a strong movement on the part of Republican Senators to persuade Mr. Harding to displace Charles E. Hughes in favor of Elihu Root for Secretary of State are believed to have caused the President-elect to abandon his decision to announce his choice for that post, together with his Secretary of the Treasury before he goes South.

Even should Mr. Harding receive warning that some Republican Senators would refuse to work with Mr. Hughes as Secretary of State, it appears here to be doubtful whether the President-elect is in a position where he could gracefully withdraw from his plan to appoint Mr. Hughes if he were disposed to do so. It was an open secret last week that Mr. Harding had definitely made up his mind to offer Mr. Hughes the portfolio of State.

It has been generally understood that Mr. Hughes was informed that the President-elect had him under consideration for the Cabinet and that in response to "feelers" sent out from Marion, Mr. Hughes indicated that he would be in a receptive mood for appointment. A few days ago it became known that all that was lacking was Mr. Harding's formal invitation and Mr. Hughes's reply, for the President-elect to be in a position to make public his selection for Secretary of State.

Attempt to Conciliate Expected.

The President-elect, it is believed, will withhold Cabinet announcements to watch further developments in opposition to Mr. Hughes in Mr. Root's behalf. That he will make every effort to conciliate Republican Senators toward Mr. Hughes is regarded as certain, in view of Mr. Harding's well-known disposition to reach a "common ground."

As opposition to Hughes is linked in some quarters with opposition to Herbert Hoover, one of the leading possibilities for Secretary of the Interior, there may be one way out should the President-elect find himself in a new Cabinet dilemma. He is known to regard Mr. Hoover as a popular Cabinet choice, believing him to rank with Mr. Hughes in this respect. But Mr. Hoover has been opposed by a number of interests that are thought to be almost certain to raise a fight in the Senate should his name be brought up for confirmation before that body. In addition to Mr. Hoover's popularity he is said to be favored by some powerful business interests for Secretary of the Interior. Opposition to Mr. Hoover has been on the ground that he might not get along well with other Cabinet members.

Opposition by the packers to the appointment of Henry C. Wallace as Secretary of Agriculture has placed Mr. Harding in a position where it appears doubtful whether he could reverse himself as to that post, even if he wanted to do so, on account of encountering the charge that he had yielded to the packing interests. In view of this it is thought likely that Mr Harding might attempt to get out of his difficulty by yielding to Hoover opposition in order to be able to adhere to his original decision to appoint Mr. Hughes.

In deciding upon Mr. Hughes as Secretary of State it is thought that the President-elect believed that his choice would be the "middle ground" between League reservationists and irreconcilables. The other available candidate were Mr. Root, with a leaning toward the League, and Senator Knox, irreconcilable.

MRS. HARDING ON TARIFF.

Can't Attend Southern Convention, but Praises Women's Interest in It.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTA, Jan. 18.—Mrs. Warren G. Harding, in a letter read before a meeting here today of women who are planning for the sessions of the Southern Tariff Association on Jan. 27, 28 and 29, regrets her inability to attend the meeting, but praises the women who are to take an important part in it.

Mrs. Harding says:

"While I regret not to be able to attend the Southern Tariff Association convention at Atlanta, I must express to you, and ask you to convey it to other women who are taking part, my special gratification at the interest women are taking in these subjects. Believing that a properly adjusted protection of American industries is of prime concern to every section of our country, I am glad to see that Southern women are demonstrating their recognition of this point of view.

"Full citizenship with all its responsibilities has at last come to American women. It represents their opportunity to serve their homes and their country if they will wisely exercise its privileges. Whatever tends to establish our people on a sound economic basis must be of the utmost interest to women, for they are the makers of household budgets, the managers of the homes, which in the final analysis are the end and aim of organized society. They direct most of the spending, and on them fall large responsibilities for those measures of thrift, economy and careful expenditure which greatly concern the welfare of our country's and the world affairs.

"Once more I am delighted to know that so many women are taking active and earnest interest in these eminently practical affairs. It is one of the good auguries for the country we all love.

"Most sincerely yours,
"FLORENCE KLING HARDING."

SAID CABINET WAS CHOSEN.

Bishop Berry Declares Harding Told Him List Was Complete.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 18.—President-elect Harding recently told Bishop Joseph F. Berry of the Methodist Episcopal Church that his Cabinet was

The Bishop returned to this city today after conducting a week of special services in Galion, Ohio. Last Friday he went to Marion, which is twenty miles from Galion, and spent the afternoon with the President-elect.

"While many of the things we talked of were confidential, I may say that all these reports of vacillation on Mr. Harding's part in the selection of his Cabinet are bosh," Bishop Berry said today at his offices in the Wesley Building. "Mr. Harding told me that he had his Cabinet selected and could make known his appointments tomorrow if he saw fit to do so. He told me that the politicians had been very gracious and had not interfered with his own selections.

"Most men seem to have an impression that Mr. Harding's decisions will be governed by his advisers. In my talk with him I obtained an entirely different impression. If any one thinks that the next President is weak and unduly impressionable, he is going to get a jolt."

The President-elect told Bishop Berry that considerable opposition was offered by politicians to one man who has been prominently mentioned for the Cabinet, but that even he was not bitterly opposed. Possibly Mr. Harding was referring to Herbert Hoover, but Bishop Berry would give no indication as to this.

The President-elect has made no effort to conceal his pleasure at the approval given by the country to his veto of plans for an elaborate inaugural ceremony.

Roosevelt 2-Cent Coin Favored.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—A Roosevelt two-cent piece is favored by the House Coinage Committee, which today reported favorably a Senate bill authorizing the coin. The committee's report said there was "genuine need" for a two-cent piece, and coinage of one, as proposed in the Senate bill, would be "a fitting manner in which to honor the memory of a great American."

HARDING CLOSING UP HIS WORK AT MARION

FLORIDA PLANS TAKE SHAPE

After a 12-Day Cruise He Will Resume His Conferences in St. Augustine.

Special to The New York Times.

MARION, Ohio, Jan. 18.—Facing only three more days of office work before leaving for Florida, President-elect Harding returned from Cleveland early this morning to find a long line of callers waiting for him.

Few more of the "best minds" are expected at Marion, and their places have been taken largely by a last minute avalanche of others, including politicians seeking office, ostensibly here to "pay their respects."

The President-elect will leave Marion for Florida late Thursday night, after attending an Elks celebration earlier in the evening. The "Ideal," the private car occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Harding on virtually all of their journeys since the beginning of the campaign, and a special car for newspaper correspondents and a part of the staff at Harding headquarters will be attached to regular trains running to St. Augustine.

Arriving at St. Augustine Saturday afternoon, the President-elect will board Senator Joseph S. Frelinghuysen's houseboat for a twelve days' cruise along the inlets of the Florida East Coast, stopping at resorts along the route for mail and telegrams.

Expects to Fish and Play Golf.

Once on the houseboat, Mr. Harding will have an absolute rest. If "best minds" or job hunters attempt to reach him they will fail, for the President-elect has announced his intention of making no appointments for conferences until he returns to St. Augustine early in February.

Those who will accompany Mr. Harding on the houseboat are his host, Senator Frelinghuysen; Senators Fall of New Mexico, Hale of Maine, and Cummins of Iowa. George B. Christian Jr., the President-elect's secretary, and Miles C. McCahill, in charge of the Secret Service detail that has been with Mr. Harding since the election, also will be on board. The remainder of the Secret Service men will follow the cruise ashore by automobile.

Mrs. Harding is not expected to arrive in Florida until after the houseboat jaunt. After closing the Marion home she plans to visit Washington and New York.

The President-elect's headquarters in Florida will be at a St. Augustine hotel, and there a large part of his correspondence routine will be attended to while he enjoys his time on the water fishing, with occasional trips ashore to a golf course. His Marion headquarters will remain open in charge of James Sloane Jr., former Secret Service body guard of Presidents Roosevelt, Taft and Wilson, and now acting as Mr. Christian's assistant.

More Conferences Next Month.

The Harding plans after the houseboat cruise is finished are still indefinite, but in view of the President-elect's announced intentions this much is certain: There will be as little participation as possible in the social life of Florida Winter colonies, for Mr. Harding still has a huge volume of work to be done before inauguration. Beginning in the first of February, more of the "best minds" may be expected to advise the President-elect. St. Augustine will be the Harding rendezvous for a time at least after leaving the houseboat. Until he returns to Marion March 1 Mr. Harding's plans are unsettled, and if his time is broken into at St. Augustine efforts will be made to transfer to another and more isolated place in the South.

The secrecy of the Cleveland visit had one amusing result in that eagle-eyed watchers mistook the train which the Hardings boarded this morning on the way back to Marion, and there were reports that the President-elect and his wife were on their way to New York. These reports reached Mr. Harding's headquarters, much to the concern of those waiting to see the President-elect, shortly before Mr. and Mrs. Harding arrived in Marion.

MAY PROSECUTE KNEEN.

Fairfield Co., Conn., Contemplates Criminal Suit Against Banker.

Special to The New York Times.

HARTFORD, Conn., Jan. 18.—Criminal action against a widely known politician, Edward W. Kneen, Secretary and Treasurer of the Insolvent City Bank and Trust Company of Shelton, Conn., may be brought soon by the Fairfield County Prosecutor, Homer S. Cummings, according to a statement made tonight by E. J. Sturgis, State Bank Commissioner, who said that his examination thus far indicates that Kneen had made unauthorized and secret loans without the knowledge of the bank Directors, accepting as collateral stock in Western land development and mining companies in which he had a personal interest.

Ex-Governor Marcus H. Holcomb today filed a bond of $100,000, issued by the American Surety Company of New York, and qualified as receiver of the bank, which for a week has been in the hands of State Bank Examiners. Commissioner Sturges expects that the investigation will require another week.

POLICE PROMOTIONS TODAY.

Enright to Name Seven New Captains to Fill Vacancies.

Commissioner Enright will promote seven lieutenants to the rank of captain this morning to fill the vacancies created by the retirements since Saturday. The seven lieutenants heading the eligible list are Michael S. Slattery, James Walsh, Philip Auer, Michael Ahearn, Cornelius Carmody, John McGrath and Archibald McNeill.

It was said that pending legislation that would equalize the pension of members of the department upon retirement is responsible for the resignation of the captains. A retired captains they will receive a pension of $2,000 a year.

SOUTHERN MAN FOR CABINET

Upham Predicts One and Perhaps Two Will Be Named.

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 18.—Fred W. Upham of Chicago, Treasurer of the Republican National Committee, said here today that one and possibly two members of the Harding Cabinet would be from the South.

Mr. Upham, who has conferred frequently with Mr. Harding since his election, added that it might be necessary to "rob" the Senate in order to make the appointment of one. He refused to mention any names.

Harding's Sympathy for Relief Work

CLEVELAND, Jan. 18.—This telegram of sympathy and promise of aid in the movement was received today from President-elect Harding by Dr. E. W. Hueister of Cleveland, Vice Chairman of the Ohio Division of the Near East Relief: "No one in the United States can be without a feeling of distress over the trend of events in the Near East. No matter what the political situation may be, there ought to be no cessation or relaxation of our sympathetic American efforts to be of service to these stricken people. One can well believe they will not survive if we withdraw the relief which heretofore has been given so generously from the private American purse."

BAKER DENIES PLEA TO KEEP HUDSON PIERS

Orders Dock Commissioner Hulbert to Remove Temporary Extensions by May 1.

Dock Commissioner Murray Hulbert received a letter yesterday from Secretary of War Baker denying his application to retain the present temporary pier head line in the Hudson River and instructing the Commissioner to have the pier extensions erected under the temporary permit removed by May 1. This decision will affect the Chelsea piers, which accommodate the vessels of the International Mercantile Marine and the Cunard Line.

Commissioner Hulbert explained last night that the pier head line was established in 1897 and that the temporary extensions were erected in 1913 to accommodate the mercantile vessels which were built longer than the existing piers. Since he has been in office Commissioner Hulbert has been trying to get the War Department to make permanent the temporary pier head line and only yesterday returned from Washington, where he went over the matter with Secretary Baker and Senators and Congressmen. He said he would keep up the fight to have the temporary line made permanent.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—If Secretary Baker's decision denying the application of New York City for permission to continue permanently the temporary pier head line in the Hudson River between what is known as Little Twelfth Street and Twenty-third Street stands, it will probably mean that shipping in New York will have to go further north along the Hudson River side of the city and establish new piers. This will cost millions of dollars.

The decision was rendered after hearings had been granted to representatives of both the New York and New Jersey sides of the river. Final arguments by the New York City interests were presented to Secretary Baker last Wednesday by Dock Commissioner Hulbert and P. A. S. Franklin.

D'ANNUNZIO DEPARTS FROM FIUME IN AUTO

France Agrees to Admit Him on Condition That He Will Keep Out of Politics.

TRIEST, Jan. 18.—D'Annunzio left Fiume this morning by automobile. His departure was pathetic. The poet made a long speech in the Council Hall, and Dr. Antonio Grossich, the Provisional Governor, replied.

The stores were closed and there was a great public demonstration.

MILAN, Jan. 18.—The French authorities have finally agreed to visa d'Annunzio's passport in view of an explicit undertaking from him to abstain from any sort of political propaganda, while the Federal Government has consented to his passage across Swiss territory.

A communication was sent to the press last evening by d'Annunzio announcing:

"To put an end to many stupid reports circulating these days, Gabriele d'Annunzio declares he is setting forth from Fiume toward desired solitude and needful repose. He intends remaining aloof from all attempts at agitation whereto he is not a consenting party, and he is resolved as ever in his will to be the arbiter of his future action."

The Fiume provisional government fixed a solemn assembly in the Council Hall for today to bid d'Annunzio adieu, and on Jan. 26 will publish a collection of Fiume documents in a Red Book whereto Italy's "man of genius" contribute the prefatory chapter.

Now that the blockade is raised the town is gradually settling down to more normal conditions.

Motor lorries are busy transporting d'Annunzio's luggage in advance and he himself, in company with a bodyguard consisting of four Arditi stalwarts, will first go to a little Parisian suburb as the guest of a friendly aristocratic family.

KING CHIDES STRIKERS; THEY CALL STRIKE OFF

SEVILLE, Spain, Jan. 18.—King Alfonso rebuked several strikers yesterday while at the railway station awaiting a train which would take him back to Madrid. While walking along the platform he noticed a group of striking functionaries, and, turning to them, he said:

"You should never abandon your duty. A civil servant who throws up his job isn't worth being a civil servant. I am the first civil servant of Spain and, accordingly, carry out my duties."

The King's words created great excitement. The officials held a general meeting today at which it was decided that the civil servants would follow the King's advice and return to their duties.

In consequence the Government offices resumed payments of debts and the receipt of taxes today.

CINCINNATI AIDS FRENCH.

Miss Morgan's Plea Brings Generous Responses in Ohio City.

Special to The New York Times.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, Jan. 18.—As a result of the visit of Miss Anne Morgan to Cincinnati in behalf of the American Committee for Devastated France, a pledge of $10,000 for that work has been made by Harry M. Levy, a Cincinnati banker, and further large subscriptions are expected, including a generous contribution from the local Community Chests.

Miss Morgan addressed the Cincinnati branch of the committee this afternoon. She described the work Americans were doing to help the French peasants reclaim the farms, and added:

"We must not heed the false propaganda that France is militaristic, the Germans are putting out false propaganda and squealing that they are unable to meet their obligations. It is not the wish of France to force payment, but France must meet her obligations."

PUTNAM BLAMES UNIONS.

At the concluding exercises held to mark the opening of the Town Hall, 113-23 West Forty-third Street, the subject of "Working Together for Justice and Efficiency in Industry" was discussed last night by several speakers. The meeting was under the auspices of the Economic Club of New York and George W. Wickersham, President of the club, presided.

Major George Haven Putnam, publisher and author, said that the country is threatened by labor. The unions, he said, have reached a state of mind when they respect law only when in their favor; otherwise it is war. As a solution he proposed that all unions be incorporated and held to strict accountability.

F. H. LaGuardia, President of the Board of Aldermen, said that the man who produces must have a decent living, which, he contended, he cannot obtain on a wage of $35 or even $45 a week.

FIGHT ON INCREASE BEGINS IN HOUSE

PARTY LEADERS AGAINST IT

Support of Rise to 483 Confined to States Which Would Lose in Representation.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—Opposition to increasing the membership of the House of Representatives to 483 under a reapportionment based on the census of 1920 became so strong today, when the House began consideration of a bill providing for the increase, as to indicate its probable defeat. The opposition, led by Representative Louis W. Fairfield of Indiana, was supported by important Republican leaders, including Messrs. Mondell, Longworth, Fess and Madden, and the present recognized Democratic leader, F. P. Garrett of Tennessee.

Support for the bill, which would increase the House membership by 48 and prevent any State from losing representation under an increased ratio, came only from members representing the States which would be affected by keeping down the membership to 435, the present number. They were led by Representative Siegel of New York, Chairman of the Census Committee; while ex-Speaker Clark of Missouri and Representatives Aswell of Louisiana, Hardy of Texas, and Green of Vermont spoke in favor of the increase, which would bring about an apportionment satisfactory to the smaller States.

At the end of five hours' general debate preliminary to voting tomorrow on amendments under the five-minute rule, the situation appeared to favor adoption of an amendment limiting the House to 435 and making the ratio one Representative to each 242,415 inhabitants. Under such a ratio Missouri would lose two Representatives, and Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Kentucky, Louisiana, Maine, Mississippi, Nebraska, Rhode Island and Vermont one each. The twelve thus lost would be gained as follows: California, 3; Michigan, 2; Ohio, 2, and Connecticut, New Jersey, North Carolina, Texas and Washington one each.

Arguments advanced by the speakers opposing larger membership hinged chiefly on the increase in Governmental expenses. They declared it would cost the Government at least $1,000,000 each year, while it would be necessary to increase the size of the House Office Building at an expense of $500,000. The opposition also insisted that an increase in the size of the House would not add to its efficiency, but would tend to make it unwieldy for effective legislation.

In support of an increase the chief argument advanced was that no State should lose its representation, and a small State was more entitled to adequate membership than a large State.

HEARS SIBERIA REFUSES TRADE WITH AMERICANS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—Receipt of information that Americans were being virtually excluded from trade in Siberia today caused Senator Johnson, Republican of California, to introduce a resolution proposing an investigation of the subject by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. The resolution also provides for inquiry into activities of the American military expedition in Siberia, but the Senator said it had no bearing on the recent shooting of an American officer by a Japanese sentry.

Senator Johnson said he and other Senators on the Foreign Relations Committee had received information that the Japanese were becoming strongly intrenched in Siberian commerce and that American business interests there, with a great field for development, were suffering.

SCHOOL BARS NEW DANCES.

Closed to Community Centre Work Because of "Shimmy" and "Toddle."

CHICAGO, Jan. 18.—The "shimmy" and the "toddle" are not proper dances for school entertainments, Superintendent Peter A. Mortansen ruled today in barring them from the Community Centre activities of the Brentano Public School, where neighborhood young people had been meeting for social events.

Members of the Floor Committee of teachers at the Community Centre differed in their opinions as to the propriety of the dances, it is said, resulting in the edict closing the school to community activities.

"The dances that resulted in today's order probably would be considered all right on the stage or public dance floors, but in the schools we must maintain a high standard in all entertainments," Superintendent Mortansen said. "We try to keep every activity of the centre on a plane so high that school children can engage in them."

ern Grand Division of the Pennsylvania Railroad, which has its headquarters here, will be laid off as a result of a general order for a 20 per cent. reduction in the working force, it was announced tonight.

The Southern Grand Division, which includes the Delaware, Maryland, Norfolk and Baltimore Divisions, has a strength of nearly 16,000 men.

Since last November two cuts of 10 per cent. each have been made on the division. All classes of shop, maintenance of ways, transportation and office workers will be affected by the latest cut which will begin to take effect in five days.

HALF OF WOOLEN MEN IDLE.

Workers on Men's Clothing 38 Per Cent. Fewer Than a Year Ago.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—Of ten manufacturing industries showing a decrease in the number of employes last December as compared with the same month of 1919, the greatest decline, 52.4 per cent. was shown in the woolen industry, according to figures announced today by the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

Other manufacturing industries showing a decrease were: Hosiery and underwear, 51 per cent.; men's clothing, 38 per cent.; boots and shoes, 31.3 per cent.; cotton finishing, 26.1 per cent.; silk, 23.3 per cent., and automobiles, 31.8 per cent.

Of three manufacturing industries showing an increase in the number of employes, car building and repairing led with 13.8 per cent., while the steel industry reported an increase of 3.4 per cent. and the paper industry 0.9 per cent.

ORDERS BY WIRELESS ARREST IN MID OCEAN

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Jan. 18.—Radio messages flashed today by Chicago Federal officials to the steamer Manchuria, now in midocean, asked the arrest of Walter Osterler, an enemy alien and former officer in the German Army. The officials believe he is trying to reach Germany with nearly $100,000 alleged to have been obtained from American citizens by dubious schemes.

A complaint filed with Commissioner Mason by Orma Roma Shellman Osterler, the Crown Point wife of Osterler, who was adjudged the second most beautiful girl in Chicago at the home exposition in 1915, led to issuance of the warrant. Her father, Adolph Shellman, a baker, charges that Osterler borrowed $16,000 from him and stole $3,000 from his daughter on the pretense he was the sole representative in America of certain German automobile concerns.

The Government messages direct that Osterler be taken from the Manchuria before the steamship reaches Hamburg or enters the three-mile limit, and that he be returned to Chicago to face a charge of using the mails to defraud.

Morning Post Points Out Many British Destroyers and Submarines Are Being Dropped.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Jan. 18.—The Morning Post in further reference to Secretary Daniels's "inaccuracies" as regards Great Britain's naval strength says:

"Whereas, in the case of capital ships, Mr. Daniels's statement is calculated to mislead because of the scanty attention paid to pre-Jutland and post-Jutland value, the destroyer figures are inaccurate and the statement with regard to submarines ill-informed. At the present moment there are not more than 250 destroyers in the British Navy. About two hundred vessels of this type have been disposed of since the armistice, in addition to the flotilla leaders. Over and above this a considerable number are awaiting disposal for breaking up, and though of course Mr. Daniels could not be expected to know the exact number of these it is a pity that in making a statement on the relative strength of the two navies, calculated to have great influence on American opinion, he did not indicate in some way that this disposals policy on the part of the British Government was evidently going on.

"It is no doubt anxiety on Mr. Daniels's part to prove that America is up against it in naval construction that has led him to overestimate our potential destroyer strength by about one hundred and forty vessels. To some extent the position with regard to submarines is similar. Since the armistice Great Britain has disposed of about forty of these craft and there are at present a certain number awaiting sale. Mr. Daniels, however, cannot officially be aware of this latter fact, and therefore he does not choose to take it into consideration.

"A real statement of the figures on both sides, which, it is hoped may come soon, would conclusively show that the United States has no more reason to fear in the near future the destroyer and submarine strength of Great Britain than our obvious inferiority in capital ships."

MAXIM SETS NEW RADIO RECORD FOR CIVILIANS

Gets Reply to Message From Hartford to Los Angeles in 6 1-2 Minutes.

HARTFORD, Jan. 18.—A new civilian wireless record was established early today when Hiram Percy Maxim sent a message from his station here to Los Angeles, Cal., and received a reply 6½ minutes later. The messages were relayed by stations at Chicago and Roswell, N. M.

Tests under the auspices of the American Radio Relay League, of which Mr. Maxim is President, have been made for the last four nights. Yesterday it was announced that a message had been sent to Los Angeles from this city and a reply received in 1 hour and 8 minutes, a new civilian mark for cross-continent wireless relay.

FORCE PERSIAN PREMIER TO REMAIN IN OFFICE

Merchants Threaten to Close Bazaars—Shah Announces That He Will Stay in Country.

LONDON, Jan. 18.—The Persian Premier, Mochir-ed-Dowleh, who had resigned from office, withdrew his resignation after the merchants had threatened to close the bazaars and other pressure had been brought to bear, according to a Teheran dispatch under Sunday's date to The London Times.

The Shah, who was present at a meeting of Persian notables Saturday, announced his intention of remaining in Persia during the national crisis. This, the correspondent thinks, is a definite answer to the persistent rumors that the Shah intended to abdicate in favor of his brother Valiahd, the heir apparent, and proceed to Europe for reasons of health.

WON'T BE OPERA DIRECTOR.

Charles L. Wagner Refuses the Offer of Mary Garden.

Special to The New York Times.

"Miss Garden wishes to announce that the appointment of an executive director for the Chicago Opera Association has been indefinitely postponed. The position was offered to Charles L. Wagner, who refused it."

Rumors were current around the Auditorium that Herbert N. Johnson had been reappointed business manager. Mr. Johnson insisted that he was through with opera for all time.

"I have had magnificent support from the artists all the way through," he added, "but I am not going to remain here as executive director."

It was said by those on the inside that the departure of Mr. Wagner, Miss Garden's choice for director, followed soon after the arrival of a stranger from El Paso, Texas, who came to Chicago to prevent the appointment.

Designers Renew Taboo on Tuxedo.

CHICAGO, Jan. 18.—The Tuxedo coat should not be worn in the presence of women, reiterated the Merchant Tailors' Designers Association in opening a convention here today. "The Tuxedo is taboo from all social occasions except 'stag' parties," said J. A. Severin of Chicago, President of the association. "The man who wears one on any other occasion is not correctly dressed."

EXILED EMPEROR LOOKS TO HUNGARY

BARRED ON ARRIVAL HERE

Ex-Emperor Charles has agreed to accept the throne of Hungary as a constitutional monarch, according to Victor Dvortsak, a Deputy from Budapest, who arrived yesterday on the Cunarder Imperator. He visited the exiled ruler in his château in Prangins, on Lake Geneva, Switzerland, and conversed with him for two hours. The King will be glad to return and will be crowned some time between June and September, Mr. Dvortsak said.

Although he had a diplomatic passport the Deputy was detained by the immigration authorities on the Imperator and ordered to go to Ellis Island today for investigation by a Board of Special Inquiry. He was informed that an order had been received by telegram from the Secretary of Labor in Washington to detain him on his arrival and send him to Ellis Island.

"I went to Prangins to see the former King on Dec. 10," he said. "Before I left Budapest the people had manifested their desire to have a King of their own and restore the kingdom. When I was presented to Charles by his Chancellor in the library of the château I found that his black hair had turned gray and he looked much thinner. Although he is only 35 years old, he looked fully ten years older.

"When I put the question to him direct he replied that he would not abdicate. I pointed out that the people of Hungary were determined to have a King and if he did not accept the throne there was a danger of the offer being made to the Archduke Joseph or the young Archduke Albert.

"'The dual monarchy is dead,' the Emperor said to me in deliberate, calm tones, 'but I cannot renounce it. I shall be pleased to go to Hungary and become its King under a constitutional Government and will annul the pact of 1723 by which Hungary could do nothing without the consent of the rulers of Austria.'

"Bolshevism is the great menace of Europe," Mr. Dvortsak said, "and Hungary is the only one of the States which could resist an attack. Poland would not be able to stand alone, but the Soviet will not march its forces there until it has been seen what is going to happen in Rumania. Things are bad there because there is a nation without organization, without system of any kind and without culture. There is a strong influence of Bolshevism in the Government at Bucharest and the remainder of its members are weak and waver first to one side and then to the other."

"What is going to happen to Austria?" he was asked.

"Become a part of Germany without doubt as she cannot stand alone.

"If Rumania, Poland and Hungary come to an agreement to fight the Soviet forces they can hold them in check easily and Germany will be able to keep her frontiers against them as her people are well organized and they have plenty of good officers."

Several prominent Hungarians living in New York went to the pier to offer bonds for Mr. Dvortsak, but the officials declined to let the man go because of the order from Washington. They will go to Ellis Island this morning to appear before the Commissioner of Immigration on his behalf.

DAM BREAKS, DROWNS 18.

Flood Inundates Mexican Town Where Americans Have Mines.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MEXICO CITY, Jan 18, (via Galveston.)—The mining town of Pachuca, where there are many American mines was unundated by the breaking of a large dam today. Eighteen dead have been recovered. No Americans are reported lost.

All the water swept through Puchusa, carrying large trees with it and swept the poorer section of the town. A number of adobe houses were swept away, but the presence of several stone buildings diverted the torrent into the narrow streets. The total death list is unknown. Reports do not state if the mines were affected by water entering their shafts.

PROMOTERS CALL OFF WORLD TITLE BOUT

of the United States, designed to control and supervise the sport throughout the country, in adopting a maximum price of $15 for admission to bouts in which titles are involved. This price limit was first adopted in this State, and subsequently was installed throughout the country in every locality where legalized boxing is permitted, acting, practically, as an automatic prohibition on the Dempsey-Carpentier bout as arranged, since under the price limit there could be an infinitesimal chance of success for an enterprise involving such a financial expenditure.

Conditions in boxing over the country have experienced a decided change since the men were matched, which provides another handicap against the conduct of the bout as scheduled. In particular has there been a change in the attitude of the American boxing public toward this match. At first heralded as the greatest boxing bout in ring history, because of the remarkable prowess of the champion and the war and ring record of the challenger, talk of the match has gradually diminished until it is now almost forgotten.

Existing conditions, too, have affected the proposed return meeting between Dempsey and Jess Willard, former holder of the title. The men were originally matched by Promoter Rickard to clash at Madison Square Garden in a fifteen-round bout March 17, but it is understood this match, too, has been canceled because of the adoption of the $15 admission maximum price to title bouts.

Whether Dempsey and Carpentier will again be signed for a championship bout remains to be seen. The authority for the information that the original match is off, advanced the information that the boxers certainly would not be signed under similar financial terms for a bout in this country. It was said, in fact, that it was extremely doubtful whether the match would be held here under any circumstances, the prospect being that if another contract was signed between promoters and boxers it would be for a battle in London. On this point, however, there was no positive information to be had.

Kearns Denies Match Is Off.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 18.—Jack Kearns, manager for Jack Dempsey, heavyweight champion of the world, denied tonight that the match with Carpentier was off. He said forfeits had been posted both for Dempsey and Carpentier.

"My check for $50,000 was deposited in a New York bank three days after the same amount had been posted by Carpentier's manager," Kearns said.

WHAT $50 WILL DO.

"AN UNUSUAL SUIT FOR $210,000.

"W. F. Morgan, a machinist of Syracuse, N. Y., is suing the State of New Hampshire for $210,000, representing principal and interest on a $50 loan made the State in 1774 by one of his ancestors." (By Int'l.)

Of course, nobody wants to invest $50 and allow it to accumulate for 277 years, which is practically four times the allotted time of life, according to Scripture.

But suppose all young men between the ages of 16 and 25, now working, should hold out of their earnings $50 each year for the next forty years. The following table showing the result of $50 invested ($25 each six mos.), at 6 per cent. compounded semi-annually, should be an inspiration to lay by at least this sum every year.

If any are able to hold out of their earnings $2, $3, $4, $5 a week for 50 weeks each year, as they go along, they will have two, three, four or five times the total shown in the above table.

Young men should take particular note of this statement:

THEY WILL ADVANCE FASTER INTO BETTER POSITIONS IF THEY ARE KNOWN TO BE CAREFUL WITH THEIR MONEY.

I will never forget so long as I live the shock I got when I was told that the $36 I could have easily saved the first year I worked would now amount to $6,585.80! I have worked 42 years.

Won't you, young men, take a lesson out of my Book of Life?

Of course, all young women who are working should lay aside a minimum of $50 a year and allow it to accumulate with interest until they reach say the age of 60. I know that most young women who are working expect "Prince Charming" to come along some time or other, but, even so, they will find the $50, laid aside yearly, as long as they do work, will come in mighty handy some time.

Henry L. Doherty & Company will be glad to advise you how to invest in good securities of small denominations if you will write to them or call at their office, 60 Wall Street. They are particularly anxious to serve people who have small sums of money. I can assure you that they will accord you every courtesy and give you as much attention as though you were worth thousands of dollars instead of but a few dollars.

PRISON HOSPITAL SEEN AS PEST HOUSE

Commissioners Say Diseased, Criminal and Voluntary Patients Mingle in Blackwell Cells.

HELD HOURS IN FILTHY DEN

ALBANY, Jan. 18.—Because of lack of matrons at the Correction Hospital, formerly known as the Workhouse, on Blackwell's Island, only thirteen of twenty-four appointed being available, the force of supervision is dangerously low, according to a report of Commissioners John S. Kennedy, Leon C. Weinstock and Henry Solomon to the State Commission of Prisons.

As a result of inability to control the population by such an insufficient force, the inmates are locked in their cells fourteen hours daily, from 4:30 P. M. to 8:30 A. M., and are given but an hour daily in the open air when weather conditions permit.

The prison, built nearly seventy years ago, is described as "one of the worst in the State and a disgrace to the City of New York."

"This institution," says the report, "although designated by law as a hospital, is in reality the prison to which all females convicted of crime and retained for confinement in the city are sent, the terms of confinement running from five-day workhouse sentences up to three years, the maximum penitentiary sentence.

The population is made up of workhouse and penitentiary cases, white and black, including feeble-minded and psychopathic cases, those suffering from tuberculosis, venereal diseases and drug addiction. Here, too, are sent the drug addicts who, charged with no crimes, go before a magistrate and ask to be sent to a hospital to be cured.

75 Per Cent. Are Young Women.

"Seventy-five per cent. of the inmates are young women between 18 and 30. Although an attempt is made at segregation, it is impossible of accomplishment in the prison, and all ages, kinds and conditions mingle together.

"There are no toilet facilities or running water in the cells or on the corridors, and the antiquated, unsanitary, unhealthful and oft-times condemned buckets are used under these crowded conditions.

"There is no school or any evidence of training which would be conducive to encourage these women to lead a better life when released.

"The hope of remedying these conditions lies in the opening of the women's farm colony at Grayscourt, which at present looks to be far in the future. The south wing here, upon which much work has been done, will permit of better classification and segregation and the placing of hospital cases in wards instead of prison cells.

"Here, as at Hiker's Island, was found the complaint of self-committed drug addicts who had gone before magistrates and asked to be committed to a hospital to be cured of the awful drug affliction, and supposed they were being sent to a hospital instead of to a prison, where they are treated on exactly the same basis as those convicted of crime. They also complained of being held 100 days when they understood from the authorities that they would have to stay but sixty days.

Would Segregate Infected Inmates.

"The Commissioners recommend that the Commissioner of Correction

"'1. Remove all tubercular and venereal cases and drug addicts under treatment away from the cell block, segregating the diseased ones and providing quarters for drug addicts under treatment; separating further those charged with crime and those self-committed. This can be accomplished by the speedy completion of the south wing.

"'2. Arrange for a greater measure of outdoor exercise for all classes.

"'3. Revise the rules so that inmates shall not be locked in cells for further than fourteen hours daily.

"'4. Provide a plan for educational and recreational activities such as are needed in an institution containing so many young girls.'"

DISMISSAL OF TEACHER FOR RADICALISM UPHELD

Gilbert Sustains Action of Buffalo Board in Ousting Woman in Communist Party.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Jan. 18.—Frank B. Gilbert, Acting Commissioner of Education, upheld today the Buffalo Board of Education in dismissing Miss Julia D. Pratt from her position as public school teacher for joining the Communist Party and participating in its activities. The fact that Miss Pratt, who has taught school in Buffalo for seventeen years, later asked to have her name stricken from the party roster on the ground that membership would jeopardize her position, Acting Commissioner Gilbert dismissed as of no weight in arriving at his decision.

Mr. Gilbert in his decision said that it could not be interpreted as upholding any act to curtail political freedom of action, because the Communist Party could not be regarded a political organization in the sense that the Democratic, Republican and Socialist parties are.

"A teacher in the public schools is a member of a State system," he said, "and a servant of the people of the State. A teacher cannot properly perform the duties of her position and give expression, either verbally or by affiliation with any political or other organization, to her belief that our present Government should be overthrown by revolution or by force and violence, through direct action of any group or class.

"The teacher owes allegiance to the State, and school authorities are required to insist upon absolute loyalty of the teachers to the Government of the State. A teacher by direct or indirect participation in the activities of any organization, political or otherwise, which seeks by force or violence or any other unlawful means to overturn the Government, forfeits her right of tenure in her position."

GOV. MILLER PROMISES STATE AID TO FARMERS

Tells Them It Will Help Movement for Co-operation in Production and Marketing.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Jan. 18.—Governor Miller promised representatives of the New York State Agricultural Society, in session here tonight, that the State will do everything possible to aid in the solution of the farmers' problem—co-operation for better production and for distribution of farm products.

"Your problems," he said, "are of greatest moment to all the people of the State. They involve the question of the promotion of the agricultural interests of the State and stimulation of food production and its proper distribution. One of the questions which I understand you are considering is the question of stimulation of co-operation among the producers, and in my mind that, if not the first essential, is one of the essential things to which your attention ought to be most seriously directed in the solution of this great problem."

He told them that the State would aid them in every way on transportation matters and the building of proper terminal facilities, particularly about the port of New York.

"We will always be willing," he said, "to lend a sympathetic ear to anything that can be done by the State to advance the solution of your problems."

Milk distribution on a co-operative basis was discussed at the opening session this afternoon. It was brought out that the Dairymen's League has under way an agreement among farmers of the State which if it becomes effective will place the league, through its co-operative association, in complete control of the milk supply and milk producers.

Through the agreement with the farmers which the Dairymen's League is urging the Co-operative Association is authorized to use its discretion in building warehouses, plants or other buildings, to pay for which deductions will be made from money producers earn for their products. Under the proposed agreement dairymen would forfeit rights to sell in the open market at the best price obtainable.

This scheme was outlined to the agricultural society by Thomas E. Milliman, one of the organizers of the Dairymen's League. He declared that one-third of the members of the league had already signified their willingness to turn over their milk supply to the proposed co-operative association and appoint the association as their sales agent with full power to dispose of the product as deemed best by the association.

COL. GREENE RESIGNS; SISSON TO GET PLACE

ALBANY, Jan. 18.—Governor Miller announced today that he had accepted the resignation of Colonel Frederick Stuart Greene as State Highway Commissioner to take effect on Feb. 1 and would appoint Herbert S. Sisson of Erie to succeed him. Mr. Sisson is head of the State Excise Department, the abolition of which has been recommended by the Governor.

Soon after the Governor took office, Colonel Greene informed him that his resignation would be at Mr. Miller's disposal whenever he wanted it. The Governor sent a letter to the Highway Commissioner today in which he reminded him of this promise and told him that he had in mind the introduction of new policies in the Highway Department and wanted these carried out by a man of his own selection. Colonel Greene promptly tendered his resignation. Expressions of mutual goodwill occurred in the letters.

Colonel Greene, who is an expert in road building, was appointed by Governor Smith and his term of office would not have expired until April 8, 1924. Mr. Sisson was appointed Excise Commissioner by Governor Whitman in January, 1917 and had another year to serve. He has been actively identified with Republican politics in Erie and has made a good record in his present office.

The appointment of Mr. Sisson will be sent to the Senate for confirmation probably next Monday. The salary of the Highway Commissioner is $10,000 a year and the term of office five years.

It is expected that Jay Ferrier, First Deputy Commissioner of Excise, will succeed Mr. Sisson as Excise Commissioner on Feb. 1, and continue for the balance of the fiscal year, ending June 30. There is now pending in the Legislature a bill, designed to abolish the Excise Commission, but inasmuch as moneys have been made available for the Excise Commission until July 1, the commissioner will continue until then notwithstanding favorable action by the Legislature on the bill before it.

Confirmation of Governor Miller's nomination of Charles L. Cadle of Rochester as State Superintendent of Public Works will be made a special order of business in the Senate tomorrow. Minority Leader Walker purposes to oppose confirmation.

TAKE UP SOCIALIST STATUS.

Assembly Appoints Committee to Report on Expulsion Move.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Jan. 18.—Steps for a quick determination of the status of the three Socialist Assemblymen were taken today by the appointment of a subcommittee of the Assembly Judiciary Committee, empowered to begin immediate investigation of charges that the three are unfitted to sit in the Legislature.

Special attention is to be paid by this committee, which is headed by Assemblyman George H. Rowe of Erie, to the inquiry into the qualifications of Henry Jager, a first term member, as well as to the resolutions calling for the expulsion for the third time of Charles Solomon, Socialist leader in the lower house. Jaeger, it is charged, is disqualified from sitting in the Assembly because he is not a resident of New York State and on the additional ground of a workhouse sentence served on conviction for disorderly conduct. Jaeger is also accused of calling President Wilson "a murderer" on the night before the United States entered the war.

Up-State members who are insisting on expulsion declared today they would oppose expected efforts to stifle the expulsion resolution in committee. They asserted declarations that Governor Miller is unwaveringly opposed to any action looking to disqualifying the Socialists were unfounded.

Every indication points to a debate on the floor on the resolution urging the expulsion of Solomon, even if a motion to discharge the committee from its consideration is deemed necessary. The Assembly seems about evenly divided on expulsion.

In New York City on Thursday or Friday the subcommittee will take up seat contests affecting the Assembly districts which make up the Twenty-third Senatorial District, in which Senator John J. Dunnigan was defeated. Dunnigan, a Democrat, lost re-election to the upper house, by a scant 150 majority, and has contested the election of George H. Taylor, Republican, now occupying the seat.

READY TO SUPPORT FORD.

McCue and Bloch Willing to Ask Appellate Division Inquiry.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Jan. 18.—Senator Martin G. McCue and Assemblyman Maurice Bloch, both Tammany members of the Legislature, in a joint statement issued tonight declared their willingness to introduce on behalf of Supreme Court Justice John Ford a concurrent resolution embodying charges made by him in a letter to Governor Miller against the seven Justices of the Appellate Division for the First Department and containing provision for a legislative investigation. Mr. Bloch said he would confer with Justice Ford in New York tomorrow.

"We regard the dismissal of the charges by Governor Miller without an investigation and his redesignation of Justice Alfred R. Page as Justice of the Appellate Division a direct affront to Justice Ford," said the statement.

Asks Pre-War Status for Canal.

ALBANY, Jan. 18.—The Senate today adopted the Knight resolution memorializing Congress in favor of the Wadsworth resolution which provides for the abandonment by the Federal Government of traffic on the New York Barge Canal which it undertook as a war activity. Senator Knight said Government competition was bound to be a deterrent on private users. Edmund Seidel, Socialist Senator from the Bronx, cast the only adverse vote, on the ground that Federal shipping rates were lower than those of private concerns and meant cheaper food.

Would Change Law Publishing.

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 18.—Franklin A. Merriam of The Mount Vernon Argus was elected President of the New York Associated Dailies today, succeeding Gardner Kline of The Amsterdam Recorder. A resolution recommending the abolishment of the present system of publication of session laws in designated newspapers was adopted and revisement of the system was referred to a special committee headed by W. H. Clark of The Cortland Standard.

FIVE ROB MAIL TRUCK IN CHICAGO STATION

THEN THEY SPEED AWAY

CHICAGO, Jan. 18.—Five youthful bandits held up a United States mail truck at the Union Station here early today, escaping in an automobile with twelve sacks of mail, ten of which contained registered mail. Police say that the best information obtainable this morning indicates the pouches contained part of a Federal Reserve Bank money shipment which was to have been placed on a train leaving for St. Paul, Minn., at 2:30 A. M.

Postal authorities, while unable to estimate the amount of the loot, said the shipments to the Northwest which usually go out on the 2:30 A. M. mail train average about $100,000 in value.

They expressed the belief, however, that the bandits obtained little of value, because of the fact that Tuesday's shipments are smaller than those on other days of the week.

"Tuesday morning shipments are always light," said A. E. Germer, Acting Chief Postal Inspector. "Of course, there are a great many registered papers and other documents, but not much that could be negotiated into money."

A week may elapse before an accurate figure covering the loss can be known, according to the Postal Inspectors.

The police believe the robbery was an inside job, as the bandits seemed to have knowledge of the bank shipment, as well as the time the truck would arrive and the number of men guarding it.

The mail truck had been backed to the curb in front of an elevator used to deliver mail to the basement of the station. The bandit car arrived a moment later and as it slowed up opposite the truck three of the outlaws leaped from it and ran across the street. The three faced seven postal and railway employes.

"We're armed. Do exactly as we say," said the leader, who ordered one of the mail handlers to remain on the sidewalk to avert suspicion and sent the other men into the truck to separate the registered sacks from the rest.

"Throw the sacks into our machine," ordered the leader, and as the railroad and mail employes complied he added:

"Much obliged. So long."

He leaped into the touring car with his accomplices and the car started.

"Stop that machine. It's a holdup," cried one of the railroad men. But the leader of the robbers brandished a pistol and pursuit stopped. It was the only sight of firearms reported to the police.

Thomas Carter, Richard J. Sliney and Phillip Cahill, postal employes, said all five men, none of whom appeared to be more than 20 years old, all wore black masks.

Carter, who drove the mail truck, said he believed the bandit car followed him from the Post Office to the station. The alarm was sent to the Federal Building, the city detective bureau and the Des Plaines Street Police Station. Several squads of officers were on the trail of the robbers within a few minutes.

City detectives and Federal postal inspectors arrested tonight twelve men in a saloon in connection with the theft. None of the missing mail had been found.

Neither Federal officials nor police would estimate the amount lost in the robbery, except to say that it probably would be low.

ORGANIZE TO REMEDY BROOKLYN TRANSIT

that contemplated in the Jenks bills, which, unless the program is changed meanwhile, will be introduced in a few days in substantially the same form as last year, when they went down to defeat.

The Governor, while he desires as prompt a solution of the difficulties as circumstances will justify, is more anxious that what is done shall be of permanent value and represent the nearest approach to justice to all interested. For that reason it is regarded as not unlikely that he will ask the Legislature to authorize an investigation by a competent commission of the New York City situation. Such a commission, it explained with ample powers, it was pointed out, could compel traction companies to squeeze the water out of their stock and with severe safeguards to insure that the increment would be applied to operation and not dividends. It also could order fare increases temporarily where such action was deemed essential to insure service, and revoke these when normal conditions in the cost of labor and materials warranted restoration of a five-cent fare as insuring ample return on capital actually invested.

GARRISON ANSWERS ATTACK.

Reply to Senator Burlingame Resents Criticism of Courts.

The attack made by Senator Burlingame of Kings Monday on Federal Judge Mayer and Lindley M. Garrison, as receiver of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company, was answered yesterday by Mr. Garrison. Mr. Burlingame had stated that Judge Mayer, who appointed Mr. Garrison, acted more like a czar than a Judge. Mr. Garrison's statement reads:

"The morning papers carry a story from Albany from which it appears that Senator Burlingame brought the trolley situation in Brooklyn to the attention of the Senate, and incidentally indulged in an attack upon me as receiver, and upon the courts.

"I have not the pleasure of Senator Burlingame's acquaintance and do not even know to which party he belongs. I wish that he had not indulged in any attack upon the courts. It seems to me at this time of unrest it is unwise for prominent men in prominent places to lend any aid to those who would overthrow the forces of law and order. I would, of course, prefer to be praised than blamed, but if blame cast upon me is the only way in which the desperate situation of the trolley companies in Brooklyn can be brought to the attention of the public, then I am much indebted to Senator Burlingame and any others who will in this manner or in any other manner bring it to public attention.

"The fact is that there either has got to be less service or more money to enable us to give better service. Eventually this has got to be settled by the state of public opinion."

Judge Mayer declined to make any comment on the matter.

After saying that such a condition had become a public scandal and almost destructive of the Grand Jury system, Mr. Untermyer referred to the Whitman-Swann and Lusk Grand Jury investigation in these words:

"I note with regret that these same tactics are being revived in an investigation now under way. While witnesses and Grand Jurors are prohibited by law from disclosing what takes place in the jury room, there is unfortunately no criminal inhibition against the District Attorney and his staff, as there should be, and as I shall endeavor to see that there shall be in the near future."

He Put the Lid Down.

He pointed out that the Lockwood committee has "shut down the lid" with respect to matters taken up before the Grand Jury.

In no event is a prosecuting officer justified in using a secret investigation and perverting it to his own ends by giving out garbled and one-sided accounts of the supposed proceedings, Mr. Untermyer maintained. Such conduct was "a grievous offense against public decency."

Referring to the added powers asked for by the Lockwood committee, for which he will argue before a legislative committee in Albany this afternoon, Mr. Untermyer said that these do not forecast any investigation of the affairs of the city nor is there any intention of using them to discredit the solvency or stability of financial institutions. The powers sought are the same as those demanded in the original resolution, which was emasculated, he added.

"The same underground opposition that will be 'smoked out' here before we get through, if the opposition persists, is found whenever there is an effort to restrict the license of these powerful self-constituted guardians of other people's money," he said.

One of the most surprising results of the disclosures before the Lockwood committee had been the genuine surprise of the public to find that almost every avenue of industry was clogged and glutted with criminal combinations in restraint of trade, he declared, and added, these have become so firmly established that the canker can no longer be uprooted.

Hold's Palmer Responsible.

"I place the main responsibility for this monstrous condition squarely at the door of the Department of Justice," the speaker continued. "The record of the last eight years is one of incompetency, supineness and worse, that is unspeakably bad. To its persistent inaction we owe largely the stranglehold of these combinations and the accompanying extortion that is being practiced upon the people in almost every line of endeavor, although the Department of Justice has asked and secured millions of dollars from Congress for the avowed purpose of enforcing the anti-trust laws.

"As late as Aug. 14, 1919, Mr. Palmer monopolized the front pages of the newspapers with 'screech headlines' announcing that he was about to ask for the modest sum of $1,500,000 for the purpose of prosecuting these conspiracies (which I believe was voted him), and that he was going primarily after the Cement Trust, the principal members of which are located in his own State."

Although the Supreme Court had held that the Sherman law was a criminal statute Mr. Palmer brought a civil suit against the cement companies over a year ago "of which nothing has been heard," he charged. Before the Lockwood committee began its investigation of the cement situation he asked the Attorney General's permission to inspect the evidence against the cement men and received "the extraordinary reply" that he wanted to use it in the civil suit. It was the first time that the speaker ever heard that evidence was a perishable commodity which would "disappear upon inspection," he said.

In spite of the obstacles, the committee made a complete exposure of the Cement Trust and placed the evidence before the Federal authorities so that all they had to do was to place the evidence before a Grand Jury and put the men on trial. He said that it would be interesting to learn what had become of the vast funds voted by Congress for the cement and other prosecutions. The combinations are so intrenched, in his opinion, that governmental regulation is the only remedy, as they can no longer be exterminated. To this constructive end the labors of the Lockwood committee are directed.

He Doubts Repentance.

He suggested that it would be well to keep a close watch on the "eleventh-hour appearance of repentance" the Department of Justice had staged by appointing the "very able and respectable" Messrs. Rand and Kresel to enforce the anti-trust laws. If the report which reached him that the defendants in the sand and gravel cases were to be permitted to escape with a fine were true (the fines were imposed yesterday), Mr. Untermyer said the work of the Federal authorities would prove a detriment rather than a help and would show that they simply appropriated the work of the State committee "and have not even had the grace to consult with the latter before taking action."

"Their attitude throughout has been sullen and reluctant," he added.

Mr. Untermyer then took up the work of the Alien Property Custodian and the Department of Justice, saying that there were few more important duties resting upon Congress than a thorough exposure of the activities of these two departments.

"If the rumors concerning their management that are increasing in volume as time goes on, and as people who were terrorized into silence are again learning to speak in terms of personal liberty, are unfounded," he said in conclusion, "these rumors should be silenced after those concerned have had the opportunity to present their grievances. If a fraction of the stories told are true there are grave wrongs to be righted."

The dinner was under the direction of a citizens' committee of 400 and brought together more than 1,000 representative men and women. Mr. Hirsch was presented with a loving cup and a bound volume containing a letter from each member of the committee.

ANGLO-SAXON UNITY PRAISED BY HARDING

Tells Sulgrave Institution Head It Will Play Big Part in Plan to End War.

John A. Stewart, Chairman of the Board of Governors of the Sulgrave Institution, gave out the following letter last night from President-elect Warren G. Harding relative to the work of the institution:

Marion, Ohio.

John A. Stewart, Esq., the Sulgrave Institution, 3,903 Woolworth Building, New York City, N. Y.

Dear Mr. Stewart: The labor of uniting into still closer amity and understanding the English-speaking peoples of the world has a significance of good to all Americans and to all nations and races of the world.

Destiny has made it a historical fact that the English-speaking peoples have been the instrument through which civilization has been flung to the far corners of the globe. I am impressed not so much by the glory that English-speaking peoples may take to themselves as by the profound duties that God has thrust upon them—duties of being restrained, tolerant and just. These duties will find their greatest recognition in a united, unshakable friendship and understanding and oneness of purpose—not for the exclusion from brotherhood of others, but for a better brotherhood flowing toward others.

I believe that when the wisdom of America is summoned to assist the world in building a workable, as distinguished from a bungling agreement or association for the prevention of war, unity of English-speaking peoples will play no small part not to invade the rights or exclude the fellowship of other nations, but to protect and include them. Faithfully yours, WARREN G. HARDING.

In commenting on the letter Mr. Stewart said that it was interesting "in that it indicates a policy which should be satisfactory to all Americans."

CRIME WAVE IN TOLEDO STARTS INSURANCE RUN

Prisoner Confesses, Solving the Killing of Two Detectives and $9,000 Robbery on Monday.

TOLEDO, Ohio, Jan. 18.—Six murders in the last eight days have resulted in a run on insurance companies here, it was announced today. The applicants desire everything from protection from burglary to highway robbery and safeblowing, it was said. It was added that the insurance companies are getting a fancy price for such policies, the issuing of which in some cases has required an extra force of clerks.

The killing here yesterday of two railroad detectives during a nine-thousand-dollar hold-up was solved today by the confession of Edward Foley, 20 years old, claiming Omaha, Neb., as his home. He told the police he was in the party that killed A. L. Long and Louis Schroeder. He said he had been in Toledo only three weeks, and was captured when detectives swooped on a railroad men's boarding house on Broadway Street a few hours after the killing.

In his confession, the police say, Foley told how the loot was divided in the apartment of the sweetheart of Royce Richardson, a negro, who is implicated by Foley's confession and who, the police say, has been positively identified as one of the bandits.

GET $60,000 LOOT AND 3 PRISONERS

SAY TRUCKMAN CONFESSED

Aldermen Ask Life Terms for Pistol Bandits—Grill Astor Suspect.

With $50,000 loot recovered and three prisoners under arrest, the police last night were on the trail of hundreds of thousands of dollars' worth of merchandise stolen recently along the water-fronts by organized thievery. The police activity was spurred by complaints of riverfront robbers made by the Government.

Lawrence Klemans of 347 East Tenth Street, one of the proprietors of the University Trucking Company, 9 East Twelfth Street, and his brother, Harry Klemans, 16 years old, were arrested last night by Detectives McNamara and Devine, who charged them with acting in concert with Edward ("Bull") O'Connor, alleged director of the river-front gang, who was arraigned before United States Commissioner Hitchcock and held in $2,500, after he had confessed.

According to the police, O'Connor in his alleged confession implicated the Klemans brothers, and the detectives paid a visit to their place of business. The detectives' story was that they and Edward J. Loud, an attorney connected with the law department of the Custom House, traced seventeen cases of bric-à-brac, worth $10,000, to the University Trucking Company warehouse, and that they also found $1,000 worth of whisky, which caused the arrest of another brother, James Klemans, on a charge of violation of the Volstead act.

The police said that O'Connor informed them that he had gotten away with eight cases and four bales of merchandise, valued at $25,000, from the Anchor Storage Warehouse, 231 East Forty-seventh Street. Also four cases, a piano and an oil painting from the Republic Stores, Eleventh Avenue and Forty-fifth Street.

The detectives said that O'Connor, a former driver for P. H. Keahon, Inc., public truckmen at 108 Tenth Avenue, stole one of the Keahon license plates when he left their employ. They said he told them his scheme of operation along the waterfront was to have the elder Klemans hire a truck, have the younger brother drive it to Ninth or Tenth Avenues, where he, O'Connor, would take it over, put the stolen license on it, and then proceed to the piers. Once there, the detectives said, he had it, O'Connor would boldly drive onto the pier and, announcing that he had called from "the Public Stores," claim and make off with merchandise.

Asks Life Terms for Gunmen.

The Board of Aldermen yesterday adopted a resolution calling upon the Legislature to make acts of robbery committed with a pistol punishable with life imprisonment. The resolution was opposed by the Socialist members, Alderman B. C. Vladeck declaring that he did not think the amendment of the Penal Code would do any good and that the cause of robberies, unemployment, should be taken up.

Paul J. Nagle of 44 Tappan Avenue, Belleville, N. J., was arraigned before County Judge Gibbs in the Bronx yesterday on the charge of being one of a trio who on June 25 last chloroformed Mrs. Helen McHugh in her automobile in Van Cortlandt Park and stole the automobile and $3,500 in jewelry after laying the blanketed form of the unconscious woman at the roadside in a rainstorm.

Nagle was held in $25,000 bail for a hearing tomorrow. Jack Sherry, arrested recently and held in $10,000 bail, was arraigned on a second charge in connection with the offense and held in an additional $25,000. Nagle was arrested in Newport, R. I., after he was court-martialed and dishonorably discharged from the navy. According to Assistant District Attorney Edward J. Chapman, both men confessed. He expects them to plead guilty to robbery in the first degree. A third man is being sought in the case.

Held as Hotel Astor Bandit.

Carl Wehner, 34 years old, a waiter, who said he lived at the Hotel Revere, Arch and Eleventh Streets, Philadelphia, was questioned yesterday by Assistant District Attorneys Dominick B. Dineen and John F. Joyce in connection with the hold-up of two men and two women guests in the Hotel Astor on the evening of Dec. 15. Wehner was arrested in Philadelphia several days ago and was brought to this city yesterday. The police are looking for a third man.

The coolness of Miss Helen Smith of 2 Bank Street was responsible for the arrest of Henry Wilson of 315 East Fifteenth Street, who was charged with burglary. The girl was awakened, she said, at 2 o'clock yesterday morning. She said she saw two men prying open a bureau drawer in her room, ran to the window and blew a police whistle. Policeman Connolly of the Charles Street Station said Wilson ran into his arms. The man was held in $5,000 bail for action of the Grand Jury when arraigned before Magistrate Simms in Jefferson Market Court.

Joseph Esposito of 1,946 First Avenue, Brooklyn, and three other men were held in $10,000 bail each by Magistrate Geismar in Bridge Plaza Court, Brooklyn. They were charged with attacking a group of garment workers.

NEW POLICE SHIFT ENDS 'HELL'S KITCHEN'

Notorious District Will Hereafter Be Patrolled From Tenderloin Precinct.

Police Commissioner Enright yesterday abolished the old "Hell's Kitchen" precinct on the lower west side, did away with an inspection district in Brooklyn and renumbered several other inspection districts in that borough, besides transferring three Inspectors.

The passing of the "Hell's Kitchen" precinct marks the gradual shift in the activities of criminal bands to other parts of the city. It was explained at Police Headquarters that lack of crime in the district between West Twenty-eighth Street and West Forty-second Street, Seventh Avenue and the Hudson River had made it unnecessary to maintain a Captain, four Lieutenants and eight Sergeants there, and that henceforth the patrol force, with a few of the officers, would police the district in connection with the old Tenderloin district, the headquarters of which are in West Thirtieth Street.

For more than forty years the Twenty-second Precinct, as it was known officially, was the rendesvous of some of the worst criminal bands in the city. The notorious "Gopher" band of gunmen were natives of the old precinct, and made the life of the policemen attached to the precinct a perilous one. It was not until the advent of the taxicab that these criminals extended their operations. Since then they have become known to the police of the five boroughs.

In abolishing the Twenty-second Precinct Commissioner Enright changed the precincts immediately adjacent, so that hereafter the West Thirtieth Street Precinct will be bounded on the east by Fifth Avenue, by West Twenty-seventh Street on the south, West Forty-second Street on the north and the Hudson River on the west.

The West Forty-seventh Street Precinct was extended one block further east to take in the west side of Fifth Avenue from West Forty-second Street to West Fifty-ninth Street, and to the Hudson River, and the East Fifty-first Street Station was relieved of the policing of the intervening blocks from Forty-second Street to Fifty-ninth Street, between Fifth and Madison Avenues.

Commissioner Enright abolished the old Twelfth Inspection District, with headquarters in Lawrence Street, Brooklyn, and rearranged the Tenth Inspection District, which will be known as the Ninth District. The Eleventh District becomes the Tenth District, the Fourteenth becomes the Eleventh, the Fifteenth becomes the Twelfth, the Sixteenth becomes the Thirteenth, the Eighteenth becomes the Fourteenth and the Seventeenth becomes the new Fifteenth.

Inspector Charles A. Formosa, for many years in charge of the old Fifteenth Inspection District, with headquarters in the Gates Avenue Station, was sent to the Staten Island Inspection District to succeed Inspector Thomas F. Walsh, who was sent to the new Eleventh District in Brooklyn.

POLICE BOMB GUARDS SENT BACK TO POSTS

Orders Are Issued Withdrawing Details—No Explanation Is Offered.

The guard which the police have been maintaining over public buildings and the homes of officials and prominent citizens in expectation of an anarchist bomb plot was withdrawn last night. Orders were received at the different police stations at 7 o'clock to discontinue the special guard details and for the men who had been so assigned to return to patrol duty. The special squads of detectives who had been assigned to similar work also were returned to their regular duty.

No explanation was ever made public by the Police Department, but it was believed that the action was taken on information furnished by a private detective agency. The withdrawal of the guard was taken in police circles to mean that the higher officials of the department believed that the danger of a series of bomb explosions had passed.

The Sunshine in your Big Blue Eyes

By DeRose, Innuse & MacBoyle

JOHN STEELE of the Ziegfeld Follies, started it on its way to an epidemic. He sings it so incomparably that the heart of every blue-eyed woman in the audience misses a beat.

It's just that kind of a song. Its seductive melody gets under your skin and into your blood like a hypodermic of Sunshine, of Love, of Thrills.

The Sunshine in Your Big Blue Eyes is just one number on every dance program, but it's played many times every evening "by request."

IMPERATOR LATE; MET STORM A DAY

'PUSSYFOOT' JOHNSON HERE

"A gale a day," was the expression used by Captain Charles A. Smith, O. B. E. R. N. R., of the Cunarder Imperator when he docked his ship at noon yesterday, to describe the voyage from Cherbourg and to explain why the liner was nearly two days late.

"I have been forty-two years in the Atlantic trade," he said, "and this was the worst voyage I have ever made. There was no letup in the gales and the seas were even worse than the wind. The worst weather was encountered on Tuesday night, Jan. 11, when the seas were twenty-five to thirty feet high, and one big wave came over the bow and carried away two lifeboats and nine iron ventilators from the forward deck."

Among the first cabin passengers was Sir Ernest Oppenheimer, one of the richest men in South Africa, who controls the Kimberly diamond mines and is the Chairman of the Anglo-American Company, which owns diamond and gold mines. Sir Ernest will spend three weeks here and then make a trip to Florida or California.

Solomon R. Guggenheim returned from attending the marriage of his daughter Eleanor on Dec. 18 to Viscount Arthur Stuart in London. Another passenger was W. B. "Pussyfoot" Johnson, who traveled in the second cabin.

Other passengers were Major James de Rothschild, son of Leopold R. de Rothschild; Claude Grahame-White, former British aviator, with his wife, Ethel Levy, who appears at the Palace Theatre Jan. 24; Nati Billainita, a Spanish dancer; Sir Algernon Firth, Bart., the Scotch steel magnate, who has come over to wind up his business in this country; Countess Mabel Bouly de Lesdain and Professor George V. Wendt. The total number of passengers on the Imperator was 1,400. She leaves again for Southampton and Cherbourg at noon tomorrow.

Another passenger on the liner was Emil Vardi of London, who brought with him a rare collection of old English silverware.

MAJOR ROTHSCHILD HERE.

500 American Zionists Greet Palestine War Veteran.

Major James de Rothschild, who fought with the Jewish Legion in Palestine during the war, was greeted by over 500 men and women at the Hotel Astor last night at a reception held by the Zionist Organization of America. Major de Rothschild, a son of Baron de Rothschild, arrived yesterday on the Imperator, the purpose of his visit being the formation in this country of an associate body to the Economic Council for Palestine.

In his address he praised England for giving Palestine to the Jews as their homeland, but added that England can do no more; "it behooves the Jews to build up the house and put it in order," he said. The other speakers were Rabbi Stephen S. Wise, Rabbi Z. Masliansky, Schmarya Levin and Judge Julian Mack, President of the organization.

MISSING WOMAN FOUND IN NEW YORK HOTEL

Mrs. Ella Berentsen, Lost Since Saturday, Is Traced Through Letter to Husband.

Mrs. Ella E. Berentsen, wife of Richard R. Berentsen, an executive of the Alexander Smith Carpet Company, who disappeared from her home at 230 Primrose Avenue, Mount Vernon, on Saturday night, was found by Detective Newman of the Missing Persons Bureau yesterday afternoon at the Hotel Lucerne, 201 West Seventy-ninth Street, where she had been since Sunday evening. The discovery was made through a letter she sent to her husband requesting him to send her $800 care of "general delivery" at the New York Post Office.

Although Mrs. Berentsen registered at the hotel under her correct name and gave her right address, clerks there did not notify the police, because they had not read of her disappearance. She did not leave the hotel, taking all her meals in the public dining room, it was said.

When she sent a messenger to the Post Office for her husband's letter yesterday afternoon Detective Newman followed the boy to the hotel and found Mrs. Berentsen. He communicated with her husband who, with Detective Curtis of Mount Vernon and her father, took her home in an automobile.

Later Mr. Berentsen said that a woman gave his wife a "lift" to the Mount Vernon railroad station on Saturday night. She spent that night at the Hotel Netherland, he said, and had to pledge her watch for her bill. The next day she went to the Lucerne. His wife told him, he stated, that she was on a visit to her two sons at Cambridge, Mass. Mrs. Berentsen had returned recently from a sanitarium for nervous diseases.

ASTRONOMER WINS HONOR.

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, Jan. 18.—Henry Norris Russell, Professor of Astronomy at Princeton University, has received a cable from London from the Astronomer Royal, informing him that the gold medal of the Royal Astronomical Society has been awarded to him. This is the greatest honor that can be given to any astronomer, for it is awarded to that man whose achievements and career entitle him to be called the foremost astronomer of the year throughout the world.

Professor Russell's most notable achievement is known as the "Russell theory of stellar evolution," a theory first advanced by the late Sir Norman Lockyer, a distinguished English astronomer. It was resuscitated by Professor Russell some ten years ago, and while regarded as radical then is now generally accepted.

The work of Professor Michelson of the University of Chicago in determining the enormous size of the star Betelgeuse is the logical result of the theory and was predicted by Professor Russell several months ago, in common with Professor Eddington of Cambridge, England.

Princeton granted a leave of absence to Professor Russell, and he will sail for London on the Carmania on Jan. 29. The gold medal will be given to him at the annual February meeting of the Royal Astronomical Society.

SMUGGLED DRUGS FOUND IN BIRD CAGE

FOUR HELD IN $5,000 EACH

Five Boy Narcotic Vendors, Refusing Employers' Identity, Get Long Sentences.

Detectives under Dr. Carleton Simon, Special Deputy Police Commissioner in charge of the Narcotic Squad, last Saturday learned that a quantity of morphine had been smuggled into this country from an Italian ship at South Brooklyn. Detective Moffett, who had been working in the vicinity as a longshoreman, traced the morphine to a seamen's boarding house in High Street, Brooklyn, where he obtained a room that night.

He learned that $15,000 worth of morphine had been taken off the vessel in a bird cage, and arranged to have Detective Cubbidge, his partner, come to the house in the guise of a seaman and pretend to be in a stupor from drugs. Moffett called the attention of four men, who were later arrested, to the man lying in the hall, and suggested they carry him to their room.

After working over the detective for several minutes, Detective Moffett expressed the belief the man was in need of morphine, and that he would go out and get some. One of the other men in the room declared that would not be necessary and, opening a bird cage hanging from the ceiling, produced a small quantity of the drug.

The next morning Detective King, posing as a longshoreman, called at the house. Eventually the detectives arranged for King to purchase $300 worth of the narcotic, they declared yesterday. King left the house with the drug, and returned later with William J. McCormick, a special agent of the Federal narcotic squad, who declared he was engaged in the wholesale traffic in illicit drugs and offered to buy all the drugs the men had.

One of the men offered to sell McCormick $15,000 worth of morphine, and when he and the other detectives appeared at the house Monday, they said, they seized the bird cage which contained the drug and arrested John Lavelle, 19 years old, of 312 Hudson Avenue; Frederick de Ambrosia, 21 years old, of 184 Navy Street; Vincent Locadiamo, 31 years old, of 194 Flushing Avenue, and Tony Damato, 22 years old, of 301 Hudson Avenue.

They were held in $5,000 each yesterday by a United States Commissioner in Brooklyn on a charge of having narcotics in their possession. They will be examined next week.

Five boys, from 12 to 15 years old, were sentenced to long terms in the Catholic Protectory yesterday when they refused to reveal to Justice Cornelius F. Collins in the Children's Court the identity of the men who hired them to sell habit-forming drugs. The Justice said that if the boys had uncovered the identity of the men the police would be in a position to clean up a band who had been bringing much misery into lower east side homes through the illicit sale of narcotics to youths.

The boys were Joseph Cusimano, 12 years old, of 349 East Nineteenth Street; Salvatore Cappadora, 14 years old, of 356 East Thirteenth Street; Philip Tulotte, 14 years old, of 223 First Avenue; Frank Salsille, 14 years old, of 350 East Thirteenth Street, and Salvatore Sodata, 15 years old, of 352 East Thirteenth Street.

HOLD UP 2 NEW HAVEN MEN.

Bandits Get $500, Wreck Auto and Leave Them Bound in Woods.

GUILFORD, Conn., Jan. 18. — Two masked robbers took $500 from Burton S. Bradley of New Haven and his chauffeur in a daylight hold-up in North Guilford today. The New Haven men were left in a woods with their hands tied behind them and the temperature around zero. They managed to free their hands and reach a farmhouse, where they telephoned to the police.

Mr. Bradley, who is 70 years old, is a poultry and egg dealer and was on a regular business trip. Each of the robbers had a revolver. After putting the engine of Mr. Bradley's automobile out of order, the hold-up men walked down the road toward New Haven. No trace of them had been found late this afternoon.

NEW SUIT BY BEMIS HEIR.

Sister of Standard Oil Man's Widow Contests $2,000,000 Estate.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Jan. 18.—Farrington, M. Thompson of White Plains, counsel for Carrie E. Ryder of Chicago, filed objection today with Surrogate George A. Slater to the probate of the will of his client's sister, Mrs. Frances L. Bemis, widow of the late Edward M. Bemis, one of the Standard Oil Company Vice Presidents. It was contended that Mrs. Bemis was not of sound mind to make a will by which she disposed of an estate valued at more than $2,000,000. Counsel also contends that the will was not a voluntary act of Mrs. Bemis, who left the sister $5,000, and demanded that the case be tried before a jury.

Mrs. Bemis died March 6, 1920, and temporary administrators appointed by Surrogate Slater have been in charge of the estate since the will was offered for probate.

Mrs. Kittie F. Hunting, also a sister of Mrs. Bemis, who was bequeathed $25,000 in trust, filed action, and it has been reported that the contest was about to be settled. Most of the estate of Mrs. Bemis was inherited by another sister, a sister-in-law, brother-in-law and two nieces.

BARONESS SEEKS DIVORCE.

CHICAGO, Jan. 18.—Baroness Cecilie Young de Korwin, daughter of the late Otto Young, millionaire merchant, today filed suit for divorce in the Superior Court against Baron Joseph de Korwin. She charges that her husband deserted her in Paris eight years ago.

Baron de Korwin, who was a captain in the Austrian Army when the war broke out, applied last month for a court order asking the custody of his eight-year-old son, whom he said he had not seen since 1914.

The principals in the case gained attention in 1918 when Federal authorities investigated the Young estate, said to have been $25,000,000, with the intention of confiscating it under the Alien Property act. The Baroness, however, was exempted on the ground that she had separated from her husband at the beginning of the war.

CRAIG'S DOORMAN PUNCHED

Louis J. Somerville, a lawyer, 40 years old, with offices at 256 Broadway, living at 102 Montague Street, Brooklyn, was arrested last night in the Municipal Building outside the office of Controller Charles Craig, on complaint of Charles Cass, doorman of the office, who charged Somerville with assaulting him. The lawyer was taken to the Elizabeth Street Station by Patrolman Gallagher and locked up on a charge of assault. He was later bailed out by friends.

According to the police, Somerville called at Controller Craig's office late yesterday afternoon where he was told by Cass that Craig could not be seen. An argument followed, the police say, during which Cass was knocked down.

TEACHERS' PLAN ENDORSED.

Mrs. Edna Bryant Says She Refused to "Grind Axes."

Hearty endorsement of a plan to form an association of teachers has been received from Mrs. Edna M. Bryant, President of the Elementary Teachers' Association of New York, by M. J. Willson, Chairman of a meeting of teachers held recently in the Washington Irving High School.

Mrs. Bryant is one of fifteen persons selected by the meeting to represent all school activities in the city. She said she would continue to work for the best interest of teachers and children, "despite the ridiculous, cowardly and contemptible attacks of those whose axes I refused to grind."

COOLIDGE HAS FAITH IN OUR MORAL FIBRE

Says His Optimism as to the Future of American Institutions Is Based on It.

HEARD BY VERMONT SOCIETY

He Tells Historical Students That France's Past Gives Hope for Russia's Future.

MONTPELIER, Vt., Jan. 18.—Calvin Coolidge, Vice President-elect, addressing the Vermont Historical Society in the hall of the House of Representatives here tonight, said that the great question of the preservation of American institutions was a moral one. "Shall we use our power for self-aggrandizement or for service?" he asked.

After referring to a visit he had made as a boy to the State House, where his father and grandfather served as members of the Legislature, Mr. Coolidge said.

"These surroundings made a proper setting for the Vermont Historical Society, for there is nothing which so shadows forth the mighty and enduring influences of the past as the institutions of that form of government representated by the States of the American union. That which was represented in the establishment, support and perpetuation of the institutions of Vermont is the development in it's purest form of the theory of the equality and sovereignty of the people. The ground for optimism lies not in the fact of past or present perfection, but in the hope and belief that progress has been made and will be made.

"History is to be studied and applied not for the purpose of advocating reaction. It is not the accurately informed who continually appeal to the good old times to the disparagement of the present. True history, while ever a conservative force, yet holds the only warrant for real progress. It is ignorance of its teachings which leads men of good intentions to advocate either reaction or revolution, and a knowledge of its forces which aids men to promote the public welfare.

"When the French people at the time of their Revolution, summoned the States General, after a period of nearly two centuries of absolute monarchy, and attempted to step at once into a republic, of course they failed and landed in a new and worse despotism than that which they threw off. In our day we have seen a live result in Russia. There is a step between absolutism and a republic which cannot be avoided in the acceptance of a people journeying toward popular sovereignty. Russia is under a despotism more despotic than ever was administered by a Czar.

"There is a certain amount of ground for faith in progress in the fact that apparently there could have been no other means to break the despotic hold of the Bourbons in France, so that she might finally emerge, after chastening experiences, free, a republic, with a strength of character and a power of resistance which has restored her to a true glory in the estimation of the world which no nation is outranked. In her example there is hope for stricken Russia. Lacking the advance of France in the late days of the eighteenth century, she will lack her speed of recovery. But modern science is on her side if she will but use it.

"That form of government which is based on the rule of the people through a republic in principle is the ultimate. There is great opportunity for improvement of administration. It is not enough that correct principles be declared in institutions, unless they result in corresponding action in practical life. Perfection requires not less effort, but more. Great privileges mean great responsibilities.

"There is always the force of evil without and within. It is difficult to say that any great nation perished by reason of an attack from without. Disintegration begins within. We are the possessors of tremendous power, both as individuals and as States. The great question of the preservation of our institutions is a moral question. Shall we use our power for self-aggrandizement or for service? It has been a lack of moral fibre which has been the downfall of the peoples of the past.

"It is true that as yet we see through a glass darkly, but we see enough to justify our faith in those American institutions so purely exemplified in the State of Vermont. We see our right shining forth with a resplendent light as the reward of fidelity to our duties."

DREYER NEBULA NO. 584 INCONCEIVABLY DISTANT

By Dr. VESTO MELVIN SLIPHER,

FLAGSTAFF, Ariz., Jan. 17.—The Lowell Observatory some years ago undertook to determine the velocity of the spiral nebulae—a thing that had not been previously attempted or thought possible. The undertaking soon revealed the quite unexpected fact that spiral nebulae are far the most swiftly moving objects known in the heavens. A recent observation has shown that the nebula in the constellation Cetus, numbering 584 in Dreyer's catalogue, is one of very exceptional interest.

Like most spiral nebulae, this one is extremely faint, and to observe its velocity requires an exceedingly long photographic exposure with the most powerful instrumental equipment. This photograph was exposed from the end of December to the middle of January in order to give the weak light of the nebula's spectrum time to impress itself upon the plate. It is necessary to disperse the nebular light into a spectrum in order to observe the spectral lines, and to measure the amount they are shifted out of their normal positions, for it is this displacement of the nebula's lines that discloses and determines the velocity with which the nebula is itself moving.

The lines in its spectrum are greatly shifted, showing that the nebula is flying away from our region of space with a marvelous velocity of 1,100 miles per second.

This nebula belongs to the spiral family, which includes the great majority of the nebulae. They are the most distant of all cefestial bodies, and must be enormously large.

If the above swiftly moving nebula be assumed to have left the region of the sun at the beginning of the earth, it is easily computed, assuming the geologists' recent estimate for the earth's age, that the nebula now must be many millions of light years distant.

The velocity of this nebula thus suggests a further increase to the estimated size of the spiral nebulae themselves as well as to their distances, and also further swells the dimensions of the known universe.

SEEKS FEUDISTS IN VAIN.

Disillusionized New York Boy Found by Detective in Kentucky.

Special to The New York Times.

LEXINGTON, Ky., Jan. 18.—Herbert McCord, son of Frank McCord, of a New York steel erection firm, and a student at Lawrenceville, N. J., thinks feudists and moonshiners in Kentucky are a myth. Herbert passed through here today on his way home, in charge of a New York private detective.

Herbert left school on Jan. 13 with a schoolmate, Reed Weisenburg, son of a Richmond family, who had told his friend of Kentucky's moonshiners and feudists. Herbert wanted to see for himself. They blacked their names on new suitcases with shoe polish. They were missed at once and detectives sent after them. At Winchester the boys' money gave out and then they made their way to Richmond, where Herbert waited, in this quaintest of Kentucky towns, for a feud to break out. There they were found.

ANALYZING "VERY CHOICE"

Let us analyze Van Dyck. Let us discover what gives Van Dyck the reputation which it enjoys among critical smokers, of being so very choice.

First, the filler. In Van Dyck this is all especially selected choice Havana. Next, the wrapper. In Van Dyck this is of high grade choice Connecticut shade-grown leaf. Lastly, workmanship. In Van Dyck this is on a very high plane.

Such a cigar is necessarily very choice. Its appeal is to the relatively few smokers who appreciate a cigar of distinguished character. You will appreciate the very choice Van Dyck, in one of the three select sizes.

BIG BAKERS REJECT THE 5-CENT LOAF

GRADUAL CUTS ARE ADVISED

One String of Chain Stores Makes Reduction From 10 to 8 Cents.

Speakers at the fourth annual convention of the New York State Wholesale Bakers' Association in the Hotel McAlpin yesterday asserted that a 5-cent loaf of bread under existing conditions is impossible. Among those expressing this opinion were George S. Ward of the Ward Baking Company and John F. Hildebrand of the Shults Bread Company.

One large corporation operating chain stores yesterday reduced the price of the standard small loaf to 8 cents. Most of the stores are charging 10 cents.

Referring to the announcement a few days ago that one bakery corporation, operating two bakeries, was putting out a 5-cent loaf, Mr. Ward said that the statement of the bakers that they could sell bread at 5 cents and make a profit of 1 to 1½ cents was "too preposterous to require denial. It is beyond the realm of possibility."

Mr. Hildebrand advised the bakers to go slow in revising prices because of fluctuations in materials. He added that the trade might reduce prices today, only to be compelled to make an advance later. This would be worse for the trade, he said, than the maintenance of present prices with gradual reductions as circumstances permit.

R. Z. Spaulding, President of the association, presided. William Fellowes Morgan, President of the Merchants Association, in his address of welcome quoted Herbert C. Hoover as saying that the bakers were the only business men who had not been accused of profiteering. He added that they were in an enviable position, with the finger of suspicion pointing everywhere.

Mrs. Louis Reed Welzmiller, Deputy Commissioner of Public Markets, was skeptical about the five-cent loaf.

"There is a baker who is putting out a twelve-ounce loaf for 5 cents, but he is doing it at a loss," she said. "Bread flour is selling today for more than $10 a barrel, and as long as it remains at that figure the five-cent loaf is a commercial impossibility. The pre-war prices ranged from $4.50 to $6 a barrel. Until flour gets back to that level and the cost of manufacturing declines, a twelve-ounce loaf of bread cannot be sold with a reasonable profit at 5 cents."

WILL ALLOW PITMAN TO GO HOME TODAY

Pittsburgh Police Unable to Solve Mystery of Amnesia Victim's Four Years' Wandering.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Jan. 18.—Oliver Erskine Pitman, "amnesia victim," probably will be permitted to go to his home in Evansville, Ind., tomorrow.

The police refused last night to allow his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter R. Pitman, to remove him to a hospital, insisting that he must be arraigned in Central Police Court on the technical charge of intoxication, for which he was arrested when the police found him the night of Jan. 5 wandering in downtown streets.

A mysterious, heavily veiled woman, who visited the Allegheny General Hospital, refused to reveal her identity to Pitman or the hospital authorities, but told the nurses she was Pitman's wife's cousin.

According to his parents, Pitman was never married, and this was asserted by Pitman himself after he had talked to Herbert Schneider of Evansville, Ind. Schneider question as to his connection with the case refused to answer.

Pitman has seen army service. During the World War his parents heard that he had been killed in action overseas. They received a photograph of him in uniform, sent by a buddy. Pitman disappeared Dec. 29, 1916, before America entered the war. Word of his death was the first news of him the parents had had since then. He refused today to say whether he had served with the United States forces.

After his release from the hospital in New York Pitman wandered from city to city. Usually he used the name "Howard Long," he told the hospital authorities. Why, he didn't know. His reference Saturday to a wife and two children and his denial yesterday of their existence furnish another puzzle which the police will first try to solve. His mother said that in dispatches received from Evansville the identity of Oliver Pitman was associated with that of his brother, who is married, has two children and lives in Florida.

Veterans' Insurance Is Not Taxed.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—Internal Revenue Bureau officials sought today to correct the impression that ex-service beneficiaries under the War Risk Insurance act must pay income tax on amounts received in excess of $1,000 a year in the case of unmarried men. Only pensions and pay of retired officers not on active duty were taxable, it was said, the exemption provided in the act having been applied by regulation to all insurance payments, compensation for disabilities and to families and the like.

Chalmers Awaits Geddes's Return.

LONDON, Jan. 18.—The mission to the United States of Lord Chalmers, Permanent Secretary of the Treasury, has been postponed merely because it is considered negotiations with the American Government should not occur during the absence of Sir Auckland Geddes, the British Ambassador, it was authoritatively stated today.

ARCOLA wins December bride for Ted—

[DIALOGUED FROM STORIES OF ARCOLA USERS]

"Ted wanted a December wedding. Lila said they'd wait till June, but didn't tell Ted the reason.

"'Why Mother, I'd freeze in that stove-heated bungalow,' she said. 'If we wait six months I'll have one less winter in it anyway.'

"In our house we had a big hot-water system, but Ted couldn't afford such a plant.

"Not knowing much about girls, he thought Lila didn't love him any more. But I saw an ARCOLA exhibit at the steam-fitter's; and then I told Ted the honest truth:

"'In theory, Ted, a wife should go even to the North Pole with her husband. In practice, an ARCOLA would be better. Besides, you'd save a lot of coal and labor; and you don't need a cellar. The men'll set it up in a couple of days.'

"Ted said I was a brick to put him next. That's how the ARCOLA brought him a December wedding."

The IDEAL-ARCOLA places the cottage, with or without cellar, on the heating plane of the First Mansion in the Land. Gives low-cost healthful warmth, through hot-water radiators, to the small home, store or school.

The water-jacketed ARCOLA is of itself a radiator. Replaces stoves, wastes no heat up chimneys, leaks no coal gas. Each tenant may have a separate ARCOLA. If used to heat part of building, extra sections and radiators may be added later.

The complete system, installed by your local dealer, costs but little more than stoves for all rooms, and far less than the old expense for a hot-water heating system. ARCOLA heats all rooms on less fuel than a stove requires for one room. No fire risk; children cannot burn themselves.

Final Disposal of Women's Fashions

Florida Is Most Beautiful and Interesting

but it is not the Garden of Eden.

Few men can live there without earning their bread by the sweat of their brows.

Yet, it is still true that they can start with little capital, or none, if they have a mind to work hard and steadfastly.

From the Perdido river on the extreme west, on the border line between Alabama and Florida, to Cape Sable is about seven hundred miles. It is a long, narrow peninsula, stretching southward into the Atlantic with a wonderful chain of "rocky islets" called the Florida Keys, beginning at Cape Florida on the east, ending in a group of sand-heaped rocks known as the Tortugas, from the numberless turtles that used to be found there.

The Gulf Stream sweeps along Florida's eastern border, and the Gulf of Mexico, with its weird, mysterious spirit and healthfulness, forms much if its western boundary.

Nowhere, except in Italy, are there to be seen such sunrises and sunsets, and nowhere else in this country, so far as known, can one see the fruits and flowers growing outdoors or breathe the soft, balmy air of June in January.

The Clyde Line of steamers, sailing from New York, comfortably take one to Jacksonville in three days, and by train one can reach Miami in forty-eight hours.

Without interest in any land operations or other speculative enterprises, this is respectfully submitted for the pleasure of the public, who may regard Florida in many respects as the Italy, Spain and Egypt of the United States.

The Exquisite Deruta Pottery
Au Quatrieme

The two things that characterize Deruta pottery and distinguish it from all other Italian pottery however lovely and desirable—inimitable things—are the delicious color and the exquisite glaze.

Deruta pottery has a certain irregularity and roughness that make it especially suitable for country houses and with this irregularity is an exquisitely smooth and glistening surface achieved by a special process of glazing.

The shapes, too, are all distinctive and built up of charming curves and slenderness quite unlike the shapes of any other pottery.

Deruta vases, rather classic in shape, tall and slender with loop handles, $10 each.

These make charming lamp vases.

Another type of vase suitable for lamp base is a bit squatter in shape and more primitive in outline. This too, has small handles, $4.

Twisted candlesticks, $3.

All of these lovely shapes in the beautiful shades of pale green, mauve, blue and rose that are the chief loveliness of Deruta pottery.

LEAVES 87 CENTS; HAS $10,000 TOMB

LIVED ON GREAT ESTATE

But Shady Art Deals Brought Him Many Suits—Once Tried to Commit Suicide.

Cash assets, 87 cents; burial place a $10,000 mausoleum. Such was the ending of Samuel Collins, once wealthy art broker, later a man of shady deals and a would-be suicide and finally a pauper in the Newark City Hospital with nothing to show for his seventy-five years of life but the princely final resting place he built for himself and his family when his fortunes were at high tide. Though Collins died of a heart affliction a week ago after being found unconscious in an East Kinney Street rooming house, it was not until yesterday that associates of his better days disclosed his identity and told how his body had been taken to rest beside that of an adopted daughter in the mausoleum at Stroudsburg, Pa., where Collins long maintained an expensive estate.

Frederick Keer, an art dealer at 917 Broad Street, Newark, was one of those who knew Collins best, and who supplied such of the details of his history as were not to be found in newspaper clippings. Collins, according to Mr. Keer, had hunted the world over for art treasures, particularly paintings, and had engaged in transactions involving several million dollars.

Some who knew the old man in his failing days believed that he once was employed by J. P. Morgan as an agent in procuring the priceless Morgan art works, but it appeared that whatever assertions he may have made to that effect grew out of the desire of fallen grandeur to bask in the imagined glory of better days. It was asserted authoritatively that Collins never was associated with the late J. P. Morgan in any capacity and that his name was not even known to those most familiar with all Mr. Morgan's transactions as art collector and patron.

Collins was the seventh son of an English family and emigrated to America early in life. His father left a fortune when he died fifteen years ago, but the seventh son inherited nothing. His friends said he was haunted from early youth by the belief that an unhappy fate pursued him and would overtake him this side the grave. So in the days of his misfortune when speculations in paintings and other art objects proved unprofitable and unfortunate real estate ventures ate away the last remnants of his fortune, he clung to the expensive burial place.

Originally a salesman for a publishing house dealing in de luxe editions, Collins grew naturally into a connoisseur, collector and art broker, devoting his attention particularly to early masters.

In 1908, already on the down grade, Collins found himself facing the charges of many wealthy patrons that he had swindled them with spurious art works. In June of that year he was held in Ludlow Street Jail after John N. Beckley of Rochester had obtained a body judgment against him for $3,500 because Collins sold him a fake canvas represented to be by the French artist Dupré. At the same time Francis Wilson, the actor, sued him for the recovery of $5,000 which Wilson said he loaned on two spurious pictures after Collins told him a hard-luck story. Mr. Wilson had dealt with him in the years of his success and believed he still was reliable until the paintings were examined. At the same time a Pittsburgh man sued Collins for the recovery of a note for $9,000 he gave in return for an "art" work which the plaintiff said he learned was turned out in New York at a cost of $75. The suit was dropped when Collins returned the note.

In February, 1916, Collins attempted suicide by taking an overdose of sulphonal in the Hotel McAlpin and was removed to the prison ward at Bellevue, an attempt at suicide then being a violation of law.

Collins built Churleigh Inn in Stroudsburg originally as a Summer home for himself. For a time he occupied Herrit Hall, one of the finest places there, and later he purchased and improved Collins's Court.

Mrs. Collins is still alive and is said to be in a sanitarium.

CAN CATCH A CRIMINAL BY MARK OF AN ARM

French Scientist Extends Fingerprint System to Include Pores of Any Part of Body.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Jan. 18.—What is called the most important crime detection discovery since Bertillon established the science of fingerprints, is announced by Dr. Locard, head of the French Police School at Lyons. It consists of the establishment of the fact that not only can a man be traced by the prints of his fingers, but he can just as well be traced by marks made by any part of his body. Any of the pores of the skin leave distinguishing marks, according to Dr. Locard.

His discoveries are a result of investigations of crimes in the commission of which perpetrators used gloves and thus balked fingerprint detection. In investigating the case of a man who wore gloves, but in the course of the robbery rested his forearm against a glass case, Dr. Locard was able to identify the criminal by taking a print of the forearm of one of several suspects.

He says that he can identify by means of imprints of the pores of any part of the body. Feet, toes, elbows and knees may leave telltale traces which may land a crook in jail.

BROOKLYN AUTOS KILL 3.

Three persons were killed by automobiles in Brooklyn yesterday. James Greenhill, 12, of 255 Forty-sixth Street, jumped from an automobile truck on which he was riding at Fourth Avenue and Forty-seventh Street and fell underneath the machine. He was picked up by a woman, who ran with him to the Norwegian Hospital. He died as she was carrying him through the gate.

Mrs. Rose Poreppo, 52, of 707 President Street, was knocked down by a taxicab driven by Daniel Williams of 725 Franklin Avenue at Fourth Avenue and Union Street, and died later in the Methodist Episcopal Hospital. The driver was arrested.

Edna Geraghty, 6, who lived at 214 Grand Avenue, was run over and killed by an automobile at Willoughby Avenue and Taaffe Place.

$10,000 FOR UNEMPLOYED.

Philadelphia Plans a Clearing House to Relieve Distressing Conditions.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 18.—Councils' Finance Committee today approved a preliminary appropriation of $10,000 to establish a municipal clearing house for Philadelphia's unemployed.

The plans of those sponsoring the movement include the furnishing of transportation to residents of other cities stranded here, an employment exchange for men and women, temporary work for persons until they obtain steady employment, family aid, hospital and nursing, and children's aid.

The activities of all the welfare organizations in the city, under this plan, would be co-ordinated under the Department of Public Welfare to lessen distress among the unemployed and their families.

BAYONNE FILM FIRE KILLS 2, INJURES 11

40 WORKERS FLEE FLAMES

Building Occupied by Universal and Cello Companies Destroyed—Inquiry Is Begun.

Two persons were killed and eleven injured in an explosive fire of unknown origin which yesterday morning destroyed a building at Forty-third Street and Avenue E, Bayonne, N. J., occupied by the Universal Film Company and the Cello Film Company, both of this city, where forty men and women were working. Simultaneously with the first alarm of the explosion a great tongue of flame shot out of the film building, leaped across Avenue E and scorched five dwellings, three of which took fire, but were saved without being greatly damaged.

A series of minor explosions followed, which threw strips of blazing film long distances and handicapped the efforts of citizens and firemen to rescue those in the building. One burning strip of celluloid set fire to the roof of the welding shop of Charles Witheral, 100 feet away, where 1,000 gallons of gasoline were stored. Witheral, assisted by neighbors, succeeded in moving the gasoline before an explosion occurred.

Miss Ethel Suckow, 25 years old, of 662 Avenue E, Bayonne, said to have been an employe of the Universal Film Company, died after efforts had been made by two men to save her. The body of Arthur Post of 910 Broadway, Bayonne, who was employed by the Cello concern, was found in the burning ruins by firemen.

Arthur Scott, a negro of 97 West Forty-third Street, New York, was burned so badly that it was feared at the Bayonne Hospital, where he was taken, that he would not survive the night. The first tongue of flame penetrated a bedroom of the house at 695 Avenue E, scorching the head of nine-months-old Blanche Addison, who was asleep. The child was treated by a local physician.

Nine More in Bayonne Hospital.

The other injured who were taken to the Bayonne Hospital, suffering chiefly from burns were:

CHARLES KARNER, 845 Broadway, Bayonne
ROBERT CHESTNUT, 368 Railroad Avenue, Newark.
LUCIUS GARDEN, 368 Railroad Avenue, Newark.
JOSEPH GORDON, 368 Railroad Avenue, Bayonne.
GEORGE A. SWAYZE, Springfield Avenue, Jersey City.
NATHAN VERNON, 270 Siegel Street, Brooklyn.
Miss MARTHA BIRNBAUM, 928 Summit Avenue, Jersey City.
FRED CONOVER, negro, 97 West Forty-third Street, New York.

The fire, according to the investigation of the police, started in the plant of the Cello Company, where old motion-picture films are salvaged for the silver and gelatine they contain. With the first report of the explosion George Swayze, foreman of the plant, sounded the alarm. As he entered the office of the company he found Miss Martha Birnbaum, a stenographer, fighting flames which had set fire to her clothing. Seizing her in his arms, Swayze groped his way out of the smoke-filled building to the street. His own clothing was on fire when he reached safety.

Charles Karner and an unknown man in the building attempted to rescue Miss Suckow. She was on the upper floor when the explosion occurred, and, panic-stricken, tried to escape by the stairs, when her clothing caught fire. Coming back, she ran into Karner, who, with the help of the second man, dragged her to the fire-escape. Their own clothing was burning, and in their agony they were forced to place her on the fire-escape landing. In the next moment Miss Suckow fell to the railroad tracks of the General Railroad of New Jersey and was killed.

Fire Chief Davis intimated last night that arrests might be made in connection with the fire. He said he was not satisfied that the fire laws had been obeyed. The loss was said to be approximately $75,000. The police are investigating a report that the exits from the building were cluttered up with material.

WARNS OF WOMEN VOTERS.

New Governor Tells Delaware Legislature They Demand Good Laws.

DOVER, Del., Jan. 18.—William D. Denney was inaugurated as Governor of Delaware before the Legislature today. In his inaugural address he urged reconsideration of the direct primary law and sounded a warning that the women of Delaware would not tolerate "intemperate" law making.

"Although good men have been nominated, as a rule," he said, "there have been some exceptions, and our new voters will have the power to prevent such mistakes in the future. Having been given the right to vote, we believe they will exercise it wisely and become potential factors in the effort that should be made to secure a more intelligent, effective and economical government."

Governor Denney advocated a budget system for the State, abolition of certain State Commissions and consolidation of others, with a view to economy and elimination of duplicated effort; organization of a regiment of the National Guard and consideration of a new school code.

The oath of office was administered to the Governor and the new Lieutenant Governor by J. Dahforth Bush, by Chief Justice James Pennewill of the State Supreme Court.

WATER POWER MEN MEET.

League Wants National Parks Kept Under Federal Commission.

The annual meeting of the Water Power League of America, Inc., an organization designed to foster power development and kindred subjects, was held yesterday in the Engineering Societies Building, 29 West Thirty-ninth Street. In the absence of Professor George Swain of Harvard the presiding officer was Edwin Terrill, Vice President and Executive Director.

The meeting unanimously adopted a resolution favoring legislation to keep the national parks under the supervision of the Federal Park Commission, but the matter will be put before the league's national membership in the form of a referendum. Speakers discussed the project to change the duties of the Federal Power Commission, and the majority of opinion seemed to be that such a change would benefit power producers and consumers. A Nominating Committee was appointed to choose officers for the ensuing year.

NEWSPAPER SAVES HIS LIFE.

RALEIGH, N. C., Jan. 18.—The illwind that blows somebody good some time even blows up an elevator shaft. Frank French, watchman, fell into a comfortable snooze while reading a newspaper. He still clutched the sheets.

Fire started at the bottom of the elevator shaft beside which he slept and shot upward until it ignited the newspaper. The burning newspaper singed Frank's fingers and woke him up. He was just able to escape before his exit was cut off by the fire.

TRIES TO SAVE FATHER BY CONFESSING MURDER

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 18.—Hardly realizing the enormity of the offense, but ready to save his father at any cost, Albert Troy, 9 years old, declared to the police last night that he killed his mother, adhering to his story until police grilling broke the boy's spirit. Then he said his father, Walter C. Troy, a former Pennsylvania Railroad special policeman, had fired the fatal shots.

Mrs. Marie Troy, mother of three children besides Albert, was killed in the bedroom of her home at 65 Rowley Street, late last night, a bullet entering her heart.

Soon after the boy broke down police arrested Edward Zahn, brother-in-law of the slain woman, whom Albert is said to have implicated in his statements.

The police learned from Mrs. Emma Condon, mother of Troy, that her son had returned home about 10 o'clock last night. She said he had been drinking and was carrying a revolver, which he refused to put away, despite her requests.

After eating a luncheon, Mrs. Condon said, Troy went up stairs, where his wife and children were in a bedroom. A short time later she heard loud talking and recognized Troy's voice. He was threatening his wife, she said, and she overheard him say, "I've a notion to shoot you." Immediately following this two shots rang out.

Despite the accusations of Mrs. Condon and his young son, Troy maintained his innocence and declared that the boy accidentally shot the woman.

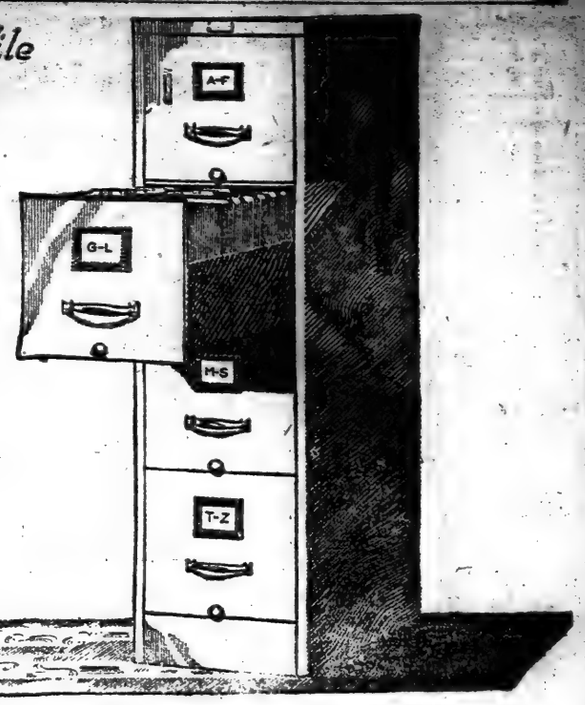
A Steel Letter File
$50.00



A Pacemaker in Price as well as construction

THE man with the most neatly furnished office need not hesitate to take advantage of the "Pacemaker" price. Though low in cost and a commercial grade file, the "Pacemaker" is a splendid, sturdy, steel cabinet, smooth-running in operation, and beautiful in design and finish.

It is the special V-D lubricated roller bearings which cut the cost. These anti-friction bearings replace slide suspension tracks and roll the most heavily loaded drawer, with its 5000 letters and guides, opened or closed at a touch.

The "Pacemaker" is finished in a rich, olive-green enamel. Handles, ticket holders, and compressor-rod knobs are bronze. Not a bolt or rivet is used in its construction. All corners and joints are fused by oxygen-acetylene and electric welding. This file will always remain true and rigid and the drawers will always run true as a die.

You can't really appreciate the remarkable economy of this file until you see it on our floor or compare it with the other files in your office.

QUICK AND SLOW CABINET MAKING.

We don't say that they order these things better in France, but at least they order them differently. There they can make you a Cabinet while you wait. It took M. PERET only two days to find out that he couldn't make one, and then BRIAND as quickly showed that he could. It is all in sharp contrast with the slow and painful process, sometimes drawn out for four months, of building an American Cabinet.

It may be said that French Cabinets die as quickly as they are born. The fate of many of them prompts the question, if they so soon were to be done for, what they ever were begun for. Cabinets at Washington are expected to live out their term, and that may be thought of as a reason for their being more carefully and solidly constructed. But the fact is, of course, that they last long, not because they were built strong, but because we have no way of turning them out, save for malfeasance in office. Our Cabinet members burn to the socket, not on account of their good tallow, but in consequence of the fact that our Constitution provides no extinguisher for them.

Senator HARDING has frankly invited public sympathy in the troubles which he has had in selecting his Cabinet. Whether they are really greater than those of some of his predecessors may be doubted. But his have had more publicity. His joiner-work has been done more in the open than has been usual. The eligibles and possibilities have filed before the newspaper correspondents at Marion with what LOWELL called "the cheap numerosity of a stage army." But the real difficulty has lain in the tacit assumption that the best minds of the Republican Party would have but a single thought, and that every one of President-elect HARDING's advisers would be as simple-hearted and good-natured as he is himself. His sorrowful discovery that he had been proceeding upon a false supposition, and that he must make up his own mind, is the chief reason why his building of a Cabinet has been slow and toilsome.

A HARD NUT FOR REPUBLICANS.

Stern and unbending Republicans at Washington let loose a trial balloon the other day. How would it do to re-enact the Payne-Aldrich Tariff law? They have heard from their venture. It won't do at all. Mr. HARDING has told them that the country won't stomach the re-erection of that blessed monument of all-highest protection. It would invite retaliation. It would choke our foreign trade. It would be entirely unsuited to existing conditions. A permanent tariff law must be adapted to the commercial, financial and industrial situation of the new world born of the war. Most unenviable is the task of the Ways and Means Committee that has to prepare and report such a bill at the special session of the next Congress. The old theory of protection has been knocked into a cocked hat. The old protectionist rigmarole sounds like stories from the land of spirits. "Infant industries" and "pauper labor" are away in the Ewigkeit.

We have the best machinery, the most skillful and productive labor. Our exports are enormous. Foodstuffs and most of the great basic raw materials we possess in abundance. Only essential industries not yet developed so as to be on an equality with foreign competition, such as dyestuffs, need protection, for some years at least. It is notorious that some great industries want lower rates than the Underwood tariff gives them. We have become a great creditor nation. Most foreign countries are gigantically indebted, suffering from great deficits, in an unstable and a precarious economic condition. Exchanges are demoralized, thereby preventing foreign countries eager to buy of us from taking our agricultural and manufacturing surplus. It is the worst time that could be selected to "put up the tariff barriers."

It is encouraging to hear from Washington that the Republican tariff-makers have at least got so far as to see that the new tariff must grant reciprocity privileges to our debtor nations if we are to hold our foreign trade. The fixing of a definite term for the German indemnity is a condition precedent of foreign economic rehabilitation. That, of course, must be very gradual. Gradually we may get rid of our surplus production. The whole international trade position is highly confused, complicated, uncertain. Nothing is more certain than that we cannot afford to trifle with our diminishing foreign trade by making an offensive and impracticable protective tariff.

LINGERING PHILISTINES.

Most people had thought, or hoped, that the Philistines were becoming a lost tribe. They had a great run after MATTHEW ARNOLD imported them into England from their native Philisterei, but latterly they seemed to have been disappearing. We mean, of course, as a designation, not as a thing. Hardy ignorance and low standards are not so easily killed off, but new literary patronymics for them have to be invented from time to time. The Philistine of other days might now be called a Hittite or a Jebusite.

In all his ancient panoply, however, the Philistine has made a new savage irruption into England. The casualties luckily are thus far confined to editors. As is well known, there has been no more deadly enemy of the British Philistine than Punch. In the course of making him a butt for its satire it has often thrown a smooth stone from the brook at The London Times. But that newspaper now has its revenge. Referring to Punch's recent remarks on the United States, The Times declares that Punch is "never so ludi-"crous as when it ventures seriously "into the field of political contro-"versy." It adds, cruelly, that Americans ought not to take offense at Punch's "outburst of British Philistinism." This is very like cutting off the head of GOLIATH of Gath with his own sword.

FIFTY YEARS OF GERMAN UNITY.

The Princes of Germany met in the Hall of Mirrors at Versailles on Jan. 18, 1871, to acknowledge the predominance in their affairs which had been won for the King of Prussia by the devoted labors of two generations of Prussian statesmen and generals, from STEIN and SCHARNHORST to MOLTKE and BISMARCK. That achievement brought with it the unification of the German people—a great ideal for which many men had labored long; but it is hardly too much to say that the realization of this ideal was only an incidental by-product of the final step in the aggrandizement of Prussia and the Prussian dynasty. Indeed, to secure the dominance of Prussia in a united Germany the process of unification had to be left incomplete, and the Germans of Austria were left to the Hapsburg dynasty, which henceforth was to shine but with a borrowed light.

German unity had then, and has had since, the approval of the world; that approval could not extend to the methods by which it had been accomplished and some of their consequences to other peoples. Posen, North Slesvig, Alsace-Lorraine remained weak points in the imposing Prussian edifice. Nor could the means and the end be easily dissociated. Those who complain of the "Balkanization of Europe" seem to think that national jealousies were invented at the Paris Peace Conference. As a matter of fact, nationalism was quite as disturbing a concept in 1848 as in 1919. German unity came near being accomplished at Frankfort under much more hopeful conditions than prevailed at Versailles twenty-two years later, but it was regarded as a menace by the neighbors of the Germans even then. The prospect of German unity, even under democratic ideals, called Pan-Slavism into being as a counterpoise, just as Hungarian self-determination was wrecked in 1849 by Magyar reluctance to accord self-determination to the Slavs. Germany climbed over the prostrate bodies of her neighbors, and for that she ultimately had to pay.

Nevertheless, the unification of the German people was a great and desirable accomplishment, and it ought to be maintained. Who threatens it? The harness maker who is President of the German Republic celebrated the semi-centennial of German unity by an address to his people congratulating them that in the midst of other misfortunes they have been spared "a new separation of German lands." There are men in France who want France safeguarded, as is right, and think that can best be done by promoting Bavarian or South German secession. That would undo the good that BISMARCK accomplished, and unless Europe fell into Red internationalism the whole work of German unification would have to be done over. But the real danger is not in France; it is in Germany. Nor is the danger from advocates of secession, but from the damage that might be done by men who would prefer to hold Germany together if they could, but would rather have a dismembered Germany than a Germany ruled by its own people.

In only one part of the republican Reich was there formal celebration of the anniversary. In Bavaria bells were rung and political demonstrations took place in honor of an event which was the greatest triumph of the Prussian dynasty, and which from a Bavarian viewpoint could hardly have been regarded, in 1871, as anything but an honorable capitulation. Bavaria, armed against the republican Government in Berlin, is the centre of plans and plots organized largely by the very Prussian agrarian aristocracy which set the HOHENZOLLERNS on the imperial throne. And where are the HOHENZOLLERNS? A sudden outbreak of rumors from all over Europe that the Dutch Government which gave them shelter two years ago will at last withdraw the hospitality which, by plotting with friends at home, they have abused. Where will they go? Well, it matters very little where they go, for the plots of the monarchist revolutionaries in Germany will go on if WILLIAM II. and his heir are in Holland, or St. Helena, or the grave. The HOHENZOLLERNS who drove Germany over the precipice are actually a handicap to the revolutionary plans of their own generals; there are signs of a widespread feeling that the monarchy had better be restored under a dynasty with fewer black marks on its record. Naturally the reactionaries turn to the Bavarian WITTELSBACHS. Better an empire united under a WITTELSBACH, they seem to think, than a republic; better—so a good many of them would continue—better, if need be, half an empire under a WITTELSBACH, with the old ruling class still ruling, than a united Germany where the people are in control.

The HOHENZOLLERNS, in other words, have found the level on which nearly all of them since the first three Kings of Prussia have properly belonged; but the tenacious and able aristocracy which made the HOHENZOLLERNS, and which only now and then was dominated by them, is still a living force in Central Europe. After half a century we still have the fruits, good and bad, of the work of STEIN, SCHARNHORST and GNEISENAU, CLAUSEWITZ, MOLTKE, ROON and BISMARCK. The evil that they did lives after them; the German people and the world must take care that the good is not buried with their crumbling bones.

THE VLADIVOSTOK INCIDENT.

The Japanese Government, through its Ambassador at Washington, has expressed regret for the shooting of Lieutenant WARREN H. LANGDON by a Japanese sentry at Vladivostok, and the Japanese officers stationed there have offered their condolences on board the cruiser Albany and behaved in an exemplary manner. "A lamentable occurrence," telegraphs Vice Admiral KAWAHARA from Tokio. General OI, commanding the troops at Vladivostok, in his relation to the incident, has been a model of propriety. All this was to be expected, for the Japanese are as conversant with official usage, no matter what happens, as any Western nation. But there remains a duty for the Japanese Government to perform. One of its soldiers has killed an American naval officer on Russian soil, where he had as much right to be, and to come and go, as any Japanese soldier, sailor or civilian. The Albany was in the harbor of Vladivostok for the protection of Americans at that place; the Japanese, claiming sovereignty no more than the Americans, have a division of troops on shore to look after Japanese interests, a function that should involve the responsibility of guarding nationals of other Powers. If the Japanese sentry exceeded his instructions, and unintentionally or deliberately fired the shot that killed Lieutenant LANGDON, the sentry should be punished. The offense was grave in either case, and the punishment should be adequate. Until it is inflicted the Japanese Government will not have made amends, will not have proved the sincerity of its formal regrets.

The final testimony of the sentry at the hearing held by the military authorities corroborated in the main the ante-mortem statement of Lieutenant LANGDON, but the sentry tried to exculpate himself by saying that he accidentally discharged his rifle while holding it extended in the "charge bayonets" position. The plea is suspicious, because it is found only in the revised form of his evidence. Lieutenant LANGDON was in full uniform, he was a man who never touched liquor, he was going down the icy street flashing an electric torch for firm footing, and to the challenge of the sentry he answered that he was an American. LANGDON's statement made just before his death, may be accepted as the indisputable truth. He declared that he was shot in the back, that he turned and fired his revolver twice in self-defense. "The sentry then permitted him," says the report, "to proceed to the ship," a statement that can mean only that his uniform was recognized at last and that the Japanese soldier did not know that the American officer's wound was fatal. A full transcript of the testimony might clear up some obscurities.

The affair does not show Japanese martial law and army training in a favorable light, but perhaps that is because the Japanese are in a false position at Vladivostok, which they seem to realize themselves. It may account for the stories of friction between the Americans and the Japanese ashore, for Japanese ideas of police duty are not ours. If friction exists to a degree that may cause regrettable incidents, all the more reason why the Japanese Government should make an example of a soldier who has without warrant or justification killed an American naval officer going back to his ship through the city streets. An indemnity counts for little in such a grievous case.

PATRIOTS OF THE SENATE.

"We hold in imperishable remem-"brance the valor and the patriotism "of the soldiers and sailors of Amer-"ica who fought in the great war for "human liberty, and we pledge our-"selves to discharge to the fullest ob-"ligations which a grateful nation "justly should fulfill, in appreciation "of the services rendered by its de-"fenders on sea and on land." So protested the Republicans in the Chicago Convention. In the Senate Monday Mr. FLETCHER of Florida showed how much this florid declamation is worth. He offered a resolution inquiring how many nominations of former service men and widows of service men for postmasterships had not been acted upon by the Senate. Senator TOWNSEND of Michigan at once objected to the consideration of the resolution. Only by means of executive sessions could these nominations go to the Post Office Committee. "There will be no executive session at this session," he said.

Imperishable hatred of WOODROW WILSON prevented even temporary remembrance of the soldiers and sailors. Nominations made by him must be as if they were never made, as if they were not fit to be made. Doubtless this course is in pursuance of the Chicago undertaking "to end execu-"tive autocracy and to restore to the "people their constitutional govern-"ment." It is surprising that the best minds of the Senate don't set up the theory that the power of appointment, when the President is a Democrat, belongs to the Senate. Besides, the Republican faithful are hungry and thirsty for postmasterships and other offices. There must be cases where the public service suffers on account of the iron rule of the Senate Republicans; but who cares about a sentimental abstraction like the public service?

Concretely, what do service men or their widows amount to? There is one standard to which the Senate Republicans must be faithful, service to the Republican Party. There is one supreme Republican Senatorial principle, irreconcilable opposition to WOODROW WILSON and all his words and works. Such is the broad, tolerant and public-spirited policy by which the masters of the Senate seek to exalt its horn.

TWO KINDS OF DEFLATION.

Those who are accustomed to think and speak of deflation as a matter of "money"—currency or credit—have a surprise awaiting them in the words of the Governor of the Federal Reserve system and the Controller of the Currency. Mr. WILLIAMS reports that the loans and discounts and United States securities held in all national banks during the last twenty months increased "only $1,055,870,-000, or less than 9 per cent." Many had supposed that we were passing through a period of deflation, but Mr. WILLIAMS puts it differently. "Some "of the criticism which has been "made as to the alleged financial in-"flation is hardly justified," he says. He is within his facts, for the increase of loans is less than the increase of deposits by $1,861,895,000, or 11 per cent., and the rediscounts are only 10 per cent. Considering the times through which we have passed, the condition of our national banks is surprisingly conservative.

Governor HARDING speaks of the Federal Reserve Banks in similar manner. Between September, 1919, and January, 1920, loans to member banks and investments of Federal Reserve Banks rose "almost a billion dollars, or nearly 50 per cent." That represented an ascending angle of credit of about 45 degrees, and it continued to rise at an angle of 2 degrees until the peak was reached last November. Since then there has been reduction "in amounts which might "be regarded as normal in ordinary "circumstances," and the reserves combined now are 48 per cent. against 45 per cent. a year ago. Upon these facts, with moderation rivaling Controller WILLIAMS's, Governor HARDING says: "We have heard much com-"plaint of constant and drastic defla-"tion, which some allege has been the "cause of the depression, but it is "evident that the deflation which has "taken place has not been a deflation "of credit or currency."

Governor HARDING is less impressed than Controller WILLIAMS with the moderation of the banks during the recent extraordinary conditions, and inclines rather to criticise them for failure to check expansion when speculation was rife than to find them blameworthy for checking it. In his opinion the banks have redeemed themselves during the last six months. That is the period during which they have been criticised by those who thought more of their personal situation than of the banking situation as a whole.

Proof that there has been no unusual deflation of currency or credit does not disprove the equally undeniable fact that we have been passing through a different sort of deflation, an unexpected and disagreeable but wholesome kind. We are deflating our ideas, not our resources. We are awakening from a delusion of wealth at a time when our real wealth is at its maximum. We are thinking ourselves distressed at a time when our goods and capacity of production are at a record maximum, so great, in fact, as to be excessive. We are facing another period of prosperity of the sort which recently we prayed to be delivered from through the inadequacy of our financial system to finance it. And now our system is the world's strongest. Nothing is more distinctive in the present period of deflation than its orderly character and its freedom from sacrifice of the solvent to the necessities of the embarrassed.

The profits which have been lost by either capital or labor could not have been realized without greater loss. Future profits or wages on the war scale are not to be expected, nor indeed to be desired, for they are illusory. They came from the expenditure of tax moneys, the basis of fiat credit, and must fall with taxes, which neither consumers nor producers can endure indefinitely. The watchword for capital and labor for the immediate future is "To prosper—produce." The world is suffering for our products, and we must suffer if we do not supply the sufferers. Our banks will not fail us if our factories do not. Capital will not shirk if labor does not.

REACTION.

In the hieratic language of Congress, reaction is "stalking throughout the land." The direct primary, sole palladium of our liberties, is being shot full of holes. Governor SHOUP of Colorado recommends to its Legislature the repeal of the Direct Primary law and the restoration of the State Convention, unless the law can be whipped into a better shape. He finds the direct primary expensive and unwieldy. It puts, he says, "a premium "on financial standing rather than on "capacity for public service." These are the old arguments of the reactionaries. But the direct primary should be regarded as poetry. The demoralization and collapse of the Democratic Party in Colorado and Montana should be a sufficient testimonial to the value of the direct primary as a party disintegrator. To be sure, the party system, government by party, has hitherto prevailed, but reformers want something more millennial and romantic.

While Senator HIRAM JOHNSON, darling of the Presidential primary, is pondering an epoch-making Federal Presidential primary law, the sons of Belial in his home State are trying to tear down the pillars of democracy. The present California Direct Primary law, so kind to him, allows a candidate to be candidate as a Democrat, Prohibitionist, Republican, Socialist, four gentlemen at once at the same election. The reactionaries at Sacramento are trying to strike out this hospitable provision and practice. Government by parties is obviously reactionary. What the country needs is government by persons, without any silly, old-fashioned concern about principles. The liberal direct primary is the neatest machine—if one may use so abhorrent a word in connection with the utmost radiance of Virtue—for skilled persons. Surely, the Native Sons of the Golden West will not allow their Direct Primary law, that entire and perfect chrysolite, to be chipped by base reactionary hands.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Poor Stuff Never Is Cheap.

Neither the advocates of "thrift," in the sense of refraining from purchases not really necessary, nor those who, in protesting against a "buyers' strike," give that phrase about the same significance, seem to realize that there is another and better way to be thrifty—a way which both classes could unite in praising, and would, if they were wiser.

Of all extravagance, none is worse than that of people who think they practice economy when they buy things that cost little only because they are of poor quality. Saving thus accomplished is always expensive in the end. This is not to say, of course, that all cheap things should be avoided as not worth even the little they cost; that is not true of foods, of clothing or of other wares. It is true, however, that many cheap things have no other merit than that they can be obtained for a small immediate expenditure. If foods, they are not nutritious—if clothing, they do not wear.

Only those get value for their money who think not alone of present cost, but also of the days to come, and something, too, of satisfaction to be gained, or not gained, in the period, whatever it may be, between purchase and replacement when used up or worn out.

If everybody were thrifty from this point of view it would be hard, indeed, on the manufacturers of poor and trumpery stuff, but nobody need engage in or remain in that domain of industry, and those who do not would have no excuse to complain about the money-saving tendency of their customers.

Unfortunately, though it is true economy to buy goods of high quality, it often happens that those who most need, and some of those who most desire, to be economical are unable for lack of money thus to do their purchasing. As was said of old time, "the destruction of the poor is their poverty," and it is a fact that real thrift is more easily as well as more often practiced by the well-to-do than by the ill-to-do, and that it is easiest of all for the really rich.

The lean of purse of necessity buy in small quantities, which always means the paying of a higher price than is paid by those who can make larger investments, and it is no use to remind him who has only a few dollars with which to pay for a pair of shoes that a pair costing twice as much will wear far more than twice as long. Yet, except as regards prices unreasonably and unconscionably inflated by profiteers, the difference between the cheap and the less cheap is very often as much as that or more.

Another form of thriftless economy is that of neglecting to make needed repairs. That almost always means a doubling or tripling of ultimate expenditure. But again, what are they to do who simply haven't the money that the repairing would cost? Not infrequently they must suffer an entire or heavy loss which the man of larger resources easily would avoid. It is the latter, too, who demands and gets discounts on many of the purchases he makes, while the really poor never even think of asking for them, knowing that denial would be inevitable.

This Day Is for Self-Denial.

More closely related to thrift than appears on the surface is the proclamation issued by Governor MILLER yesterday asking and urging everybody in the State to set aside this 19th of January as "a special day of self-denial," in order that out of such sacrifices as they choose to make they may contribute toward the $33,000,000 so desperately needed to save from starvation the 3,500,000 children in Central and Eastern Europe for whom there will be no home-grown food until harvest time comes again.

This, on its face, is an exhortation to give, but in reality it is more like advice to make an investment, or at least to take out a sort of insurance against the evils in which we as well as the rest of the world would have to share if a large part of Europe were allowed to fall into the madness that goes with utter ruin.

It is for this purpose that will be used all contributions, whether the result of "sacrifice" or not, that New Yorkers may send to the New York State Committee of the European Relief Council, at its headquarters, 42 Broadway. That the money will be well used is guaranteed by Mr. HOOVER and the eight great American relief agencies by which the $33,000,000 will be handled, when raised—and $10 will save the life of a child till the next crop comes!

A Sentence Hard to Endure.

It is to be feared that the authors of the dispatches from Winchester, Ky., announcing the trial there of a dog on the charge of killing sheep, his conviction and his sentence to lifelong exile from the State, made their "stories" interesting at some slight expense of accuracy.

In other times animals that had committed crimes, especially "murder," not infrequently were brought into court, solemnly tried, and on conviction as solemnly sentenced to pay the penalties that would have been imposed on men guilty of the same offenses. As frequently, too, the public executioner carried out the allotted punishment. But this hardly could have been done in Kentucky—it must have been the dog's owner, not the dog, that was put on trial there, and though the witnesses presumably testified as to the dog's misdoings, it must have been the owner who was held responsible and on whom was imposed the duty of protecting the Kentucky sheep from further attack by that particular dog.

And yet, can one be quite sure of this? Included in the proceedings were two puppy sons of the incriminated fox hound, and they, as a result of the inquisition, were acquitted. At least they were allowed to go without punishment, so their part in the sad affair of the sheep-killing could not have been more than that of attentive observers of the slaughter.

Nothing seems to have been said—or done—at the trial about paying damages to the bereaved flock master. The extrusion of Old King from Kentucky may calm that gentleman's fears, but it does not make up his losses. And then there are those observant pups! They know too much and fairly can be suspected of biding their time to follow in the parental footsteps.

Workers in Devastated France.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In the appeal of the American Committee for Devastated France for chauffeurs and other personnel to carry on its work in France, Mrs. Bartol, Chairman of the Personnel Committee, is quoted as saying that candidates must know how to speak patois. Our workers should be able to make themselves understood in ordinary French, but the natives of the Aisne themselves do not speak in patois, with the exception of some charming contractions, such as "ohot" for "petiot." American workers easily acquire a working vocabulary if they are equipped with some knowledge of the language.

We wish to correct this misapprehension, fearing that it might discourage would-be candidates, whose services we need.

"POOR RICHARD."

In January, seventeen-six,
Was born, in humble station,
A gentleman whose high renown
We honor as a nation.
The same who wrote, when work was slack,
His justly famous almanac.

"God gives all things to industry."
"Plough deep, while fools are sleeping."
"Lost time is never found again."
"To rise, begin by creeping."
A sage, in sooth; a good and true man—
Yet not too virtuous to be human.

A man of parts, this chandler's son;
Fair critic, guide and mentor,
Diplomatist, philosopher,
Economist, inventor.
Why, every schoolboy knows, I guess,
How he improved the printing press.

He tore the lightning from the sky,
While all the world was mocking,
With silken kite and pointed wire.
Soon all who scoffed came flocking.
They thought him little less than God,
When he displayed his lightning-rod.

He was his country's surest guide
Through change and evolution.
And in the years of storm and stress
That brought the Revolution,
He fought for peace by arbitration—
Then boldly signed the Declaration!

As Minister to France his fame
Filled all the land with wonder,
He bound our Nations with a bond
Nor time nor tide can sunder.
He was, I think you'll all agree,
A wizard at diplomacy.

For all these noble services
America reveres him.
Yet 'tis his quaint simplicity,
I think, that most endears him.
For this the world his praise rehearses—
And I am wrestling with these verses.

ART NOTES.

Collection of Rare Japanese Prints on View at Delmonico's.

The collection of Japanese prints to be sold this week by the Walpole Galleries and on exhibition at Delmonico's contains many fine and rare examples, interesting not only to collectors, but to every one who has followed the course of the entertaining Ukioyé school. A large single sheet, unsigned, but confidently given to Hishikawa Moronobu, represents "The Phoenix Boat," a large river boat filled with ladies accompanied by a youth of the nobility. The drawing is simple and direct, and the rather elaborate patterning of the design hints at the artist's origin as an embroiderer's assistant. Other prints ascribed to the same hand are fencing subjects and show remarkable power in rendering the effect of rapid motion. There are signed prints by Masanobu, Moronobu's disciple, and an unsigned print given upon the clear evidence of the style to Tachibano Minko, who worked under Settei, a distinguished artist of the Chinese school.

Two drawings from the Barbontan sale are given to Sharaku, who also is represented by a number of portraits of actors vividly characterized. In his catalogue note Mr. Gookin says: "An original drawing by Sharaku is such a rarity that there is nothing save 'internal evidence' by which its authenticity can be tested."

Other interesting features of the collection are the triptych by Schuncho, "Admiring the Tree Peonies," a great rarity and a beautiful print; the exquisite "Tayu Misayama of Shoji-ya" by Eishi, in poor condition, but a pure gem of art; a remarkably fine group of Ubamore's prints ranging from a large portrait from his series of "Modern Beauties" to the triptych "Picture of the Pleasures of the Taiko and His Five Wives at Rakubo," which brought down upon the artist the wrath of a dissolute Shogun and led to his own imprisonment. The Kyonaga group also is exceptional, containing a number of prints representing mimetic dances, and also the "Flower Vender," a rare and much admired print.

Frederick W. Gookin, who is responsible for the catalogue, writes in his preface that more than usual pains has been taken to describe the exact condition of each print in the collection, and that while they are sold without guarantee they all have been subjected to careful scrutiny and do not, in his opinion, include a single modern reprint or one that has been revamped by overprinting.

Matilda Browneli's Decorations.

At the Mussmann Galleries are a number of decorative paintings by Matilda Brownell, pleasant in color, agreeable in subject, but especially to be noted as an attempt on the part of the painter of easel pictures to do something that will fit into the present fashion of the picturesque house. These canvasses are intended for paneled rooms and over doors, and follow the tradition of Dutch still life rather than that of the architectural eighteenth century French decoration. Many charming objects of art are worked into the compositions, Chinese pewter and Chinese porcelain, brasses and old delft, and the artist has appreciated the now historic charm of graceful decanters filled with the gold and ruby of Château Yquem and the "grands crus classés" of the Médoc. Her "Old Decanter," "Fruit and Wine," "The Festive Cake" have in addition to their attractions as paintings an associative interest that should win them friends.

CHINESE PLATTER FOR $410.

A Chinese Lowestoft porcelain platter brought the highest price at the sale of American glass, china, early American furniture, &c., belonging to Mrs. William D. Bowie of Baltimore, at the American Art Galleries yesterday going to Seaman, agent, for $410. It was octagonal, twenty inches long, and belonged formerly to the Marquis LaFayette. A "Portrait of a Gentleman," by Copley, brought the second highest price, going to G. Hargreaves for $260.

A pair of Staffordshire plates with a Chelsea design of long-tailed birds, butterflies and flowers, sold to Mrs. R. D. Carter for $50; a Chinese Lowestoft teapot and creamer went to Mrs. Topping for $55; a couple of colored lithographs, Washington in Continental uniform standing by his horse and Mrs. Washington standing under a tree, went to Bernet, agent, for $65; and a "Portrait of Charles Pilkington," by Thomas Sully, was bought by A. H. Kohn for $70.

The returns to date are $5,959. Early American furniture will be sold this afternoon.

CHINESE FEED STARVING.

Nearly 100,000 Being Cared For by the Police of Tientsin.

TIENTSIN, China, Dec. 16.—Nearly 100,000 famine sufferers are being cared for by the Tientsin police. Most of them are housed in refugee camps and food is distributed to them every few days.

Local people are doing the work. The father of Chow Hsueh-Hsi, former Minister of Finance, has donated $3,000 and 700 suits of Winter clothing. It is estimated that $200,000 will be required to carry these charges through the Winter. Of this amount, $110,000 has been obtained through various local relief associations.

In addition to the refugees, provision has to be made for the relief of riksha coolies, whose daily earnings are not sufficient for their actual needs. Approximately 100,000 persons belonging to that class have to be cared for by the police or by philanthropic organizations yearly. Their average earnings are $6 to $7 per month. In Winter, when fuel prices are doubled, the cost of living soars beyond their reach, according to the police.

DUTY ON HIDES CONDEMNED.

Boot and Shoe Manufacturers Assail Proposed 15% Tariff.

The National Boot and Shoe Manufacturers Association, at its annual convention in the Hotel Astor, adopted a resolution yesterday condemning the proposed 15 per cent. duty on hides. The resolution said that such an act had no place in our system of taxation.

"Cattle are raised for beef," continued the resolution, "and a tax on offal is in no sense protection. The price paid the producer for cattle, for slaughter, is based upon the value of the creature for beef and not on the value of the hides, which must be salted, cured and disposed of some weeks or months later. We object to being made the medium through which a fresh burden is laid on the whole people."

The convention opened with an address by J. F. McElwain, the President of the association. In the afternoon R. P. Hazzard, Eugene Meyer Jr., Bruce Barton and Willard E. Freeland spoke.

FORD GAINS IN RECOUNT.

1,619 Net Increase Over Newberry in Third of Election Ballots.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—About one-third of the ballots in the Michigan Senatorial election of 1918 had been recounted tonight by the Senate Privileges and Elections Committee and Henry Ford had made a net gain of 1,619 votes over Senator Newberry, who was elected by 7,569 plurality.

The committee has recounted ballots of 1,039 of the 2,232 Michigan precincts, but has not reached the bulk of the canvass in Detroit. The progress of the recount, started two weeks ago, indicates four more weeks will be required for completion.

JAPANESE ANGERED BY CURB ON SENTRIES

TRIAL FOR LANGDON SLAYER

Washington Believes Tokio Will Defend the Presence of Troops in Siberia.

TOKIO, Jan. 18.—The Military Reservists' Association at Takamatsu, Province of Shikoku, has passed a resolution authorizing its officers to file a protest against the reported instructions issued by General Oi, the Japanese commander at Vladivostok, not to challenge Americans in future. The order of General Oi is considered inimical to military discipline.

The best way to prevent a recurrence of incidents like the shooting of Lieutenant Langdon of the cruiser Albany would be the joint withdrawal of the foreign troops and warships from Vladivostok, the Yumuri Shimbun, one of the leading Japanese newspapers, declared in an article today on the Vladivostok happening. As to the reported decision of the Japanese authorities that Japanese sentinels hereafter shall not challenge Americans at Vladivostok, the newspaper says it fears that this would be destructive of army discipline.

After voicing the sorrow of the Japanese nation over the shooting, the Yumuri Shimbun expresses the view that what it regards as the accidental result of a faithful observance of Japanese military regulations should not receive undue international importance.

A dispatch to the Nichi Nichi Shimbun from Tsuruga today states that the sentry who shot Lieutenant Langdon, Toshigoro Ogasawara, is being court-martialed. The message adds that the reported determination to discontinue the challenging of Americans has caused indignation among the Japanese troops who would be affected by the order.

Believe Japan Firm As to Siberia.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—The State Department is inclined to the view that the interferences with American sailors by Japanese sentries at Vladivostok subsequent to the killing by a Japanese sentry of Lieutenant W. H. Langdon of the cruiser Albany, were cases of perfunctory challenge. It is inclined to await further reports from its own and the Navy Department's investigators at Vladivostok and the reply to its note to the Japanese Foreign Office before making any further representations to the Tokio Government.

It is believed in quarters acquainted with the Japanese policy in Siberia that Japan may attempt to justify the presence of her troops in Vladivostok and in front of the Korean border to the Manchurian frontier and may assert the right of her military forces to challenge any person in her military areas in Siberia. The American note, it has been intimated, raised the question of justification of the continued presence of a Japanese expedition in Siberia.

While all the Japanese authorities concerned both in Vladivostok and Tokio have expressed profound regret at the killing of Lieutenant Langdon, and a court-martial was promptly ordered to try the sentinel who did the shooting, there has been no indication that the investigation has influenced the Tokio Government to change its Siberian policy.

It is believed that the Japanese Foreign Office's reply to this phase of the State Department's note may deal with the following features of the situation:

1. That Japanese troops were originally dispatched to Siberia upon invitation of the United States when Bolshevism was still confined to European Russia and Admiral Kolchak was at the head of a Government established at Omsk which was in control of Siberia, East and West.

2. That since the repatriation of the Czech troops, Bolshevist or "partisan" rule has covered all Siberia except those portions near the coast and in front of Japan and Korea where Japanese troops are stationed.

3. That Bolshevism has been outlawed by the world and other powers have taken military measures to prevent its spread into their own territories, the United States at one time having dispatched troops to Archangel together with allied contingents to wage war upon the Bolsheviki in European Russia.

Defense of Pacific From Bolshevism.

4. That Japan considers it necessary for self-protection to prevent the advent of Bolshevism upon the Pacific Coast; also, in view of the warlike intent of the Bolshevist Government at Moscow, to deny access to Bolshevist agents and forces to Korea and, in the interest of peace in the Far East, to prohibit the Bolsheviki from invading Manchuria.

5. That Japan has vital interests involved in the East Siberian situation, political on account of her territorial propinquity, and economic on account of her concessions, mainly fishing, along the Siberian Coast.

6. That Japan has entered into agreements with the Vladivostok Government, which is the de facto authority in that locality, and is contemplating the negotiation of an agreement with the Chita Government, which would involve recognition of that Government as the de facto authority in East Siberia or Trans-Baikalia, and that her occupation of Siberian territory is not contrary to the wishes of those authorities, but in consonance with them, those Governments themselves fearing the penetration of the Bolsheviki to the Pacific Coast.

It is understood here, the impression being based on statements made by Japanese officials in Siberia, that the Japanese Government favors the erection of an independent State in Siberia, disassociated from European Russia politically, and that if such a State is created Japan would not be averse to becoming its protector. It is also believed that the Japanese Government would consult with the British Foreign Office before making any positive declarations with respect to a definitive policy in Siberia, as Eastern Siberia comes within the meaning of the provisions of the Anglo-Japanese alliance. Japan presumptively has had the moral support of Great Britain in her Siberian activities.

WANTS TO LIMIT JAPANESE.

SALT LAKE CITY, Jan. 18.—A memorial petitioning Congress to enact legislation which will prohibit, with certain exceptions, further immigration from the Far East and safeguard rights of States to enact such legislation respecting acquisition, succession to and disposition of lands within their borders was introduced in the House of Representatives today and referred to the Judiciary Committee.

CLERGY TO DISCUSS NEXT BISHOP TODAY

3 COUNTIES REPRESENTED

Dr. Manning Choice of Ritualistic Party—"Broad" Churchmen Favor Dr. Slattery or Dr. Stires.

Seventy-three clergymen have been invited to the meeting in Christ Episcopal Church, Tarrytown, this afternoon, to discuss the coming election of a Bishop of New York. Only about a dozen declinations have been received. The Rev. Walter W. Reid, the rector, asked every Episcopal clergyman in Westchester, Dutchess and Putnam Counties to attend. It is expected that after the discussion a straw vote will be taken. The conference will be public.

It is now almost certain there will be nominating speeches in the convention, which will be held a week from today in Synod Hall. These were prohibited by resolution at the convention of Sept. 17, 1919, which elected Bishop Burch. It caused some criticism in the Episcopal publications afterward, on the ground that it was undemocratic to cut off freedom of speech.

While it is still the general belief in Episcopal circles that one of three local rectors—Ernest M. Stires, William T. Manning and Charles L. Slattery—will be elected, a vigorous campaign is being conducted for the election of the Right Rev. Nathaniel R. Thomas, Bishop of the Missionary District of Wyoming.

Could Take Office Soon.

One argument being used is that he could assume the office sooner than any of the local rectors. Being already a Bishop, he would not have to be consecrated. Before a clergyman can be consecrated Bishop of a diocese after his election he must receive the approval of a majority of the Bishops of the United States and a majority of the Standing Committees of the diocese. This process takes about two months.

In the case of Bishop Thomas only the House of Bishops would have to give consent to his transfer from a missionary district to a see of his own, and this could be done in a month. The consent of the Bishops can be obtained by mail.

Dr. Manning seems to be the candidate of the ritualistic party, and Dr. Slattery and Dr. Stires both of the "broad" churchmen. It is the "up-State" vote which will elect the Bishop, it is said, as it was this which elected Bishop Burch. More will be known after today's meeting of how that up-State vote will go.

Dr. Manning is being put forward by his friends as one who for twelve years has successfully administered Trinity Church and all its chapels, as one who stands for the reunion of Christendom, as an eminent citizen of New York, and as an American who would cement the tie between America and all her Allies. Although born in England, Dr. Manning came here at the age of 16 and is an American citizen.

Proposed as Successful Rector.

Dr. Slattery is proposed as the successful rector of a parish of wealth and yet which ministers to men and women of all walks of life; as a mild churchman who has taken no decisive stand with any party; as a scholar, he having written numerous books, and as one who would be a "big brother" as well as a Bishop. According to present plans his nomination will be presented by the Rev. Dr. H. Percy Silver, rector of the Church of the Incarnation, who nominated Bishop Burch in the 1919 convention.

Dr. Stires is being urged by his friends as one who has made a distinct contribution to the spiritual life of the city by administering one of the most generous parishes in the world, which has made many gifts to missions and the benevolences of the Church at large; as the builder of St. Thomas's Church, Fifth Avenue and Fifty-third Street, and as a recognized leader in the administration of the Episcopal Church as a whole. He is the only clergyman from New York who is a member of the Council of the Episcopal Church; he went to France and served at the battle front; is President of the Standing Committee of this diocese, and is the acting Bishop in every respect except that he cannot ordain or confirm. He is being advocated as an able administrator and a pulpit orator of recognized ability.

HIGH HEELS PROHIBITED BY PROPOSED UTAH LAW

Limit of One and a Half Inches Set—Penalty Is Fine and Jail Term.

SALT LAKE CITY, Jan. 18.—The text of a bill to prohibit shoes with heels higher than one and a half inches in Utah was made public today at a meeting of representatives of women's clubs in conference with legislators at the Capitol.

The bill is so far reaching that a person found with a pair of such shoes in his possession is subject to a fine of from $25 to $500 for the first conviction and from $500 to $1,000 for every additional offense, and imprisonment of from thirty days to one year. It is drawn to take effect on and after Jan. 1, 1925.

RACHMANINOFF APPLAUDED.

Big Audience Hears Russian Pianist's Characteristic Recital.

Mr. Rachmaninoff played to a great audience at Carnegie Hall last evening, his first recital other than a matinee again showing the Russian giant's commanding position before the musical public of New York. His chiseled accents, seemingly enchanted piano phrases, emerging like Rodin figures from rude rock, reached a high point in Beethoven's little sonata Op. 90, played with a strong man's reverent tenderness. Schumann's "Papillons" were indeed butterflies, gorgeous as Brazil's, while rare applause of the sort that hung on every last echoing note grew vocal when Mendelssohn's "Spinning Song" encore, not so much played as conducted, rather, in orchestral fashion, brought a responsive cheer.

The pianist's most characteristic work was perhaps in a Chopin group, from the waltz in F, with one blessedly human false note, to the C-minor "Polonaise," made alive with a new Poland's aspiration, and calling for two encores more. In lighter mood, he gave Debussy's "Children's Corner," ending in the "Gollywogs' Cake Walk," and finally the inevitable Rachmaninoff preludes, already world classics, of which he chose the G-major and B-flat major, while a waiting house begged for the C-sharp minor favorite last of all.

ARTHUR SHATTUCK PLAYS.

Pianist Displays Matured Talents After Two Years' Absence.

Arthur Shattuck, whose memorable service to musicians in the war means a welcome wherever he now appears, returned after two years' absence yesterday to give a matinee recital at Aeolian Hall. Artistically, Mr. Shattuck is reaping a reward unlooked for in his earlier career, which was that of the rich amateur: he has matured as a virtuoso, graceful and self-contained at the piano, and he promises as a musician to win yet the serene Parnassian heights. Such praise was justified by his playing yesterday of classic Palestrina's "Ricercari," a Bach-d'Albert toccata, Bach-Busoni chorale, and after transitional Schubert pieces, the "Serious Variations" of Mendelssohn. Of moderns, Palmgren's "Bird Song" and de Severac's "Old Music Box" were both encored, while Mr. Shattuck gave with greatest zest Debussy's "Reflets" and Liszt's "Concert Etude."

BORI TO RETURN AS MIMI.

Soprano to Sing in "La Boheme" Jan. 28—Next Week's Bills.

Lucrezia Bori's return as Mimi in "La Boheme" will be an event of the Metropolitan's eleventh week on Friday, Jan. 28, the cast including Anna Roselle, Gigli, Scotti, Picco and Martino. There will be a popular Thursday matinee of "Aida," with Muzio, Matzenauer, Kingston, Danise and Rothier. "Tristan" will also be sung at popular prices on Saturday night by Matzenauer, Telva, Sembach, Whithill and Blass.

Other operas are "Louise" on Monday, with Farrar, Harrold and Whitehill; Wednesday, "Mefistofele," Alda, Gigli and Mardones; Thursday evening, "Madame Butterfly," Farrar, Crimi and Scotti, and Saturday matinee, "Don Carlos," Ponselle, Matzenauer, Martinelli, de Luca and Didur. Meanwhile a Sunday concert performance of "Samson and Delilah," with Jeanne Gordon, Sembach, Amato and Rothier, will make eight full operas next week at the Metropolitan, with a like number already announced by the Chicago stars at the Manhattan.

Miss Meert to Entertain Nieces.

Miss Virginie Louise Meert will give a tea at the Plaza on Saturday for her two nieces, the Misses Virginie Eloise and Constance van Buren Meert, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederic William Meert, who recently returned from Brussels, where they have made their home during the last ten years.

At the beginning of the war in 1914, Miss Meert, who was then residing in Brussels, joined the Belgian Red Cross and was on duty at the Royal Palace, part of which had been made over by the King as a hospital. She served throughout the war and was decorated by the Belgian Queen for her work.

Plan Dinner to Admiral Glennon.

The retirement next month of Rear Admiral James H. Glennon, who succeeded Rear Admiral Nathaniel R. Usher as Commandant of the Third Naval District, will be made the occasion of a dinner in his honor at the Hotel Biltmore on Feb. 16.

NEW YORK'S SHIVERS TO MODERATE TODAY

The impression that the American navy balloonists who left their wrecked craft near Moose Factory had brought back an assortment of Northern Ontario weather was intensified last night when Iroquois Falls, in that province, won first prize in the cold contest with a report of forty below zero. All Canada is in the grip of biting weather, with the exception of the Pacific and Atlantic coasts, Ottawa offering 18 below and Winnipeg 2 below as sample temperatures.

Northern New York likewise is finding it painful to poke its nose out of doors, Saranac Lake reporting 25 below, Plattsburg 10 and Malone 14. The St. Lawrence is frozen over at Ogdensburg for the first time this Winter and the Hudson has solidified as far south as Tarrytown, where the Nyack Ferry had to tie up in the ice, though it sometimes keeps going well into February.

With every place to the north in the grip of an arctic spell, New York City was thoroughly refrigerated yesterday. In mere number of degrees below the temperature at which water under normal barometric pressure turns to ice, the city had to yield to the tier of up-State counties and to the northmen across the border, but it was cold here just the same.

Whether one judged from the scarlet cheeks, sparkling eyes, cloudy breath and threshing arms of pedestrians or gained information from the themometer, it was cold. The hurricane effects of Monday were moderated but a wind which at times attained twenty-eight miles an hour was sufficient to cause much discomfort. In a few instances it had sufficient force to blow in windows, but little damage was reported other than that to the feelings of those forced to brave the out-of-doors for considerable periods.

The thermometer last night apparently was paying no attention to the predictions of the Weather Bureau, but it may behave better today. Starting at 14 at 3 o'clock in the morning it dropped to 7 by 9 o'clock and then made a gallant recovery to 12, reaching that etched line on the little glass tubes at noon and maintaining it till 2 o'clock. It went up to 15 at 4 in the afternoon, the "warmest" spot in the frigid day, and started downward a degree or two every hour, making 13 at 5, 12 at 6, 11 at 7, 10 at 8, 9 at 9 and 8 at 10.

Despite that discouraging downward sweep of the temperature curve, the observers in the Whitehall Building said that it would be warmer today.

Their report at 11 o'clock last night said:

"Fair and not quite so cold today. Tomorrow partly cloudy and warmer, fresh north, shifting to east, winds."

Reports here indicated little distress among the poor, due to the weather. The only person going to a hospital because of the cold was Miss Elizabeth H. Baughan, 44 years old, of 70 Bruce Street, Newark, who was on a shopping tour. A policeman sent her to Broad Street Hospital when she felt the cold overcoming her near the Hudson Terminal Building. She was able to go home.

One child was burned to death and several seriously burned by their clothing catching fire from gas ranges, around which they had crowded to get heat. Veronica Blake, 6 years old, of 302 East 142d Street, the Bronx, the daughter of Policeman John Blake of the Morrisania Station, died in Lincoln Hospital of burns. John Nugent, 3 years old, of 80 West 169th Street, the Bronx, was burned about the head, face and body when his clothes caught fire. Seven-year-old Mary Mannelli, who lives with her aunt, Mrs. Bessie Mannelli, at 231 East 107th Street, is in Reception Hospital suffering from burns about the hands and body.

Sylvia Slavin, 6 years old, of 1,342 Park Avenue, was seriously burned about the face, hands and body. Three-year-old John Rubin, who lives with his parents at 1,694 Clay Avenue, the Bronx, was burned seriously on the hands, legs and body.

THIS IS 'DENIAL DAY' TO AID NEEDY CHILDREN

All New Yorkers Asked to Give Price of Luncheon for Europe's Youngsters.

The European Relief Council, which is engaged in raising $33,000,000 for European children, has asked that today be set aside as the "Day of Self-Denial," with every New Yorker requested to skip a meal and give the price to the fund. Led by Mrs. Willard D. Straight, women from 500 clubs and associations will be in the streets seeking the unexpended luncheon money.

The emergency canteen outfit of the Red Cross will be stationed before the Public Library. Ten-gallon coffee kettles, which served overseas, will be on hand to hold contributions. At noon Florence Nash, Gladys Hanson, Mrs. James Metcalf, the Duncan Sisters and Fannie Hurst will speak.

Another feature will be a noon-hour meeting on the steps of the Sub-Treasury, with Borough President Curran and Martin Vogel, former Assistant Treasurer of the United States, as the speakers.

Representatives of ninety-two trade groups in the industrial division yesterday reported collections of $157,000. A report received from Darwin P. Kingsley, Chairman of the Life Insurance Group, showed that $20,000 had been raised by that section. The 1,200 employes of the New York Life Insurance Company, foregoing luncheon today, will donate the proceeds to the fund administered by Herbert C. Hoover.

Pleasantville Junior League Dances.

The annual subscription dance of the Junior League of Pleasantville, N. Y., was held last evening in the large ballroom of the Ritz-Carlton, and was attended by about four hundred guests. A novelty in the form of a Turkish dance, for which there was special music and original lighting effects, was planned and staged by Miss Phyllis Cahn, President of the League. A supper was served at midnight. The proceeds from the affair will be donated to the children at the Hebrew Orphan Asylum in Pleasantville.

WENT TO SEEK EGGS AND TOOK JERUSALEM

British Soldier Got City's Keys, So Did Three Officers—Mayor Died of Cold He Caught.

The story of the fall of Jerusalem before General Allenby is not as picturesque as the moving pictures have portrayed it, but much more amusing, in the narrative given yesterday by Major Vivian Gilbert, who was machine-gun officer of the Sixtieth (British) Division, the first to come in touch with the city. Major Gilbert told his tale at a studio party given by Miss Mary Carlisle at 24 East Fortieth Street.

"The true story has never appeared in print," said Major Gilbert. "The Colonel of a London regiment told a mess cook to get some eggs the morning the Turks withdrew from Jerusalem. The cook went in the direction given him, but lost his way. He soon came to the outskirts of what appeared quite a large village, and the inhabitants seemed to be coming out to welcome him, with white flags waving before them. When they saw that he was British they surrounded him, and in spite of his cries—that he wanted eggs—they dragged him down the main street, which was packed with townspeople. I was with the Colonel when the man returned to our lines. Said he:

"'A toff standing on a balcony tried to give me a bunch of keys, and, says he, "The city is yours," but I says, "I don't want the city; I want eggs."'

"When the Colonel heard the story he went to the Brigadier, who rode to Jerusalem. The Mayor of the city handed him the keys. The Brigadier made a short speech and returned. In the meantime the Major General commanding the division had been notified. He rang up and said 'Stop the Brigadier. I will myself take the surrender.'

"Shortly after, the Major-General arrived and the Brigadier having handed the keys back to the Mayor, the Mayor came out again, made a speech, surrendered the city to the Major General and handed over the keys. When the Major General reported to the Commander-in-Chief, General Allenby wired to say that in two days he would himself take the surrender of the city, which he did. The Mayor came out again, handed over the keys and made a speech.

"Two weeks later the Mayor died of pneumonia. It was feared he caught cold standing in the open air without a hat handing over the city to the cook, the Brigadier, the Major General and to the Commander-in-Chief."

SEES HOPE FOR REAL AMERICAN LANGUAGE

Ohio State Librarian Says It Will Be Composed of All Spoken Tongues.

RESULT OF ESSAY CONTEST

Men and Women All Over the Country Compete in Telling Need of Dropping "English."

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Jan. 18.—A new language, "more concise and forceful than any spoken, composed of all spoken languages and denominated 'American,' should result in this country," says a statement issued today by State Librarian John Henry Newman, announcing the prize winners in an essay contest of more than a year's standing on the subject, "Why We Should Have an American language."

"Having wondered for many years why any red-blooded American should ape any one in anything, I determined to investigate the medium through which we express our thought—language. I could see no reason for the name-plate 'English language,'" Newman continued. "I discovered, after investigation, that there was not such a per cent. of real English in the whole as the prohibition law permits of alcohol in the beverages of today.

"I took my stand one day on a certain street corner in Chicago, where more people pass in a given time than any similar point in the world. I asked as many people as possible their nationality. To my surprise I discovered there was not one Englishman to a thousand of other tongues. This in a great part satisfied me that we should have a language dignified with the name 'American.'"

Contestants for the essay prizes were scattered all over the country, and prize winners' homes range from British Columbia to New Mexico. Eleven money prizes were given and thirty-two honorable mentions made.

T. C. Cherry of Bowling Green, Ky., won the first prize of $200. D. T. Hildreth of Winchester, N. H., took the sixth prize of $10. Among those receiving honorable mention were C. H. Forte, Sharon, Conn.; Miss M. Treoarton, Winterport, Me.; Ruth Amelia Smith, Long Meadow, Mass.; Ralph G. Lawton, Ridgefield Park, N. J.; Howard F. Lewis, Colgate University, N. Y., and N. From a proclamation by Governor Nathan L. Miller:
I, Nathan L. Miller, Governor of the State of New York, appreciating the favors of prosperity that Providence has bestowed upon us, do call upon all communities, institutions and persons within the State to tender their moral and financial support without stint to the task of assuring the war-waif children food and medical attention until the next harvest; I further urge that Wednesday, January 19, 1921, be set aside as a special day of self-denial, on which the citizens of the State, out of such sacrifice as they may choose to make, shall send special contributions to the New York State Committee of the European Relief Council, whose headquarters is at 42 Broadway, New York City.
Make checks payable to-day to Franklin K. Lane, Treasurer, and send to your own organization or to the Emergency Committee of Women's Organizations of the Borough of Manhattan.

CANADA PLANS TO SEND TENNIS TEAM

Dominion Officials Anxious to Enter Tournament for Davis Cup Recently Won by U. S.

OTHER NATIONS MAY TRY

A challenge from Canada for the Davis Cup contest of 1921 is a strong probability, according to a letter received from E. H. Senior, Secretary of the Canadian Lawn Tennis Association and made public in connection with the meeting of the Davis Cup Committee of the United States Lawn Tennis Association yesterday.

Mr. Senior wrote: "Our association proposes to hold a meeting, probably next month, when the question of entering a team will be definitely decided. Personally speaking, I think there is every likelihood of our entering, and it would be most convenient and satisfactory to us if the preliminary ties could be played in the United States."

The committee session to discuss the policies to be followed during 1921 was attended by Julian S. Myrick, Edwin F. Torrey, George W. Wightman, Joseph M. Jennings, Robert D. Wrenn, George T. Adee, Harold H. Hackett and Beals C. Wright. The committee authorized a letter to be sent to nations having organized tennis associations but which have not previously competed for the Davis Cup, stating the United States's desire to have this year's contest on the broadest possible lines. It is hoped that this may result in the receipt of challenges from some of the South American and Epropean nations which have not been contenders for the Davis Trophy.

Considerable time was consumed in discussing the schedule in order to determine what recommendations might be made to the Schedule Committee as to the arrangement of the various events that will take place in 1921. While the Davis Cup Committee has no authority to make the schedule, its advice is sought by the committee charged with that particular duty in order to arrange a sequence of events that will be satisfactory to the public and the the players.

It was the general concensus that the challenge round of the Davis Cup ought to precede the national singles championship, no matter where the events are played. Furthermore, it developed that the championship ought not to be played much later in the season than has been the practice heretofore, because of the failing light that is noted in September.

In consequence, if the Schedule Committee follows the suggestions offered, it will have to advance the dates of some of the grass tournaments leading up to the championship, to provide an open week for the challenge round.

The committee will recommend to the annual meeting of the association that authority to assign the preliminary matches be granted to the Davis Cup Committee, this having been the practice in previous years.

OPIE TO LEAD TIGER FIVE.

"Masked Forward" Chosen Captain —Legendre Back on Team.

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., Jan. 18.—Howard Opie, Princeton's "masked forward," was today elected to captain the Princeton basketball team through the present season, taking the place of Stanley Netts, who was declared ineligible last week. Opie wears glasses when he plays, and is forced to use a protecting mask of steel and wire to prevent the glass from being broken into his eyes.

The new Tiger leader has been a member of the varsity basketball team for two seasons, and has been on the varsity football squad for a similar time. He is a senior, and lives in Pittsburgh.

Another pleasing piece of news for Princeton basketball followers today was the return of Armant Legendre, end on Walter Camp's second All-American football team, and one of the best guards in the basketball league. Legendre has been at his home in New Orleans since Christmas, attending his sister's wedding. It is probable that he will take Bergen's place at guard, although he may go in at forward, sending Brawner to the side lines. Brawner, however, is likely to keep his newly earned position at forward because of his sensational game against Stevens.

Cornell will play Princeton here on Friday night in a league game.

VAUGHN SIGNS CONTRACT.

Ever Now Has Cubs' Pitchers Pretty Well Lined Up.

CHICAGO, Jan. 18. — With James "Hippo" Vaughn's signature affixed to his 1921 contract today, Manager Evers of the Chicago Cubs has a large part of his pitching staff lined up for next season. Vaughn, the star southpaw of the Cubs in recent seasons, was the first to sign one of the new form contracts drawn up at the meeting of the baseball magnates here last week. Grover Alexander and George Tyler signed last Fall to pitch for the Cubs next season, but will sign again on the new contracts.

Evers says he plans to send his pitchers, with a catcher or two, to California about a week ahead of the main squad, which will leave Chicago for the training camp March 8.

The White Sox squad is scheduled to depart for Waxahachie, Texas, March 4. Manager Gleason of the Chicago Americans has booked more than forty players to train in Texas, and the Sox party probably will be the largest major league delegation ever to go South for training.

McGOWAN DEFEATS BAPTIE.

St. Paul Skater Makes Clean Sweep in Six-Race Program.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Jan. 18.—Everett McGowan, St. Paul's speed king, by winning four straight races tonight at the Coliseum, made a clean sweep of the series of six races with M. Norval Baptie, the veteran.

McGowan on Sunday had beaten Baptie in three races, but one, the 220-yard dash, was thrown out by the judges. Tonight this race was first on the list, and it was conceded that Baptie would win, this being a favorite distance with him, but McGowan crossed first, giving him three triumphs.

The 440-yard race was next on the list and this was also won by the St. Paul boy, as were the one and two-mile events which followed, giving him a clean sweep.

Every event except the 440-yard race was closely contested. The best contest was the 220-yard dash, which was won by McGowan in 20 1-5 seconds. The two contestants crossed the line so closely together that the result was in doubt until the official announcement was made.

Dave Bancroft Signs Contract.

Joseph D. O'Brien, Secretary of the Giants, announced last evening the receipt of the signed contract of Dave Bancroft, the alert and able shortstop snared by McGraw in Philadelphia pastures early last season. Bancroft is the first of the regulars of the team to pin on the colors for the season of 1921.

They are Miss Marion Hollins of New York, Mrs. Ronald H. Barlow and Mrs. William A. Gavin of Philadelphia, Miss Alexa Stirling of Atlanta and Miss Edith Cummings of Chicago. Mrs. F. C. YALE CLUB AGAIN VICTOR AT SQUASH

Defeats Princeton Players by 5 to 2—Columbia Scores Over Harvard.

METROPOLITAN LEAGUE SQUASH TENNIS STANDING, CLASS B.

Club.	Won.	Lost.	P.C.
Yale	8	0	1000
Columbia	6	2	.750
Crescent	5	2	.714
Harvard	4	5	.444
D. K. E.	2	4	.333
Princeton	2	7	.222
Army and Navy	0	7	.000

Squash tennis activities in this city yesterday were very much like ancient Gaul being divided into three parts. All were Class B team championship competitions and there was no change in the standing of the clubs in the tournament as a result of yesterday's games. The Yale Club team met and defeated the Princeton Club, 5 to 2, on the Yale courts, while the Columbia Club's team defeated the Harvard Club's representatives, 4 to 3. The other teams that met were the Army and Navy Club and the D. K. E.'s, who started out on the Army and Navy Club courts. Only four matches were played and the Army and Navy combination took three of the four. The others will be played today.

The Yale Club combination now has a clean record of eight successive victories and the calibre of play shown by the wearers of the Blue yesterday made it look as though the tournament is liable to end without that clean slate being blotted with a defeat.

The first two games finished were easy for Yale, Roode and Victor easily disposing of Walker and Farrelly. In the match between Leonard Beekman and Clyde Martin the former won in a stiff competition and he played the best game of his career. The score was 15—15, 13—11, 15—5.

Harris Rowe won the other match for Princeton, playing against J. F. Trounstine. Rowe started rather slowly, but kept improving all the time. He lost the first game, 12—15, but then, discovering that Trounstine was weak in backhand work, he played the game accordingly and took the next two, 18—15 and 15—10.

In the Harvard-Columbia team match, played in the Columbia courts, and won by the Columbia Club team by a score of 4 to 3, F. S. Whitlock of Harvard proved to be too strong for F. W. Chambers, while R. V. Mahon, who was pitted against F. S. Ritchie, outplayed himself and won easily, the score being 15—6, 15—2. F. M. Simonds, Jr., defeated W. F. Robinson as a result of the speed he showed, which amazed even his own team mates. Kenneth Kunhardt won a permanent place on the Columbia Club Class B team as the result of the clever game he put up against Grover O'Neill of the Harvard Club. The score in this match was 18—16, 12—15, 15—9.

Only four matches were played in the Army and Navy Club-D. K. E. Club team match, and the soldiers and sailors captured three of the four. P. M. Whelan was the only Deke to win, and his match with L. A. Signud proved to be a most interesting and closely contested one. The score was 17—18, 15—10, 17—16. The match between Harold Norton of the A. & N. Club and J. O. Brotherhood of the D. K. E.'s also was closely fought out, while Geoffrey Taylor and G. M. Carnochan played well for Class B players. The other three matches will be played today. The summaries:

SEEKS REFUND OF TAX.

Legislature Will Be Asked to Exempt Leonard-Mitchell Bout.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 18.—Permission to withhold the tax due the State on the gross receipts of the Benny Leonard-Richie Mitchell bout last Friday in Madison Square Garden is sought in legislation to be introduced in the Assembly tomorrow by Assemblyman Maurice Bloch of New York.

The legislation, according to Mr. Bloch, was suggested by Miss Anne Morgan, who promoted the contest for the benefit of the American Committee for Devastated France. From the wording of the bill it is apparent that the tax has not yet been paid to the State.

"No penalty or punishment shall attach to any person or corporation on account of their having failed to pay such tax into the State Treasury within the seventy-two hours after the holding of the contest," says one provision of the measure.

The bill asks that the tax provision not apply to a "boxing or sparring match" held in the year 1921 prior to Jan. 16 in a case where the gross receipts or such receipts less expenses are to be applied to the relief of the inhabitants of any part of the continent of Europe to remedy conditions resulting from the World War, by a committee, society or organization organized to provide such relief, and if the State Boxing Commission shall file with the State Treasurer its certificate that it believes that such receipts are to be so applied."

Oscar Stanage Goes to Los Angeles.

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 18.—John C. Bassler, catcher of the Los Angeles Club of the Pacific Coast Baseball League, has been traded to the Detroit Americans for Catcher Oscar Stanage of that club. Third Baseman Lindemore of the Oklahoma City Club of the Western League, and a right-handed pitcher and a second baseman, to be named by March 1. It was announced today by Wade Killefer, manager of the Los Angeles team.

ST. ANDREWS CLUB MAY MODIFY STAND

British Golf Body Reported Likely to Accede to Change in Stymie Rule.

On their return from England last Summer members of the United States Golf Association, who went over to confer with Royal and Ancient St. Andrews on revision of the rules of golf, admitted that their mission had fallen somewhat short of what had been hoped for, although material progress was made along the lines taken up. It now develops that there may be good and sufficient cause for believing that the results of this trip may eventually prove more far reaching than has generally been supposed.

It will be recalled that two prominent points in the rules on which compromises were deemed the best solution of differences were the standard ball and the rule governing stymies. No departure from the regulations governing the standard ball, which do not become effective until May 1 of this year, is anticipated. But the situation existing with reference to the stymie is different.

During the recent peace negotiations between the belligerent element of the Western Golf Association, which threatened a war for the governing supremacy in golf in the United States, and representatives of the U. S. G. A. the announcement was made that a committee from Royal and Ancient St. Andrews would return the visit of the U. S. G. A. committee during the coming Summer to study more closely golfing conditions over here as they differ from those on the other side.

The agreement reached at last year's conference was that British rules would retain the old regulation governing the stymie, whereas the U. S. G. A. was given the sanction of St. Andrews to make such changes as it deemed advisable owing to the difference in playing conditions here. That the British body may see fit to follow suit in this matter to some extent may be inferred from a recent statement made by President Howard F. Whitney of the U. S. G. A.

Although he explained that he was merely voicing his own opinion, not making an official statement, he said it would not surprise him at all if within the year Royal and Ancient St. Andrews modified its ruling on the stymie to conform partially to the present regulations in force in the U. S. G. A. He explained that of the St. Andrews committee, composed of twenty-one members, only four held out steadfastly against any alteration in the stymie rule. His opinion is that the Britons will amend their rule to provide that where the opponent lays a player a stymie the player may concede the opponent his putt, remove his ball and try for a second putt, and if the opponent plays himself a stymie, even though it be the result of a long shot far off the putting green, he must play his next shot as the balls lie, provided he is away.

In case the Britons see fit to take action along the above lines after their visit here it will mean a little more international uniformity on the rules. Then, should a recodification of the playing regulation be agreed upon, the result will no doubt leave a condition of affairs, so far as the rules are concerned, that should put to flight forever all any threatened uprising on the part of sectional associations. The other two outstanding criticisms entered by the Western body, viz., the increase in the number of members of the Executive Committee to give all sections a more nearly equal representation with the East, and the conversion of as many as possible of the allied members of the U. S. G. A. to active voting memberships, have been answered.

Further shaping of the local golfing program for the current year will take place today at a meeting of the Executive Committee of the Westchester County Golf Association. Included in the order of business for this meeting will be the selection of courses for holding the association championships, as well as two other notable events.

These selections will include courses for the amateur open and junior championships, the Victory Cup tournament, which will have its second renewal this year, and the New Jersey-Westchester team matches. No advance intimation has been given as to the probable selections. Several courses have signified willingness to entertain one or more of the four events.

In addition to selecting courses for these four events, the meeting today is expected to take up plans for a series of amateur-professional matches, such as were played by several of the Long Island clubs last year. Already enough interest has been manifested in these matches to assure their success.

Members of the committee which will attend to the affairs of today's meeting are Lee W. Maxwell, Sleepy Hollow; R. P. Walden, Apawamis, C. V. Benton, Hudson River; Merrill K. Waters, Ardsley, and John G. Anderson, Siwanoy.

KNOCKOUTS ARE FREQUENT.

Fifteen Bouts In Brooklyn Amateur Tourney End Prematurely.

Knockouts ended most of the bouts in the preliminary rounds of the monthly amateur boxing tournament at the Crescent A. C. of Brooklyn last night. In the four classes listed a total of twenty-six contests were conducted. Of this number fifteen ended abruptly through crashing punches to stomach or jaw, or discreet intervention by the referee. The tournament was notable, in that it attracted a larger entry than has been received for a tourney in the local district in several years, and officials of the New Moon organization took this as an indication of the growing popularity of the amateur sport.

S. Oshinsky of the American Walkers' Association was the most effective participant. Oshinsky disposed of two rivals in attaining the semi-final round, and in both bouts accomplished the feat in one round. Oshinsky knocked out J. Scappetone in his preliminary-round match in one round, and in his second trial knocked out Danny Lyons, Paulist A. C., in one round.

The summaries:

AMERICAN BOXERS SEEK RETURN BOUTS

Plans Are Under Way for Another Series of International Contests With Britons.

Preparations for a plan of battle to avenge the overwhelming setback suffered by the American army, navy and police representatives in the international amateur bouts conducted Monday night by the International Sporting Club at the Hotel Commodore, were disclosed yesterday by Matchmaker Tex O'Rourke of the I. S. C. Though conquered beyond shadow of doubt, Uncle Sam's army and navy officials and leaders of Father Knickerbocker's Police Department are yet unconvinced of the supremacy of Great Britain's boxers and are now considering plans for a return clash in which they expect to demonstrate the superiority of their favorites over the invaders.

The international tournament satisfied everybody who was concerned with or participated in it, excepting, of course, the proud army, navy and police officials. The affair was a huge success from every other angle.

Matchmaker O'Rourke declared yesterday that preliminary plans are already under way for a nation-wide elimination tournament among the army boxers and a thorough naval trial series, which it is hoped will produce the leading boxers in both branches of the service.

Will Produce Good Boxers.

Officers of Uncle Sam's fighting divisions approached him during the bouts at the Commodore, O'Rourke stated, with a proposition providing for another international clash between the service men, for which plans will be adopted just as soon as official sanction is forthcoming from the department heads at Washington. The officers guaranteed to conduct the qualification bouts in every cantonment in the country and on every ship at sea for the purpose of uncovering the best heavyweights and light-heavyweights. They are convinced, without detracting from the qualifications of the fighters who battled at the international tournament, that the country's best was not represented in the competitive material, and, accordingly, are planning an exhaustive search of the various army camps and naval ships for greater talent. If the plans mature as is now expected, it is probable the I. S. C. will undertake to conduct the final-round bouts which will determine America's representatives in another international ring conflict. The proposition was submitted against Rourke with the stipulation that the I. S. C. agree to promote the finals, and the plan is now under consideration.

The policemen, too, are aggrieved. They resent the acquisition of the international middleweight honors by Harry Stanley, London "bobby," and are determined on vindication. The abandonment of the police heavyweight bout, in which it was regarded as a foregone conclusion that at least one American victory would be produced, also has had a painful effect, and there is general unrest here, all of which was reflected in the developments yesterday. O'Rourke declared that plans are now under consideration for an international heavyweight bout, in which the redoubtable Bill Spengler, department heavyweight champion, will meet Jack Stanley, British heavyweight, who was declared ineligible as an amateur, and was therefore disqualified. Police Department authorities have taken over the situation, O'Rourke said, and are considering arranging a bout between Stanley and Spengler under police supervision. The contest, if it materializes, will be held within a week.

Britons Are Well Pleased.

Contrasting with the feelings of the defeated American boxers, the victorious Britons were up and about yesterday radiating the utmost satisfaction with the results of the bouts. Their long journey had not been in vain, was the general attitude and with it there was a self-confidence exhibited by the visitors that a similar result would again be registered if another clash is arranged.

The Britons visited the I. S. C. headquarters yesterday, where they received their prizes, handsome diamond-studded gold medals, which were awarded to the victors. To the losers went ruby-studded silver medals. England's boxers will begin their return journey today, when John Watson, the international navy heavyweight champion, will depart on the Adriatic. The Zeeland, leaving on Saturday for England, will carry on it Captain E. V. Chandler, international army heavyweight titleholder, and Hugh Brown, light-heavyweight champion. The police boxers, including Harry Mallin, international middleweight champion, and Stanley, together with Inspector Spriggs, who accompanied the pair to this country, plan to sail for home Jan. 26.

CANADA TO SEND BOXERS.

Three Olympic Games Amateurs to Spar at Garden.

A trio of Canadian Olympic Games boxers will represent the Dominion in the international amateur boxing tournament to be held under the auspices of the Metropolitan A. A. U., at Madison Square Garden, Jan. 25. Advices received here yesterday informed local A. A. U. officials that A. Graham would compete for Canada in the bantamweight class, J. Newton in the light division and C. Prudhomme in the middleweight bout. Altogether eight international contests are planned, and in addition it is proposed to conduct a series of bouts in a local class for 125-pound boxers.

Canada's three selections include two runners-up for international titles, and a boxer who was placed third at Antwerp. Graham finished second in the Olympic bantamweight division, in which he went down to defeat at the hands of Walker of South Africa in the final bout. He is scheduled to engage Willie Singer, the Ninety-second Street Y. M. H. A. southpaw, who holds the metropolitan title.

WILL MEET PENN ON ICE.

Columbia Hockey Team Books Game for Feb. 7.

Another game was added to the Columbia hockey schedule yesterday with the booking of Pennsylvania for a match in Philadelphia on Feb. 7, immediately after the beginning of the second semester at Columbia. This match will be the second for the newly organized Columbia sextet, which played its curtain raiser with Yale last Saturday night.

Efforts of the athletic authorities are now centred in arranging a schedule for the new ice team. Seven or eight battles will be scheduled, and it is hoped to play most of them in this city, where Columbia has established a home at the 181st Street Ice Palace. One of the prospective opponents is West Point, which has been invited to send a team to New York some time next month. Williams has asked for a game here on Feb. 12, but because of that date being Columbia's Alumni Day the Blue and White authorities are angling for another date.

Negotiations are on with Cornell for a match at Ithaca, and Rensselaer Poly is under consideration as an opponent in a home contest. Members of the Intercollegiate Hockey League may also appear on the schedule, as will Fordham, the latter to be met in a match for city honors.

De Hart has had much experience in college and independent baseball, and Barney Dreyfuss, President of the Pittsburgh Club, thinks he has a chance of making good. LEWIS LEADS FIELD IN PINEHURST SHOOT

New Yorker Is High Gun in Southern Trap Tourney With Score of 292 in 300.

Special to The New York Times.

PINEHURST, N. C., Jan. 18.—With 300 targets already thrown in the 450 target race in the midwinter tournament at Pinehurst, Tracey H. Lewis of New York now leads the field of 146 guns, with a total of 292 for the two days.

John H. Noel of Nashville, who was tied for the lead last night with Lewis, at 146, had a relatively poor time of it today, and dropped back to tenth place, at 284. But before he began to slip he completed an unbroken run of 102, most of which was compiled yesterday.

Paul Earle, the South Carolina champion, did the most sensational shooting of the day. He broke the first 75 in a row, in company with Dr. A. H. Aber of Dravosburg, Pa. Earle finished the day as high gun, with 148 breaks to his credit, and climbed into second place, at 291, a single target behind Lewis, and completed an unbroken run of 113.

Sam Crothers of Philadelphia, shooting as consistently as Tracey Lewis, and almost as steadily, has piled up a total of 145, 145—290 for the two days, and stands all alone in third place, at 290, only two from the top. This trio should provide a battle royal for the high score.

The Eastern team, headed by the five men at the top of the list, is leading the Western team by a wide margin, in the sectional race. However, Dixon of Oronogo, Mo., 285, and Frank Troeh of Vancouver, Wash., 283, have done the best work so far for the Western contenders. Troeh, who led the country in 1920 with a percentage of 9,772, had an off day yesterday, but came back strong today with 145 breaks to his credit.

AWARDS POLO MATCHES.

National Championships Go to Philadelphia Country Club.

At the annual meeting of the American Polo Association, which was held yesterday at 60 Pine Street, an unusually large number of members attended and, aside from the election of officers for the ensuing year, the subject of the international matches to be held in England in June came in for chief discussion.

Chairman H. L. Herbert and Secretary Treasurer William L. Hazard were not present, the former being out of town and the latter being ill. The old officers and Executive Committee were reelected. The Committeemen are Harry Payne Whitney, Devereux Milburn, Cheever Cowdin, Louis E. Stoddard, John Q. Groome, Robert E. Strawbridge, W. P. Stewart, W. Cameron Forbes, H. E. Talbot Jr., Prentice L. Coonley, Carleton F. Burke and Colonel Julian R. Lindsay.

The association awarded the National Championship matches, to be played in the late Summer, to the Philadelphia Country Club at Bala, Pa. These include the senior, junior and open championships.

It was arranged that those who desire to obtain seats for the international matches to be played at Hurlingham, England, June 18, 22, and 25 if necessary, may file applications, accompanied by checks, with Secretary Hazard at 39 Broadway before March 1. Tickets for the series, the best two out of three, are to cost $40, $60, $80 and $100.

Already fifty ponies are in England being prepared for the matches. They are now at Tidworth. The team and substitutes will leave during the month of April, and upon their arrival will have two weeks practice at Tidworth, to be followed by a like period of finishing up practice at Hurlingham prior to the contest.

The players and substitutes include Louis E. Stoddard, Thomas Hitchcock Jr., J. Watson Webb, Dexereux Milburn, C. C. Rumsey and Earl W. Hopping. The association decided to make a revision of the handicaps. The names of those who have been inactive for several years will be eliminated from the handicap lists, but will be retained in the official records.

Boxing Bill for Missouri.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Jan. 18.—Senator J. H. Brogan of St. Louis today introduced a bill legalizing professional boxing and placing it under control of a boxing commission. He said the bill was supported by American Legion posts. All boxing contests would be limited to fifteen rounds and penalties fixed for fake bouts.

MISS BOYLE SWIMS TO CENTURY TITLE

Miss Charlotte Boyle, woman national long distance swimming champion, last night added the Metropolitan A. A. U. senior 100-yard championship title to her collection. The Sea Gate star, competing under the emblem of the Women's Swimming Association of New York, annexed the title in easy fashion, in the West Sixtieth Street Baths, where the championship event was held in connection with three other races.

Miss Boyle, showing flashes of the form which made her one of the country's leading swimmers, showed the way to Miss Helen Wainwright, a youthful clubmate, while Miss Grace Kahrs, Barnard College, finished third. The champion covered the journey in 1:10, and at the finish was enjoying a lead of about three yards on Miss Wainwright. The latter, in turn, was about two feet in front of Miss Kahrs.

From the start the race developed into a test between Miss Boyle and Miss Wainwright. For little more than a length of the West Side pool Miss Wainwright kept abreast of her sturdy rival. Gradually, however, Miss Boyle's powerful strokes began to tell, and she advanced to a slight lead. Miss Wainwright gave spirited pursuit, but was unequal to the task of overhauling the champion. With each successive turn Miss Boyle's advantage increased until she had accumulated a victorious margin of about three yards at the finish. Miss Wainwright was hard-pressed to retain second position in the face of a determined closing spurt by Miss Kahrs.

In the three other events Women's Swimming Association representatives monopolized the honors. Miss Ethel Baker swam to victory in a 60-yard handicap test for juniors. Miss Baker was allowed a start of eight seconds, and covered the distance in 41 seconds. Miss Georgia Wilson captured a 100-yard swim for novices in 1:23 1-5 and Miss Florence Briscoe showed the way in a 220-yard senior handicap event.

The summaries:

60-Yard Swim, Junior, Handicap—Won by Miss Ethel Baker, New York (8 seconds); Miss Katherine Brown, New York (10 seconds), second; Miss Lillian Stodda, New York (1 second), third. Time—0:41.

220-Yard Swim, Senior, Handicap—Won by Miss Florence Briscoe, New York (53 seconds); Miss Maud Macfarland, New York (52 seconds), second; Miss Gertrude Morris, New York (47 seconds), third. Time—3:26.

HUGE STADIUM IS PLANNED.

Atlantic City Likely to Have Structure Seating 70,000.

That there is a project on foot to erect at Atlantic City a huge stadium, with the hope and expectation of making it the stage of the greatest sporting events of this country and even of the world, became known yesterday. The plan involves the expenditure of $500,000, which is understood to be already available, upon a structure which is to have a seating capacity of 70,000. A site on the Boulevard at the celebrated resort has already been secured at an outlay of $1,200,000, and it is designed to begin construction in the coming Spring.

It will be surmised that the promoters of this affair have their minds and their eyes on sporting fixtures possessing a greater drawing power than croquet, or even archery. Neither are they contemplating leasing the grounds to Mr. Lawson's dream child, the Continental League. All they want is the best there is. They will endeavor, for instance, to get the Olympic games for their big playground sooner or later, and preferably sooner. They hope that the international polo clashes will be fought out on the field by the sounding surf. The project comprises efforts to land fixtures, variegated but all important, such as national tennis tournaments, Army-Navy football games, world's series and other great contests that arouse widespread interest and cause pilgrimages to be made from considerable distances.

Capitalists, as well known as the sporting events they desire to stage, are said to be back of the newly launched project. They are interested in sports and they believe that America should have, and will support, a great central field where conflicts of major importance can be watched by a huge multitude. Their chief impelling motive in the matter, then, is a love of sports, according to the chronicle, and only secondarily are they interested in Atlantic City. They think, too, that they can make some money when their scheme gets fully under way and that may have some bearing on their determination. Possibly it belongs at the top of the list of motives.

JOCKEY MITCHELL DIES FROM INJURY

Apprentice Rider Sustains Fracture of Skull in New Orleans Race.

GROUND SWELL STUMBLES

Large Crowd Sees Accident — Columbia Tenn Wins the Bogalusa Handicap.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 18.—A bad spill in the fourth race resulting in an injury from which Jockey Buster Mitchell died tonight marred today's racing at the Fair Grounds. Mitchell sustained a fracture of the skull and was removed to the track infirmary and later to the Charity Hospital. He did not recover consciousness and died a few hours after the accident.

Mitchell, who was an apprentice, had the mount on Ground Swell, one of the twelve starters in the fourth race. After covering a furlong Ground Swell stumbled on the heels of another horse and fell heavily, throwing Mitchell. As he lay on the ground the horse's heels struck him about the head and arms. After the race the Stewards questioned the jockeys, and it was the general impression that Mitchell had tried to run his mount through a narrow opening. The accident, the first of the Winter season, was witnessed by a large crowd.

The unfortunate jockey was only 17 years old. His home was in Calgary, Canada, and he was in the employ of Lloyd Gentry here.

Columbia Tenn, a Winner.

The erratic gelding Columbia Tenn Baker's erratic gelding Columbia Tenn was in a running mood today, and, performing at his best, had little difficulty in capturing the Bogalusa Handicap, a six-furlong dash, which was the chief event on the card at the Fair Grounds. He was nearly two lengths in front of Ultra Gold at the finish, while the latter was put to a drive to hold second by a head against Tableau d'Honneur.

Although there was a good-sized crowd on hand they had little to rejoice over in regard to the favorites, for only two of the choices received the approving nod of the judges. Ultra Gold was one of the choices which failed his backers, although Columbia Tenn was a close second choice who was heavily backed.

Columbia Tenn did not lose much time in taking command of the spirit, for, racing Trust Official down, he was in front at the first furlong pole. Jarvis had only to keep him together to hold the lead to the end. Ultra Gold gave a good performance, and racing into second position soon after the start, made a game effort in the stretch, but appeared to tire slightly just at the end, when Tableau d'Honneur came with a rush and then altered to take second money. Trust Official was a prominent factor in the early running, but quit to a walk in the stretch, and was seventh among the eight starters at the finish.

Hank O'Day Scores Handily.

Hank O'Day, which has seen better days, found himself in a claiming race at a mile and a sixteenth with a bunch of cheap performers and had enough class to score handily from his opposition. He was much the best of the field and had a length to spare over Tan II, without being put to any great effort. This son of Peep o' Day raced to the front and opened up a gap of three lengths going through the back stretch. He soon took the running out of Captain Burns and Jockey Lyke had only to hand ride his mount to win. Captain Burns tired badly and lost second place, but managed to hang on long enough to see third. Hank O'Day was one of the two favorites to win.

Star Time, a Star Shoot gelding owned by A. Taletare, gave a good account of himself in the three-furlong dash for juveniles and won with considerable to spare over Miss Finn, with Little Patsy third.

Is Easy Victor in Fourth Race at Havana—Automatic Red Pays Backers Well.

HAVANA, Cuba, Jan. 18.—Three favorites, two second choices and a long shot divided the card at Oriental Park today.

In the feature event, the fourth race, Guaranteed was returned an easy winner, leading Pie and Brother MacLean to the finish. Guaranteed went into a long lead and, stepping the first half mile in :47 3-5, drew away to win, in a romp by three lengths. Pie came fast and outgamed Brother MacLean. The start was very poor. Matinee Idol, Frank W. Haran and Red Start were practically left at post.

Automatic Red, a despised outsider in the betting, sprung a surprise when he won the first race in a drive by a neck, defeating Julieanne. He was at 12 to 1, the booking odds, and in the mutuel pool he paid $31.30 for a $2 ticket.

Special to The New York Times.

BELLEAIR HEIGHTS, Fla., Jan. 18.—The second round of match play in the January tournament here brought about one great surprise when yesterday's medal winner went down to defeat. A. R. Horr of Englewood scored 83 in the qualifying round, but he was at least a half dozen strokes above this mark today in his match round against Clarence Hobart, the former tennis star, also of the New York district, and lost by three holes. Hobart gained this advantage over his opponent on the first nine and held on to this finish.

The summary:

First Sixteen—Clarence Hobart, New York, defeated A. R. Horr, Englewood, 3 and 2; Grantland Rice, Englewood, defeated T. W. Kennedy, Merion Cricket Club, 6 and 5; W. Ingersoll, Rockford, Ill., defeated W. Wallace, Nantucket, 3 and 1; J. W. Nobie, Great Neck, defeated J. S. Dinston, Philadelphia, 7 and 6; L. B. Dickinson, Clearwater, defeated E. L. FIRST GOOSE DERBY ENDS IN NEAR-RIOT Fair Drivers in Poultry Show Stunt Dispute Delicate Point of Racing Rules.

New York's first Goose Derby, held yesterday in connection with the scheduled opening of the Poultry Show at Madison Square Garden, has provided a dispute for the stewards of the Grand Goose Circuit. Likewise it has brought about a misunderstanding which probably will result in the calling off of athletic relations with the Greenwich Village Follies by competitors from the Century Promenade and the Ziegfeld Midnight Frolic. It is a certainty that new rules must be made if goose racing is to continue.

The Poultry Show did not get under way yesterday morning as per schedule, but neither this delay nor the arctic weather prevented the goose race. The contest was held shortly after 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon around the oval in the centre of Madison Square Park with eighteen starters, each goose being driven by a show girl from one of the musical companies mentioned above. A protest from the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals was received before the race, but when it was made plain that no cruelty would result this was withdrawn.

The dispute arose over a question of ethics in goose racing and as there was no specific rule on the point involved the driver of the first goose to cross the finish line was awarded the $100 loving cup, despite protests from other competitors. Miss Mildred Mann of the Greenwich Village Follies was the driver of the goose which was declared the winner, and second prize went to Miss Phoebe Lee of the Century Promenade.

Say She Tugged Bird Over Line.

The protest against Miss Mann's victory was based on the charge that she dragged her goose along to triumph while Miss Lee drove according to the full meaning of the word. The Century and Ziegfeld drivers joined together in the protest against the Greenwich Village victory.

Another charge was made against the Greenwich Villagers because the drivers from this troupe had tied small bags of chicken feed to the ends of the bamboo staffs which were given to each driver to use as a whip. By holding the sack a few inches in front of the goose more speed was attained than by using the staff in the manner for which it was designed. This little trick added to the feelings of the other contestants against the Greenwich Villagers. Harvey C. Wood of the Poultry Show executive staff, who promoted and judged the goose race, tried to establish peaceful relations among the various drivers after the race, but it simply couldn't be done.

Several hundred persons gathered in the park to view the novel race and they remained to the finish, despite the wintry blasts. As geese are not very amenable to reins and whip for a speedy journey over a fixed course, it required several minutes before the race was completed. Police had to be called upon to keep the onlookers from crowding on the course and interfering with the progress of the web-footed racers.

Will Begin Judging Today.

The work of transforming the Garden into long lines of pens for the Poultry Show was not completed until last evening. It had been planned to start the show yesterday morning, and because of the delay an effort will be made to continue the exhibit through Sunday if permission can be obtained. The judging, which will be started this morning, will be completed by Saturday, and the final day would be for show only.

All past records for Poultry Shows at the Garden have been shattered this year. The number of exhibitors surpasses the best previous figure by 125, and the individual specimens on exhibit run many hundreds over the best previous mark. It has become necessary to use the basement of the Garden for waterfowl, turkeys, pheasants and song birds. For the first time since 1913 England has sent over an exhibit, which consists of fifty Cornish fowl, shown by Alfred Birch of Liverpool. Harold Wilkinson has come over from England to judge some of the exhibits, this being the first instance of a judge coming from Europe since the show prior to the opening of the World War.

Uncle Sam, who has gone extensively into the science of poultry raising, has an exhibit of thirty birds from the United States Government Poultry Farm at Beltsville, Md. In this exhibit are barred Plymouth Rocks, Rhode Island Reds, White Leghorns, black Hamburgs and Cornish fowl. The star of the Government troup is Lady Victory, a single comb White Leghorn which has accounted for 779 eggs in the last five years. Lady Victory is almost seven years old. Lectures on poultry raising will be delivered each afternoon and evening during the show.

PAL MOORE IN BOUT HERE.

Memphis Boxer Will Meet Young Montreal at Garden Jan. 26.

The next series of boxing bouts at Madison Square Garden will be conducted on Jan. 26. Promoter Tex Rickard yesterday announced that he had completed arrangements for a program providing a schedule of forty-six rounds of milling. The card will include two fifteen-round encounters, a ten-round match and a bout scheduled for six rounds.

Pal Moore, Memphis bantamweight, and Young Montreal of Providence will make their appearance in one of the fifteen-round events. This contest will mark the initial appearance of both boxers at the Garden. Moore was scheduled to box Jack Sharkey several weeks ago, but sustained an injury prior to the bout which compelled him to cancel the engagement.

Boy McCormick, Irish light-heavyweight, will make his metropolitan début in the other scheduled fifteen-round bout. McCormick will demonstrate his ability against Johnny Howard, Bayonne boxer, who has survived many hard ring encounters. In the ten-round bout Paul Doyle of the east side and Barney Adair of Harlem will clash. The six-round bout will bring together Frankie Conifrey, Harlem boxer, and Sam Mosberg, former amateur lightweight champion.

Harvard Freshman Five Wins.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Jan. 18.—A late rally yielded Harvard freshmen a 41 to 34 victory over Dartmouth's first year basketball team here this afternoon. Gordon, Harvard's captain, scored 27 of his team's total, making 13 baskets after fouls.

HOREMANS DISPLAYS HIS SKILL AT 18.1

Edouard Horemans started in on his first exhibition of 18.1 balkline billiards yesterday at Maurice Daly's rooms, with the veteran cue expert, Thomas Gallagher, as his adversary. Gallagher did not prove to be a dangerous one, though that does not mean that he did not play good billiards—merely that the Belgian played better billiards.

Two blocks of 300 points each were played, one in the afternoon and the other last night. Horemans won both of them, the first by a score of 300 to 9 and the other at 300 to 85. The Belgian's average in the afternoon game was 42 6-7, while in the evening game it was 21 6-14. The high run in the afternoon was 91, while he clicked off 143 in the evening game. The American record in match play is 140 for a long run and 31¼ for an average in match play. Horemans's performances yesterday bettered both of these marks and demonstrated an entirely new style of balkline billiards, which, according to Maurice Daly, who was one of the most interested spectators, is sure to result in changing our style of play.

In the evening game, when Horemans had tallied 140 points, which equaled the American match record, it was necessary for him to make a difficult massé shot in which the position of the lights over the table interfered materially, but, much to the surprise of all, he made the shot and added two more to the count before missing. It is the belief of the billiard enthusiasts who have watched Horemans that the massé shot will be developed as a means for running up larger scores than have been made heretofore by many players.

The summaries: Afternoon game—Horemans: 33, 49, 34, 0, 91, 67, 26; total, 300. Gallagher: 3, 4, 0, 0, 1, 1; total, 9. Evening game—Horemans: 26, 50, 5, 11, 2, 0, 39, 0, 0, 3, 6, 3, 12; total, 300. Gallagher: 29, 5, 0, 0, 3, 4, 1, 0, 0, 8, 8, 7, 20; total, 85.

LEAK WINS AT ANGLES.

Defeats Wyatt in Amateur Three-Cushion Tourney, 50 to 12.

Three-cushion billiardists who are competing for the New York State amateur championship at the National Recreation Academy continued their tourney yesterday and M. Leak defeated E. D. Wyatt by the score of 50 to 12 in fifty-four innings. Leak's high run was 5, while Wyatt's was 3. Leak played a good safety game, while Wyatt failed to get breaks and was slow in starting.

At the same academy last night John Layton defeated Charles Otis by the score of 50 to 24 in a game that lasted forty-four innings. Layton had high runs of 6 and 4, while Otis made 5 and 4. The score in the block match now stands at 100 for Layton against 56 for his adversary. The final block will be played today.

Clark Defeats Wolfert.

George Clark defeated Fred Wolfert last night at Lawlor's billiard room by a score of 125 to 69 in the continuation of the professional pocket billiard tournament. Clark's high run was 35, while Wolfert's was 26. Clark started with a run of 14, then scored a zero and followed with his long run of 35, which gave him the long lead Wolfert could not overcome. Joseph Concannon meets Frank Quinn tonight.

THE PLAY
By Alexander Woollcott

The Critic as Artist.

THE GREEN GODDESS, a play in four acts by William Archer. At the Booth Theatre.

The Raja of Rukh	George Arliss
Watkins	Ivan F. Simpson
Major Antony Crespin	Herbert Waring
Lucilla	Olive Wyndham
Dr. Basil Traherne	Cyril Keightley
Lieutenant Denis Cardew	Herbert Ransome
The High Priest	David A. Leonard
The Temple Priest	Gulio Bachia
An Ayah	Helen Nowell

William Archer, celebrated as the advance man for the Ibsen plays in the English-speaking theatre and generally known throughout his own country and ours as one given to much lecturing and pamphleteering on the subject of how plays should be written, decided years ago that he himself could never write one. Apparently, however, he reconsidered, and last evening a play of his received its New York première at the Booth Theatre. This was "The Green Goddess," which owes a good deal to a characteristic and velvet-footed performance by George Arliss, and still more to an uncommonly rich and fastidious production by that interesting though intermittent man of the theatre, Winthrop Ames.

As for the play itself, it was a sore disappointment to all those professional folk who gathered at the Booth last evening in the lively hope of saying to one another in the smoking room: "Ho! Ho! This fellow Archer who thinks he knows so much! Well, he may know the theory! Ho! Ho!" For in "The Green Goddess" the veteran critic has tossed off a pragmatically successful melodrama, a thriller that really thrills. He has attempted nothing more—nor less—than a suave and mannerly hair-raiser, and while his play will not touch your heart nor quicken your mind, it is practically certain to have a most agitating effect upon your scalp.

His fable, an inevitably interesting one even when less adroitly handled, belongs in that long and honorable tradition of imperial tales which pose against an ominous background of brown or yellow (but in either event hostile) people, a handful of marooned and imperiled folk belonging to what, however it may annoy Mr. Chesterton, is most easily described as the Anglo-Saxon race. Such peril in such isolation has all the concentrating effect of a spotlight, and it is in such a light that the events of "The Green Goddess" are whisperingly unfolded, along with considerable hanky-panky of shifting lights and tinkling cymbals.

The goddess in question is the six-armed deity of a dynasty (doubtless Dravidian) which has retreated like a lost cause to some inaccessible reaches of the Himalayas. Into the clutches of her current rajah there fall (from a misguided airplane) two British officers and the wife of one of them, and the succeeding scenes concern themselves with the effort of the rajah to retain the lady and the efforts of these prisoners to get word across the snows to India. How, finally, the word is sent and how British bombing planes come booming over the rajah's little domain just as the tortures are beginning—that is the substance of "The Green Goddess." Whether or not they arrive in the nick of time, it would be grossly improper and highly unnecessary to report.

Mr. Archer has built his play fairly well and written it smoothly and then had the immense good fortune to fall into the hands of Mr. Ames, who, for some reason or other, was minded to emerge from his quasi-retirement and devote himself to an exceptionally handsome and silken production of this play. It is all good looking and the scene in the rajah's palace which reveals the dim blue distance of the snowclad Himalayas is one of those stage pictures which are getting to be quite everyday occurrences in our theatre, but which would have evoked considerable excitement and no little essay writing a few seasons ago.

"The Green Goddess" provides Mr. Arliss with the kind of work in which he is most happy. With his countenance at once gentle and diabolic, with his cat-like tread and with his uneasy but sinister hands, he seems to have been roaming our stage all his days in wistful quest of a play about a rajah with richly encrusted garments, a sardonic humor and an evil heart. Now he has found it, and it has the look and sound of a vehicle likely to trundle him as far and as comfortably as did "Disraeli."

After Mr. Arliss (and, of course, Mr. Ames), the one who helps "The Green Goddess" most is Ivan Simpson. He is still in service, but he has risen from valeting Rollo of the one wild oat to being a rajah's gentleman, and this giddy ascent has stirred him into giving a capital performance. Olive Wyndham, Cyril Keightley, Herbert Waring (who accompanied Mr. Arliss to this country years ago in the tour of Mrs. Patrick Campbell)—all these are useful members of the company at the Booth, but it is Mr. Simpson who matters most in making "The Green Goddess" what it unmistakably is—good entertainment.

MUSIC
By Richard Aldrich

The Flonzaley Quartet.

The Flonzaley Quartet conceives a part of its duty toward its public consist in bringing forward new compositions in the field of chamber music. At its second concert given last evening in Aeolian Hall it put on its program a piece unfamiliar to New York, "Sérénade Dramatique," by Joseph Jongen. The composer is a Belgian, not much of whose music is known here. A 'cello concerto by him was played some years ago by Jean Gérardy.

His serenade is in a single movement, not too seriously conceived, but skillfully executed, with the earmarks of the serenade plainly to be found in the pizzicato of the other three instruments, while the first violin plays a quaintly devised melody. In this the others gradually join, all merging then into a four-part song. The writing for the instruments is expertly managed, and the effect, if not luxurious in beauty, is engaging. The work is not an important addition to modern chamber music, but it was quite worth doing, and was received cordially by the audience.

The program began with Brahms's quartet in C minor, Op. 51, No. 1, and ended with Beethoven's quartet in F, the first of the Rasoumoffsky set, Op. 59. Both are among the supreme products of chamber music, and the latter, at least, one of the best known. Brahms's work shares with it the fundamentals on which immortality is based, and the performance set forth its nobility and passion, its fervent feeling for beauty, its supreme perfection in form. The Flonzaley players have not played with a riper and richer beauty of tone, a finer balance of the four instruments, a more exquisite finish of ensemble than they did last evening.

Poldowski's Recital.

For a number of years givers of song recitals have put on their programs songs attributed to "Poldowski." It has not been a secret that Poldowski is the pen-name of the daughter of Henri Wieniawski, the famous violinist, now Lady Dean Paul, and a resident of England. Being in America, Poldowski—so her program called her—gave a recital of her own songs and piano pieces in the Princess Theatre yesterday afternoon. The house was completely filled with an interested and distinguished audience.

She had the assistance of Margaret Husten Carrington, soprano, and Murray Davey, bass, neither of whom is well known to New York audiences, but both of whom showed unusual powers of interpretation. She herself played her piano pieces with remarkable charm and skill, as well as the accompaniments of the songs; playing not in the traditional manner of a composer, but as an accomplished artist, technically well equipped and musical to her finger tips.

This music of Poldowski's shows, undoubtedly, the influence of the modern French school; an influence that is in the air and not to be escaped by any whose sympathies lie in that direction, as hers plainly do. Yet there is a strong individuality that runs through it and there is no sense of imitation. There is an unusual power of expression, of the interpretation of the spirit of the verses, of the establishment of a mood. Many of the songs are settings of verses by Paul Verlaine, whose plangent subtleties, delicate suggestions of scene, glimpses of passion and of irony, are mirrored in Poldowski's music with much skill and sympathy.

They owed much to the performance they received yesterday. Mrs. Carrington and Mr. Davey sang them with a clear insight into their spirit. Mr. Davey's singing was notably dramatic in style. His voice is powerful, though not sensuously beautiful in quality, and his delivery artistic in phrasing and expression. Both singers displayed excellent enunciation of the French text. The composer's playing of the accompaniments was exceedingly skillful, and was an important factor in the effect. She contributed four piano pieces to the program, picturesque in their suggestiveness and color and of imaginative power.

"Rose Girl" to Open the Ambassador

The Shuberts will open their new Ambassador Theatre, on Forty-ninth Street, west of Broadway, early next month with "The Rose Girl." "The Rose Girl" is a musical piece with score by Anselm Goetzl, and the cast will include Charles Purcell, Marjorie Gateson, Mabel Withee, Stewart Baird, Louis Simon, Fred Hillebrand, Shep Camp, and others.

UNDERWOOD WINS FIGHT FOR OFFICERS

Senate Sends to Committee the Nominations of 5,534 to Lower Army Grades.

CONFIRMATION IS PREDICTED

Lodge Makes an Exception to Republican Policy of Barring Wilson Appointments.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—The Republican majority in the Senate today, following a plea by Senator Underwood, the Democratic leader, voted to refer to the Committee on Military Affairs the nominations of 5,534 officers of the lower grades of the army, all of whom are original appointees under the provisions of the Army Reorganization act. These officers were drawn from the civilian reserve organizations and were commissioned after examination as to their physical and moral fitness for command, General Pershing being the head of the Selective Board.

The action taken by the Senate was not regarded as a reversal of the policy of the majority to refuse confirmation of every civil nomination sent to the Senate by President Wilson.

It was made evident in the debate that all nominations for civilian positions, all promotions of army officers to the grades of general and of all officers of the army as well as the navy who have been designated to head bureaus in the War and Navy Departments, Postmasters of all classes, members of the Shipping Board and hundreds of other nominations which President Wilson has sent to the Senate since the short session convened last December, would not be confirmed.

Senate Makes an Exception.

That the 5,534 officers appointed from civil life to grades ranging from Second Lieutenant to Colonel will become an exception was due entirely to the skillful presentation of their case by Senator Underwood. Just before he made his plea the Senate had twice voted down motions that would have brought thousands of nominations before the Senate for confirmation. When Senator Underwood concluded his appeal for the officers who, as he pointed out, won their commissions as a result of gallant service in the war, the Senate voted unanimously to send their nominations to the Committee on Military Affairs, and Senator Lodge announced that this meant their confirmation by the Senate between now and March 4.

The fight to get various nominations before the Senate started when Senator Fletcher of Florida called up for discussion a resolution he offered yesterday which directs the Committee on Post Offices and Post Roads to ascertain from Postmaster General Burleson the names of all former service men and widows of soldiers recommended to the President and by the President nominated to be Postmasters. By a strict party vote of 34 to 32 the Senate voted to refer the resolution to the Post Office Committee, where the general opinion is it will be pigeonholed.

The next test vote came when Senator Robinson of Arkansas made a motion that the Senate go into executive session. He called for the yeas and nays and again the Senate, by 35 to 36, voted down the Democratic proposal, one Republican, [illegible] of Nebraska, voting with the Democrats. Senator Lodge declared that no nominations that might hamper the incoming Administration would be acted upon.

Underwood's Plea for Officers.

Immediately following Vice President Marshall's announcement of the defeat of the Robinson motion Senator Underwood was recognized.

"I desire," said Senator Underwood, "at this time to offer a unanimous consent request. I hope the Senate will be patient with me for a moment, for it will not take long to state what I have in mind.

"There are a number of military appointments pending before the Senate and which have not been referred to the Committee on Military Affairs. I am not sure that Senators have analyzed the situation with reference to these nominations. Without an executive session there is no way except by unanimous consent to send these nominations to the committee.

"In this large number of military nominations there are in the neighborhood of 5,000 officers who were appointed from the reserves of the National Guard to commands in the army under the Army Reorganization act. They are men who won their spurs on the battlefields of [illegible] and many of whom were [illegible] because of gallantry on the field of action.

"These officers have stood the mental and physical examination. They have been commissioned and are serving in all parts of the United States. Theirs are recess appointments and they will continue to serve until March 4 and when that day comes, if the Senate fails to act in the meantime, they will be in the streets and we will have stricken the epaulets from their shoulders by the inaction of the Senate. More than that, as I understand the law, we will have to pass another bill before they will again be eligible for appointment.

"Now I know what the trouble is and we may as well look things in the face. I am not trying to play politics. I know that the majority does not want to confirm civilian members. That is not a question that I wish to go into, but I say that it would be a crime to strike down these soldiers of the United States because of a personal political battle."

Senator Underwood at this point made a motion to go into open executive session for the purpose of considering the nominations of the officers in whose behalf he had spoken.

Lodge Agrees to Proposal.

Senator Lodge, replying to Senator Underwood, expressed his sympathy with the officers whose status had been explained by Mr. Underwood and asked if it was not possible to separate them from the other army nominations and consider them thus for confirmation.

"I care nothing about civil appointments," said Senator Lodge, "and I am taking [illegible] these nominations now under consideration without reference to politics. There are certain nominations in the army and navy that I think ought to be very carefully considered by the Senate, and the nominations of these officers stand on a different footing entirely from those described by the Senator from Alabama. I should like, if possible, to separate these officers whom Senator Underwood has described and have their nominations confirmed and disposed of.

"I do not, however, propose to submit, without some opportunity for discussion and examination, to some of the nominations of the higher officers which have been sent in, nor do I propose, if in any way I can prevent it, to have the bureaus of the Navy Department filled up within less than sixty days before a new Administration comes in and have these bureaus packed for four years, in this way preventing and hampering action by the new Administration and the Secretary of the Navy."

"I will say to the Senator from Massachusetts," Senator Underwood replied, "that I have no objection to his point of view. If the Democratic Party was coming into power I think it should control the executive bureaus. I have no desire to resist the proposition that when the Senator's party comes into power the President whom his party has selected, should select his own executive heads. All that I am trying to do is to give an opportunity for the Senate, without any partisan fight, without being mixed up in politics, to consider the nominations of deserving military men who won their epaulets on the battlefields and not let the Senate strike them off through inaction."

Senator Robinson said that he desired to have the nominations of all the officers of all ranks for commissions or promotion, 9,783 in number, referred to the committee.

When he had concluded, Senator Underwood asked Senator Wadsworth to draw up a resolution to send the nominations of the 5,534 new officers to the committee. This was done and the resolution was unanimously carried in open executive session.

Senator Norris explained why he voted with the Democrats for an executive session. He said he was interested particularly in the cases of several patent officials who have been nominated by President Wilson, the nomination in each instance being a promotion. Senator Norris said he was certain that President Harding, if the matter was left to him, would name the same men as President Wilson.

"I believe," said Senator Norris, "that the Senate should proceed to consider all nominations the same as it would do had President Wilson been re-elected. I am not willing, as a Senator or as a Republican, to commit myself or my party to doing the same thing that the Democrats did eight years ago. I considered the policy of the Democrats silly then, and I think the Republicans are just as silly now."

ASKS FOOD SHIP GUARDS.

National Canner Member Would Hold Up Disarmament Plan.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, Jan. 18.—The United States is becoming more and more a food-importing nation as a result of the Government's failure to allow sufficient expenditures for promoting agriculture by research and education, C. G. Woodbury, Chairman of the Bureau of Raw Products Research of the National Canners' Association, said today at the canners' fourteenth annual convention. Mr. Woodbury asserted that any plans for disarmament must be held up so long as it was necessary to protect our trade routes.

He said that 100 years ago there were three and a half times as many persons engaged in agriculture as in city occupations, while today there were three city dwellers to be fed by every one engaged in agriculture.

"This steady current is bringing us to a point where there are two clear alternatives," he declared. "If the present tendency persists we shall become increasingly a food-importing nation, dependent upon foreign sources of supply for our national subsistence.

"The other alternative is a national policy which will recognize the necessity of a sound and prosperous agriculture as the foundation for a sound and prosperous national life."

"During the period of advancing costs the most popular remedy advanced was to invoke the aid of the Government," he said. "It is rather singular and amusing that the same aid is now being sought to check the downward trend."

ALTERS THEORY IN PRISON.

"Class Distinction" Agitator Hires Convict to Clean His Cell.

Special to The New York Times.

OSSINING, Jan. 18.—Former Assemblyman Benjamin Gitlow, Socialist agitator convicted of criminal anarchy, who denounced class distinction before he went to Sing Sing, firmly believes in it in prison, according to keepers.

Attendants described today how Gitlow had to be reprimanded for violating prison rules by hiring and paying one of the "masses" imprisoned there to clean up his cell, which the agitator was too fastidious to do himself. Gitlow was trapped paying a menial ten cents a day for the "housework" which the great proletarian himself frowned on.

SUES FOR "LAGER" LABEL.

Beverage Company Contests the Ruling of Commissioner Kramer.

LOUISVILLE, Jan. 18.—Suit was filed in the United States District Court here today attacking the regulation of Prohibition Commissioner Kramer, issued Oct. 28, forbidding brewers to use synonyms for the words "beer," "ale" or "porter."

In its petition the Oertel Beverage Company of Louisville, which filed the suit, requested an order to restrain United States District Attorney W. V. Gregory and other Federal officers from enforcing the ruling. The company declared that it had spent large sums of money in manufacturing cereal beverages labeled "double lager" and "lager style," which it was contended were threatened with confiscation by the Government.

RETIREMENT A JOKE TO LEADER MURPHY

Will Quit When His Beard Gets Long, and He Still Is Clean Shaven.

GOING TO EUROPE, MAYBE

Back From French Lick, He Finds It Too Early to Discuss Mayoralty.

Charles F. Murphy, who returned from a vacation at French Lick Springs, Ind., yesterday and went to his desk in the Fourteenth Street headquarters, denied, by implication at least, the published report that he would retire as leader of Tammany. Mr. Murphy was met upon his arrival at Tammany Hall by most of the district leaders. He appeared in good humor and health and laughed when a group of reporters inquired about the report.

"Are you going to Europe, Mr. Murphy?" was the first question asked, and the Tammany men present crowded around to catch the reply.

"You don't see me over there, do you?" replied the Tammany chieftain. "Too stormy," he continued. "I think I'll wait until warmer weather."

"The old story about you giving up the leadership is going around," Mr. Murphy was told. "Will you retire?"

"Not yet," he said. "You know what Sam Green used to say, 'I'll give it up when my beard gets down here (pointing in the general direction of his knees), and it hasn't started growing yet.'" (Mr. Murphy is clean shaven.)

"Is there any basis for the speculation that you might give up the leadership?"

Shaking his head in the negative, Mr. Murphy said: "I'm too healthy."

"Are you interested in the police situation?" was the next question.

"I am giving all my attention to Tammany Hall," Mr. Murphy replied.

"When are you going to have something to say about the Mayoralty?"

"Too early yet," Mr. Murphy replied laconically, as he turned to talk with some of the district leaders.

Young Woman Is Seriously Burned.

Miss Dorothy Pitou, 19-year-old daughter of Augustus Pitou, a theatrical producer of Bayside, was seriously burned Monday night when her night dress caught fire from a gas stove in her bedroom. Dr. Charles B. Story after treating the young woman said he thought she would recover.

NEW COMPANY BACKS HUDSON RAIL BRIDGE

Project Also Calls for Trunk Line Terminal on This Side of the River.

$200,000,000 IS INVOLVED

INCORPORATION AT ALBANY

Bankers See Enterprise as a Move to Solve City's Freight Export Problem.

The announcement here yesterday of the incorporation in Albany of The Hudson River Bridge Corporation revived comment which had been intermittent in railroad and engineering circles for several years, regarding the construction of a big suspension bridge across the Hudson River to simplify the export freight problem in the Port of New York, and lent color to rumors which had also recurred in railroad circles that some day all of the trunk line railroads would have the benefits of a big union passenger station in the heart of Manhattan somewhere in the vicinity of Fifty-ninth Street.

According to plans which have been submitted to several of the trunk line railroad presidents in a general way and have received their private approval a bridge such as the one proposed would serve as a Manhattan entrance for such trunk line carriers as the Baltimore & Ohio, Central Railroad of New Jersey, Erie, Delaware, Lackawanna & Western, Reading and others, and would benefit even the Pennsylvania system in that it would provide the means for a distribution of carload freight direct to transatlantic liners.

The plans as tentatively discussed between the engineers and railroad men and bankers call for a total investment of from $200,000,000 to $360,000,000, and it is not generally expected in banking circles that financing of the project on such a large scale will be attempted at this time. But at the same time it is believed in some quarters that the organization of the bridge company may move the matter closer to completion.

An organization committee of which Otis H. Cutler, Chairman of the Board of Directors of the American Brake Shoe and Foundry Company, is chairman has been formed for the following purposes:

"To bring to the attention of the public and private authorities concerned the conditions and facts relative to the urgent necessity for traffic and terminal improvements at the Port of New York; to foster by every proper means the great work of constructing and equipping, along practicable and financially sound lines, a highway and railroad bridge and such dependent facilities as may be required to meet the public need; to support any proper measures looking to a co-ordinated and harmonious development adequate to the needs of the Port of New York as the principal gateway to America for the commerce of the world, and to encourage the employment of engineering plans and architectural designs compatible in technical perfection, and in dignity and beauty, with the importance and magnitude of the works contemplated."

Revived agitation of the bridge project led to a meeting at the Metropolitan Club last month at which these purposes were outlined.

The statement emanating from Mr. Cutler's office says:

"The Hudson River Bridge Corporation is capitalized for the present at $251,000, and the Directors named in the papers filed at Albany are George A. Post, R. A. C. Smith, John H. Love, Henry D. Walbridge, Thomas H. Simpson, Fulton MacMahon, W. J. Amend, George T. Smith and George F. D. Trask. The purposes of the corporation are to further the objects set forth in the charter of the Hudson River Bridge Company, created by act of Congress in 1890, by organizing such corporation or corporations and by taking such other measures as may or will bring about the construction, equipping, operation and maintenance along practicable and financially sound lines of the great double-deck highway and railroad bridge contemplated and all its necessary appurtenances, including a classification and terminal yard in New Jersey, an elevated railroad on the west side of Manhattan for freight and passengers, a union station in Manhattan for the railroads now terminating in New Jersey, a moving platform under Fifty-seventh Street and across the bridge, electrical power plant and such other elements as may be required to meet the public need and insure the financial stability of the enterprise as a whole.

"The entire plan is estimated to require seven to eight years and a total investment of about $200,000,000, of which approximately one-half will be represented by the bridge itself."

The work will be done with private capital, and it is expected that the railroads and other prospective users of the bridge will make traffic agreements in advance of construction sufficient to cover the operating cost, interest and other fixed charges, including amortization.

WILL APPOINT WOMEN DEPUTY PROSECUTORS

State's Attorney in Chicago Will Employ Them in All Cases Against Women.

CHICAGO, Jan. 18.—Robert E. Crowe, State's Attorney, tonight announced that he would appoint one or more women as assistants, and that in the future all women on trial in Cook County would be prosecuted by women attorneys.

"The average woman is more competent to understand the problems of a delinquent girl or woman," said Mr. Crowe, "and for this reason I think both the State and the defendant will be more sure of receiving jusice with a woman prosecutor."

TO MEET GEDDES AT ONCE.

British Prime Minister Expected to Receive Ambassador on Arrival.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Jan. 18.—The Chronicle's diplomatic correspondent says:

"When Sir Auckland Geddes reaches London Friday evening he will probably be received at once by the Prime Minister, who is expected to return to London on that day for a Cabinet council.

Sir Auckland's chief purpose is to consult the Home Government on Anglo-American questions generally. He will also report on the work of the Washington Embassy during the last ten months and review the whole of our relations with the United States Government.

"One of the points on which the Ambassador may be expected to enlighten the Prime Minister and Cabinet is the monetary position. Another is that of our trade relations."

Woman Offers Bill to Make Wives Employes of Husbands

TOPEKA, Jan. 18.—Husbands would be placed in the status of employers, with their wives as employes in their homes and permitted to recover damages for injuries received while performing household duties under the terms of a bill introduced in the Kansas House of Representatives today by Mrs. Minnie J. Grinstead, Representative from Seward County.

The measure was the first to be offered by one of Kansas's two women Representatives.

Despite the fact that there are but four women in both houses of the Legislature, as compared with 160 men, Mrs. Grinstead expressed confidence that her bill would meet with approval.

DECIDE O'CALLAGHAN MUST DEPART SOON

Secretaries Consult With President, and It Is Agreed Lord Mayor Is Here Illegally.

LABOR DEPARTMENT YIELDS

Acting Secretary of State Ready to Call on the Department of Justice to Take Charge of the Case.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—It was learned tonight that Donal O'Callaghan, Lord Mayor of Cork, will have to leave the United States very soon. It is understood that, following the Cabinet meeting this afternoon, Norman H. Davis, acting Secretary of State, and W. B. Wilson, Secretary of Labor, had a conference with the President, in which the President sustained the position of the State Department that O'Callaghan must leave American shores.

Mr. Davis would not discuss the matter tonight, and Secretary Wilson sent word that he had "nothing to say." It was learned, however, that the Solicitor of the State Department, who is an officer of the Department of Justice, submitted an opinion to Mr. Davis today on the action of the Labor Department in admitting O'Callaghan as a "seaman." It is stated that the opinion pointed out that even should O'Callaghan be a "seaman," as alleged by the Labor Department, although O'Callaghan did not make such a claim when he arrived in this country as a stowaway, he is nevertheless unlawfully here, as the law requires that the certificates of seamen entering the United States shall be viséd, and O'Callaghan does not possess such a certificate.

As a result of the conference this afternoon, it is understood, Secretary Wilson will be under obligations to send O'Callaghan out of the country. It is said that if he had not agreed to do so the State Department would have so insisted on its point that it would have directed the Department of Justice to take charge of the matter of arranging for O'Callaghan's departure.

While Secretary Wilson refused to talk tonight, officials of his department indicated that the Secretary, while willing that O'Callaghan should leave the United States, did not believe he should be actually deported. The Secretary's position, it was stated, was that O'Callaghan was a seaman here waiting for a transfer to another ship. Friends of O'Callaghan have been desperate in their efforts to save him the actual ignominy of deportation, and have sought for any technical loophole that would allow the man a chance to leave the country without a repudiation of this Government.

On the other hand, the State Department is said to have insisted that he leave, whether through deportation or by any other means. State Department officials have commented sarcastically on Secretary Wilson's ruling that O'Callaghan is a "seaman," saying that O'Callaghan's statement that he was Lord Mayor of Cork showed he was not a seaman.

The O'Callaghan matter has attracted the attention of Congress, and, whether the man leaves the country or not, it is known that his admission will be thoroughly sifted soon.

Lord Mayor O'Callaghan of Cork said at the Hotel Wolcott last night that his case had been left in the hands of his attorneys, and he had not heard of a decision that he must leave the country.

Asked whether he had completed his testimony before the unofficial Committee on Ireland, O'Callaghan said he thought it not unlikely that he would be recalled. He said he was not familiar with the plans for his stay here.

Harry Boland, Secretary to the "President of the Irish Republic," who has been directing O'Callaghan's plans, could not be found.

FRANCE SHUTS OFF GENEVA'S MILK SUPPLY

Revival of Ancient Dispute Over the Savoyard-Swiss Free Customs Zone.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

GENEVA, Jan. 18.—This morning Geneva awoke to find that she was suddenly deprived of 27,000 liters of fresh milk daily, the reason being that the French customs authorities along the Savoy frontier had held up the Savoyard milkmen and refused to let them bring milk into Switzerland.

The dispute between Switzerland and Savoy concerning what are called "free zones" was referred by the Treaty of Versailles to Switzerland and France for settlement between themselves. This settlement has not yet been made, and it is perhaps not generally known that Switzerland has not yet ratified the Treaty of Versailles. The lower house of the Swiss Parliament, after a hasty discussion of less than an hour, did ratify it, but the upper house declined to do so on the ground that the two Swiss delegates responsible for Article 435 of the Treaty of Versailles, referring the zone question to France and Switzerland, were not fully empowered by the Swiss Constitution to consent to this article, as all treaties between Switzerland and any other Power must be ratified by Parliament.

Until 1914 the peasants of Savoy were allowed to bring their produce into Geneva without paying customs, and it was hoped that after the armistice this produce would again be admitted free of duty. France, however, established a line of custom houses along what she calls the geographical boundary between Switzerland and her territory. Switzerland objects to this, taking her stand on ancient treaty rights, with the result that the question is now no less thorny than complex, especially as there are altogether three zones.

Negotiations are proceeding between France and Switzerland; but France's action in cutting off milk supplies has caused great consternation in Switzerland. The people of Savoy are in favor of maintaining these free trade zones between France and Geneva, but Paris seems determined to abolish them.

It is noteworthy that the Journal des Débats has admitted that Switzerland has the written law on her side, but France declares that she cannot grant special privileges to any part of her country. The Swiss say that the zone question involves long-established rights based on treaties that have never been abrogated.

TWO POLICE PARTIES AMBUSHED BY IRISH

TRIALS FOR 'BLOODY SUNDAY'

Thirty Suspects Reported Held for Murders of Officers—Sensational Evidence Expected.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

DUBLIN, Jan. 18.—Two ambushes were reported today from Galway and County Clare, respectively. In the first instance a lorry filled with auxiliaries which left Galway City at 9:30 o'clock this morning for patrol work, was ambushed by a party concealed in a wood at Kilroe, nine miles from the city. Bombs and guns were used by the attackers, but, although sustaining casualties, the auxiliaries replied vigorously and succeeded in dispersing them.

The section leader was wounded seriously in the leg and four cadets and a district inspector also were wounded by gunshots.

The Clare attack occurred yesterday at Clonloum Cross, between Six Mile Bridge and Broadford, a police car being involved. There were no police casualties, but it is believed two of the ambushing party who were operating from a farmer's house, were killed or seriously wounded. During the skirmish the house caught fire, the official report adds.

As a prelude to an attack upon New Inn barracks between Cashel and Cahir, County Tipperary, last night, a patrol of a sergeant and five constables were fired at as they entered the building. The sergeant was wounded in the leg but was carried inside and the attack then developed in earnest and was maintained for an hour after which the raiders withdrew.

At Cappaghwhite near Tipperary, a town constable was shot dead last night as he was standing in the door of a public house.

Thirty Suspects to Be Tried.

So swiftly does tragedy follow upon tragedy in Ireland that the grim drama of Bloody Sunday in Dublin, when British officers were assassinated wholesale recently, may become obscured by later events. Relentlessly, however, the authorities have pursued their search for the perpetrators, and I learn from a semi-official source there are now nearly thirty suspects in custody. Many of these were arrested in the city itself, while others have been taken in places twenty miles and more distant. Special Service men carried out the work unostentatiously, and officialdom has preserved a discreet silence on this dramatic hunt. It is computed that about 100 gunmen took part in the assassinations.

Preparations for the trial by court-martial of the suspects under arrest are being pushed forward. I understand the accused will probably be tried in batches of ten, and some sensational revelations are expected.

BELFAST, Jan 18.—David Kent, Sinn Fein member of the House of Commons for the East Division of Cork, was arrested yesterday. He makes the seventeenth Sinn Fein member of the British Parliament now in jail.

Six members of the Irish Republican Parliament are now in the United States, two are on the Continent and two have died, while one, Diarmid Lynch, has resigned.

An official proclamation has been issued in Tipperary forbidding all fairs, markets and public assemblies in the Tipperary, Cashel and Killmaule districts, owing to murders and attacks on police barracks.

An extensive raid was made today in the Fork Hills district, South Armagh. Twenty-three arrests were made, including a Lieutenant in the Republican Army.

CORK, Jan. 18.—Terror equally as intense as that which prevailed before martial law was enforced grips the people of Cork. The Black and Tan auxiliaries, who were withdrawn from the city after recent fires, now are more in evidence than ever, and since Saturday and Sunday nights, when the streets of the city were swept by bullets, the inhabitants have been living literally in fear and trembling.

"No woman can think of sleeping," said the wife of a prominent citizen today.

The warning of Major Gen. Sir Edward Strickland, the military commander, that drastic measures would follow assassinations of members of the Crown forces has served to increase the general feeling of uneasiness.

DUBLIN, Jan. 18.—Arthur Griffith, founder of the Sinn Fein organization, who was arrested in his home here on the morning of Nov. 26, will be court-martialed if the present plans of the authorities are carried out. The date of the court-martial, however, has not yet been set.

IRISH LABOR'S MANIFESTO

Calls on British Workers "to Take Action Immediately."

Copyright, 1921, by The Chicago Tribune Co.

DUBLIN, Jan. 18.—The Irish Labor Party has issued a manifesto to British labor in connection with a publicity campaign to be carried on in England. Reference is made to Great Britain's attempts to hold Ireland in the empire by reprisals, of shootings, fires and tyranny.

"Only such methods can prevail in attempting to govern without the consent of the governed," the manifesto says. "No generation has passed without protest since England claimed suzerainty.

"We demand freedom because we desire our political, cultural, social and economic life to develop in harmony with the genius of our people. Freedom means the right to choose, without outside intervention, the form of government under which the Irish nationals choose to live.

"British workers are urged to take action immediately or else allow the name of British democracy to be linked in the minds of men with Czarism and Prussianism.

"Organized Irish labor stands in this struggle solidly with the Irish nation in arms against the yoke, for an entirely separate political entity.

"Economic conditions will inevitably involve the closest relations between the two peoples. Great Britain's economic power, we recognize, is potent enough to enforce almost any terms on Ireland short of forfeiture or her honor and liberty. We shall all accept the British Labor Party's policy when it fulfills our demand for self-determination."

BARS OSMOND ESMONDE.

Australia Suspects Him as Sinn Fein Agent.

LONDON, Jan. 18.—The Government at Melbourne has directed that Osmond Grattan Esmonde, who is regarded by it as a Sinn Fein emissary, be not allowed to land from the steamer Makura, which is tied up in Sydney Harbor by a strike, says a dispatch to The London Times from Melbourne.

It is said that Esmonde has had eight days in which to decide whether to take the oath of allegience, and that as he has not made up his mind the Government considers that he would not be a desirable citizen in Australia.

Esmonde is a son of Sir Thomas Henry Grattan Esmonde, former member of the British Parliament for North Wexford, Ireland.

For Wireless Station in Argentina.

BUENOS AIRES, Jan. 17.—A concession for the building of a commercial wireless station for radio communication with other countries has been granted to the General Telegraphic Company of France by the Argentine Government. Stipulation is made by the Government that the station must be begun within sixteen months.

Locked in an Airtight Treasury Vault, Man Calls Help by Using Telegraph Code

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 18.—Locked for nearly six hours in a hermetically sealed concrete and steel vault in the City Treasurer's office last night, a knowledge of the Morse telegraph code probably saved the life of Arthur Brenner, Assistant City Treasurer. A mouse, locked in at the same time, failed to survive, and when Brenner was rescued its body was found.

Brenner entered the vault, a room 15 feet square and 20 feet high, five minutes before closing time yesterday hunting for a warrant. While he was there the big steel doors swung shut. He shouted for help without attracting notice.

The lights went out automatically as the doors shut. Brenner was on a balcony in the rear. He felt his way downstairs, pulled open every drawer to get the maximum amount of air possible and then slept for awhile with his head on a pile of books and his face as near the bottom of the door as possible on the assumption that a slight amount of air might get through at that point. When he awoke, his hand came in contact with a wooden slat, and remembering that Charles Hockwald, a night watchman, could telegraph, he pounded out in Morse, "I am locked in."

"Will get help," came the answer from Hockwald, who telephoned for a man who knew the combination of the vault.

LIEUT. KLOOR TELLS OF BALLOON FLIGHT

Aeronauts, Only 100 Feet Above Ground, Could Have Landed at Wells, N. Y.

NO INDICATION OF STORM

Lieutenant L. A. Kloor Jr. yesterday retold the story of the flight and loss of the naval free balloon A-5598 before the Naval Court of Inquiry at the Rockaway Air Station.

Among the new facts brought out was that the aeronauts were only 100 feet off the ground at Wells, N. Y., between 8 and 9 o'clock on the evening of the day they left the air station and could have come down then "as easy as falling off a log." The balloon ran into a calm over that town, and Lieutenant Kloor, as commander of the craft, asked his two passengers whether they wished to land or continue the flight. It was agreed that they should go on.

The balloon pilot told the court there were no indications of storm at that hour nor of changes in the wind, which was carrying them a little westward of a northerly course. Their first knowledge of the storm came later in the night, when the wind whipped the basket to and fro and jerked the bag so violently that "any one not accustomed to a 'seagoing' balloon would have been sick."

Another reason the fliers continued was the custom to conduct all practice balloon flights through the night and to land the next morning. Lieutenant Kloor said seven out of ten of his practice flights from Rockaway had gone on through the night, and he pointed to the belief among balloonists that student pilots got their best training in the handling of their craft when forced to land after the greater part of their ballast had been expended.

Another new fact was that the official log of the flight had been destroyed after he and Hinton had written their 10,000-word narrative of the flight, which they had planned to sell for publication. He could assure the court the balloon would be returned to the Navy Department by the Canadian Air Service, but this return might be delayed until Sept. 1, 1921. He said the Hudson Bay Company already had sent out two expeditions, but the guides had been able to find only two of the four camps made by the men.

Men acquainted with the country told him it would not be difficult to find and return the balloon.

Asked to comment upon the conduct of his crew, Lieutenant Kloor gave no light at all upon the report in Hinton's letters that Farrell offered to commit suicide so that the others might have food.

"I cannot speak too highly of the co-operation on the part of Lieutenants Farrell and Hinton in the actual flight of the balloon," he said. "After landing in the woods until our arrival at Moose Factory each mutually sacrificed and did all that was possible to help the other.

"There was no one particular hero, and we do not consider ourselves heroes. Each one did the best that was in him. Sacrifice after sacrifice prevailed."

Lieutenant Kloor said he was not present when the altercation between Farrell and Hinton took place. The members of the court asked him only in a general way about the conduct of his two companions and did not ask specifically about the clash between the Lieutenants.

When asked, outside the courtroom, why he did not devote more of his narrative to the days the three aeronauts were trying to find their way out of the woods, he replied:

"I haven't told a hundredth part of the details of the trip."

Lieutenant Kloor told of their night flight. At 1 o'clock in the morning they saw a city's lights, and the balloon, heavy with rain, swept so low that it almost grazed steeples and towers.

The next morning they could see nothing but snowbound hills, frozen lakes and streams and endless forests. Until afternoon, when they saw a shack and heard a dog bark, they saw no sign of human habitation.

He said it would have been impossible to land with safety in the night.

"The Kid," as Kloor is known, was addressed by the members of the Court of Inquiry as "Son," and repeatedly was assisted by them when he sought the correct words to put into his narrative story of the flight.

Lieutenant Hinton probably will be heard today. Lieutenant Farrell is expected to be heard tomorrow. He is still in the station sick bay, and the surgeon reports he has a slight attack of tonsilitis.

Aids Lithuanian Jews to Return.

RIGA, Jan. 17 (Jewish Telegraphic Agency).—The Jewish National Council of Lithuania, in the course of a meeting in Kovno, decided to facilitate the return to Lithuania of Lithuanian Jews in America desiring it, says a dispatch from Kovno today. The Council also decided to establish a special department to deal with emigration to Palestine.

SCHEER INSISTS GERMAN FLEET WON

"Allies Robbed Us of Our Navy, but British Press Cannot Rob Us of Our Glory."

HIS DASH AFTER JUTLAND

He Says the British Feared to Risk Their Fleet Again, and So Resorted to Blockade.

Copyright, 1921, by The Chicago Tribune Co.

WEIMAR, Jan. 18.—After the publication by The Chicago Tribune of Admiral Scheer's official report on the Battle of Jutland, the British Admiralty caused the publication of several important documents bearing on this most disputed battle of the World War.

Today the man who commanded the German High Seas Fleet during that engagement adds his final word and also tells of his North Sea cruise of August, after the battle, when he once more sought a decision, but failed to meet the fleet of Admiral Jellicoe because, he asserts, the British fleet had returned to home waters when attacked by a screen of ten German submarines.

Scheer contends that Germany won the fight off Skaggerak, which is known to the allied world as the Battle of Jutland.

"That was the first impression the world had of the engagement's outcome," he declared. "For the purpose of propaganda among the neutral nations, particularly America, Great Britain used every possible means to change this impression.

"Today England asserts that she won at Jutland because admission of defeat would hurt the prestige of the world's largest navy. No fair-minded authority doubts who won the Battle of Jutland. Look at the dissatisfaction in England itself.

"Great Britain's naval conduct disappointed the nation, and all the subsequent discussion as to whether battleships or submarines really formed the backbone of a navy best shows how deep-rooted this dissatisfaction really is.

"After the reverse the English tried to cover up defeat by exaggerating the German losses; by declaring that the German fleet retreated as if in flight, when, as a matter of fact, we withdrew in complete order, and by pretending that Great Britain had won a strategic success which had driven the Germans from the surface of the sea.

"The fact of the matter is that we ventured forth again, seeking a decision in August.

"At the beginning of the battle Admiral Beatty led us toward Admiral Jellicoe's fleet, which was an excellent manoeuvre. Admiral Jellicoe's map of this position shows that the British fleets had concentrated in semicircles. His footnote says: 'The enemy apparently made two sixteen-point turns.' This covered the German attack of two hours' duration, showing that we went at the British lines. That is the whole point—we attacked throughout.

"Likewise our turn from a spearhead formation, which permitted the British to begin an encircling movement, was, an any naval authority will readily understand, not a withdrawal, as the British press has contended.

"Admiral Jellicoe's enveloping movement was, as I described in my letter to the Kaiser, serious but not desperate. I did not attack at this juncture. I do not butt my head against a stone wall, because I know that would crack my skull. But Admiral Jellicoe, by concentrating his fire upon my spearhead formation, would have won the decision, and no amount of explaining can cover his failure to do so.

"Off Skagerrak the Germans had twenty-seven capital shops and the British forty-five. Summing up the battle, we inflicted double losses and took the offensive throughout, while the British failed to attack or to hold on at their most opportune times.

"Now comes the question why, having been successful, I did not renew the attack in the morning. My reasons were that because of fog and mist visibility was held to within four miles of my battle fleet, and because it would have been foolhardiness to invite the British torpedoboats to appear suddenly from behind the curtain, pick off my line ships and disappear.

"But we came out again on Aug. 19 for the purpose of attacking Sunderland, in the hope of infuriating Great Britain and forcing a new battle.

"I steamed into the North Sea. For what happened let me quote from The London Times:

"'Again on Aug. 19 the commander of the Grand Fleet with a superior force for the second time came in contact with the enemy and sent the following signal: "I expect to be in action in a few minutes and have every confidence in the result."

"'Immediately after he was attacked by a torpedo. Two cruisers were sunk; no battleships came into action, and in a half hour the battle fleet was steering for its base.'

"Our fleet remained in possession of the North Sea that day, and our submarines taught the world a lesson that will not be forgotten—that a few submarines could make England uncertain regarding the value of her Grand Fleet. Thus the August battle showed that Great Britain's fear of loss through our submarines kept her from engaging in battle.

"The Battle of Jutland and the August affair changed the whole course of the naval campaign. Great Britain blockaded Germany. Germany submarined British commerce, while the fleets remained in their harbors.

"Germany built 360 submarines and lost 180, which was a heavy sacrifice. Without naval history, experience or tradition we built a navy that came off victorious in the one great naval battle of the war and wrote a record of gallant, heroic exploits.

"The Allies robbed us of our navy, but the British press cannot rob us of our glory."

NEW KING'S PARTY FORMED IN PRUSSIA

"League of the Upright" Proclaims Its Loyalty to Ex-Kaiser on Empire Day.

OTHER PARTIES OPPOSED

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Jan. 18.—There have been political demonstrations by various parties during the last few days, at which the 18th of January, the fiftieth anniversary of the regeneration of the German Empire, has been either fanatically glorified or severely criticised.

The German Nationalists have been sending hundreds of telegrams to the ex-Kaiser deploring that he cannot be present in Berlin to inspire their hearts with courage and hope for the future.

The extremist Right Wing Nationalists, "Bund der Aufrechten," or League of the Upright, who combined a celebration of the anniversary with their first campaign meeting for the Prussian elections to be held in February, proclaimed with frankness: "We desire the return of the King of Prussia. Never shall we forget the historic Prussian warcry, 'Onward with God for King and Fatherland.'"

The formation of this league, otherwise known as "the King's Party," was announced three days ago, but Jan. 18 will be regarded as its official birthday. There is much secrecy about the names of the charter members, whose intention seems to be to promote an active royalist organization to counterbalance the "Republic League," which also is about to be formed. The League of the Upright will thus constitute a nucleus for all the restless and aggressive spirits who might compromise the existing reactionary and Centrist parties, as Dr. Weiss, Managing Director of the Deutsch Nationale Volkspartei, explained to THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent.

Dr. Weiss also explained that the League of the Upright would share nothing in common with the Bavarian King's Party, which was merely a private enterprise of the Wittlesbach family and ad in its ranks many men whose names could not contribute to the dignity of any King's party. Though no men of consequence have yet permitted the mention of their names as members of the League of the Upright, the latter has established elaborate offices in the Bendler Strasse, and former editors of the Deutsche Tageszeitung are arranging publication of the party organ. The TIMES correspondent is reliably informed that Hugo Stinnes has been asked to finance this new Hohenzollern agency but has not given any reply so far.

The three labor parties abstained from any manifestation in honor of the day, but the regular Socialists issued their platform for the elections because they did not wish to remain behind the other parties which began the campaign for their candidates. Perhaps the republican Military Leaders' League is the most outspoken, criticising the proclamation of the German Empire fifty years ago at Versailles as a machination of the German Kings, Princes and Generals with which the German people was really little concerned. It was the duty of the latter to celebrate the proclamation of the German Republic instead.

The Democrats arranged several large meetings at which the proclamation of the Empire was discussed. At one such State Secretary Oeser demonstrated how Bismarck managed to win the consent of the other German despots to bestow the title of "German Kaiser" on William I. He praised Bismarck's diplomatic abilities, but deplored that he created the constitution of the German Empire after his own image, namely that of a Prussian Junker. The Reichstag was nothing but an institution for obtaining money for the Hohenzollern policy. But William I. gradually became the symbol of German unity. "If only William II. had conducted himself in that spirit all would have gone well."

Herr Oeser then dealt with the question whether William's government had really merited the credit for Germany's splendid progress till the war, and he came to the conclusion that it was mainly due to scientific discoveries, technical inventions and the hard work of everybody, and especially the intelligent, well-disciplined labor classes. He concluded by asking the thousands present to rise, raise their hands and swear to protect the present republican State with their lives.

At all other democratic meetings those present were asked to swear the same oath.

Ebert Mourns for Austria.

BERLIN, Jan. 18 (German Wireless Press)—On the occasion of the fifty-year jubilee of the foundation of the German Empire President Ebert, in a message to the German people, says:

"In all our grievous losses through war and peace we have been spared the great misfortune of the German countries falling apart. Firmly they hold together. Let us rejoice over it, although we must look mournfully at all German countries torn from the motherland against their will, and also at suffering Austria, whose heart longs for us as ours for her.

"Our firm will must be to maintain and strengthen national unity. Even if our political and economic views differ, one thought unites us all—boundaries shall not separate the unity of our German Fatherland. For us all this is part of our faith, our love, our hope."

German Press Reflect on Plight.

BERLIN, Jan. 18 (Associated Press).—The fiftieth anniversary of the founding of the Empire afforded the Nationalist press opportunity for indulging in partisan contemplation of the nation's present political and economic plight and the ultimate working out of democracy as vouchsafing the future unity of the German people.

The Pan-German Deutsche Zeitung concedes to the German people possession of constitutional constructive facilities, but asserts these may only be converted into a national asset when led by a firm hand in a positive direction. "No people on earth are so poorly adapted to endure unbridled democracy as we," the newspaper asserts.

The Tägliche Rundschau says that which was founded fifty years ago cannot be destroyed, that the nation has remained sound in its kernel, but the external form has necessarily undergone changes, and that the reconstruction process will be accomplished with freer and more general participation of all classes than was the case under the old dispensation.

"Thought of the empire was the law of the German in the past and is the law of the German of the future," adds the paper.

The Lokal-Anzeiger declares this thought is fully alive in the German parties today.

Under the caption "From Versailles to Versailles," the Freiheit, the Independent Socialist organ, says:

"The spirit of Versailles, the worship of military power and transient success, led the inefficient successors of Bismarck and von Moltke into the World War. Their way again leads to Versailles, but to a peace of military humiliation, political impotence and economic exploitation."

The Foreign Minister, Dr. Simons, contributes an anniversary article to the Cologne Gazette, in which he says:

"The peace of Versailles obligates us to observe a greater measure of renunciation, an obligation which the present Government is determined to carry out to all possible limits. The present Government must therefore reject every political method which would tend to conflict with this program."

Dr. Simons advises his countrymen to "forge intellectual weapons for the defense of internal relationship and connection between brothers at home and those beyond the boundaries and overseas."

Tell of Intrigues by Crown Prince.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Jan. 18.—The change of attitude of the French Government from tolerance for the Civic Guards of Bavaria to the strongest insistence that they be disbanded may be at least partially explained by a dispatch the Matin receives from Doorn, which alleges that the former Crown Prince has been in communication with Royalist leaders in Bavaria.

It is alleged that the Dutch authorities have a letter written by the Crown Prince to Munich leaders expressing the hope that the Royalist counter-revolution would soon break out in Bavaria. The Matin correspondent alleges that the Crown Prince's valet acted as secret courier for him and that secret conferences took place in Amsterdam, where the Crown Prine went incognito.

The Matin correspondent then goes on to try and prove that the Dutch Government is not keeping its promise to guard well the ex-Kaiser and Crown Prince, charging that they would have no difficulty in getting to Germany any time they chose.

The Matin's representative in a closed automobile crossed the border and rode all around the Kaiser's residence, and says no one bothered him. He asks what would prevent William from driving away from Doorn in a similar automobile. As for the Crown Prince, the correspondent says he travels from Wieringen to Doorn when he likes, and even goes to Amsterdam to indulge his taste for a gay life.

The Matin's Doorn correspondent gives no confirmation of the dispatch the Matin received yesterday from Berlin stating that the Dutch Government had told the Kaiser and Crown Prince their welcome was worn out.

BERLIN PRESS REPORTS NEW INDEMNITY PLANS

Fixing of Total 'Temporarily Renounced,' It Says—Denial Is Made in London.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Jan. 18.—It is announced in a section of the Berlin press that the German representatives, on the one hand, and British and French, on the other, have arrived at a certain amount of agreement on proposals which are to form a new basis of the Brussels negotiations on the reparation question. The fixing of a definite total indemnity is said to have been "provisionally renounced," and annual payments are substituted for a period of five years.

It is stated that the German Government has made it clear that as a compensation for Germany's "abandoning its treaty rights to learn the total obligations," the yearly payments are not to be made in gold, but in bonds. The Lokal Anzeiger adds: "In order to make this task possible, the German Government intends entering into negotiations with the United States for the delivery of the necessary raw materials for German industries."

The Tägliche Rundschau says the German Government has laid down as further conditions for negotiating with the Entente on a new basis the retention of Upper Silesia, the reduction of the numbers and cost of the armies of occupation, the granting to Germany of increased tonnage, the reopening to Germany of international traffic and certain guarantees for the final fixing of the total debt.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Jan. 19.—Apropos of the statements in Berlin newspapers relative to negotiations looking to an agreement on reparations, The Daily Chronicle's diplomatic correspondent says:

"The proposal made to the German representatives for annual payments instead of a periodic five-yearly payment was merely a practical proposal by way of getting something in hand. It was, of course, understood that any such payment should be made in cash. Moreover, the question of Germany's total obligations was not in any sense covered by this preliminary proposal.

"If, therefore, the answer of the German Government is stated correctly in Berlin, it must be deemed unsatisfactory. In the first place, an attempt is made to substitute payment in goods for gold, despite the basis adopted at the Boulogne negotiations last Summer; and, in the second place, apparently there is some attempt to involve in this partial proposal just made the question of the total obligations, which is a separate issue. If this is the character of the German answer it would be therefore premature to assume that there is a measure of agreement on the practical proposition put forward."

Convicted of Income Tax Fraud, Chicago Man Commits Suicide

CHICAGO, Jan. 18.—Albert I. Lauer, the first man convicted on income tax bribing charges in the Federal court, committed suicide today. Lauer, who was 43 years old, was Secretary of the Briggs & Turivas Company, a million-dollar iron and steel wrecking and salvaging corporation.

Testimony at the trial was that he paid a Federal agent $15,000 and promised him as much more if a discrepancy of $78,000 in the income tax records of the company were not exposed.

The conviction was returned Nov. 12, but sentence was suspended pending trial of a case in which Lauer and four other officers of the concern were indicted on charges of conspiracy to defraud the Government of income taxes.

Liquor Firm Head Released in $5,000 Bail—Prohibition Director Says Chemists Obeyed Law.

An increase in drunkenness in this city during the first year of the operation of the Eighteenth Amendment as compared with the preceding year is shown in a comparison of records in the Magistrates' Courts, made public yesterday. In the five boroughs of Manhattan there were 156 more arrests for intoxication under prohibition than in 1919, the latter half of which was under wartime prohibition; 5,813 were arraigned in the Magistrates' Courts last year for intoxication, as against 5,657 in 1919, 7,284 in 1918, and 14,182 in 1917.

Dr. Menas S. Gregory, director of the psycopathic and alcoholic wards of Bellevue Hospital, said last night that the number of male alcoholic cases at the hospital had doubled since prohibition and there have been many female patients. The increase in the number of alcoholic cases began last November. Some of the patients were taken to the hospital in comas and died without regaining consciousness. Dr. Gregory thought that this was due to the stuff that is being sold for liquor.

Charles Leopold, President and Treasurer of Charles Leopold & Co., wholesale liquor dealers at 543 Tenth Avenue, was arraigned before Commissioner Hitchcock yesterday on a charge of defrauding the Government and released in $5,000 bail for examination on Jan. 24. The complaint alleges that Leopold was concerned in a liquor withdrawal fraud. He was arrested on Monday night.

Nine barrels of whisky and 250 cases of gin, valued at $25,000, were confiscated by prohibition enforcement agents in a raid yesterday afternoon on the basement of the house at 335 Ralph Avenue, Brooklyn. Moe Smith, who headed the raiding squad, said that the gin appeared to have been manufactured recently, while the whisky was of fine quality. Frank Sterenzino of 78 Forsythe Street, Manhattan, was charged with possession of liquor in violation of the Volstead act. Arraigned before Federal Commissioner McGoldrick he was held in $2,500 bail. Sterenzino said that he was a shipyard worker. According to the agents, he claimed that he bought the whisky for $8,000 and the gin for $5,000 from two men he did not know.

Judge Chatfield offered to sell 100 cases of confiscated rum and whisky to Commissioner Coler of the Department of Public Welfare, for use in public institutions.

Prohibition agents continued active in Brooklyn yesterday. Charles Luhr, owner, and Thomas Rainey, bartender, of a saloon at 64 Meeker Avenue, were held in $1,000 and $500 bail respectively, for hearing on charges of violating the prohibition law. Agents said they found four quarts of wine and one of whisky in the place. Pasquale Cammella, owner of a saloon at 1,324 Avenue U, Brooklyn, was held by Commissioner McGoldrick in $1,000 bail for examination. He was arrested by Detectives Craddock and Lau, who said that Cammella smashed three bottles when arrested.

Charles R. O'Connor, Federal Prohibition Director of this State, last night addressed the College of Pharmacy of Columbia University. He told of the difficulties encountered by the prohibition department during its first year. He said the pharmacists in this State, generally speaking, had complied with the law.

"In a few instances," he said, "there was a disposition on the part of certain pharmacists to withdraw quantities of whisky and alcohol for the alleged purpose of dispensing on prescription or using same in the course of their business. I remember one instance when, in the course of three months, a pharmacist withdrew something like twenty barrels of whisky and twenty-seven barrels of wine."

Magistrate Thomas Nolan, in the West Side Court, received two letters yesterday, signed "E. T. Schmidt, former Stock Exchange member," in which the writer declared that "the principal ingredients from which the soul and body of drink is made" is composed of "white vitriol, sulphuric acid, embalming fluid, Scotch snuff and ether."

A jury in General Sessions yesterday acquitted Policeman William J. O'Brien of the Mulberry Street station of a charge of extorting $100 from Ernest Sussi, formerly an Italian wine dealer at 52 Mulberry Street. Sussi said that on April 3 last the policeman saw him move ten barrels of wine into his establishment and threatened to expose him.

WANT SUNDAY MOVIES FOR CHARITIES ONLY

Woman Leader Also Would Have Sabbath Pictures Confined to Religion.

A plan to amend the law so as to make it obligatory to have all pictures shown on Sunday of a religious trend, the proceeds to go to charity, was proposed by Mrs. F. C. Clark of Deal Beach and New York, at a meeting of the Women's Law Club in the Hotel McAlpin yesterday. Mrs. Clark is to ask the City Federation of Women's Clubs to stand back of such a movement.

The subject was not a part of the program, but was brought up at the close of the regular meeting.

"My proposition has been tried out in Asbury Park and Long Branch with great success," said Mrs. Clark. "With no returns the moving picture men lost interest immediately, and the pictures were discontinued. The same thing would happen in New York."

"On a recent Sunday evening in New York," said Mrs. John Roach Straton, wife of the Rev. Dr. Straton of the Calvary Baptist Church, who was a guest of the club, "there was an attendance of 1,000 people in the twelve churches in the vicinity of Times Square and in the theatres in the same neighborhood an attendance of 70,000. People are not only asking to have moving pictures, but paid baseball games and prizefights on Sunday. It is the whisky people, the sporting people and the theatrical people who are back of all these things. It is a money question. Without money none of them would last long. They are trying to take all our Sunday away from us."

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Stocks Irregular, Liberty Bonds Higher—Sterling Exchange Up Again Despite Steadier Money.

Although yesterday's money market was steadier, in the sense that the lower call money rates quoted outside the Stock Exchange seemed to have been withdrawn, the bond market and the foreign exchange market continued their reflection of an easier credit situation. This week, as in the opening week of January, it is the price of Liberty bonds which has given the most noteworthy testimony to the altered situation. On yesterday's market every one of the war bonds except the 3½s either reached or passed the highest price of the month to date. None of them is yet back to the high price of the early weeks of the year, but nearly all are now much nearer to that price than to the low level reached in the break of last April and May, when the money stringency and the collapse on the Stock Exchange were coinciding with the advance in lending rates on war loan collateral to 6 per cent. as against the 4¾ per cent. of 1919.

The present movement is the more auspicious from the facts that $750,000,000 of these bonds have been dislodged from Federal Reserve loans since November of 1919, that less of them are now thus carried than at any time in the three past years, and that, to make the case complete, the Treasury has in the past six months been buying for the sinking fund hardly one-fourth of the regular quota of that period. This proves quite incontestably that in a more normal money market, the bonds are now advancing on their merits.

Foreign exchange advanced again in yesterday's market, with sterling quoted at one time at the month's high price of $3.76¾. An irregular reaction occurred in the late trading; not, however, of any large proportions, except perhaps in the German mark. That particular decline Wall Street was disposed to ascribe to possible political complications suggested by the rumors regarding Holland, the Kaiser and the alleged plan for a German monarchist uprising. The explanation was interesting, but superfluous. Even the exchange market might have guessed that the Greek electorate's achievement would have stimulated imagination at Amerongen and Wieringen, but there has been so much of the atmosphere of James the Second about the present imperial exiles that the matter was not taken seriously in financial circles, even yesterday.

The stock market's only movement of the day was in response to the tentative bidding-up or selling-down ventures of professional traders. These are at present nothing more than attempts to test the attitude of actual holders of the industrial shares, and thus far they seem to have proved merely that such holders are not inclined to buy more of the stocks, but are also under no necessity of selling. In a few of the industrial stocks there were evidences yesterday that a belated "bear account" was being forced out; but the general market was irregular and purposeless.

Apparently the Federal Reserve's policy of very deliberate lowering of open market money rates is meeting with more success than seemed to attend it last week. One or two more weekly Reserve Bank statements may serve to change the position, however. The Controller of the Currency's remark, in his annual report as published yesterday, that the national bank returns show the talk of "alleged financial inflation" of bank loans a year ago to be "hardly justified," will cause impatience to well-informed readers. By adding to loans and discounts the national banks' own holdings of United States bonds, the Controller arrives at the conclusion that bank credits were increased only 9 per cent. during the twenty months ending in last November. But the Government bond holdings have no bearing on the question of inflation. If they are eliminated, and their heavy decrease in the period is thus allowed for, the increase in national bank loans and discounts, during the twenty months after March, 1919, was 27 per cent.

FRANCE REBUILDING FAST.

80% of Wrecked Factories Now Working, Commission Here Says.

Reconstruction figures up to November which have just been received by the French commission in the United States show that about 80 per cent. of the factories destroyed in the invaded regions in France have resumed operation. The latest census figures show that 4,321 factories were destroyed during the war, and 3,392 have been reopened. The commission says in part:

"They are employing 355,852 workmen in actual production while 85,928 more are continuing repair work. The number productively engaged is 45.7 per cent. of the pre-war number. Eighty-one and seven-tenths per cent. of the pre-war population has been relocated in the devastated zone. The number is 2,791,211. Of the 5,392 communes interfered with by the enemy, 3,144 have been reinstituted and 6,590 primary schools re-established. Dwellings repaired number 245,936, or more than half of the number which were damaged or destroyed."

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Investment Buying.

The simmering down of the stock market in the last several days has indicated to Wall Street two distinct happenings, one that the elimination of the short interest has been accomplished to a large degree; the other that public buying is not of any sizable proportion. The result has been what the Street generally characterises as a trading market; one in which the professionals dominate the minor price turns. And, while this in essence describes the situation, it has been apparent to some that considerable investment buying was going on; in other words, that there was a disposition to pick up stocks and take them out of the Street. As evidence of this, attention is called to the movement of some of the preferred stocks, which are completely out of the speculative limelight. For instance, the preferred stock of Standard of New Jersey, an issue of $200,000,000 which was put out last year, after selling down close to par, has now climbed close to 109. This could hardly be attributed to short covering or to speculation. Other instances are not lacking where seasoned issues, which lay no claim to speculative possibilities but which afford a good and apparently secure dividend yield, have moved forward substantially.

United Fruit.

An advance of nearly 5 points in United Fruit gave some shorts a bad scare yesterday. This issue held a decidedly large short account before the stock dividend came off. Selling at about 200, it was the belief of many that the issue ought to react as had the rest of the list in December, and that it held up amazingly well only convinced them that the fall would be more rapid when it did begin. But the decline has failed to materialize. Instead, United Fruit has been advancing of late, and the short account is a bit scared. Yesterdays upturn undoubtedly represented short covering.

The Mexican Situation.

If the dispatches from Mexico City represent the situation correctly, the moot oil question south of the Rio Grande bids fair to be settled before any great length of time. It is asserted that the attitude of President Obregon is that Article 27 of the Mexican Constitution should not be retroactive. This article is really the crux of the whole oil problem. Making it retroactive deprived American oil companies operating there of their property rights. If it is not retroactive, their rights remain unimpaired and the Carranza decrees go into the discard. The zone question would still remain, but that, too, may be set at rest if the attitude of the Mexican Administration stands as represented recently.

The French Loan.

There is a growing belief in the Street that the much-discussed French loan will not be publicly offered until the French political troubles subside somewhat. Just how long it will take to accomplish this is, of course, not known, and because of this uncertainty there is equal uncertainty as to when the French loan will be forthcoming. The French, it is understood, are in no pressing need of new funds and probably could afford to wait for some little time before consummating the transaction. All of this being so, it is now confidently predicted that the Belgian operation will be the first to be taken up here.

Change in the Averages.

The 100 per cent. stock dividend which came off the price of United Fruit shares on Monday made necessary certain changes in the list of stocks from which THE NEW YORK TIMES averages are computed. In order to make up the difference the following stocks were eliminated: American Bosch Magneto, Barrett Company, United Retail Stores, United States Industrial Alcohol and Vanadium Steel, and these substitutes made: Allied Dye and Chemical, American Tobacco, General Asphalt, National Biscuit and Sears, Roebuck & Co. The total of the stocks taken out was approximately 324, while those substituted amounted to just 100 points more, thus maintaining the parity of the averages undisturbed.

Liberties in Demand.

Buying of Liberty bonds, while not aggressive, was steady and consistent and in the afternoon the First and Second 4s and the First and Second 4¼s sold at the best prices to be recorded since the break last December. The volume of business on the board was not large in comparison with what it was on some December days, but it was fair. Bondmen say that the savings banks just now are good buyers of these war bonds and that some other institutions and corporations are displaying a greater appetite for them than has been noted in quite some time. The savings banks, after their year-end accumulations of funds, are now a factor both in the bond market and in that for bankers' acceptances.

A Big Gain.

One of the successful steps taken by the managers of the railroads since the return to private operation last March has been the campaign for a return of freight cars to home lines. In May, 1917, seven months before the President took over the roads, the percentage of freight cars on home lines was 52.08. On Jan. 1, 1918, the beginning of Federal control, the percentage was 44. Under Federal control the transportation system of the country was run almost as one big concern, and cars were scattered far and wide, so that when Government control terminated there was only 21.9 per cent. of cars on home lines. In spite of the fact that the carriers handled the greatest volume of business in their history in the intervening months from March to Oct. 1, on the latter date the percentage had increased to 30 per cent., while Jan. 1, 1921, figures showed 42.2 per cent. of cars on home lines. Figures showing that the surplus of freight cars for the week ended Jan. 8 was 256,749 cars, is considered as a good omen for a further return of equipment to home lines, as it is plain that foreign roads will not care to keep idle cars and pay the $1 per diem rate. Railroad men say that the end of January should see 50 per cent. of cars on home lines.

Traffic Improving.

A ray of light has been distinguished in the railroad traffic situation. Preliminary reports from terminal yards are beginning to show that there has been a check to the general slump since October, and, while the volume of traffic has not been appreciatively better, there has been marked improvement in some of the traffic gateways in the way of interchanges. It has been reported that there has been a better movement of grain, while less than carload lot business has increased. The latter would indicate that retailers throughout the country are buying only on a hand-to-mouth basis.

When the railroads announced last July that they had set thirty tons per car per day as their monthly average aim and their goal on the average car movement at thirty miles per car per day, there were those who shook their heads dubiously. Others said flatly that it was too high. But the railroad men not only touched their car-loading goal, but in November carried it up to thirty and one-half tons as the average load. And the remarkable thing about it was the fact that the record was surpassed in spite of a falling off in the volume of traffic handled. At the height of the war movement in July an August, 1918, an average of thirty and one-tenth tons was reached. The significance of the increase is not fully realized until it is remembered that a gain of one ton in the average loading of a freight car is equivalent to the addition of about 60,000 freight cars to the car supply of the roads.

RECEIVERS NAMED FOR BOSTON BROKERS

Earnest E. Smith & Co., Also Members of New York Stock Exchange, File Petition.

LOST ON STEEL VENTURE

BOSTON, Jan. 18.—Receivers were appointed late today for the brokerage and investment security firm of Earnest E. Smith & Co., members of the New York and Boston Stock Exchanges, which previously had filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy and had been suspended from the local exchange. The receivers are Freeman A. Hinckley, George C. Baldwin and Walter H. Foster.

In the bankruptcy petition the assets at first were listed as $1,397,348, but this figure was corrected to $727,222 after debts due the firm on open accounts with a face value of $670,126 had been removed from the list as of uncertain value. The liabilities were given as $846,694.

The largest of the thirty-three unsecured creditors are Henry D. Vaughn of Boston, $8,958; J. A. Kenneally of Salem, $1,580, and C. J. Hume of Fairfield, Me., $1,008. The secured creditors, whose claims total $831,674, are chiefly Boston bankers and national and savings banks and trust companies in Boston and other Massachusetts cities.

The assets listed consist of bank deposits of $24,252, stocks and bonds chiefly of New England industrial enterprises and the firm's seats on the two Stock Exchanges.

Mr. Smith said in a statement:

"The loyalty of our firm to its customers has caused our embarrassment. We loaned $643,731 to the Century Steel Company, believing that when general business improved earnings would restore to the stockholders their investment. Many of the stockholders were our customers. We do not regret our effort to assist them. I shall give my best efforts to working out our firm's large equities in industrial companies for the benefit of our creditors."

The firm was regarded as one of the smaller members of the New York and Boston Exchanges. It was headed by Earnest E. Smith. Its New York membership was held by Alfred S. Dabney, and the third member of the firm was Nathaniel W. Niles, tennis star and figure-skating internationalist, who held the membership on the local board.

Earnest E. Smith & Co., whose failure was announced in Boston, has no connection with Ernest Smith & Co., New York brokerage firm. While the Boston house was a member of the New York Stock Exchange, it did not have any office here.

Barnsdall Corporation's proportion of net income of its principal subsidiaries for the five years ending December 31, 1920, was $10,358,847, or an average of $2,071,769 a year.

TAX RETURNS CALL FOR INVENTORIES

Merchants and Manufacturers Are Required to List Goods Once a Year.

BUREAU RULES EXPLAINED

Raw Materials, Supplies, Partly Finished and Finished Product to Be Included.

Inventories are necessary at the beginning of each fiscal or calendar year in making out income tax returns for merchants, manufacturers or any business in which production, purchase or sale of merchandise is an income-producing factor. The fiscal year is an accounting period ending on the last day of any month other than December. Taxpayers who keep books on a fiscal year basis are required to make their returns on that basis.

"The inventory," says a statement issued yesterday by the Bureau of Internal Revenue, "should include raw material and supplies on hand that have been acquired for sale or use in production, together with all finished or partly finished goods. It should include merchandise sold but not billed to the customer at the date of inventory and any goods out upon consignment unless such goods have been included in the sales for the taxable year. It should also include merchandise purchased though not actually received to which title has passed to the purchaser.

"Inventories may be taken either on the basis of cost or cost or market value, whichever is lower. In the case of a merchant 'cost' means the invoice price less trade or other discounts, excepting strictly cash discounts approximating a fair rate of interest, which may be deducted or not at the option of the taxpayer, providing a consistent course is followed.

"To the net invoice price should be added the cost of transportation and other necessary charges incurred in acquiring possession of the goods.

"In the case of a manufacturer 'cost' means the cost of raw materials and supplies, expenditures for labor, and indirect costs incident to production, including a reasonable proportion of management expenses, but not including any cost of selling or securing return on capital.

"'Market' means the current bid price prevailing at the date of the inventory for the particular merchandise. The burden of proof as to the correctness of the price rests upon the taxpayer in each case. If the 'cost or market' basis is used, each class of goods must be itemized and the cost or market price of each shown separately. The value of each item in the inventory may be measured by cost or market, whichever is lower. An entire stock may not be inventoried at cost and also at market price, and the lower of the two inventories used.

"No special system of accounts is prescribed by the Bureau of Internal Revenue, but the books must show in detail inventories, purchases, sales, capital, investments, and similar items required in making up an income tax return. The inventory, which cannot be taken without some form of accounts, is the compass of a business. Without it the direction in which the business is heading, either for success or failure, cannot be determined.

"In the making of an income tax return for the year 1920, taxpayers of every class, business and professional men, wage earners and farmers should present to themselves for consideration the following questions:

"Did you receive any interest on bank deposits?

"Have you any property from which you receive rent?

"Did you receive any income in the form of dividend or interest from stocks or bonds?

"Did you receive any bonuses during the year?

"Did you make any profit on the sale of stocks, bonds, &c.?

"Did you act as a broker in any transaction from which you received commissions?

"Are you interested in any partnership or other firm from which you receive any income?

"Have you any income from royalties or patents?

"Have you any minor children who are working?

"Have you control of the earnings of such children? If so, the amount must be included in the return of income.

"Has your wife any income from any source whatsoever? If so, it must be included in your return or reported in a separate return of income.

"Did you receive any Directors' fees or Trustees' fees in the course of the year?

"Do you hold any office in a benefit society from which you receive income?

"Answers to all of these questions are necessary to determine whether a taxpayer has a net income sufficiently large to require that he file a return."

HEAD OF WARREN COAL CO.

W. A. Harriman Elected President of New Export and Bunker Firm.

The American Ship and Commerce Corporation announced yesterday that W. A. Harriman had been elected Chairman of the Board of the Warren Export Coal Company, which has recently been incorporated in Delaware. The statement also said that George E. Warren had been elected President of the new concern. The statement read in part:

"Harriman shipping interests and the George E. Warren Company are equally interested in the new export corporation, which has been formed for the purpose of doing a general export cargo and bunker business in coal. Other officers of the company elected are: Lester H. Monks, Vice President; George P. Oswald, Vice President and General Manager; G. Walter Anderson, Treasurer, and F. W. Anderson, Secretary. Offices of the company will be temporarily in the Grand Central Terminal.

"The George E. Warren Company, which is part owner of the new company, has been an established coal company for many years, with headquarters in Boston and offices in New York, Hampton Roads, Pittsburgh, Johnstown, Pa., and Toronto. It will retain its separate identity and continue to do business as formerly."

FORD TO IMPROVE RAILROAD.

Will Spend Upward of $15,000,000 on the Detroit, Toledo & Ironton.

Special to The New York Times.

DETROIT, Jan. 18.—Improvements costing between $10,000,000 and $15,000,000 will be made on the Detroit, Toledo & Ironton Railroad within the next year by the Ford interests, it became known today. Preliminary work costing approximately $1,000,000 has been completed.

The new plan includes the laying of 10,000 tons of heavy type steel rails, 100,000 heavy oak ties, widening cuts through grades and hills to provide proper drainage, and reballasting more than 100 miles of roadbed.

Ten heavy duty locomotives, costing between $50,000 and $70,000 each, are to be added to the rolling stock early in the Summer. More than 800 flat cars and coal cars, costing between $2,500 and $3,000 each, also will be added to the road's equipment.

The freight cars may be constructed at the Ford car shops in River Rouge, to give employment to local men, although this matter has not been decided definitely.

CANADA OIL STOCK OFFERED.

Limited Block of Securities in British American Oil Company.

Carl H. Pforzheimer & Co. are offering a limited amount of stock of the British American Oil Company of Canada, which recently extended its operations through the acquisition of the assets and business of the Winnipeg Oil Company, Ltd., which had a well-established business in the Canadian Northwest. The British American Company has a big marketing business in the eastern section of the Dominion, with a refinery at Toronto. The outstanding capital is $3,500,000 with a par value of $25 a share.

Interest has been shown in the Canadian oil business ever since the discovery of oil in hitherto unexplored sections by the Imperial Oil Company, a subsidiary of Standard Oil of New Jersey. The British American Company controls about 25,000 acres in sections where drilling is in progress.

LOSS OF $3,000,000 REVEALED ON SHIPS

Former Controller of Shipping Board Ascribes Losses to Faulty Accounting.

UNABLE TO LOCATE SHIPS

Losses amounting to $3,000,000 have been sustained by the United States Shipping Board prior to March 1, 1920, on 273 voyages in the North European trade, according to Colonel Eugene H. Abadie, formerly General Controller of the Shipping Board, who testified yesterday before the Congressional Committee on Shipping Board Operations at the Hotel Pennsylvania. He said this figure represented the net losses after the deduction of fixed charges, such as insurance, depreciation and return on investment. He attributed the losses to faulty accounting.

The witness said that up to Sept. 1, 1920, the Shipping Board had received complete accountings of only 43 voyages, and that in October, 1919, when he organized a staff of 800 auditors and accountants to determine the relation in which the Shipping Board stood with the operators of its vessels, it was found that upward of $93,000,000 rested in the private accounts of operators. He further testified that it was not until after the armistice that the board was able to locate all its vessels.

Other witnesses told of losses to the board from the sale of surplus stocks and of the functions of the Bureau of Survey.

Colonel Abadie, who was General Controller of the board from March to September, 1920, discussed the accounting system of the board, which has been held responsible by many previous witnesses for the losses incurred by the Shipping Board. Prior to his connection with the Shipping Board he was a Supervisor of construction in the army, with the rank of Colonel in the Engineer Corps.

Byron C. Baker, District Controller at Boston, told the committee the board had sold for $80,000 surplus uniforms and other clothing valued at $244,000. The witness said bids for this material were not advertised in accordance with the customary Government plan.

Jay C. Willcox, Deputy Controller and General Auditor of the Shipping Board, up to October, 1919, said he had found it impossible to make any audit of the accounts in the New York district.

"We were bookkeepers and check signers," he said, "because the system of organization instituted by Captain Yates, manager in New York, gave the purchasing department all power to purchase and approve all bills for supplies. As a result the auditor's department never saw a requisition or contract and could not verify prices. Fraud could be committed without any possibility of detection by this system, in which all authority was centralized under one head."

Mr. Willcox said he had asked Captain Yates's permission to make a real audit of the accounts, but his request was refused.

The hearing will be continued this morning at 9 o'clock.

NOTE 1—Accrued interest up to Feb. 1st is to be added in all cases. This table has been calculated on a true discount basis, except when par is quoted to yield the coupon rate, and is accurate for one day only—Feb. 1st, 1921. Its purpose is to furnish bankers with a basis for price comparisons. Prior to Feb. 1st the prices shown would give slightly lower net yields while subsequent to Feb. 1st the net yields would be slightly higher.

NOTE 2—Denominations for all issues: $500, $1,000, $5,000, $10,000, $100,000.

NOTE 3—All issues of Treasury Certificates are permanently exempt from the normal income tax. Also, an amount not exceeding $5,000 in the aggregate of Treasury Certificates, Liberty 4's and 4¼'s and War Savings Certificates are permanently exempt from supertaxes, excess-profits taxes and war-profits taxes.

NOTE 4—The column showing interest is taken from official Treasury Department figures. Interest calculation should be figured for actual number of days a series has to run from date of issue (or last interest payment) to sale date.

is when other people must sell. The recent liquidation in the investment market has created unprecedented bargains. By purchasing a high income today the investor can carry his yield into a period when interest rates will undoubtedly be lower and prices of securities considerably above present levels. HIGH SUGAR TARIFF ASKED AND OPPOSED

American Growers and Porto Ricans Urge House Committee to Protect Them.

REFINERS OPPOSE CHANGE

John T. Fitzgerald, Representing Them, Suggests an Excise Tax of 1 Cent a Pound Instead.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—The White House Ways and Means Committee today heard John J. Fitzgerald of Brooklyn, former Chairman of the House Committee on Appropriations, in opposition to any change in the duties on sugar. Representing the Warner Sugar Refining Company, Mr. Fitzgerald voiced the views of all the refiners who, he said, opposed any new duties.

Instead, he suggested an excise tax of one-half cent per pound on all sugar consumed in this country, this tax to yield about $45,000,000, which, added to the existing rate of 1 cent per pound on Cuban raw sugar, would mean a total income of $90,000,000 from this staple.

Three groups of sugar producers were present, Louisiana producers asking for a protective tariff of about 3 cents per pound, beet sugar men from the West also seeking protection, and an independent delegation from Porto Rico asking an advantage of 2 cents per pound in duties over Cuban sugar, which is already subject to a 20 per cent. differential. The Porto Ricans said labor on their island was more costly than in Cuba.

Chairman Fordney did not take kindly to Mr. Fitzgerald's idea of an excise tax on sugar. He said there was not a man in the committee who would favor such a tax on sugar any more than on bread or milk.

Severe criticism of the Government's policy toward sugar in war days was expressed by Mr. Fitzgerald. He said the country had been "penalized" in order to keep the Louisiana planters going, but that if the Government had bought the Louisiana crop, it could have given it away and saved the Louisiana people who used their plight as "an excuse" to have the price fixed, and "thus saved the rest of the country millions."

The Louisiana men resented this and declared the Government's action in the Louisiana situation had allowed the producers to continue, when otherwise the refiners might have become a trust.

"Every article used in sugar manufacturing was allowed to go up in price, and only the sugar men were controlled," said R. O. Young of Louisiana. "I never lost money in sugar but once and that was in 1918 under Government control. I am unable to say whether I can come out even this year, but under present prices I will lose about $2 per ton."

CHARGE SHIPPING REBATES.

Boston Interests Accuse New Yorkers of Unfair Practices.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Jan. 18.—Boston shipping interests say they are suffering from a practice of New York shippers of granting secret shipping rebates, contrary to rates fixed by the New York conference of shipping interests of the Atlantic Coast.

It is charged that coffee importers here are being obliged to pay 20 cents more a bag for their product landed at this port than it costs the New York importer to land coffee in New York.

FINANCIAL NOTES.

A syndicate, headed by the Bankers Trust Company and composed of Kissel, Kinnicutt & Co., Halsey, Stuart & Co., Eldredge & Co., First Trust and Savings Bank, Guaranty Company, William R. Compton Company, Estey & Braun, R. L. Day & Co., Detroit Trust Company and the Continental and Commercial Trust and Savings Bank, are offering $5,000,000 City of Cleveland, Ohio, School District 4 per cent. bonds at prices to yield from 5.25 to 6 per cent.

Minturn & Co. are offering $456,000 Nassau and Suffolk Lighting Company five-year 9 per cent. gold debenture bonds, due Sept. 1, 1925.

The Bankers Forum of the American Institute of Banking will meet this evening at 8:15 at the Hotel Pennsylvania. The speakers will be Dr. B. M. Anderson, economist of the Chase National Bank, Professor Willard C. Fisher, New York University and T. C. Powell, Vice President Erie Railroad Company.

In 1840, the total production of sugar was about 1,000,000 tons; by 1914 it had grown to 18,697,000 tons. Consumption has kept pace, the United States in 1920 using eighty-nine pounds per capita. A number of interesting facts and statistics of all the leading producing and refining sugar companies is shown in a booklet just issued by Lamborn & Co.

The Board of Directors of the American Exchange National Bank yesterday voted to make payment of the dividend quarterly, on the first day of February, May, August and November, instead of semi-annually, as heretofore. The dividend is at the rate of 14 per cent. per annum, and therefore the quarterly payments will be at the rate of 3½ per cent.

The United States Mortgage and Trust Company has been appointed fiscal agent for the payment of principal and interest of bond issues aggregating $3,826,000 including Miami, Fla., $875,000; Escambia County, Fla., $500,000; Bergen County, N. J., $963,000, and Jamestown, N. Y., $550,000.

William A. Schultz, formerly connected with the trading department of Halsey, Stuart & Co., is now in charge of the trading department of Bainbridge & Ryan, 66 Broadway, New York City.

Total earnings of the Southwestern Power and Light Company were shown in a printed notice in THE TIMES recently as $27,076,286. This should have been $2,076,286.

Through error it was announced in these columns yesterday that the National City Company was offering $500,000 8 per cent. bonds of the Sweets Company of America. No such offering is being made.

SPROUL URGES COAL TAX AT PENNSYLVANIA MINES

Governor Wants 4 Cents a Ton on Bituminous and 8 Cents on Anthracite to Yield $16,000,000.

HARRISBURG, Penn., Jan. 18.—A tax of 4 cents a ton on bituminous coal produced at the mines and 8 cents a ton on anthracite is recommended by Governor Sproul to raise revenues to meet the increasing needs of State government.

In suggesting the tax on coal in his biennial message to the Legislature today, Governor Sproul said it should be accompanied by legislation which would prevent the addition of larger sums than were actually paid to the cost of coal to the consumer as a compensation for taxes.

"This will prevent any gouging of the public," he said, "or any excuses regarding the 'costs of production.'"

The tax would be widely distributed, the Governor said, and a large proportion would come from beneficiaries of Pennsylvania's natural resources living outside the State. The tax would yield about $16,000,000.

In the event other plans for increasing revenues should be desired, the Governor suggested consideration of a 1 or 2 mill tax on the capital stock of those corporations which are exempt from State taxes of capital issues. An increase of 1 per cent. in inheritance taxes, making the rate 6 per cent. upon collateral inheritances and 3 per cent. upon direct inheritances, is also suggested in case other revenue measures fail.

Governor Sproul said that the State's participation in soldiers' bonuses would be more or less subject to the provisions made by the Federal Government, and that a final conclusion might be deferred until Congress had acted.

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 18.—Price reductions ranging from 25 to 75 cents a ton were announced today by two large St. Louis retail coal companies. This is the second such reduction in the last month. Business depression was ascribed as the cause.

Confer at Atlantic City on Ways to Offset Buying Slump.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, Jan. 18.—Policies of large department stores in some of the chief cities of the country, and the best means to meet and overcome retail business depression are being discussed behind guarded doors at the Ambassador by members of the Retail Research Association, which opened its convention here today.

Executives of leading retail establishments in a score of cities are in attendance on the conference, which will continue through the week and take up the problem of necessary paring down of labor costs in stores to meet changed selling conditions.

Co-operative buying by the department stores and the conducting of surveys to assure advance information that will insure merchants in retail lines against being caught in sudden buying slumps such as caused recent great losses throughout the country and world will be other important matters to be brought before the meeting.

Have you looked over your investments lately?

EVEN in normal years, the natural changes in business conditions often affect the value of securities. And during the past year changes have been unusual and many.

Experienced investors now are carefully examining their holdings to make sure that their money is not only secure but is working at maximum efficiency. But the average man or woman is not familiar enough with specific conditions to know how his or her investments may have been affected.

If you will bring a list of your securities to our Bond Department, our experts will be glad to sit down and go over it with you. There will be no charge for this service, of course. It's one of the services that have won for The Equitable its name of "The Friendly Bank."

We will be glad to see you any day at the office most convenient to you.

An Investment Message

This is our ninth effort to get a message to those who are so fortunate as to have ready money to invest at this time. The long continued period of high interest rates, which was one of the principal causes in depreciating the value of true investment securities, is bound to react sooner or later under present existing business conditions — in fact, the high rates are already crumbling. Low interest rates, or even a reasonable assurance of them, are bound to bring about a further enhancement of market value in the true investment securities, and so we say again:

"Perhaps never again will there be such bargains in investment securities as the market now offers, and so we say to all, and this means you,—scrape together all the money you can without borrowing, and buy investment securities—and buy them now."

We regret if you were one of those who failed to act on our previous messages, nevertheless we again say, "buy—and buy now." There are still many wonderful bargains on the investment counter. We see no reason why investment securities will not continue to advance, and especially in view of the evidence of an easier money market.

We solicit your confidence and patronage. If, however, you care to go elsewhere for advice, we will not be entirely disappointed. If you are properly advised you will greatly profit from this advice. The object of this oft-repeated message is not to force you to buy from us or to take clients away from other houses who heretofore served them well. We want to be not only useful to the investing public, and especially to the public who should be investors but are not, but we also want to be useful to all of the many investment houses who know that their clients' interests must govern, rather than their own interest. However, if you want to rely on our judgment, it will be treated as an honor transaction.

Yours cordially,

HENRY L. DOHERTY & COMPANY

FAVOR REGULATION OF COAL INDUSTRY

Heads of Commerce Board and Geological Survey Think Calder Bill Workable.

SUMMER TRANSPORT URGED

Half the Coal Resources of World in the United States, Senate Committee Is Told.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—Regulation of the coal industry as provided in the pending Calder bill was endorsed today by heads of two of the three Government agencies which would be charged with administration of the measure.

Edgar E. Clark, Chairman of the Interstate Commerce Commission, and Dr. George O. Smith, Director of the Geological Survey, both of which agencies, together with the Federal Trade Commission, would be called upon to enforce the regulatory provisions, told the Senate Manufactures Committee that the bill as drafted would be workable.

The Chairman of the Federal Trade Commission, Huston Thompson, will be heard tomorrow by the committee, which then plans to hear the views of J. D. A. Morrow, Vice President of the National Coal Association, and other representatives of the industry.

Chairman Clark was asked particularly as to his opinion of provisions of the bill which would require the Interstate Commerce Commission to regulate freight car supply at mines and other facts as to coal movements. In the course of his reply approving such provisions, he declared that the acute car shortage of last year might again be experienced unless a means were devised to bring about the transportation of coal in advance of the seasonal requirements.

Asserting that the bill should be enacted, Director Smith outlined for the committee the two general methods proposed in the bill for dealing with the coal industry.

"The first method, to be applied during normal times when coal is available at proper prices," said Dr. Smith, "merely involves the collection of statistics of production, distribution and costs, which are to be made available to the public. No producers of a commodity like coal, impressed with public use, can reasonably object to this.

"The second method, to be applied only in emergencies and when found necessary by the Federal Trade Commission with the approval of the President, allows price fixing, dealing in coal by the Federal Government, and authorizes control of the production, transportation and sale of coal. I think we have found there can be necessities of peace as well as necessities of war to justify the existence of governmental powers like these."

"Isn't it a fact that there was always plenty of coal, at low prices, in this country prior to 1914 and the war?" Senator Reed asked. "Do you know of a case where a man could not go to a coal yard and get all he wanted any time, barring occasional strikes at mines or railroad tie-ups?"

Dr. Smith replied that the industry had generally been "in bad condition and unstabilized," and troubled with overproduction, to which the Missouri Senator responded that "overproduction generally is a good thing for the community at large."

Senator Reed also contended that normal operation of economic supply and demand would give a better and cheaper coal supply than any Federal regulation, but Dr. Smith held to his conclusion that there "was a middle ground" for regulation by Federal authorities desirable in the production and distribution of some commodities.

The Geological Survey head told the committee that the United States possessed half the coal resources of the world and possible enough to insure a supply for "thousands of years."

"Isn't it true that there is a limited amount of anthracite?" inquired Senator Kenyon, "and is not nearly all of this produced by seven railroad companies?"

To this Dr. Smith agreed, although he remarked that "organization in the anthracite industry as I have seen it has operated to more public advantage than disorganization in the bituminous." The Director also agreed with Senator Jones, Democrat, New Mexico, that "in times of emergency and limited supply the law of supply simply operates to distribute coal to the rich who can pay the price."

HOUSING LITIGATION GROWS.

Bronx Courts Crowded for 5 Years Unless Help Comes, Judge Says.

If the four Municipal Court Justices assigned to the Bronx were to handle landlord and tenant litigation exclusively it would take them five years to clean up the calendar, said Justice Robitzek yesterday after a meeting of the Board of Municipal Court Justices, when it was decided to appeal to the Legislature for additional clerical aid and courtroom space. Instead of doing away with litigation the new laws have encouraged it, said Justice Robitzek.

At the meeting yesterday a committee consisting of Justices Robitzek, Moore and Davies reported that the Board of Estimate has turned a deaf ear to all pleas in spite of the fact that there are 16,000 untried cases on the calendars. The committee was discontinued and a new one consisting of Chief Justice Levy and Justices Spiegelberg, Lauer and Marks was designated to ask the Legislature for relief.

SCHOOLS TEACH ROAD RULES

Massachusetts Undertakes Thus to Cut Down Accidents on Highways.

BOSTON, Jan. 18.—Rules of the road will be taught to the children of the elementary schools of the State as a means of reducing accidents which last year killed 178 children and injured 2,300 others. The Safe Roads Federation of Massachusetts today wrote Governor Cox that in consequence of his suggestion that these schools devote fifteen minutes each week to study of the proper use of the highway it was sending out a supply of instructional leaflets for school use.

The children are to be taught to walk on the left side of the road after sundown if there are no sidewalks, in order to avoid automobiles coming from behind.

Find Cause of Corn Root Disease.

DES MOINES, Iowa, Jan. 18.—Discovery by chemists of the United States Department of Agriculture of the underlying cause of the destructive corn disease "root rot" will enable corn producing States to increase their crops probably 10 per cent., E. T. Meredith, Secretary of the department, said today in announcing the discovery. Investigations disclosed that root rot is caused by insufficient acid in the stalk juices.

TRENTON, N. J., Jan. 18.—Notice of an increase in capital stock from $100,000 to $2,000,000 was filed with the Secretary of State today by the Westinghouse Traction Brake Company of Jersey City. Charles A. Rowan is President and H. C. Tener Secretary of the LABOR CONGRESS IS ENDED.

Gompers Says It Did Much to Cement Pan-American Relations.

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 18 (Associated Press.)—The desire on the part of the delegates to the congress of the Pan American Federation of Labor to finish their work and end the convention resulted today in the reports of the Resolutions Committee being disposed of with a minimum of debate.

Seven of the eighteen remaining resolutions were disposed of at the morning session. These resolutions dealt entirely with trade developments in Central America. The congress unanimously endorsed a program calling for an intensive campaign and the placing of labor organizers in the field. The education of the masses and recognition of women by allowing them representation in the Pan American meetings were approved.

The American delegation prepared during the day to leave Mexico City tonight for Vera Cruz. Commenting on the work of the congress, Samuel Gompers, the President, said:

"Progress necessarily has been slow, due to the difference in languages requiring constant translation, but I feel that immense good has been accomplished. The desire of the delegates to help the labor masses has at all times been evident.

"This congress has done much to create and cement good relations among the peoples of the United States, Mexico and Central and South America, which is the main purpose of the Pan American Federation of Labor."

ENFORCE NEW MOTOR LAW.

Connecticut Officials Turn Back Tourists Without Proper Lights.

Special to The New York Times.

GREENWICH, Conn., Jan. 18.—The State Motor Vehicle Department has started a crusade against automobilists who fail to comply with the new headlight law, and a small building has been erected on the Boston Post Road at the top of Byram Hill, just west of the Borough of Greenwich, where inspectors of the department are on duty every night. All non-resident violators of the law who cross the New York-Connecticut boundary—Greenwich being the first Connecticut town—are turned back if they do not have the proper headlight devices on their cars or trucks; but all Connecticut violators are taken into custody.

About fifteen cases of violation have been called in Borough Court in the last week, the fines in the majority of these cases amounting to $10 and costs, or a total of about $20. This morning Professor Boynton W. McFarland, a professor of Yale University, was one of the victims. He paid a fine of $10.

INJUNCTION SOUGHT TO HALT CABLE LINE

MONOPOLY CHARGE MADE

In reply to the Western Union Telegraph Company's suits in Washington against Federal officials, Assistant United States Attorney Earl Barnes, in charge of the Civil Bureau, yesterday filed a suit in equity in the Federal Court here, naming the company. The action is another outgrowth of the differences between the Government and the company over the latter's attempts to land a cable on Miami Beach, Fla., as a link, via Barbados, in the British cable line to Brazil.

The fear was expressed that the President and the Navy Department might not be successful in preventing the company from "surreptitiously" laying the cable. In the absence of Newcomb Carleton, President, no statement was forthcoming from the Western Union.

After Mr. Barnes had filed the papers he asked Federal Judge Augustus N. Hand to grant a temporary injunction restraining the company from any further move in Florida waters. Argument on the application will be heard today.

The Government set forth that Americans could lay cables wherever they pleased on terms of equality with foreigners. This was a reference to the Government's allegation that the Western Telegraph Company, a British concern not made a party in the suit, was "monopolistic" in that it had obtained the exclusive rights to cable communication with Brazil. The Western Union is said to be interested with the British corporation in the Brazil lines, through the projected link to Miami.

"It is unlawful for any person without the consent of the President or of the Congress," the Federal petition reads, "to land in the United States any cables connecting the United States with any foreign country. The President is vested with power to prevent the unauthorized laying of any cable connecting the shores of the United States with any foreign country."

After citing the exercise of this power in the past the brief continued: "The British company, the Western Telegraph Company, has obtained from the Government of Brazil and holds an exclusive franchise or concession which provides that no other company may connect by submarine cable any two of the points within Brazil touched by the lines of the British company. The lines of the British company touch at all of the principal coast cities of Brazil. In order to succeed financially any direct cable line from the United States to Brazil must collect business from several points by cable extensions, the condition of the Brazilian land lines being such that they cannot be effectively used for this purpose. The practical effect, therefore, of the monopoly is to prevent the construction of any direct cable line from the United States to Brazil by any American company."

The brief then recounted the early attempts of the Western Union to land its line at Miami, and disclosed that in a letter dated July 20, 1920, President Wilson forbade the proceeding. The President characterized the effort to land a cable as in "defiance of law."

"Having failed to land its cable at Miami Beach," the brief added, "the defendant thereupon conceived the plan of circumventing the constituted authorities by splicing into its cable from Barbados a branch cable to connect at Cojimar, Cuba."

Outerbridge Report on Immigrants.

There will be a special meeting of the Chamber of Commerce of the State of New York tomorrow, at which E. H. Outerbridge will submit a report for the Executive Committee on Immigration. The report will favor a plan for broad selective immigration and approve the Johnson bill, a restrictive measure for the regulation of immigration. The first report of the committee, presented two weeks ago at a regular meeting of the chamber, was vigorously opposed and further opposition to the report is expected. R. Fulton Cutting will present a report for the Special Committee on Industrial Problems and Relations.

Canada's Foreign Trade Grows.

Figures issued by the Department of Customs and Inland Revenue in Canada show that the total value of exports and imports for the nine months ended Dec. 31, 1920, was $1,996,046,693, as compared with $1,707,597,303 in 1919, an increase of $288,449,303. Increased importations form the greatest proportion of the trade advance, being valued at $1,003,335,497. Domestic exports from Canada have also increased. In the 1920 period the total was $974,920,719, or $33,975,344 over the 1919 corresponding period.

A New Will for New Conditions

THAT YOU "made your will" some time ago should not deter you from bringing it up-to-date. Time alters every man's plans and obligations.

Perhaps your will now reads that your family shall receive outright the money and property you will leave. This was a very common provision only a few years ago.

But in the light of present-day conditions you, like other prudent men, may wish to safeguard your wife and children against financial hazards by re-writing your will, and naming this Company as YOUR TRUSTEE.

Your new will can provide that the property be held in trust by this Company during the lifetime of your wife, to go to other beneficiaries thereafter.

It can set apart funds to insure your children's support and education, or to insure that your daughter will always have independent means.

It can provide that your son's portion of the estate be managed for him until he reaches years of business discretion.

These are a few of the possibilities. If you wish, we shall be pleased to discuss with you, at any of our offices, the business aspects of protecting your family's future.

LOCKWOOD HEARING WILL BE HELD TODAY

Legislators Give Grudging Consent, but May Not Admit the Public.

UNTERMYER WILL APPEAR

Housing Committee Members Fear Loss of Rather Than Gain in Power.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Jan. 18.—While opposition among the legislators, especially in the Senate, to giving the Lockwood Housing Committee power to investigate the financial operations of banks and insurance companies does not seem to have weakened, the Senate Finance Committee today fixed tomorrow at 4:15 P. M. as the date and time for the hearing, decided on last night, before the joint Senate Finance and Assembly Ways and Means committees.

The Lockwood resolution, which was introduced in the Assembly last night by Assemblyman Thomas A. McWhinney of Nassau, Vice Chairman of the committee, was referred at the session today to the Ways and Means body, preparatory to the hearing.

Senator Lockwood announced tonight that Justice John V. McAvoy had agreed to order an early adjournment of the Brindell trial in New York City tomorrow to permit Samuel Untermyer, chief counsel for the committee, to attend the hearing and make the principal plea for enlarged powers. Leonard M. Wallstein and Samuel A. Berger, Special Deputy Attorney General, of counsel for the committee, will also attend the hearing and may speak.

No spokesman for the interests through which the opposition against the Lockwood resolution has been made apparent has asked for permission to be heard. Senator Lockwood and other members of the Housing Committee commented on the fact tonight. They had hoped through a public hearing to bring the opposition into the open. Apparently they have failed. They profess to have been aware ever since the resolution was introduced in the Senate that a "whispering campaign" was being conducted against it.

Fear was expressed tonight by advocates of a wider inquiry that the Legislature would refuse the demand and amend the resolution by substituting for the powers now embodied in it an alternative proposal which would limit the proposed investigation into insurance companies and banks rigidly to the relations between their financial operations and the mortgage and building situation. In some respects members of the committee fear its powers may be curtailed rather than increased and that in any event the housing investigation will be hobbled.

It was learned today that the public hearing was granted only after a most insistent demand by Senator Lockwood. Four up-State Senators, whose names were not made public, opposed it strenuously and urged that the hearing be held behind closed doors. Even now, while it has been settled that newspaper correspondents are to be permitted to take down the speeches, it is not certain that the general public will be admitted.

Senator Lockwood, when he appeared before the Finance Committee, insisted that both sides be heard. One of the Senators on the committee asked who the opponents were.

"No one has opposed the resolution to my knowledge," Senator Charles J. Hewitt, Chairman of the Finance Committee, responded.

Senator Lockwood then asked that he be permitted to examine the records of the committee to learn what individuals or corporations had filed protests against the adoption of his resolution. He was told that there were no protests of any kind on file, and in the same breath that "everybody was against it."

SHIPPING BOARD OWES $1,400,000 TO RUSSIANS

But It Is Not Yet Settled Who Can Receive Money for Use of Merchant Ships.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—The Shipping Board owes about $1,400,000 to the Volunteer Russian Fleet, which cannot be paid, in the opinion of officials, until it is determined who can give a valid receipt for the money.

Two rival committees in Paris claim the right to receive the money due for the use of the Russian merchant vessels by the Shipping Board. The board will hold the money until it can be established who is entitled to receive it, despite the action of the French Foreign Office publicity department in handing to American correspondents in Paris yesterday a statement that the American Government owed the fleet $1,400,000."

It was explained here that the Russian Volunteer Fleet, a former Government corporation, similar in some respects to the American Emergency Fleet Corporation, operated a fleet of merchant vessels, which had been created by the Government of the Czar. During the existence of the Kerensky Government these ships were employed by the Shipping Board under an agreement involving eventual payment.

American officials say that the Russian Ambassador here has refused to accept the money because he feels that he does not have authority to collect it.

BUSINESS RADIO TO FRANCE.

New Service Inaugurated After Successful Tests.

The Radio Corporation of America yesterday opened its wireless circuit to France to commercial business after several days of private tests in which direct exchanges between the two countries were effected. It was announced that messages of congratulation were exchanged between Edward J. Nally, President of the corporation, and officials of France as a prelude to opening the service, which is being accomplished through the huge transmitting station at Tuckerton, N. J., where a 200-kilowatt alternator of the high-frequency type—a comparatively new invention developed by the General Electric Company—is used. The receiving station on the American side is at Belmar, N. J., and on the French side it is located at Ville Juif, near Paris, with the transmitter at Lyons, France.

"The bonds of social and commercial understanding which has existed between the two countries for centuries are now firmly cemented by wireless communication," said Mr. Nally in a statement yesterday.

"There is a vital need for additional means of international communication between Europe and the United States, and I am glad that this country has taken the lead. The Radio Corporation's plans for an efficient worldwide wireless system are materializing rapidly, and it will not be long before every important section of the business world will be quickly bridged by wireless."

The Radio Corporation now offers radio communication between the United States and France, England, Germany, Norway, Denmark, Sweden, Finland and Poland as well as between San Francisco and Honolulu and Japan. Radio circuits to South American countries and other lands are being prepared, the company announced.

Sweden Won't Seek Loan Here.

STOCKHOLM, Jan. 18.—The Swedish Government authorizes a denial of the report that Sweden contemplates negotiating a loan in the United States or elsewhere. Emphasis is laid on the statement that the Government does not require a loan.

GRAFT HINTED IN SALE OF U. S. TUG TO NEWARK

Counsel for ex-Army Captain Asks Fire Official About Alleged Bribe of $3,000.

Captain Matthew P. Quigley of the Newark Fire Department took the witness stand in the court-martial of Captain Ramon B. Harrison at Governors Island yesterday. Captain Harrison, formerly an officer of the Army Transport Service at Hoboken, is charged with selling the tug Grover Cleveland for $2,500 when the City of Newark, through Quigley, is alleged to have made an offer of $10,000.

It became evident that the defense would attempt to upset the Government's case by showing that Captain Harrison had no knowledge of the ten-thousand-dollar offer. Quigley admitted that he had no authority to close the deal.

Ernest Rudolph bought the Grover Cleveland from the Government for $2,500. He later sold it to Newark for $18,500.

H. H. Holthausen, counsel for Captain Harrison, asked Captain Quigley about telephone messages between himself and Rudolph after the Grover Cleveland had been sold to Newark, then inquired:

"Did you not go to the Steneck Trust Company with Rudolph while the latter cashed a check for $3,000, placing the money in an envelope in his pocket; and did you not, in an anteroom of the bank, take this enevlope from Rudolph's pocket?"

"I did not," the witness replied.

The defense also stressed the fact that it took Captain Quigley almost a week to reach the point of telling Captain Harrison that he would pay $10,000 for the Grover Cleveland, only to be informed that the tug already had been sold to Rudolph for $2,500, or $500 less than the value estimated by army transport officers.

DOCK CONGESTION BROKEN AT HAVANA

Colonel Despaigne Says Shipping Will Soon Be Relieved at That Port.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

HAVANA, Jan. 18.—The dock congestion has been broken and 5,500,000 packages of freight are moving. So rapidly has the accumulated freight been moved during the last week that today city firemen were called to flush off the unoccupied portions of the general or out-of-cover wharfs which have not been bared before for a year.

Colonel Manuel Despaigne, the special commissioner placed in charge of the work just before the arrival of Major General Crowder, adopted the simple slogan "Now."

This afternoon Colonel Despaigne, who has developed a reputation for doing things since the days of General Wood, gave his first interview to the correspondent of THE NEW YORK TIMES. He said:

"The docks are being cleared just as the visiting American mission last August said that they could be cleared, and everybody around the wharfs just now is a worker. Soon now, I do not say one week or two weeks, but soon, very soon, it will be so that any vessel entering this port can unload and go about her business in fifteen days.

"Lighters will lighter waiting vessels or I will lighter them. I am now loading them so they draw five feet where they are built with four-foot draught, but those vessels must be unloaded now."

The old hacienda office was the busiest spot in downtown Havana yesterday. Importers were there with their hats in their hands and anxiety in their manner seeking priority. Colonel Despaigne received them standing and disposed of them at the rate of one every thirty seconds.

The members of the American Cuban Commission, which worked out the plan that Colonel Despaigne is proving effective, may congratulate themselves and for this doughty little man, whose methods are making a hit with the American business men in Havana.

COURT UPHOLDS CRAIG.

Justice Russell Benedict, in Supreme Court, Brooklyn, yesterday sustained the right of Controller Charles L. Craig to delay payment on city contracts pending investigation to determine whether there was collusion in the bidding or fraud in the performance of the contracts. The decision has a far-reaching effect because there has been considerable delay in payments for this reason, particularly since disclosures of collusive bidding were made in testimony before the Lockwood committee.

The decision was on the application of the H. J. Mullen Contracting Company for a writ of mandamus requiring the Controller to make immediate payment of $35,244, alleged to be due for work on paving and other improvements in Third Avenue, College Point, Borough of Queens, between First and Thirteenth Streets.

Controller Craig said in his reply that he was conducting an investigation in the interest of the taxpayers, and that the President of the contracting company had failed to appear at the time set for a second examination by the Controller. It was not alleged that any irregularities in the contract had been found.

"It seems to this court," said Justice Benedict in his opinion, "that the Controller was not fully justified by the facts stated in the papers in deciding to prosecute an inquiry, but would have been derelict in his duty if he had failed to make such an inquiry."

FOR LONGER TAX INQUIRY.

Senate Approves Measure—Bill Presented Creating Milk Commission.

ALBANY, Jan. 18.—The Senate today adopted a resolution, carrying an appropriation of $10,000, adding another year to the life of the joint committee studying taxation, under the Chairmanship of Senator Davenport of Oneida.

The Assembly adopted a resolution extending the life of the joint committee considering a revision of the election laws to March 1 with membership unchanged.

Opposes Forfeiture of Citizenship.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—Convictions of crime should not also carry loss of civil rights unless the crime specially warrants it, a committee representing the American Bar Association today advised the Senate Judiciary Committee considering legal reform legislation. The Bar Committee indorsed a bill by Senator Calder, providing that criminals should not lose their civil rights unless the jury or judge fixing the sentence should declare specifically for such punishment.

12 LAWYERS RENEW ATTACK ON PALMER

File With a Senate Committee a Brief Against His 1920 Raids on the Reds.

URGE A SENATE INQUIRY

Dean Pound and Associates Want More Effective Legislation to Curb Official Action.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—The twelve lawyers who attacked Attorney General Palmer some time ago for his nationwide raids on "Reds" last year, filed a brief this afternoon with the Senate Judiciary Committee again criticising him severely for the raids. The brief was filed by Judson King, Executive Secretary of the National Popular Government League, which was responsible for the booklet last year, in which the first accusations against Mr. Palmer's department were made.

The Attorney General will appear tomorrow before the Senate Judiciary Committee. In a letter transmitting the brief to the committee, Mr. King says:

"We were unaware until Monday that the Attorney General was to appear before your committee on Wednesday. We are glad, however, to file the brief today as planned in the belief that it will be of timely service to the members of the Judiciary Committee."

The men who signed the brief are:

Dean Roscoe Pound and Professors Felix Frankfurter and Z. Chafee Jr. of the Law School of Harvard University; Dean Tyrrell Williams, Washington University Law School, St. Louis; Judge Alfred S. Niles, Baltimore; Jackson H. Ralston, Washington, member of the American Bar Association; Dr. Ernst Freund, Professor of Jurisprudence, University of Chicago Law School; Frank P. Walsh, New York City, former Joint Chairman of the National War Labor Board; David Wallerstein, Philadelphia, member of the American Bar Association; Francis Fisher Kane, former United tSates District Attorney, Philadelphia; Swinburne Hale, New York, former Captain Military Intelligence, General Staff, United States Army; R. G. Brown, Memphis.

On the brief filed today, the lawyers reject the Attorney General's interpretation of the law, charge him with "sidestepping conclusive evidence," and refuse to recede from their original accusations, notwithstanding the fact that Attorney General Palmer, in his reply to them before the House Rules Committee, dubbed their charges "undoubted falsehoods." The brief concludes with recommendations to the Senate Judiciary Committee to investigate the lawyers' charges and Mr. Palmer's official conduct.

It urges the committee also "to consider the subject of suitable and more effective legislation than now obtains as regards officers of the Government who violate constitutional safeguards." It "warns" the committee that Mr. Palmer in his raids not only deprived aliens of their legal rights, but that "thousands of American citizens were put to the same treatment as aliens until it was affirmatively proved by them that they were citizens."

The twelve men say that they file their brief on request and are not concerned with Mr. Palmer as an individual, but with precedents.

WANTS RETALIATION FOR CENSORED CABLES

Kahn Proposes Similar Treatment of Any Country Which Holds Up American Messages.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 18.—Retaliation by the United States against any nation retarding, censoring, or making use of American cable messages was advocated tonight by Representative Kahn of California, Chairman of the House Military Affairs Committee, in an address before the Philadelphia Traffic Club.

Mr. Kahn mentioned recent testimony before a Senate committee that various European nations took control of American cable messages passing through their territories, at times holding them up for hours.

"This practice," he said, "creates an intolerable condition for American merchants or business interests. I feel that an act of Congress might well be introduced and adopted at the earliest practicable date to the effect that cable messages which have their origin in the foreign country so offending shall likewise be held, censored or made use of for business purposes by the officials of the Government of the United States.

"It seems to me that this would be simply a case of justifiable reciprocity. In my opinion, it would help materially to solve one of the unfortunate conditions that now confront the American merchant or business man doing business in nations on the other side of the Atlantic or the Pacific Ocean."

Declaring one of our great problems to be the keeping of our ships afloat in the years to come. Mr. Kahn said that foreign shipping interests already were at work in South America with "insidious propaganda against our ships."

GOVERNMENT EXPENSES DROPPED IN DECEMBER

Ordinary Expenditures Down $20,000,000—Payments on Debt Increased a Billion.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—Ordinary expenditures of the Government for the month of December decreased by about $20,000,000, as compared with November, while payments on the public debt increased by nearly $1,000,000,000, according to the monthly statement issued today by the Treasury.

For the six months ended Dec. 31, ordinary disbursements fell off by more than $1,000,000,000, compared with the corresponding period of 1919, while public debt expenditures declined by nearly $4,000,000,000.

Ordinary disbursements for December totaled $404,575,091, against $426,092,313 in November, while public debt payments for the month aggregated $1,600,000,000, as compared with $677,000,000 the month previous.

Interest on the public debt, totaling $134,452,181, led in the ordinary expenditures for the month, with $94,752,954 by the War Department, second, and $84,833,475 paid the railroads, third. Redemption of $1,579,592,000 in certificates of indebtedness accounts for the bulk of the payments on the public debt.

The Time
Is Right
For Buying

The price cutting campaign has been carried far enough. Very little inflation, if any, is left in the general level of prices. It is time for a general buying movement to set in if the vigorous industrial life of the country is to be sustained.

The advisability of buying applies particularly to the stock market where selling has been carried to excess and price declines have been carried to such extremes that there is especial incentive for buying.

We have just compiled a special article on the changing price trend, and shall be pleased to send copy upon request.

COTTON LIST AGAIN FORCED DOWNWARD

Poor Liverpool Prices and Heavy Selling by the South Close Market With Loss.

The cotton market was a disappointment again yesterday. Prices at Liverpool failed to come up to local expectations and were lower than due, and the small but probably well-organized bear party made much of this, forcing the list down about 40 points by the middle of the afternoon. After that there was a half-hearted rally which regained a little of the lost ground and finally closed the market at net losses for the day of 25 to 36 points.

Aiding the local bears to no inconsiderable extent was the persistent selling by the South and the Southwest. This selling, which was heavier than on some days, came at just the right time for the bears, and when an unexplained absence of trade buying demand was coupled with this development the rest was easy.

However, the market again demonstrated that its real undertone is not weak. It did not sag but had to be forced down, and when the pressure was relieved, as it was on several occasions, prices showed an ability to recover which was encouraging to those who have taken the so-called "constructive" side.

Trade reports from domestic centres were more or less negative; certainly they were not unfavorable, but the reports from leading trade centres abroad were less cheerful. Apparently Manchester is not experiencing a happy time, and business seems to be very slow in the expected pick-up. Nothing very lucid has come from there in the way of explanation for this state of affairs, and the trade here is inclined to attribute the slowness to Continental political developments.

Yesterday's quotations follow:

CHICAGO WHEAT GOES DOWN AGAIN

Supply Getting Low, but Only Export Sales May Save Further Impending Drops.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Jan. 18.—The wheat market acted in a way that suggested that the leading bull interest was gradually getting out of its line and selling both wheat and corn as fast as the markets would take it. The local trade bought wheat on the reported sales of 2,750,000 bushels Manitobas, but, on all the bulges long grain came out and the finish was weak, with net losses of 1¼@2⅜ cents, May leading. Corn finished 1⅜ cents lower, while oats were off ½ cent; rye, 1¼@1½ cent, and barley, 3½ cents.

After the close, only around 1,500,000 bushels of the Manitobas reported sold to Greece could be traced, while Belgium took 175,000 bushels, and there was 320,000 bushels hard Winter via the Gulf, the latter at 20½ cents over March, or same basis as the previous day. The basis of the Canadian grain sales was not reported, but premiums at Winnipeg advanced 1@2 cents, with No. 3 Northern leading. The buying in the latter market suggested that a good part of the hedges against the export sales were removed there, rather than at Chicago. Scarcity of offerings of Winter wheat in the Southwest checked sales of domestic grain.

Canadian wheat crop is officially estimated at 263,000,000 bushels, or 30,000,000 bushels less than the preliminary returns, fully confirming the guesses of the trade. Last year the crop was 193,000,000 bushels, while the five-year average is 254,000,000. This report was regarded as having strengthened the statistical position of North America materially, and it is estimated that there is now less than 100,000,000 bushels unsold in both the United States and Canada, even after allowing for reduced consumption.

A Baltimore report to the effect that Belgium had bought Indian wheat attracted some attention, in view of the official drought and famine reports from the latter country.

The leading interest was regarded as a good seller of corn and has been on that side for several days. The bulk of the 370,000 bushels corn sold to exporters in the West today was believed to be filling old sales abroad, as cables at the Atlantic seaboard were well below a working basis. It is estimated that there is over 25,000,000 bushels of corn hedged already in the pits, and it continues to pour in daily.

Sentiment after the close was decidedly bearish; and, while wheat is not expected to decline sensationally immediately, a majority of the traders look for a considerable lower range before March 1. Continued export buying is regarded as necessary to prevent a break.

Movement of grain to terminal markets is well above the average for this season. Receipts of wheat today were 1,020,000 bushels, against 828,000 bushels a week ago and 1,098,000 last year. Shipments were 829,000 bushels; week ago, 634,000; year ago, 722,000.

Corn receipts of 1,705,000 bushels compared with 1,559,000 a week ago and 930,000 last year. Shipments were 798,000 bushels; week ago, 610,000; year ago, 461,000.

Financial Advertisers

Are you following theories or facts in Chicago?

Any newspaper can claim supremacy as a financial advertising medium. One may base its claim on "hand-picked" circulation. Another on "class" following. But such claims are based on theory.

The newspaper that can rest its claim on lineage supremacy deals not in theory, but in facts.

Here are the lineage figures of the four evening newspapers of Chicago for the year of 1920 in Bank and Investment advertising:

Daily News	707,948 lines
Post	572,275 "
Journal	334,776 "
American	306,232 "

The Chicago Daily News submits no theory as to its supremacy in financial advertising in the evening field. It merely quotes these figures as a fact.

It advances no theory as to its effectiveness in reaching the bond- and security-buying public. It states a simple fact:

7 out of every 9 persons in Chicago and suburbs who read the English language read The Daily News.

The theory that those 7 out of 9 constitute the largest and most desirable class of investors reachable through a single newspaper is based upon the definite and demonstrable fact that The Daily News is first in Bank and Investment advertising in the evening field.
